TIGERS MEET D. U. IN SEASON OPENER

Vol. LVI, No. 1

Colo. Spgs., Colo., Thursday, Sept. 18, 1952

Colorado College

New Cheerleaders To Be Elected After Chapel Next Tues.

This year's varsity cheerleaders will be elected next Tuesday immediately following chapel. Ballots will be distributed as students leave the chapel, with the tryouts before the student body being held in front of the chapel. As was decided by last year's Student Council, there will be seven cheerleaders elected for the ensuing year. Last year's cheerleaders must compete for positions; they do not automatically retain their status, with every student of Colorado College who is interested eligible. There will be two meetings at 4:00 p.m. on Friday and Monday at Perkins Hall for those interested in trying out for cheerleader. At these meetings, new candidates will be given a chance to learn the CC yell. The election will be handled by the A.S.C.C. election committee. Results will be announced as soon as possible Tuesday evening. Those elected will serve as varsity cheerleaders for the Fall and Spring terms.

HERE IT IS. The offensive unit of the 1952 CC football squad as they line up for daily drills on Stewart Field in preparation for the onrushing season. The Tigers tangle with mighty Denver University tomorrow night in Denver. If CC receives the opening kickoff Friday, you will see this platoon in action. From left to right across the forward wall is Ben Snyder, Ron Schwartz, George Demos, Mary Hammond, Terry Burk, Dick Meyer, and Walt Bennett. The starting backs are from left to right, Andy Gambucci, John Sarlo, Wes Boucher, and Chuck Mollin. Go Tigers, go.

CC Ranked As Underdogs in Clash With Pioneers Friday Night at D. U.

Coach Bill Heiss will take his gridiron men to Denver this Friday to clash with the D. U. Pioneers. The Tigers have forgotten last year's 41-0 drubbing by the Pioneer squad, and with their increased manpower will go into the game intent on victory.

Tentative lineups have been named by Coach Heiss with Andy Gambucci and Chuck Mollin at the first line halfback spots. Wes Boucher will be in the fullback slot. The quarterback position will be filled by Spike Sarlo who piloted the Bengals last year. The offensive line will be: Ben Snyder, Ron Schwartz, George Demos, Mary Hammond, Terry Burk, Dick Meyer, and Walt Bennett. The defensive team will consist of: Craig Richardson and Don Linger at the ends; Brig Young and Art Elder at the tackles, and George Demos and Willard Linton at the guard spots. In the secondary: Kenny Baird and Harry Javernick or Wilbert Sandoval will be defensive linemen; Roger Bildstein and Lowell Slocum will work at the defensive half spots, and Bob Brown will be in the safety position.

In a pre-season practice game the Tigers rumped over the poorly conditioned Canon Carson boys six touchdowns to one. The defensive team was the more impressive, but when the offensive team gets its final polish it may be expected to perform as well.

A Tiger win this Friday would be considered an upset by most sports writers, but CC's depth in manpower coupled with their hustle may mean victory.

Important Notice

Tickets for tomorrow night's football game in Denver were printed before the change in date of the game. Consequently, all activity book tickets are marked Saturday night, September 20th. The game will be played tonight, Friday, September 19, 1952.

In addition to this change Athletic Director Juan Reid announced today that because the activity books were issued without charge this year more students picked them up; thus creating a shortage. To counteract the shortage, faculty books were given out to students. These books were issued minus tickets for away games. Students possessing such books may get tickets to all away games now by going to either the treasurer's office or the athletic office. However, you must bring with you the books issued at registration.

Freshmen Class Of 341 Leads All Others for '52-53

Things are looking a little better this year at Colorado College with the men students outnumbering the women. It is evident that the ROTC has done the college some good already from the looks of the enrollment figures. The latest totals from the registrar's office show the men to number 485 and the women 398. The total enrollment for the school is 883.

The totals below are according to classes.

Class	Men	Women
Freshmen	172	142
Sophomores	85	108
Juniors	93	71
Seniors	98	58
Grad Students	16	7
Special Students	21	11
TOTAL	487	398

Associated Women Students Play Vital Role on Campus

The main purpose of Associated Women Students is to coordinate and unify the activities of all the women students on the campus. It is headed by the AWS Board which is made up of the executive officers, who are elected by all the women students in the spring, AWS committee chairmen, and the presidents of the Quadrangle Association, Women's Athletic Association, Tiger Club, Independent Women, and the vice-president of Panhellenic. The president of AWS is a member of the Student Council and the Committee on Undergraduate Life. Every woman student registered at CC is automatically a member of AWS and AWS group on our campus is a member of a national organization, the Intercollegiate Associated Women Students.

AWS begins the year with an annual fall conference and luncheon held at Bruin Inn, at which time plans are discussed and formulated for the coming year.

Welcoming Committee

The AWS welcoming committee makes plans in the spring for the welcoming of all new women students in the fall. Welcomers write letters during the summer to the new girls. The welcoming committee assists the ASCC in meeting trains and helps the girls to get settled in their rooms. Freshman Week is climaxed by an AWS party in Bemis Commons for both new and old students. At the end of rush week, the Independent Women and AWS give a dinner for girls not attending sorority preference dinners.

Orientation

A freshman orientation program consisting of two meetings is provided by the AWS vice president and the Personnel Committee. At the first meeting, members of the faculty and upperclassmen give short talks about various phases of college life, the academic side is particularly stressed. Extra-curricular activities are stressed at the second meeting at which time thumbnail sketches are given of the activities of each club or organization and blanks on which the freshmen can express their interests are provided. The Personnel Committee then sorts the blanks and sends the names of those interested to the various clubs and organizations.

The Men Are "Out to Lunch"

At the beginning of the second semester, AWS sponsors its annual Gold-Diggers Ball. It is a turn-about dance at which the women present their dates with original corsages and pay all the bills for the evening. A king is elected from the candidates presented by the fraternities and the Independent Men and an award is given for the most original corsage.

Integration

As well as attending national or regional conventions in the spring, the AWS executive officers meet with the AWS officers from other colleges in Colorado for a leadership conference.

COLORADO COLLEGE COLORADO SPRINGS, COLORADO

September 19, 1952

A WELCOME TO STUDENTS FROM PRESIDENT GILL:

I am very happy to have this opportunity to welcome you officially to Colorado College and to greet you as an important part of the great Colorado College family.

We are very proud to welcome you the returning upperclassmen and to thank those organizations and students who were largely responsible for the success of this year's Freshman Orientation Week. Without the plans of these groups, plus the efforts of these students who returned to the campus early, such success could not have been possible.

We are proud also to welcome the outstanding group of Freshmen and transfer students who have come to Colorado College for the first time this year. We are glad that you have selected this college and we shall do everything possible to help you prove that you have made a wise choice.

You will find the faculty and the staff most anxious to help you with your individual problems.

The 1952-53 school year is off to an excellent start. It is my privilege to offer you all the facilities of this great organization and my hope that you will find happiness and success on this beautiful campus.

Sincerely,
WILLIAM H. GILL,
President.

Inter-Fraternity COUNCIL NEWS

This year more than ever the Inter-Fraternity Council is striving for closer and more friendly relations between fraternities. If harmony can be maintained throughout the school year among the different chapters a greater school spirit will be present.

For those who are not familiar with the internal organization of the IFC it is a group of ten men, two from each fraternity, who navigate the general course which fraternities pursue.

The Inter-Fraternity Council is conspicuous on campus in that it sets down all the rules for rushing, on the fraternity level, during freshman week. It imposes the fines as well as the punishment for violators of these rules. In fact, all through the school year the IFC keeps an eye on all intramural competition. The word of the IFC is adhered to by all of the chapters which to a certain degree are subordinate to it.

Without the full-hearted cooperation of each fraternity on campus we would not have the strong IFC at the present time. It serves and is served by all five national chapters here at Colorado College.

Museums May Close

According to Edgar C. Mechen of the state historical society, the state may have to close five of its museums July 1st for lack of funds. They are, the Healy house and Dexter cabin in Leadville, Fort Garland in the San Luis Valley, Chief Ouray Memorial park near Montrose, and Pike's stockade on the Conejos river. The recent session failed to include money for their upkeep.

ASCC NOTES

By SALLY LeROI

The first Student Council meeting of the year was held Monday afternoon. Don Stone was elected to the office of Publications Board Chairman and Sally LeROI was made temporary chairman of the Social Committee.

Class commissioners are to be elected in five weeks, and petitions must be turned in to the Student Council by October 7. Students petitioning for this office must have maintained a "C" average the previous semester and must have their petitions signed by ten members of the class they wish to represent.

The Watermelon Bust will be held on Friday, September 26, in the back yard of the Sigma Chi House. This annual event will be broadcast over KRDO.

Our new policy on class absences is of major interest to us all. The student body is in large part responsible for the success of this system. If any of your professors have neglected to make an announcement regarding his particular policy, by all means ask that he do so. Failure to make this effort can only harm you and the system.

IMPORTS

U. S. purchases abroad set a record at $10,961,600,000 in 1951, up two billions over the previous high in 1950.

The weaker sex is the stronger sex because of the weakness of the stronger sex for the weaker sex.

CLASS ABSENCES

I. The following policy concerning Undergraduate Absences from classes having been recommended by the members of the Student Council on April 7th and adopted by faculty action on April 21, 1952, is approved and published for the information and guidance of all concerned.

1. Students are expected to attend all classes regularly, and are responsible for class work and assignments whether present or not.

2. The college believes in giving to each student as much freedom as is consistent with his academic progress. However, if at any time an instructor believes that a student's work is suffering because of excessive absence, he may officially warn the student and report the fact of his warning to the Dean of the Lower Division, or to the Dean of the College as the case may be. At the time the warning is given the instructor should make clear to the student what the consequences may be if absence continues, and if it does continue, the instructor must report this fact to the appropriate Dean. The Dean, after careful review of the student's case, will prescribe a suitable penalty, which will be either such special probation as the Dean shall direct, or dismissal from the course. A student so dismissed shall receive a grade of "F" for the course.

3. It is the practice of the college to give a generous amount of time for vacations. Therefore, unless excused by the Dean of Women or the Dean of Men, any absence from the last meeting of a class immediately preceding, or from the first meeting of a class immediately following the Christmas or Spring vacations will result in such special probation as the appropriate academic Dean shall direct, or in dismissal from the course with the grade of "F".

4. Students who are absent at any time, and who wish to be excused, must obtain from the Office of the Dean of Women, or Dean of Men, a statement of the reason for the absence and must present this statement to their instructor. The Deans shall issue such statements only in case of illness on record, and in such emergencies which, in his or her opinion, constitute sufficient reason for absence.

5. The Dean of Women, or Dean of Men, shall not grant an excuse later than one week after the student's return to class.

II. The above policy is effective September 1, 1952.

President

Red Lantern

Once again it is time for the Red Lantern of Colorado College to assume a dominate part in freshmen traditions as well as college affairs.

Just what is the Red Lantern? It is a group of twelve senior men who have been selected for outstanding merit and service during their junior year. It is the job of these twelve men to preserve time honored traditions and customs that have been developed through the years at Colorado College.

You may wonder what those traditions and customs entail. Here is a simple enumeration:

1. Usher at all chapel services as well as graduation.
2. Take charge of freshmen assemblies.
3. Hold "Kangaroo Kourt."
4. Special assistance to the president of the college.
5. Supervise the annual Freshman-Sophomore fight.
6. Aid in making pre-game and post-game activities a success (pep rallies, bon-fires, half time ceremonies, ringing Cutler Bell, etc.).
7. Sale of freshmen Dinks.
8. Over-all supervision of freshmen activities and behavior during their first semester.

Crown & Lance

You will find as the school year moves on that C&L plays an important part in the activities of the entire school. It is the purpose of C&L to satisfy the needs of the unaffiliated men on campus. Membership is open to all, and by developing a democratic cooperative spirit among our members we strive to develop the social, athletic, and cultural aspect of not only Crown & Lance, but the entire school.

Crown & Lance meets every

Monday night in Lennox House at 7 p.m. for a business meeting and social hour.

The Independent Men will hold their first football practice at 2:30 on Tuesday the 23rd on the field in back of the library. Any Independent interested in playing who is not a football letterman is welcome to come. If not able to attend, notify John Munger at Hagerman Hall.

The Crown and Lance is holding a meeting this Monday at 7:15 at Lennox House. Everyone is invited.

State Revenue Director Averill C. Johnson announced this week that income tax returns last month showed an increase of 28 per cent over the same month last year. Johnson credited the increase with a well-publicized crackdown program against evaders of state income tax. He declared "much" of the increased tax receipts can be attributed to the department's new program.

Independent Women's Assn.

The Independent Women have planned many wonderful events for the forthcoming year. The Independent Women believe that one misses out on a great deal of college life by not belonging to some social organization on the campus. The IWA invites all unaffiliated girls to join and come to their meetings held every Monday night in Lennox. Through this important campus organization comes participation in campus activities, such as intramural sports, ASCC and AWS.

Membership in this organization is not binding. If for any reason a girl wishes to leave the organization she will be free to do so. For example: if she wishes to join a sorority later, she will no longer be an Independent. The IWA wants to help each girl find her niche on campus.

To give a better idea of what the IWA plans for the forthcoming year here is a partial list of their activities. The IWA has two all-school formal dances. Many picnics, hay rides, splash parties are included in the schedule. Pre-football and hockey game dinners are held and afterwards all members go to the game en masse. Most of these affairs are held jointly with Crown & Lance.

BIG MILITARY POPULATION INCREASE IN REGION

There is publicity everywhere about population increase and what can and must be done to ease the big problem, not only confronting the U. S. A., but the world.

There has been much evidence of population increase in the Camp Carson area. Of the 12 births reported last Saturday, 11 were listed among the military personnel. Such conditions no doubt prevail in the hundreds of Army Camps throughout the U. S. A.

Of the 23 births reported Tuesday, 19 were in military homes.

Good luck to them as wish to leave their footprints on the sands of time—the rest of us are satisfied if we can just cover up our tracks.

Watching those fellows play reminds me that golf is a lot like taxes—you drive hard to get to the green and then wind up in the hole.

Gamma Phi Beta

Alpha Phi Chapter of Gamma Phi Beta was started at Colorado College in 1932. Members of Gamma Phi are recognized by their pin, which is a crescent moon. The pink carnation is the sorority flower and brown and brown are the Gamma Phi colors. School activities are well represented by Gamma Phis, both in the last and the present school year.

During the year Gamma Phi social functions are many and include the traditional Kappa Sigma-Gamma Phi football game in the fall and spring picnic with the Betas. Two formal dances are given each year as well as several informal dances and parties during the year. A weekly coffee hour is held at the house each Wednesday, as the break for the student from their studying in the afternoon.

Among campus leaders Gamma Phi contributed many girls including WAA president, AWS secretary, TIGER CLUB treasurer, and Panhellenic vice-president.

The annual Song Fest was won by the Gamma Phi's for the third time. Gamma Phi was also awarded the WAA trophy for athletics.

Preacher Jenkins' sermon was full of fire and brimstone. Mandy punctuated his sermon frequently with "Amen", and "That's sure tellin' 'em". She enthusiastically echoed the preacher's denunciation of lying, gambling and drinking.

When the preacher switched his disapproval to petty gossip, Mandy eased back into the pew and muttered: "Now he's done quit preachin' and gone to meddlin'."

tinguishing emblems of the sorority are her symbol, the wise old owl, the colors of sky and sea blues, and the pin, a small golden key.

All is not serious study at the Kappa house. Throughout the year there are different social events. Among the dances given are the Kappa Carousel in November, a Christmas formal, the Korral dance in March and the spring formal. Other highlights include a chicken dinner given the chapter by the town mothers' club, the annual Kappa-Phi Delt baseball game with a treasurer milk can trophy, a style show and luncheon, held last year for the fourteenth time, and a spring tea honoring the faculty and administration.

Last year four members of Kappa Kappa Gamma were elected to Phi Beta Kappa for high scholarship. Other Kappa honors included holding the offices of president of Q.A. and of Tiger Club as well as dorm presidents and Q.A. representative from the freshman class. Miss CC was a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma as was last year's Hockey Queen.

"So God has sent you two more little brothers, Sally," said the minister to the small daughter of a family recently blessed with twins.

"Yes," said Sally, "and He knows where the money is coming from, too. I heard Daddy say so."

Flattery's like perfume—to be smelled, not swallowed.

Delta Gamma

We of Delta Gamma welcome all you newcomers to Colorado College and in particular you who are foreigners to Greek organizations. Sororities have been a collegiate institution for almost 100 years, and many lasting friendships have been made through their existence. Way back in 1873 three girls couldn't go home for Christmas because the weather was too messy for traveling.

Instead of moping about they decided to form a secret society based on their ideals of friendship. Thus Delta Gamma was born. The colors bronze, pink and blue, were chosen and our pin—an anchor of white gold. Growing steadily Delta Gamma was admitted to National Panhellenic in 1902 as a charter member. And we haven't stopped growing; as of 1950 there were 74 college chapters, including four in Canada, and 130 alumnae groups throughout the country. Every year many DG's spend lots of time, energy and money on our No. 1 national project, Sight Conservation and Aid to the Blind.

In 1932 the Delta Gammas invaded the CC campus and were the first national sorority to take that brave step. Thru the years we bought and paid for our own house and tried to win friends and

A few of the offices held by Delta Gammas include Q.A. vice president, senior class commissioner, three dorm presidents, and one girl graduated Phi Beta Kappa.

Delta Gamma beauties held honors as Kappa Sig Stardust Queen and Watermelon Queen.

Kappa Alpha Theta

Kappa Alpha Theta was founded at Indiana Asbury College in 1870, which is now De Pauw University in Greencastle, Indiana. It is the oldest woman's fraternity which has been active constantly through the years. One of the four founders was invited to wear the pin of Phi Gamma Delta, but she would have had no vote in the chapter, and in order to have a vote, she organized a fraternity of her own. Because of this connection, Phi Gamma Delta is her brother fraternity.

The main project of Kappa Alpha Theta is the Institute of Logopedics in Wichita, Kansas. This institute does exactly what its name implies, works with deaf and dumb people, mostly children in trying to correct their defects. It is one of the largest and best institutes of its kind in the country.

Another project of the sorority is the Foster Parent Plan whereby an orphan in Europe is adopted and receives food and clothing for its care.

In and around campus many Thetas have received recognition during the year, as AWS and vice president, president, Junior and Sophomore class commissioners, and dorm presidents. The Thetas also received the scholarship cup for last year, and had two girls elected to Phi Beta Kappa. They were awarded first prize for homecoming float and the homecoming Queen was a Theta. Later in the year a Theta was chosen as Sweetheart of Sigma Chi.

A few of Theta's social events include: a Christmas and spring formal, as well as informal dances at the lodge. In the spring they hold a pious planting party and a picnic and baseball game with the Phi Gams.

"Do you know," said the young government agent to the old farmer, "your methods of cultivation are a hundred years behind the times." Looking around he continued, "Why I'd be surprised if you made a dollar out of the oats in that field." "So would I," returned the farmer, smiling, "it's barley."

Phi Delta Theta

The Phi Delta Theta fraternity was founded at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, in 1848. Since that time, it has grown into one of the largest national fraternities, having 76,000 brother members. Phi Delta was brought to Colorado College in 1913 and installed as Colorado Beta of Phi Delta Theta.

Phi Delta Theta is one unit of a large system of organized college men which dates back to the very beginning of American independence, established firmly in most colleges and universities in the United States and Canada. Greek letter fraternities have become the accepted form of student social organizations, and they are a powerful and dominant factor in the maintenance of harmonious relations between institutions. Their success thru more than a century proves that they have filled a need—the need of young men to associate with others of their kind in intimate friendship in an environment that favors the development of sound character and cultured minds.

These are the things which Colorado Beta of Phi Delta Theta are constantly striving for: friendship, fraternity, sound learning and character. We feel that we have been at least partially successful in quest of these ideals.

Colorado Beta is proud of its many members who have brought honor to it by outstanding accomplishments in all phases of college activity. There is no office on campus which many Phi's have not held at times in the past. Phi's now hold these offices on the campus: business manager of the Nugget, business manager of the TIGER, editor of the TIGER and many others.

Phi's of distinction include many famous names such as: Benjamin Harrison, Fred M. Vinson, chief justice of the supreme court; William Allen White, Van Heflin, Lou Gehrig, Bob Chappius, Frank Lloyd Wright, Wendell and Ken Niles, Powell Crosley, George Trautman and Alvin Dark. More Phi's are listed in the Senate and House of Representatives than any other national fraternity including Colorado's Senior Senator Eugene Millikin.

Phi Gamma Delta

"Life begins at forty," so goes the old saying. This year Phi Gamma Delta is celebrating its forty-third anniversary. Just four years ago the Fijis began a record which is thus far unparalleled by an organization since Colorado College has been founded. During the school year 48-49 the Fijis won the Homecoming parade, and the majority of intramural contests; therefore having one leg of the necessary three in a row to capture the coveted all participation trophy.

The next two terms, 49-50, 50-51 proved just as victorious for the Fijis. The grand total came to 24 intramural victories out of thirty-two in three short years. Their Homecoming float was awarded first prize during the same period. So now the lady in gold with a laurel wreath in her hand stands in the trophy case at 1122 N. Cascade forever. For the first time in the history of the college the Phi Gammas can point with pride, by possessing the impossible.

Nationally Phi Gamma Delta has 84 chapters residing at all the big universities in every state in the Union. She is among the top five, and her black diamond with a white star is being worn by over 20,000 men.

Here on campus Fijis are found in every walk of life. The Honor Council president for the past years, the Nugget's business manager for two years, and last year's editor of the Tiger, all are Phi Gammas.

On the basketball squad a Fijian was picked as most valuable player, choice for all conference, and Colliers magazine choice of All-American for small colleges. Fijis are on the gridiron, on the baseball diamond, and playing first string hockey.

They were anxious not to be recognized as newlyweds; so before they went into the hotel, the bride took off her corsage; and they carefully shook off the last bits of rice. Then, sure that no one would ever suspect they had just been married that afternoon, the groom walked up to the desk and said with studied casualness, "I'd like a double bed with room, please."

"I guess I've lost another pupil," said the professor as his glass eye rolled down the sink.

Heard about the Custer cocktail? One more and it's the last you stand.

THE FRESHMEN MIXER at Lennox Student Union was a success if the above photo is any indication. Rhoda Percival, Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, and Dot Harris of Colorado Springs, enjoy a laugh with Dick Parus and Sam Argento, both varsity football aspirants from Chicago.

This year the house has decided to support a foreign student and shall be the only house which will room and board one student. It has been the policy in the past to have one student at each house, but this year there will be just two male students registering from abroad.

Life may begin at forty, but no one ever said where it stopped. Even before forty, in the teens, twenties and thirties, the Phi Gammas compiled an amazing record.

Kappa Sigma

The Kappa Sigma fraternity was founded at the University of Virginia on December 10, 1869. From its beginning it has remained one of the top five in membership. The organization of Kappa Sigma is much different than most large national fraternities. Most fraternities have a central office with high salaried men managing the affairs. Kappa Sigma is run by successful men who are interested in the fraternity to devote their valuable time and energy.

There are 125 active chapters scattered out in the United States and Canada and these chapters are divided into 27 districts which are arranged on a convenient geographical basis. Each of these districts has a conclave which is held during the even years, and the national conclave is held during the odd years.

The Beta Omega chapter of Kappa Sigma, here at Colorado College, was founded March 12, 1904 and is the oldest fraternity on the campus. During the last war the chapter was inactivated for three years. Eight members returned, and from this nucleus the chapter grew to what it is today.

Last year Beta Omega contributed many of the outstanding varsity athletes. They were represented in varsity basketball, baseball, football and

During its 47 years on this campus, Kappa Sigma has always had its share of the intra-mural sports trophies and home coming honors. It has always been a well balanced fraternity with men participating in all phases of life here at CC.

Worthy of mention in any discussion of a fraternity system, is the development of fraternity alumni chapters. Kappa Sigma, along with many other national fraternities, has an alumni chapter in practically every large city in the U. S. The alumni of our chapter here at Colorado College are helping graduates in finding employment and getting started in the business world. Such attention is given to the maintenance of good chapter alumni contacts.

It would be impossible to tell about all the important men who have gone out into the world from this chapter, but it is worthwhile to mention a few of the well-known figures. Al Hill, a Texas oil man, is prominent in Colorado Springs, owner of the famous Seven Falls and recent builder of the beautiful new Garden of the Gods Club. Gerald Schlessman is a member of the board of trustees of Colorado College and owns a controlling interest in a number of public utilities. Joe Rohrer is the owner and operator of radio station KRDO in Colorado Springs. Dr. David Crabbe, a professor of business here at CC, is now on leave of absence to work with the atomic energy commission in New Mexico. Jay Verlee was the city recreation manager of Colorado Springs. Larry Wolfe is the co-owner of Frederic's Jewelers. Paul and Everett Conover are prominent in civic affairs along with Major A. M. Johnson who is advertising manager for the Gazette-Telegraph. Jim Starrak, who graduated from CC, was an All-American hockey player for three consecutive years, and Robert Judy Clave and Paul Sims are the tour conductors.

Crabb won the state amateur golf tournament this summer.

Kappa Sigma, in upholding its national honor, has produced such men as Warren Austin, U. S. delegate to the United Nations. Lowell Thomas, a famous news commentator from Denver, Colo.; Drew Pearson, one of the nation's leading columnists; Senator Estes Kefauver, head of the Senate Crime Investigating Committee, Hoagy Carmichael, the ever popular song writer and Mel Patton, the fastest man afoot holding the world's record for the hundred yard dash.

Kappa Sigma is proud of its history and will always maintain its high standards in extra-curricular activities on campuses throughout the nation. Our own local chapter, with capable assistance

Sigma Chi

Sigma Chi is one of the oldest and largest of America's international fraternities. It was founded by seven students at Oxford, Ohio in 1855. Since the fraternity was founded over 124 active chapters have been established in the great colleges and universities from California to Nova Scotia, and from Florida to British Columbia. At Colorado College the white cross of Sigma Chi was raised for the first time on April 22, 1905. The present chapter house was purchased in 1924 and eight years later a wing which comprises most of the living room and a number of the study rooms was added. In 1949 the final payment on the mortgage was made, and in a large ceremony the mortgage was burned.

The role of Sigma Chi in your life is not limited to just your college years. Sigma Chi is a place where you develop friendships and interests that you keep thru-out life. A large part of Sigma Chis the annual organization which is connected with the undergraduate chapters. There are over 120 alumni chapters all over the world, and these groups meet very regularly to maintain old friendships.

The question is frequently asked, "What does a fraternity have to offer that makes it worth all the time and effort that must be put into it?" We at Sigma Chi feel that your college education should include training in getting along with people in work and play. This phase of your education is best accomplished as a fraternity member. The intimacies of chapter life promote mutual understanding and develop personality. A fraternity man learns to respect the opinions of others and by so doing he develops poise, initiative, tact and judgement.

Some of the new students fear that joining a fraternity would be detrimental in their efforts to attain high scholarship. Contrary to popular opinions fraternities help promote scholarship for the new men are offered a great amount of help from the men who have already taken the course or are majoring in that particular subject.

Some of the more prominent men who have been Sigma Chis are Milton Caniff, John Wayne, Joe Gordon, Don Wilson, Supreme Court Justice Frank Murphy, Booth Tarkington and President Grover Cleveland.

Digger O'Dell, the friendly undertaker, found a dead donkey on his front lawn so he went to inform the police. "What shall I do with it?" he asked the desk sergeant.

"Do with it?" demanded the latter who was something of a gay wit. "bury it, of course. You're an undertaker, aren't you?"

"That's true," replied Digger with equal humor, "but I thought it best to come around and inform the relatives first."

"Why is a tight girdle like an income tax blank?"

"I dunno. You'll have to tell me," was the reply.

"Well, if you try to fill it with the wrong figure, you get pinched!"

Coach Routt on Year's Leave From Honolulu

Colorado College is fortunate this year in having George Routt on this year's coaching staff along with Red Eastlatch. Coach Routt is now assisting Heiss and Eastlatch with the football team.

Routt, a graduate of Western State College at Gunnison, Colo., where he lettered three years in both football and basketball, is taking graduate work here at CC.

He started his coaching career at Pueblo Central High School in 1939 and 1940, then went to the James B. Castle High School in Honolulu. There he headed the three varsity sports: football, basketball, and baseball. He is now on a one year's leave of absence from that school.

This year in addition to his football duties he may possibly work with this year's basketball set up.

Routt is married, his wife an exchange teacher for second grade in Hawaii, and is the father of a seven year old daughter, also in Honolulu.

All people interested in working on the TIGER this year are cordially invited to attend an open house in the Tiger offices, third floor Lennox House, Monday afternoon at 4:00 p.m.

Staff members of the TIGER will be present to talk over all positions with those interested. All phases of the TIGER publication are in need of talent and any person with journalistic or sales ability is urgently requested to attend.

Beta Theta Pi

This year Gamma Delta of Beta Theta Pi celebrates its 38th year on the Colorado College campus. The Betas have been leaders in campus activities. The Betas are represented in athletics on the CC football team, captain of last year's CC golf team and former winner of the cross country race. In addition the entire chapter participated in intramural sports.

In campus activities a Beta is editor of this year's Nugget, and chapter members are on the Inter-Fraternity Council, Student Council, on the Honor Council, Red Lantern, Growlers and numerous other campus organizations.

Social functions began with a jam session and informal record dance and many more of these are planned during the year. Ranking high on the chapter's social calendar are the annual Beta parties for each sorority in the fall. Other major dances including the Miami Triad and Christmas and spring formals.

The Betas, well known as a singing fraternity, have held the district song cup, and were second in the CC song fest. They also presented an act in the campus chest variety show and have sung at various college functions.

Nationally, Beta Theta Pi has over 60,000 members in 96 active chapters. The first fraternity chapters at 32 colleges were established by Beta Theta Pi. It is the only national fraternity which has been above all-mens' scholastic average every year but one.

The Betas have been distinguished leaders in all fields. Over 1,000 are listed in "Who's Who", which is an average of about one out of every 37 living Betas. Among these men are Paul V. McNutt, Charles E. Wilson, Senators Butler and Wherry and the late Wendell Wilkie. At present on the U. S. Supreme Court there is a Beta, Justice William O. Douglas. Locally prominent is Mayor Blunt of Colorado Springs. And so from men on campus to men in business the Betas have and will continue to play an important part.

'RED' EASTLACH NEW ASSISTANT COACH

WILL COACH VARSITY BASKETBALL, BASEBALL AND ASSIST COACH HEISS WITH VARSITY FOOTBALL

Leon "RED" Eastlach, football and basketball coach at Trinidad Junior college since 1949, has been named assistant football coach and head basketball coach at Colorado College, it was announced in July by President William H. Gill.

Recommended by the CC Athletic Board and by the Athletic Director Juan Reid, Eastlach fills the vacancy created in March, 1951, by the entrance of Coach Jerry Carle into the U. S. Marine Corps, and filled last year by graduate student coaches.

A three-sport star in football, basketball and baseball at Colorado A. & M., Fort Collins, until his graduation there in 1942, Eastlach entered the service in 1942 and was discharged as a captain in the Marines in 1946.

The new CC mentor began his coaching career at Wray, Colorado High School, piloting each of his 1947-48-49 teams into the Class A football playoffs.

When Jack Walton, former football coach at Trinidad Junior college, died suddenly late in the 1949 football season, Eastlach was named to succeed Walton and has been at Trinidad since then. His basketball teams have won the junior college league once and finished runnerup twice.

Eastlach, who recently earned his master's degree from Colorado A. & M., reported to CC September 1 to assist Bill Heiss, head football coach, with the gridiron season, and will continue on as head basketball coach. He is married and the father of two children.

C.C. Soccer Team Begins Practices Under Boddington

Colorado College enters its third year in soccer competition with only a handful of lettermen returning from last year's team which finished fourth in the Colorado Soccer Association. The first practice was held yesterday on Stuart Field with captain Walt Stone, Paul Trietsch, Mid Gammell, Milt Nichols and Jack Hattstaedt the returning lettermen. Newcomers to the team are freshmen John Sibilla, George Krause, Dave Rodriguez, Ed Roy and Ken Smith. This year the team is being coached by Mr. William Boddington, who represented the U. S. in the 1936 Olympics. A tentative schedule has been arranged to play Colorado University, Colorado Mines, Denver University and Colorado A & M.

Anyone who is interested in learning to play soccer should contact Walt Stone at the Sigma Chi house or Paul Trietsch at the Beta House.

Publications

Our publications committee is in charge of the publication of the "Tigress Tips", a handbook sent to all new women students. Several years ago it revived the Kinikinnik and published the first few issues before it was taken over as an ASCC publication.

The AWS Vocational Guidance committee works with the Counseling Center in providing occupational information to students and giving vocational and psychological tests to all who are interested.

Volunteer Work

The AWS Service Committee is very active thruout the year. It arranges for students to do volunteer work at Half-Way House, a rehabilitation center for patients recovering from TB and heart disease, the YWCA, where they are Y-Teen group leaders, the Child Care Center, the Red Cross, and the Girl Scouts as assistants to Girl Scout leaders. The Service committee has also worked with the Women's Educational Society in helping to sponsor and orientate the foreign women students. Last year they sponsored an old clothes drive for a school in Japan and a drive for old books and magazines for hospitals and the Half-Way House. During the year they sponsored open meetings with speakers from the organizations in town to interest the girls in volunteer work. This fall the Service Committee opened a secondhand book store as a service to both old and new students.

Who Can Sing?

Each fraternal organization and the Independents compete in the annual AWS Song Fest. A trophy is given for the best performance to one men's organization and one women's. The song Fest is usually held in Shove Chapel and is followed by an open house at Bemis hall.

Most Outstanding

The last big event of the year is the annual AWS Recognition Dinner at Bemis Hall at which time awards are given to senior women, and athletic awards are presented.

ACROSS FROM CAMPUS

The newlyweds on their honeymoon had a drawing room. The groom gave the porter a dollar not to tell anybody on the train they were bride and groom. When the happy couple went to the diner for breakfast the following morning all the passengers pointed and eyed the couple knowingly. The groom called the porter and demanded:

"Did you tell anybody on this train we were married?"
"No suh," said the porter, "I told them you all was just good friends."

CHESTERFIELD FIRST PREMIUM QUALITY CIGARETTE TO OFFER BOTH REGULAR & KING-SIZE

BOTH regular and king-size Chesterfields are premium quality cigarettes and come in the smart white pack.

BOTH contain only those proven ingredients that make Chesterfields the best possible smoke: the world's best tobaccos, pure, more costly moistening agents (to keep them tasty and fresh), the best cigarette paper that money can buy—nothing else.

BOTH are much milder with an extraordinarily good taste and, from the report of a well-known research organization—no unpleasant after-taste.

BOTH are exactly the same in all respects. There is absolutely no difference except that king-size Chesterfield is larger—contains considerably more of the same tobaccos—enough more to give you a 21% longer smoke, yet costs little more.

CC ROTC Assignments, Instruction Under Way

The Reserve Officer Training Corps program got under way officially at Colorado College on Monday, September 15th, under the direction of Lt. Col. Herbert B. Heyer, professor of Military Science and Tactics. The initial phases of military instruction consisted of a student orientation by Major George W. Nichols, assistant PMST, and the issue of uniforms to all students. Uniforms however, are presently in the hands of civilian tailors, who are making the necessary alterations. The basic uniform for this unit will be officer-type forest green.

Thursday at 10 a.m. the semester's first drill call will be held at Stewart Field. All students were assigned either to A or B Company, and were further assigned to their respective platoons and squads. The cadets made a good appearance on their first drill and it hoped that uniforms will be in order in the near future. Military drill will be held each Thursday at 10 a.m. for all cadets. Several cadets who have previous military or ROTC experience are presently under consideration for temporary appointment as cadet leaders. Throughout the course in Military Science, leadership is developed within the individual along with theory training in military subjects, such as History of the Army, Map and Aerial Photo Reading, Communications, Weapons Training and Tactics.

Through questionnaires a great deal of interest has been indicated in participation in a Rifle Team as well as a ROTC band. These two projects will be organized as soon as necessary facilities and equipment become available. The Rifle Team will be associated with the National Rifle Association and plans are being made for various intramural, local and interschool rifle matches.

Enrollment at the time of writing was 149 Military Science 101 or 1st year students, 22 Military Science 201, 2nd year students and 1 in 3rd year training.

Monthly Vesper Services Will Be Held at Shove

On the last Sunday in every month during the academic year there will be a vesper service in Shove Chapel. The time will regularly be 4:30 p. m. The only exception to this plan will occur in November and December, when there will be no service at all because of a conflict with vacation schedules.

Professor Richard Moorhead, teacher of voice at Colorado College, and Mrs. Jessie Newgeon Hawkes, chapel organist, are in charge of special music for these occasions. They intend to present a variety of instrumental and voice selections.

The first vesper service will take place on September 28, at 4:30 p. m. Interested towns-folk and Colorado College students are invited to attend.

Identification Cards Compulsory for All Students This Year

Graduate Record, Law Admission Exams Will Be Given Four Times Nationally

PRINCETON, N. J., Sept. 19—The Graduate Record Examinations, required of applicants for admission to a number of graduate schools, will be administered at examination centers throughout the country four times in the coming year, Educational Testing Service has announced.

This fall candidates may take the GRE on Friday and Saturday, November 7 and 8. In 1953, the dates are January 30 and 31, April 17 and 18, July 10 and 11. ETS advises each applicant to inquire of the graduate school of his choice which of the examinations he should take and on which dates. Applicants for graduate school fellowships should ordinarily take the designated examinations in the fall administration.

Application forms and a Bulletin of Information, which provides details of registration and administration as well as sample questions, may be obtained from college advisers or directly from Educational Testing Service, P. O. Box 592, Princeton, N. J., or P. O. Box 9896, Los Feliz Station, Los Angeles 27, California. A completed application must reach the ETS office at least two weeks before the date of the administration for which the candidate is applying.

The Law School Admission Test required of applicants for admission to a number of leading American law schools, will be given at more than 100 centers through-

Immediately after Tuesday's Chapel service, all CC students gathered outside the Chapel to pick seven cheerleaders for the coming year. Chosen were: LeRay Perry, Kay Kohler, Brook Kindred, Jack Davis, Judy Johnson, Sue Pfeiffer, and Sally Green.

SENATOR NIXON TO SPEAK IN SPRINGS FRIDAY, SEPT. 26

Senator Nixon, Republican vice-presidential candidate, will arrive in Colorado Springs on Friday, September 26th, at 2:00 p.m., for a whistle stop campaign speech. Senator Nixon will speak at Acacia Park at 2:30 for about twenty minutes. As Democratic presidential candidate, Adlai Stevenson is planning to speak here in the future, there will be ample opportunity to hear both sides of the issue.

SIG CHI'S TO CROWN WATERMELON QUEEN DURING ANNUAL FESTIVITIES

Everyone, yes we said everyone—guys, gals, oldtimers, newcomers, faculty, and administration, is invited to pull themselves away from their academic pressures on Friday, September 26, and blow off a little steam. It's time again for the Annual Sigma Chi Watermelon Bust. This festive occasion is to be held behind the Sigma Chi House at 2:15 p.m.

There will be plenty of activity that afternoon—4,000 pounds of watermelon for all the chow hounds with watermelon eating contests to be held between the faculty members and the organizations on campus. Charity Booths will be sponsored by each girl's organization on campus to raise funds for the various charities. These booths will be in the theme of a side show. The sorority taking in the most money will be presented a trophy by the Sigma Chi fraternity.

Highlighting the afternoon's festivities will be the election of the Sigma Chi Watermelon Queen.

Candidates for this honor will be Elaine Meitens, Independents; Ink Brower, Gamma Phi Beta; Carol Salzman, Kappa Alpha Theta; Barbara McAllister, Kappa Kappa Gamma; and Milti Knutson, Delta Gamma. The young lovelies, all from the pledge classes of their respective sororities will take the stage to the lilting strains of the Colorado College Dixieland band. Judges for this contest will be Mayor Harry Blunt of Colorado Springs; Fire Chief Fred Lausch; Harry Roth, president of the Colorado Junior Chamber of Commerce; H. Chase Stone, president of the First National Bank; and General Gill, president of Colorado College.

The Growlers and Tiger Club will stage a pep rally to whip everyone into shape for the football game with New Mexico Highlands on Saturday night.

Don't forget, EVERYONE is invited to come to the Sigma Chi House this Friday, September 26, at 2:15 p.m. Let's raise lots of money and have lots of fun. Let's show the people of Colorado Springs that we here at Colorado College are progressive students and citizens.

Wes Bradley will broadcast the presentation of the trophy to the queen over Radio Station KRDO.

Observance In Shove Will Celebrate New Edition of Bible

Shove Chapel will be the scene of a city-wide service, celebrating the publication in September of the American Revised Standard Version of the Bible. A group of eminent Bible scholars have been at work for many years on this new translation, designed to render the Bible into language meaningful to the American reader. Similar services are being held simultaneously throughout the United States. The Colorado Springs service is sponsored jointly by the Colorado Springs Council of Churches, the Ministerial Alliance and Colorado College. The local celebration is to be held on Tuesday, Sept. 30, at 7:45 p. m. Colorado College students are urged to attend.

IT'S ELECTION YEAR

Last Spring Colorado College held mock political conventions of both Republican and Democratic parties. It resulted in affording both an informative and interesting aspect of political life. It served as a stepping stone to students who had little contact with this important element of our lives and relieved some of the bewildering air which shrouds American politics. The interest displayed revealed an important fact to this paper.

This year there will be thousands of young men and women who will be voting for the first time in their lives. They may well cast the deciding ballot that will elect our president. All of us realize the importance of making an intelligent appraisal of the candidates, their party and their platform. As a result, the Tiger will present a series of articles designed to broaden the student's interest and knowledge of the forthcoming campaign. We trust that our opinions will express more explicitly the issues of debate as interpreted in an approach designed for the young voter as contrasted to the columnist who must write for a vast number of readers of varied interests.

Of prime consideration is a statement made by Governor Stevenson recently in which he said the nation is rapidly becoming subject to a one-party press. Nothing could be truer. In a recently conducted poll it was discovered that an overwhelming majority of newspapers, both daily and weekly, were supporting General Eisenhower. This in conjunction with the fact that slick magazines are supporting Eisenhower shows a dangerous trend.

It is our purpose to present divergent views from students of any party affiliation. The Tiger will print these opinions along with an analysis and criticism of these arguments. Any student who feels he wants to sling the political mud is urged to contribute to this paper any views he might entertain. The national campaign gets hotter by the day, so we may as well add some spark to the election fire.

LARRY WADDINGTON,
Political Editor

TO THE STUDENTS

Greetings for everybody. It is good to be back home and have the opportunity of serving my country. Indeed my stay at CC had been very fruitful and most appreciated.

I had a pleasant visit in Washington and in New York on my way East, and a 4-day tour in Italy. I was able to see many interesting historical and religious places. I was thrilled to meet a CC girl in the Vatican.

Now I am working for the Ministry of Communications as a structural engineer in the Public Works. There is a great deal here to be done, but the finances are short. Point Four has many wonderful projects on the way.

A week ago I saw the last and best soccer game of the year. Our team won the championship from Syria. By the way, how is the soccer team doing this year?

I want you all to know that you have a good friend over here. Best wishes to all.

Very truly,
Saad Sahawneh

Faculty members parade into Shove Memorial Chapel Tuesday for the opening convocation for this 1952-53 year. The chapel service was at 10:00 o'clock for all students and faculty members.

DON'T LET HIM GET YOU DOWN, JASPER, HE'S JUST BEEN ISSUED A UNIFORM IN THE COLORADO COLLEGE R.O.T.C.

A man called upon a physician for advice. The physician diagnosed the case as one of nerves, and prescribed accordingly. The fee was five dollars and the prescription two dollars. The man had only five dollars. He said to the physician:

"Doc, five dollars is all I have. Lend me two dollars and I'll have the prescription filled."

The physician gazed at the man for a moment, then said: "I have made a mistake in my diagnosis. Your nerve is all right. You are afflicted with an enlarged gall. There is no remedy for that."

Virginia Town Banning Beverages At Certain Hours

BASSETT, Va.—For the past several years, cafes and other places handling beer and wine in Bassett and adjacent territory have refrained from serving these concoctions after eight o'clock in the evening, and not at all on Sunday.

Since this has been done, it has decreased drunkenness 50 per cent in and around Bassett. Other small communities might take heed, says the editor of the Bassett Journal.

While this editor is opposed to its sale at any time, he is positive that those who handle it have not lost financially by not serving it after the hours specified.

The editor writes: "It has been rumored that certain places are endeavoring to disobey these hours and handle beer and wine after these hours. We only had an inkling, and are not positive who those are that are trying to disobey these hours. But we do know that those who oppose these hours for handling beer and wine, if such hours are disobeyed, will not gain financially."

ASCC

Jan Keefer Chosen Student Council Social Chairman

In its meeting last Monday the Student Council elected Jan Keefer to fill the position of social chairman vacated by John Shepherd. Due to the excessive amount of work which the holder of this office is expected to do in the fall, Dave Becker was appointed to help with the social calendar.

October 11th is the date selected for the Tiger-Nugget Dance and Homecoming activities are scheduled for October 24th and 25th.

Class commissioner elections will be held on October 14th and all petitions must be turned into the ASCC by September 30. Each petition must be signed by ten members of the prospective candidate's class and each candidate must have maintained a C average for the previous semester.

Debators will Meet Next Wednesday to Organize Team

Wednesday evening, Oct. 1, the debate squad will hold its first meeting of the year. Scheduled for 7:30, in West Hall. All students interested are invited to attend. Professor Werner announced that the topic of debate for the year is as follows: "Resolved; that Congress should adopt a Fair Employment Practices Act."

At this time the debate schedule has not been completed, however, it is known that the National Tournament will be held at the University of Denver sometime this spring.

With Apologies to Poe

Once upon a campus dreary
The gals pondered weak and weary

Over many a quaint and curious
Volume of forgotten lore.
What was this volume, nearly dead,

That filled the boys with such a dread

As of someone gently prodding,
Prodding at their manners poor?
The girls all know—the boys abhor . . .

. . . Emily Post and nothing more.

How distinctly they remembered
'Twas the year of '49,
When appearances all counted
And the men were looking fine.
Today, though, things are different

And the guys no longer score
While they look like utter scoundrels—

Why aren't they well-dressed as before?

Long gone the book, Emily Post—
Namless here, for evermore?

the veteran actually was enrolled in training during that period.

A veteran who starts GI training after the 20th of a month will have to wait several days longer for his initial payment, VA pointed out. The reason is that VA can't process his certification until after he has completed his first full month of training. Payments for both periods—the complete month and the few days of the preceding month—will be included in his first check.

The GI allowances are paid directly to veterans, and are the only payments made under the new Korean GI Bill. They are for the purpose of assisting veterans in meeting the costs of their training.

Professor: "Beautiful lines, aren't they?"

Students Chat with Profs. at Busbees

Freshmen and transfer women students were well acquainted with the academic side of life at CC Tuesday night, when professors met informally with the girls as part of the AWS sponsored "Buzzbees" program. With two professors, two hall counsellors and about 18 girls attending each group, meetings were held in the four freshman dorms, Bemis, Ticknor, Montgomery and McGregor.

The purpose of these Buzzbees meetings was to improve faculty-student relationships and to let new students know what professors expect. Among the subjects discussed were the function of the advisor, the honor system, the cut policy, the requirement of certain courses, class conduct and the amount of outside preparation expected. Ice cream bars were served after the meetings.

The very successful and helpful "Buzzbees" program was planned and carried out this year by Peggy Root, vice president of Associated Women Students. These first academic meetings will be followed later by a second group stressing extra-curricular activities.

THE TIGER-NUGGET BALL OPENS FALL SEASON WITH FIRST ALL SCHOOL DANCE

Preparation is already underway for this year's Tiger-Nugget Dance. It will be the first all school dance of the year. The date for the Tiger-Nugget Dance has been set for one week from this Saturday night, October 11, after the football game between CC and Camp Carson.

In order to accomodate everybody, arrangements have been made to secure the ballroom of the V.F.W. Club. Bob McGrew's Orchestra will furnish the music for the dancing. The dance will be semi-formal and will be held from ten to one. Tickets will be available through organization representatives or at the dance itself.

The traditional crowning ceremony for Miss Colorado College will highlight the evening. Each women's organization has nominated a candidate of which one will be elected Miss CC at the dance. The candidates are: Derry Cowles, Delta Gamma; Marcia Manning, Kappa Alpha Theta; Weda Austin, Kappa Kappa Gamma; Diana Ashforth, Independent Women; and Sally Powell, Gamma Phi Beta.

The Tiger-Nugget Dance was traditionally held in the Spring. Last year was the first year it was held in the Fall. The change proved to be successful due to the heavy, conflicting Spring social calendar. The dance committee assures us it will be tops.

Note to Freshmen boys: Get your dates now. There are one hundred and thirty-eight Freshmen girls. There are one hundred and eighty two of you. Nuf said!

SPEAKING OF OXFORD
Oxford is an old English county seat whose earliest history goes back to 720, the date on the Priory commemorating St. Frideswide—a local heroine noted for her good works and adventures. The University, now world-famous, didn't begin "until fairly recently—1183." And even the town's name didn't enter into history until 912. (Practically upstarts, what?) Originally its name was Ousen-eye, meaning "water-island" from the island in the Thames River at that point. Later it became Oxenford, the island being used for cattle fording the river.
We learned all this from the erudite Encyclopedia Britannica. Our interest was aroused to this extensive research by a new shipment of those famous, traditional Oxford shirts we've just received from Van Heusen. We couldn't discover whether Oxford shirts were named after the town, or whether it was because Oxford "dons" (professors) wore them. But however the name came about, you know and we know that Oxford stands for the handsomely tailored, ruggedly casual Van Heusen Oxford shirts we have in stock now. You, too, can be an "Oxford Man" . . . Come in and select yours now. We know you'll want to "don" them right away. $4.50

During the silence of a 20-minute bus stop over, a man accompanied by his young son found a seat behind the driver. The youngster, bursting with pride, was carefully carrying a covered box.

"Dad," he asked, "Is my kitten a man kitten or a lady kitten?"

Everyone on board listened hopefully.

"A man kitten," said the father.

"How d'you know?" the boy persisted.

One could have heard a pin drop as the father promptly replied:

"Well, he has whiskers, hasn't he?"

kindly, "if I can get it for you. Where is it?"

The boy studied his toes for a long moment. Finally he spoke.

"It's stuck in your cat."

CC Host to N.M. Highlands In Season's Home Opener Fri.

The Tigers went back to the practice field Monday to iron out mistakes and repair injuries received in the D.U. game last Friday. The Tiger team suffered not only defeat in the game but also several injuries. Fullback Wes Boucher is nursing a shoulder injury and is not expected to see too much action this Saturday. Kenny Baird is also suffering a shoulder ailment and will probably be sidelined. Walt Bennett will be hampered with a bad hip injury received in Friday night's game. In a practice session last week Ned Pfeiffer pulled ligaments in his right knee and will not be reporting for practice for three weeks. However, Colorado College's coaching staff will send out a powerful squad this Saturday in spite of injuries.

New Mexico Highlands University was defeated last week end by Adams State College which gives the Tiger squad an edge over the New Mexico team this week end. However, Coach Bill Heiss refused to predict on the game and said, "a one touchdown victory would satisfy me".

Colorado Mines went down before Colorado A & M last Saturday, 26-0, but played impressive football against the Aggies powerful squad.

The Mountaineers from Western State rolled over New Mexico Military Institute 20-7 last Saturday. Coach Don Cumley reported his team still needs plenty of practice before they go against the Idaho State Bengals this Saturday.

D. U. DEFEATS TIGER SQUAD IN OPENER

The DU Pioneers outscored the Tigers 34-12 last Friday night. Both teams were somewhat ragged, displaying good football only at intervals.

DU scored once in the first and second periods, then exploded in the third quarter with a three touchdown rally.

The Tigers scored in the third and last quarters with Andy Gambucci and Chuck Mollin carrying the ball.

"Just Down the Pike from the Peak"

FROM THE SIDELINES

By RAY SCHERER

As a result of an injury in the second quarter of the D.U. game last Friday, Kenny Baird, one of the brightest defensive stars I have seen in the Rocky Mountain Conference, will be out of the Bengal lineup for about two weeks. Doctors first called it a collar bone fracture, but later changed their diagnosis and called the injury a bone separation in the shoulder. Harry Javernick will replace him in the defensive backfield.

I just had a chance to see the movies of the D.U. game in Coach Heiss' office this afternoon, and the consensus of opinion was that CC played pretty good ball in the D.U. game despite the lopsided score. If they played pretty good ball, "wot happened then?" you may ask. Here's my answer: The boys from Denver had more practice, plus a bit more experience. Possible, if not probable, they have more ability. There were several in the fold that had both passing and running ability to keep our defense guessing.

Undoubtedly, Denver will have at least a fair team, if only because of their defense. After seeing the films, and watching D.U.'s linebackers mingle with our boys in our backfield, I can see how they could cause any team in their league trouble. Anyway, keep an eye on that team. They are no powerhouse, but they will win their share.

As for CC, even though they were overcome by quite a margin, they still showed plenty of sparkle and hustle, both offensively and defensively. At the defensive end, Craig Richardson played quite a game for himself and seemed to progress in every quarter. It was beautiful to watch the way he handled the interference on several end runs. Spike Sarlo showed CC rooters what a year's experience can do in the passing department. He whipped nice passes that were maybe a little long and maybe not in the second half. Boucher was watched pretty closely throughout the contest, and consequently could not get that extra step to break away. Denver figured that they had a little score to settle with Wes after his exhibition of last year.

Well, I guess I might as well step out on the proverbial limb this year too, just for the fun of it. It's always nice when you can do it that way. I'll just take a few "games" this week and see how I do.

In the east, it will be Princeton over Columbia, Cornell will get past Colgate, and Dartmouth should eke one out over Holy Cross, only because they are playing early in the season.

In the Midwest I'll pick Illinois to beat Iowa State, Indiana should fall before Ohio State, and Iowa I'm picking to upset Pittsburgh. Michigan State will take Michigan and go on to win the Big Ten, while Minnesota can get the best of Washington if they bear down.

Out West, Cal will take Missouri into camp, but the Tigers will be tough, Oklahoma over CU in Boulder, Nebraska will move through Oregon, Southern Cal will meet and defeat Northwestern, but the Cats will be tough, and Stanford will be on the short end of the count after four quarters at Washington State, while UCLA should blast Texas Christian. Last, but not least, CC should outlast Highlands U. here Saturday night. Well, that does it. I'll keep my fingers crossed.

First I-M Meeting Held Last Tuesday to Map Plans for Year

The first meeting of the Intramural managers was held last Tuesday night in Coach Cheddy

Is soccer dying at Colorado College? The youngest sport of them all at CC seems to be on its last leg due to lack of student interest. With three practice sessions already under their belt the eight staunch supporters of soccer seem doomed to a season of inactivity. At least 8 men are needed to fill out the soccer squad or the sport seems doomed to a premature death.

Thompson's office with George Hamada presiding. The Phi Gams were represented by Tom Dunton, the Kappa Sigs by Dick Pearson, the Betas by Bob Krohenke, the Phi Deltas by Tom Abel, the Sigs by Fred Rediske, and the Independents by John Munger.

First to be discussed was I-M football, and the members voted to get the schedule underway on October 7. The schedule will be the same as that of last year, with only the dates being changed.

I-M swimming was next on the agenda. The preliminaries are scheduled for October 28, and the finals will be held Nov. 4. The meet will start at 7 o'clock on each of those evenings.

The cross country race will be held at the half of the homecoming game on October 25.

Tennis entries must be in by noon of October 7, at the athletic office. Each organization is allowed four singles men and two doubles teams.

The golf meet will be run off in the spring, the committee decided.

Every Tuesday evening from 7 to 7:15 on KRCC, 91.3 on the FM dial, Bill Thompson and Leo Soligo, seniors, present "Sports Special", a program of stories and poetic slants from the world of sports. From time to time they will interview celebrities from the various sports fields. Also included in the program is a guest singing star with a recording of a popular song.

If your own radio doesn't have an FM receiver, you'll find radios in Bemis, Montgomery, and Tieknor commons with FM facilities. There is also one in Lennox.

Of special interest to football fans is the broadcast direct from Washburn field this Saturday night, October 4, at 8 of the Colorado College-Idaho State football game.

"THE POOR NUT" COMING PRODUCTION BY CC PLAYERS

If you are interested in a comedy based on college life, you'll want to see the Colorado College players' production of "The Poor Nut", which will be presented October 22, 23, 24, and 25 at Perkins Hall auditorium. The unmarked tickets in the back of your activity books are your admission.

Although the play cast will be selected this week, people are still needed to work as stage hands, to manage the lights, and business end of the production. Those interested in one of these positions should contact Mr. Tyree, director of the play, at South Hall.

The student director and assistant to Mr. Tyree is Ruth Mitchell; Hiram Liggett is business manager. (17)

Annual CC Red Feather Drive Will Start Soon

CC is again joining in the annual Red Feather Community Chest drive supporting sixteen local service organizations, with Bob Maunton, Acting Director of Publicity, appointed "key man" by President Gill.

This request for contributions includes only faculty and employees and is not to be confused with the all-student campus chest drive which is climaxed by the Variety Show of November 19, 20, and 21.

Last year, college faculty and employees contributed 100% to make the drive a complete success with the per capita gift well over the "all divisions" average.

This year's campaign will be equally successful if you will return your yellow pledge cards, with your contribution, as soon as possible to Box 20 or the publicity office, Third Floor, Cutler.

COUNSELING CENTER

All students of Colorado College are offered the benefits of the Counseling Center located in Tieknor Hall. Under the direction of Miss Grant, the Center is open regularly afternoon from 1:30 to 4:30, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday by appointment. There is no charge.

The primary function of the Center is to offer vocational guidance regarding choice of occupation upon graduation. Such counseling is supplemented by means of vocational tests.

Saturday Afternoon Deadline For Pledging Fraternities

At a late meeting held Monday night, the Inter-Fraternity Council made some last minute changes in the procedure to be followed in submitting preferences for the various fraternities, by the Rushees.

The old rule stated that, "Each Rushee was to come to the Council room, pick up a slip of paper bearing his name and the names of the various fraternities which were extending him a bid. Upon receipt of this bid, the rushee would consider it and return by noon, Sunday with his choice underlined, to the Council rooms. Under no circumstances were any bids to be extended at any of the various rush parties under pain of severe penalty to the offending organization."

This rule has been amended to read, "Each rushee will come to the Inter-Fraternity Council rooms between 1:00 AND 3:00 P. M. SATURDAY, at which time the rushee will be given a slip of paper bearing his name and the names of the organizations which are giving him bids. THE RUSHEE WILL IMMEDIATELY, WITHOUT LEAVING THE ROOM, UNDERLINE OR CIRCLE THE FRATERNITY OF HIS CHOICE." The balance of the rules concerning the extending of bids were not changed. This change in the rules is of great importance to the rushee and he should pay especial attention to the time allotted for the submitting of his preference. If he does not meet these requirements, he will have to wait a period of two weeks to pledge.

FOR THE GOOD OF AMERICA VOTE THE DEMOCRATIC TICKET IN NOV.

For the good of America vote the Democratic ticket in November! To those of you who know who I am, please do not assume that the issue of civil rights forms my opinion for that statement. Rather I would base my reasons thusly:

Unquestionably General Eisenhower is a man of world renown as a military character and were it not for America's present role in world leadership this would be inconsequential. But although I have little doubt as to Mr. Eisenhower's stand in world peace, it is more urgent that we convince our allies of his sincerity despite a constant deluge of Communist propaganda. Were Eisenhower elected this is the type of propaganda I anticipate.

"The Americans have taken a man out of a battlefield in one part of the world to direct their campaign for imperialism over all parts of the globe. They are advocating a stronger United Nations in order to induce their allies to fight their imperialistic wars."

As a result many of our allies would forsake our cause and leave us isolated, vulnerable and subjected to continuous war and a return to the Dark Ages.

Secondly the Republicans advocate an increase in military strength and a sharp cut in taxes. That sounds most pleasing, but what would be the effect of such action? Obviously the young men of America would still engage in military duties with very little compensation for their services. Any soldier will tell you that a man in military service has enough pressure on his mind without financial worries. Result? A decreased military morale.

The Republicans advocate dangerous reduction in the aid given our war stricken allies. At this point I believe the Republicans are greatly underestimating religious feeling of Americans. There isn't a single American citizen who would live contently in a land of plenty and watch babies die of starvation and unnecessary exposure in the rest of the world. God

POLITICALLY SPEAKING

By LARRY WADDINGTON

Last week we promised to print articles from students concerning the forthcoming elections, and although we concede that the response did not create a veritable landslide we were heartened by a few letters we did receive. Others, with whom I spoke, professed an interest but hesitated to write for lack of extensive knowledge of the subject. But let us turn to the letter printed elsewhere on this page.

Mr. Butler points out that Eisenhower is a military man, that his views on world peace are quite acceptable, (to Mr. Butler), and that his election would result in unfavorable reaction in the international field. From this premise we must conclude that our allies are the dominant factor in selecting our President and formulating our foreign policy. If so, evidently Mr. Butler fails to note that Mr. Eisenhower was the overwhelming choice of our European allies for President and that Mr. Stevenson a relative unknown. In addition, Eisenhower played the key coordinating role in NATO, by far the greatest single undertaking toward European cooperation ever conceived. To say that this would return us to continuous war and the Dark Ages in the face of Eisenhower's popularity and success in Europe seems implausible.

But it is Mr. Butler's last two arguments that I would like to coordinate and discuss. Both of his premises, first on domestic spending, the second on international expense, give rise to some interesting concepts in regard to our international influence. To say that Republicans wish to cut taxes in complete disregard of our military is ridiculous. Many economists contend that our prosperity is based on the quicksands of war, preparation for war, subsidies, hand-outs, and pork-barrel projects. This is what the G.O.P. contends should be eliminated, as their effects are felt in exorbitant tax rates and crushing national debt.

There is widespread contention that our budget could be slashed without imperiling our national debt, but Democratic give away programs have established special interests whose influence impedes the benefit of the nation.

In respect to international hand-outs as the Marshal Plan and M.S.A., there is certainly little doubt as to their success as an economic prop for European stability. But graft and waste, as well as ungrateful allies have caused a sharp reversal in our trend of thinking. When American solvency is threatened, as it is, then there must be a re-evaluation of our international fiscal policies. The American taxpayer has been generous, overly so, but they have wearied of donating hand earned cash to a venture which seems to result in an endless burden. How long must we hold up the rest of the world with both hands full of money? No, the philanthropic attitude has disappeared and the cold hard fact of reality, not fallacies of optimism, are burning before the public's eyes.

doesn't intend that America be so selfish. If it hadn't been for this unprecedented aid given the war torn countries we would have had no allies save possibly Canada and Mexico.

I have based my argument on three reasons why the proposed Republican administration would result in the disintegration of our international influence. Therefore I urge all Americans, please do not let fallacious optimism lead you away from the real issues of the day.

—Patrick Butler

GENERAL KEYSER, CARSON COMMANDER VISITS CAMPUS AND ROTC UNIT

The Colorado College ROTC was honored with a visit by Brigadier General George V. Keyser, Commanding General of Camp Carson, on Thursday, 25 September 1952. General Keyser, accompanied by his aid, 1st Lt. Duggins, was met by Lt. Col. Heyer, PMST, and escorted through the various ROTC departments, where he met military personnel of the detachment and observed classroom activities. He later met with President Gill and discussed CC's ROTC program. The general also attended the second ROTC drill period at Stewart Field, where cadets were receiving instruction in basic military drill. General Keyser expressed much interest in the ROTC unit at Colorado College and generously offered use of Camp Carson facilities.

It is noted, with interest, that 13 ROTC cadets are presently on the Tiger football squad. This is in keeping with the traditional association of athletics and military training.

Temporary appointments were made this past week to cadet leaders, however, authorization to wear appropriate insignia of rank is being withheld until such time as permanent appointments are

Hysteria, Indigestion, Reign at Melon Feast

Amid hoots, hollers and general hysteria, the annual Sigma Chi Watermelon Bust furnished campus gluttons with over 4,000 pounds of watermelons to gorge themselves into a slight case of indigestion. Despite the fact that all good little Republican campussters were present at the Nixon rally; the majority of the students present at the campus festivities managed to do away with the ton and half of melons furnished for the feast. Andy Gambucci won the watermelon eating contest and along with it the title, "Biggest Glutton on Campus".

Carol Salzman, Kappa Alpha Theta, was elected, amid the ruckus, to reign as the annual queen of the Melon Mess. Serving as her princesses were: Inky Bower, Gamma Phi Beta; Elaine Meitus, Independent Women; Barbara McAllister, Kappa Kappa Gamma; Mitzi Knutman, Delta Gamma. All the candidates were representatives of the new pledge classes of the various social clubs at CC.

To the Gamma Phi's went the trophy for acquiring the most money with their charity booth. Their booth, with its water pistols and lighted candles, was entitled "Douse the Red Lantern". This booth especially appealed to the freshmen and their winning contribution was $7.00. All of the money won by the sororities was contributed to the Cerebral Palsy fund. The total amount was $21.00.

Television: Radio with eyestrain. "Miss Jones," asked the science professor, "would you care to tell the class what happens when a body is immersed in water?" "Sure, said Miss Jones, "The telephone rings."

TIGERS BLAST NEW MEXICO HIGHLANDS 54-9

Mollin, Gambucci, Zier, Slocum Mainstays of Tiger Offense in Rout

Saturday night, in their first home game of the season, the Tigers pulled the welcome mat from under the feet of the visiting New Mexico Highlands football team. Led by a fleet of shifty backs combined with steady passing a bigger and more experienced CC squad rolled over an inept New Mexico team 54 to 9.

Chuck Mollin, Andy Gambucci, Ron Zier and Lowell Slocum were mainstays of the Tiger offense that rolled up 309 yards on the ground. A trio of quarter-backs John Sarlo, Jerry Engleson and Lou Elder directed the team. Their sharp passing connected for 150 yards. The aggressive CC forward wall sparked by Craig Richardson and Harry Javernick, held the Cowboys to 83 yards.

Dominating play from the opening gun the Tigers scored the second time they had their hands on the ball. Slocum took a Cowboy punt on his own 46 yard line and returned it to the visitors 30. Briefly set back by a 15 yard penalty, Gambucci raced around the end to the four yard line. Two plays later he smashed over right tackle for the score. After an exchange of punts the Tigers again took over. Sarlo passed two to Rocky Anderson and one to Jack Knight. Gambucci scampered off left tackle making the score read CC 13, NM 0.

An intercepted pass by Dick Holobeck led to the third CC touchdown when Anderson scored on a 23 yard pass from Sarlo. Bouncing back the fighting Cowboys took the kickoff and marched 90 yards for their lone touchdown. Dick Aragon took a lateral from Wayne Noell to cover the last six yards. The Tigers took the following kickoff and covered 80 yards for their fourth score. Sparking this drive was a 55 yard run by Chuck Mollin. Ron Zier carried the last five yards. The conversion by Knight ended the scoring for the first half.

To start things rolling in the second half Gambucci took the opening kickoff 33 yards and returned to the Tiger 37. Ten plays later Mollin, taking a hand-off, scored from the one yard line. The Tigers then made the extra point and promptly scored again. The pay off was a 43 yard pass play from Engleson to Lowell Slocum. CC was unable to score the only other time they had possession of the ball in that quarter.

The first quarter started with New Mexico driving deep into Tiger territory. The drive was stopped when CC recovered a fumble. Two 15 yard penalties forced the Tigers to punt. But Joe Ulliberti broke through the Tiger line, to block the punt. Slocum fell on the ball in end zone giving New Mexico two points. Midway in the quarter Richardson blocked a New Mexico punt, picked up the ball and raced 48 yards for a Tiger score. Jack Knight's kick was wide. With seconds remaining Jerry Engleson flipped a 20 yard pass to Walt Bennett in the end zone for the final Tiger score. Knight's kick was good leaving the Tigers with a 54 to 9 victory.

In the game Chuck Mollin lugged the ball nine times for 117 yards. Andy Gambucci carried five times for a 14.2 average. Ron Zier smashed 64 yards in 12 carries. Wes Boucher, II-conference back, saw very limited action due to a shoulder injury. The Cowboys were paced by Dick Aragon with seven carries for 35 yards.

Tigers to Be Tested By Bengals in RMC Game of the Week

After a smashing victory over an overrated New Mexico Highlands team, Colorado College's football Tigers are being groomed by Coach Bill Heiss in preparation for this coming week's battle with Colorado State. The Bengals from Pocatella last week defeated Colorado Mines 20 to 6 at Greeley Mines, on pre-season dope sheets, was picked as the conference winner with CC and Idaho State to follow along. After this coming Saturday night's game, we may know pretty well who the big power is. Don't count the Miners out yet, even though they did lose last week. Often a team which takes an early loss can come back strong at the finish and still wind up on top. The Tigers last year, for instance, lost an early one to Idaho State, but came back fast as a result of an upset of Idaho by Western State. CC could have won the conference title by beating Mines. When the final gun goes off Saturday night, we may see the conference champs leave the field.

Last Saturday's game with its high score, allowed Heiss to see what he had in reserve strength for the coming campaigns. And the reserves showed him plenty of strength. Take for example the play of Ronner Zier, a sophomore out of East Denver High School, netted a great deal of yardage for the Orange and Black in a dozen or so tries. In addition to Zier, there is Lowell Slocum, a boy who has played only defensively as a back for the Tigers, but who, when given the opportunity, has showed the fans, at least, that his running ability could be mighty helpful on the offense.

In the way of predictions last week, I ran into a little bad luck. Here's the way I came out. I picked 15 games for a starter, and out of those 15 only nine were correct, five were incorrect and there was one tie—Oklahoma and CU. I thought I'd picked the easy ones for a starter and to boost a good average to start with, but look what happened. Colgate upset Cornell, Pittsburgh beat Iowa as I thought they wouldn't, and CU up and tied Oklahoma, which most of us were glad to see incidentally. Washington State should have beaten Stanford, but they lost by one point. (Some of you thought I was crazy when I picked that one, I'll bet.) But that's the way of football.

As for this weekend, let's take a look.

Colorado College will lose a toughly to IDAHO STATE here Sat.

USC will beat Army.

WASHINGTON STATE over Baylor.

BRIGHAM YOUNG will win from Montana.

BROWN over Yale.

CALIFORNIA will blast Minnesota.

TULSA should beat Cincinnati.

MARYLAND will win from Clemson.

COLGATE, after last week's upset victory, should glide by Buffalo.

THE BUFFS over Kansas University.

COLORADO A&M should beat Denver, but it will be close.

COLUMBIA will upset Harvard in my book.

Cornell will bow to NAVY.

C. C. HOST TO IDAHO STATE IN R. M. C. TILT

Games Slated as All-Important In Race for Conference Crown

The Colorado College Tigers go against the highly touted Idaho State Bengals from Pocatello, Idaho this Saturday night at 8:00 p.m. The game is expected to be a decisive one in the race for the R.M.C. crown.

The Bengals boast a very strong backfield but have weaknesses in the line. Experience is lacking with only five seniors on the squad, but junior college transfers make up the deficit somewhat. In the Bengal backfield we find speed and power. Halfback Buzz Connor and Fullback Chester Lee will provide the hard-hitting attack. Halfback Carl Williams will bring speed into the Idaho backfield. Williams did not play in the Idaho State-Western State game because of an injury but is rated as the Bengals top back. The weakness in the line is credited almost entirely to inexperience, but Coach "Babe" Caccia is a highly reputable line coach.

However, CC, with two games under their helmets and only two injured players sidelined, will go into the game with the strongest team assembled this year. The strong defensive unit, which will be our hardest punch, will have their jobs cut out for them stopping the highly rated Bengal backfield. The offensive team still somewhat ragged on play execution last Saturday will be out to roll through the Bengal line to gain for the Tigers a winning score.

Coach Heiss refused to make a statement on this week's game, and Assistant Coach Eastlach, who spotted the Western State-Idaho State game last Saturday, only said, "They are darn good and it's going to be a rough game."

two 20 minute halves with a ten minute rest period between periods.

The local draft board in Colorado Springs is 127 1/2 E. Bijou. The following are instructions on how to file applications to your local draft board:

Applications for the Dec. 4, 1952 and the April 23, 1953 administrations of the College Qualification Tests are now available at the Selective Service System local boards throughout the country.

Eligible students who intend to offer this test on either date should apply at once to the nearest Selective Service local board for an application and a bulletin of information.

Following instruction s in the bulletin, the student should fill out his application and mail it immediately in the envelope provided. Applications for the Dec. 4 test must be postmarked no later than midnight, Nov. 1, 1952.

According to Educational Testing Service, which prepares and administers the College Qualification Test for the Selective Service System, it will be greatly to the student's advantage to file his application at once, regardless of the testing date he selects. The results will be reported to the student's Selective Service local board of jurisdiction for use in considering his deferment as a student.

POLITICALLY SPEAKING

By LARRY WADDINGTON

With the air permeated by political charges and counter-charges, it is frequently difficult to discern the true meaning of many terms. Ambiguity is usually a stock-in-trade item for the campaigning candidate. It is imperative that a thoughtful voter analyze critically the platitudes that are flung about with reckless abandon. Personal experience and emotion are factors that may cloud our minds to the true meaning of a word or term. But let us take a word that is frequently used as a charge to stir up antagonism and resentment. That word is socialism.

Defining socialism is not impossible if you refer to a reputable dictionary. But the word socialism has been so colored that it now has no clearly unequivocal meaning. Let us state that socialism implies ownership of non-agricultural industries vested in the government. Everyone certainly agrees that there are numerous examples not included in that definition which are labeled as socialistic. Social Security, subsidies, public housing, public education and other government financial projects have often been labeled as socialism. But if we adhere to our previous definition, we see that these institutions are clearly incompatible with it.

In addition, there arises the question of whether ownership and control are synonymous. We have governmental controls on wages, prices, and rents, but no absolute ownership. Is this Socialism? Clearly not, if we accept our definition.

What non-agricultural industry, then, is actually operated, financed and controlled by the government? There is none. Indeed, if you examine the idea you will find that socialism is like a speech; excerpts from the context may give us an entirely different concept or a disproportionate picture. And the next time you hear the phrase, "creeping Socialism", be critical; demand that the speaker or writer define intelligibly his use of the phrase.

YOU ARE NEVER DISAPPOINTED IN

ON ADLAI

On last July 21, the Democratic National Convention was called to order in Chicago. Going into the convention were five major contenders for the nomination. During the entire week, there was a certain tenseness and determination. They had come to nominate the man who would be the next president of the United States.

Just a week and a half previous to this time, the Republicans had nominated Dwight Eisenhower. The general was obviously not the man whom the party favored. In fact, he was virtually unknown in Republican circles. Eisenhower was the only man to whom the convention could turn if they were to win the election. Thus he was nominated on the first ballot.

Of the Democratic candidates there was a man to whom the leaders of the party had been looking for a long time. This man, for a number of very justifiable reasons, did not choose to be nominated. However, he promised that he would respond should the convention call him. When the balloting started he had gained the support of practically all the party whips. On the third ballot, Adlai E. Stevenson received the nomination.

Adlai Stevenson has always had an undeniably magnificent record in every endeavor throughout his life. He was born in California, but at the age of two his father went into business in Bloomington, Illinois, where he was raised. Stevenson was born into a wealthy and socially prominent family. He attended Princeton University and Harvard Law School. Immediately thereafter he entered the practice of law in Chicago.

During the following years, he served as advisor to many state commissions and was a leader in the revision of the antiquated Illinois State Constitution. During the Second World War, Stevenson served as Assistant Secretary of the Navy to Frank Knox; he did a commendable job. On the basis of this superb job he was asked to serve on the United States commission to the United Nations. His unquestionable integrity, vigor and vision while serving in this capacity received widespread recognition. In 1948 the Democratic Central Committee of Illinois summoned Adlai Stevenson to run as a candidate for governor of Illinois. He accepted their offer and won by the biggest majority Illinois has ever seen. As governor of Illinois, Stevenson has brought back honesty, integrity and competent administration to the state government. Before Stevenson took office, Illinois saw the worst display of corruption in its history under Republican Dwight Green.

For these reasons and for numerous others, the Democratic party chose this man to be the next president of the United States.

—Dick Hayes

German Club Picnic Was Huge Success

Last Sunday, the German club organized a very successful picnic at Austin Bluffs. Over 50 men, women, and children as well as two puppies had fun playing volleyball, baseball, roasting wieners, and marshmallows and singing songs. After five strenuous hours of play and food, the group was invited to Dr. Brandt's new home near Austin Bluffs where everyone was fed more and relaxed around the fireplace singing nostalgic songs; the idea thus came up for the German Club Workshop Singers.

All those who have paid up their dues as well as members-to-be are asked to attend a short meeting in Hayes House Library after chapel on Tuesday, Oct. 14. The purpose of the meeting is to elect officers of the club for the coming year.

LT. GENERAL KEAN VISITS ROTC; CADETS ISSUED OFFICIAL UNIFORMS

Lt. General William B. Kean, Commanding General of the 5th Army, visited the Colorado College ROTC unit on Monday afternoon, October 6. The general was accompanied by Brigadier General George V. Keyser, commanding general of Camp Carson, Colonel Edward L. Strobel, former Camp Carson artillery commander, now at 5th Army Headquarters, Major Jack F. Riggins, General Kean's aide, and Major Curfman of the Camp Carson G-3 Section.

The general and his party was met by Lt. Col. Heyer, PMST, and escorted through the various ROTC departments. The general then met with President Gill. General Kean left Colorado College for Camp Carson where he continued his visit of 5th Army military installations.

The campus took on a military edge early last Thursday morning when approximately 175 ROTC cadets appeared at classes attired in uniforms for the first time of the 1952-53 school year. The forest green officer-type uniforms worn by the cadets consist of a full belted, single breasted coat-type house with matching trousers and cap, light tan shirts and ties with brown low-cut military type oxfords.

Insignia worn on the uniform includes a shoulder disk of 3 horizontal stripes blue, white and red with a torch and the words, "Army ROTC", superimposed in yellow. CC's ROTC being a Branch General unit, the collar insignia disks worn on both sides of the collar are the Torch of Knowledge, from the Statue of Liberty, radiant within a raised rim on a disk one inch in diameter. The cap ornamentation is a wreath 1 3/16 inches in height containing the letters "ROTC" on a panel, all in gold. Other distinctive uniform insignia will be added to the uniform at later dates especially to those who receive appointments as cadet leaders.

All ROTC cadets are required to wear the uniform at Thursday drill periods and such other times as the PMST may direct.

A uniformed color guard of the Colorado College ROTC unit presented the national flag at Washburn Field Saturday night just prior to the opening kickoff of the Colorado College-Idaho game. Members of the color guard were Cadets George Krause, Kenneth Fales and William Zickgraft, all second year Military Science students.

A sign at the entrance of the women's clothing section of a Detroit department store read: "Ladies Ready to Wear Clothes." Underneath in bold masculine handwriting, someone had added: "It's about time!"

Carson War Dogs Will Highlight Halftime Show

Camp Carson's Dog Training Center will put on an exciting show between the halves of the Colorado College-Camp Carson football game Saturday night.

The Carson Dog Training Center, the only one in the United States, is commanded by Capt. Riddick, assisted by Lts. Douglas and Hochreich. The program will feature a drill platoon of 20 men and 20 dogs, plus an obedience team and messenger and scout dogs.

The thrilling climax will be an attack by savage sentry dogs on cessful in encouraging friendship between students and church families.

Last spring letters were sent to the churches in Colorado Springs who have had the largest number of student members. It is the intention that these churches form the nucleus for the first year of the plan and in succeeding years all of the churches may be able to participate. The ministers of these churches all sent favorable replies to their letters and further work was done by the committee during the summer.

Miss Sallie Payne Morgan worked with Deborah Brewster and Elizabeth Parker who were the co-chairmen of the Church-Parent program. Letters of explanation were received by all freshmen and transfer students and many sent letters of appreciation for the new project.

This program is carried on by the individual churches whose representatives met Sept. 12 with Miss Morgan, Dean Howard Burkle and the student committee, to draw up final plans.

Within the church, families have volunteered to act as church parents. The students at registration indicated their desire to participate in the program. These two groups of people met each other heavily padded aggressors.

The animals are magnificent German Shepherds in top condition, trained to perfection by expert handlers. The Carson center has furnished over 20 teams of dogs and men to the fighting front in Korea since last August.

Lt. Hoehreich will explain the demonstration as it progresses, over the PA system. It is requested that fans keep reasonably quiet so that the dogs can hear the commands.

Warning! Absolutely no flash bulbs are to be fired while the sentry dog is working! Though the animals are under control of their handlers, they have been trained to attack savagely any one appearing with firearms, exploding flash-bulbs are too similar for safety. After the demonstration, pictures may be taken.

in the churches through pot-luck suppers, coffee hours, or individual contacts.

The program will continue throughout the year with the church family serving as a home outside of school to which the student can go for occasional meals or for a friendly evening away from the dormitory.

It is hoped that this program will help to make the students of Colorado College a more definite part of the Colorado Springs community.

The churches participating in the program this year are: First Presbyterian, First Congregational, Grace Episcopal, First Church of Scientist, First Methodist, Bethany Baptist, First Baptist, First Evangelical, Lutheran, All Souls Unitarian, First Christian and St. Mary's Catholic.

Vern Byers and His Orchestra To Play at Homecoming Oct. 27

The recent nation-wide increase in the dancing and entertainment industry can be attributed to such outstanding musical organizations as the Verne Byers orchestra which will appear at CC's Homecoming Dance, October 27th.

Verne has a well-schooled group of University and Conservatory graduates that produce a fine sound both in sections and in concert. Out of its well-balanced library, the boys turn out music that's eminently danceable and more than listenable.

Arrangements make full use of Verne's talents, and the band can project mellow mood music or bright, brassy tones with equal fineness. Upon the beautiful brass saxophone melodies, Verne piles a sparkling rhythmic beat which is heavily supported by his own string bass.

Terry Clark is vocalist with the band, and she's an attractive addition to the ranks. She impresses immensely with her renditions of "I've Got You Under My Skin", "Flamingo", and "That Old Black Magic".

Another featured member of the Verne Byers troupe is songster and novelist Jack Wheaton who does his comedy versions of "The Hawaiian War Chant", "This Can't Be Legal" and others.

Another member of the Byers gallery of stars is Warren Shibe, pianist extraordinary, who tickles the ivories on such numbers as "Cumana" and "Twelfth Street Rag".

Perhaps the most notable factor in the Verne Byers library is its widely diversified offerings. Playing pops, standards, and a healthy grouping of oldies during the dance sets.

Besides the numerous individual vocalists and entertainers, much of the coloring comes from the vocal-ensemble singing by the entire organization.

The entire dancing public can always depend upon the Verne Byers orchestra for a complete evening of enjoyable music and entertainment.

SIDELINES

By Bay
Scherer

Idaho State will win the Rocky Mountain Conference if they can continue through the rest of the season at the pace they have set for themselves in their first two conference games. Their play both on the offense and on the defense showed plenty of polish and, if you'll pardon the expression, class. I was impressed with their attitude. They never let up; they knew they had a job to do, and they wanted to do it right.

Coach "Babe" Caccia had them well trained for their job, and he had a lot to work with in Reid Gunnell, a magician at quarterback, Carl Williams, a half punt with speed to burn, and the two offensive ends, Nolan Ford and Lamont Jones, to say nothing of a bunch of defensive backs who could really defend against a passing attack. The Bengal forward wall actually won the ball game. Play after play they got the jump on our line as they smashed across the line of scrimmage. Line play like that can mean a lot to a back, especially when the forwards can keep holes open for delayed hand-offs.

I don't think the Tigers played up to their ability for the most part. Harry Javernick played his usual good defensive game as did Will Sandoval and Craig Richardson. Ronny Zier, in my mind, was the most effective back in the CC lineup. From a point midway in the fourth quarter, or thereabouts, our whole units seemed "done in".

Spirit and the desire to win can carry a ball club a long way, and can often make up for a weakness here and there. Take for example the just-concluded World Series in baseball. Man for man the Dodgers no doubt held an edge in ability. Yet, that "never say die" spirit that goes with a Yankee uniform has pulled that club up on many occasions—this series a recent example. I feel that a lack of such spirit has hit the Tigers this year. The answer: I wish I knew. Possibly, the club has lost confidence in the idea that a good week of practice carries over into Saturday's ball game. If taken in the right manner, last week's loss may be an inspiration to the team, which possesses more ability than they probably realize.

Well, let's take a look at football around the nation. Last week Gus the guesser was fortunate in his predictions. He stabbed at 27 games, and came up with 22; four were wrong, and there was one tie, which actually goes in the "wrong column". That gave him a percentage of .815 for the week. Coupled with last week's efforts he has an average of .729.

This week his views are these: COLORADO UNIVERSITY will bounce back this Saturday in Tucson and bump the U. of A.

DARTMOUTH may beat Army. Colorado A&M will try hard but fall before WYOMING.

Georgia will find themselves in a real ball game when they meet MARYLAND.

GEORGIA TECH should mangle Tulane.

Tulsa has met it's match this weekend against HOUSTON.

ILLINOIS will get past Washington in one of the best games of the week.

INDIANA over Michigan in another thriller.

MICHIGAN STATE will get by Texas A&M, but watch for something like last week's Michigan State game.

The GOPHERS will beat the Cats in Minneapolis.

DENVER should bounce for a win over Montana.

Penalties, Fumbles Thwart Tigers In Conference Opener

Idaho State wanted to win. That was the difference between two evenly matched teams on Washburn Field in CC's first Rocky Mountain Conference game. The Bengal line outplayed our Tiger forward wall during the whole game. Result: Idaho State won, 17-6.

Sloppy play, including several fumbles and many unnecessary penalties, hampered Colorado College. The running of Wes Boucher and Andy Gambucci overshadowed the fine play of Idaho State's backfield, but the Tigers didn't have enough punch to score on their many opportunities at the Bengal goal.

Wes traversed 75 yards in 12 plays, dragging several Bengal linemen along with him on many of his line smashes. Andy's running for 71 yards in 17 carries in the game paved the way for Boucher to score the Tigers' lone T.D. Dean Thomas, right halfback for Idaho, was the running standout for Idaho State with 18 carries for 74 yards. Other long gainers for Idaho were Bus Connor with 16 carries for 64 yards, and Carl Williams with 8 carries for 38 yards.

A strong north wind prevented accurate passing and only 4 of 13 passes were completed during the game. It definitely was a game of rugged line play and hard charging backs.

Late in the first period, Idaho State recovered Wes Boucher's fumble on the CC five yard line. Dean Thomas ran off left tackle for the first score of the game. Diminutive Carl Williams kicked the extra point, putting Idaho into a 7-0 lead.

The Tigers were unable to get into Bengal territory until the second period when they twice drove deep into the Bengal's lair. A 15 yard penalty for roughing the kicker aided the Tigers on their first drive which petered out on Idaho's 22 yard line when Spike Sarlo failed to connect on two passes.

A 24 yard run by Wes Boucher sparked CC's second drive which was stopped by Sarlo's fumble on Idaho's 16 yard line. Both Wes and Ron Zier did some fine carrying on this surge.

Again in the third quarter the Tigers could not penetrate into Bengal land. Idaho State kicked a field goal in the closing minutes of the quarter. The Bengals recovered Dick Holoubek's fumble on CC's 30 yard line. When the drive was halted on the 9 yard line, Dick Williams stepped back and calmly split the uprigths to increase the Idaho State lead to 10-0.

Taking the kickoff, the Tigers put on their only real drive of the game. Wes Boucher and Andy Gambucci alternated running the Bengal ends, to put the ball on Idaho State's 16 yard line. A 15 yard unnecessary roughness penalty put the ball on the one yard line, and Wes Boucher smashed over center to score. A bad pass from center made it impossible for Jack Knight to convert, but the Tigers were now behind only four points, 10-6.

Idaho State came right back, taking the kickoff and marching 78 yards in 9 plays to put the game on ice, 17-6. Carl Williams, 143-pound Bengal halfback, and Bus Connor slithered and dived through the CC line for many important gains. Connor ran around right end from the eight without a Tiger hand being laid on him to tally the final score.

After the kickoff, Ned Pfeiffer fumbled on CC's 31 yard line and Idaho State recovered. Luckily for CC, time ran out with the Bengals on our 9 yard line.

CAMP CARSON FOE FOR TIGERS SATURDAY

Army Boys Out To Take C. C. For Successful Season

Colorado College will rest from conference play when they meet Camp Carson at Washburn Field this Saturday night at 8:00 p.m.

Although the Carsonites have lost their first two games, a victory over the Tigers would make their season a good one as far as they are concerned. The Carson boys will place most of their hopes on their size and experience. Several men in the lineup have had previous college experience and the team weight average will be close to 200 pounds.

CC will be at full strength for the game with Ned Pfeiffer and Kenny Baird returning to the lineup after layoffs because of injuries. Coach Hiess is stressing offensive lineup. In the game against Idaho State last Saturday the Tiger offense showed power only once which led to CC's lone score.

The lineups as of now will be: Carson offensive:

Carson defensive:

CC offensive:

Rocky Anderson is thwarted by an Idaho State defender in this bit of action last Saturday night.

Soccer Team Opens League Play Sunday Against Denver

Colorado College opens its third season in the Colorado State Soccer Association this Sunday in Denver. Numerically, this is the strongest squad CC has presented with twenty candidates working out. Despite the loss of all-league players Saad Sahawaneh, Frank Kin-Maung and George Rushitsky, the Tigers will start Walt Stone in the goal, with Mid Gammell and Milt Nichols on the forward line. Foreign students Bjorn Ackermann and Gunther Rinsehe will bolster the CC attack, with freshman Jack Sibilia, George Krause, Bob Vandevlede, Dave Rodriguez, Dan Mulford, Martin Hanrahan, Ben Haggin, and Don Smith expected to see plenty of action.

Craig Richardson Begins Fourth Year of Football

By TOM SEELEY

Beginning his fourth year of football for Colorado College is Craig Richardson, who holds down left end on the defensive team. During the D. U. game he was team captain; and as you all know, it was Craig who intercepted a pass, scored a touchdown and blocked a punt for the Tigers in the New Mexico Highland's game.

Craig comes from Wilmette, Ill., where he played end for four years on the New Trier High school football team. He was also prominent in track.

Here at Colorado College, Craig is a very active man on the campus. He is a member of the Crowlers, "C" club, Phi Gamma Delta fraternity, and the Outer Circle, an organization devoted to the task of making life difficult for trainer Roosevelt Collins.

Craig Richardson is majoring in business administration. He is also known as a "weekend warrior," since twice a month he travels to Buckley Naval Air Station in Denver to train with the Naval Reserve. His favorite hobby is skiing at all of Colorado's excellent ski runs. During the summer Craig was an "oil man." He informs us that he is not the millionaire type, but the working type—a derrick man in an oil field in Wyoming.

Last spring Richardson won the Beaver trophy in track. He was also a member of the relay team which broke a conference record. As this year progresses we will hear more and more of Craig Richardson, in athletics and many other activities. As a standout football player he will be hard to beat.

AROUND THE CONFERENCE

By DON STONE

In this week's conference story Montana State beat Eastern Washington 16 to 6 last Saturday to gain their first victory since the 1950 season.

Colorado State trounced Lowery Air Base 33 to 7 on the same day, Colorado State is now ranked as a co-favorite with Idaho State in the race for the conference crown.

Colorado Mines collected its first win in three starts this season by defeating New Mexico Military Institute 20 to 7 at Roswell, New Mexico.

Only two conference games are scheduled for this Saturday. Colorado Mines will go against Western State at Gunnison and are expected to take a close decision over them. The touted Colorado State team will be host to the Montana State Bengals who may possibly be the darkhorse in the RMC crown battle.

Idaho State will be idle this week.

Crowning of Queen Will Highlight Pep Rally Friday at Cossitt Bowl

Homecoming weekend starts tonight and with its beginning the big question, "Who will be our Homecoming Queen?", is intensified. No one knows yet who the queen will be. The major question will be answered with the start of the Homecoming activities in Cossitt Bowl when the queen will be crowned at the Pep Rally beginning at 7:30 p.m.

From then on, our new queen will reign over all the Homecoming festivities. She will ride in the parade on Saturday morning attended by all of the queen candidates. During the half time of the game the queen will ride in a short parade of the winning floats and will be seen again at the dance Saturday night.

All five of the queen candidates are really "queens" and CC can be proud of any one they crown. Judy Baker is the candidate of the Kappa Kappa Gammas. She is a sophomore and hails from Newport Beach, California. Judy is very busy around the campus and has many interests. The Independent Women have nominated Jane Carroll, a freshman from Denver. She is a very good tennis player and is interested in creative writing.

Judy Johnson is the candidate for the Kappa Alpha Thetas. A senior she came from Washington, D. C., and Durango. Judy is a cheerleader and one of the most enthusiastic members of the Tiger Club. Gamma Phi Beta candidate, Marilyn Marksheffel, is from Colorado Springs and is now a senior. She has done some modeling and loves skiing.

Pat Saam is the Delta Gamma candidate. She is a freshman from Libertyville, Illinois, who is interested in dramatics and sports.

Although we don't know which one will win, we can be sure that CC will have a cute, vivacious, and representative Homecoming Queen.

All organizations will have booths down in the gym, and will be represented by their presidents and other members. Students interested may join the club that night, or may make plans to attend a meeting or excursion before joining. ## Greatest Parade in CC History Slated for Saturday Morning

Colorado College's 1952 annual Homecoming parade promises to be the greatest ever to be held in Colorado Springs. For the first time in history, three thousand yellow and black handbills will be handed out to the spectators to introduce and explain each unit in the parade.

Twenty-eight units will comprise the parade, including the Greeley band, Fountain High School band, Colorado High School band and the CC band. A police escort will lead the parade followed by a unit from Camp Carson. The freshmen in their traditional outfits will march with the Tigers, Growlers and cheerleaders.

The first of the fraternity division will be the Kappa Sigs' "Toonerville Trolley", Sigma Chis' "Lone Ranger" will ride before "Snuffy Smith" of the Phi Deltas. Beta's "Smokey Stover" will follow the Phi Gam's "Phantoms".

Five outstanding comic strip characters, presented by the four sororities and the Independent Women, will make up the second division of the parade. Each queen candidate will ride before her organization's float.

Kappa Kappa Gamma's "Lil Abner", will lend this division. The "Little King" of Delta Gamma will be followed by the Independent's "Popeye". Kappa Alpha Theta's "Pinocchio" will precede "Uncle Remus" of the Gamma Phi Betas.

Riding Club members have been given a position in the parade away from band and floats so as not to excite the horses. CC's ROTC will display some of their equipment.

All floats should be in their positions by 8:30 a.m. and the bands by 9:30 a.m. The parade will begin at 10:00 a.m.

Basis for judging will be 30% on uniqueness and originality of idea and 70% on presentation, completeness of idea and craftsmanship. The winner and runner up in each division will be announced at the half time of the football game. Also announced at half time will be winner and runner-up of house decorations. Judging of the house decorations will take place at 7:00 p.m. Friday night and 10:45 a.m. Saturday morning. Basis of judging will be the same as for the parade.

Judges for the parade will be Mrs. Herbert B. Hoyer, Colonel Hoyer's wife; Mitchell Wilder, director of the Art Center; and Eugene Martin, agent for the Missouri Pacific Railroad.

Miss Louise Buckley, manager of the Red Cross; Mrs. Kenneth Curran, wife of Dr. Curran, head of the Economics Department; and Roy E. Davis of Davis Typewriter Company, are the judges of the house decorations.

Peggy Merle Smith Now Appearing In Broadway Hit

Colorado College graduate Peggy Merle Smith, '51, remembered locally for her tremendous portrayal of "Medea", is now appearing in Somerset Maugham's classic, "Sacred Flame", in New York City's President theatre.

Peggy Merle Smith was very active in Civic Players and CC Players productions here in Colorado Springs and wrote many excellent scripts and poems heard over the college radio station, KRCC(FM). She is assistant stage manager for "Sacred Flame" as well as understudy for Nancy Coleman who as "Nurse Wayland", plays the lead role.

Frosh to Battle Sophomores on Friday Morning

The traditional freshman-sophomore fight is scheduled for this Friday morning at 9 a. m. on Stewart Field, it was announced today by the Red Lantern.

This annual excuse for mayhem on the parts of the respective classes is always won by the freshmen and this year will no doubt see the frosh emerging as the winners as they outnumber the sophs by quite a margin. This should not give the freshmen the idea that it will be a cinch though, and they should come with both barrels loaded and ready for action, as the

UNITED NATIONS WEEK

Friday, October 24, 1952, marks the seventh birthday of the United Nations. Within this short span of years it has become a valuable, and a controversial part of the world scene. To be sure it has performed no major miracles. The Cold War between the United States and Soviet Russia has not come appreciably nearer to a settlement, as far as the world citizen can tell, because of the actions of the United Nations.

We must not, however, pass judgment upon the United Nations without looking at a few of its accomplishments. Fighting between Israel and the Arab nations over Palestine and between India and Pakistan over Kashmir has been stopped under United Nations supervision. The new nations of Indonesia, Israel and Lybia have come into existence with the aid of the United Nations. In Korea the armed forces of sixteen members of the United Nations are resisting armed aggression, certainly a change from the helpless attitude of the League of Nations before World War II. The list is capable of almost indefinite expansion.

In view of this record of valuable achievements, the increased tempo of attacks against the United Nations becomes less understandable and more alarming. Reference is not made to criticism made by foreign powers, but to accusations and actions here in the United States. Within recent months a member of Congress has made attacks upon the United Nations, the basis of his campaign for re-nomination, and UNESCO publications have been banned from the Los Angeles public schools. These are but two examples of demonstrations of anti-United Nations feelings in this country.

Free speech and the right of all to criticize must, of course, be respected in this instance as in all others. But emotional attacks upon the United Nations and attempts to label it and its friends as subversive or un-American are difficult to explain in any other way than as manifestations of the more undesirable forms of ultra-nationalists.

CHARLES HAWLEY,
President, Council on World Affairs

NOW IS THE TIME

Now is the time for straight thinking, careful studying and intelligent action. I am not trying to persuade you to vote any one certain way but instead to make you realize the importance of voting for a sincere and capable candidate. First of all you should know that I am no expert on political theories and secondly that I am a Democrat.

If the principles of the democratic party are wrong, as Governor Byrnes of South Carolina, Governor Shivers of Texas and Ambassador Douglass of Arizona say they are, they were just as wrong when these men were being advanced by the Democrats. They are the same principles that have shown to every American the greatest economic prosperity we have ever known.

TAKING SIDES

By LARRY WADDINGTON

Although the TIGER was of the opinion that the student body was predominantly Republican, we have received no letters which expressed Republican standards strongly. In addition, someone informed me that sentiment was being swung toward the Democratic candidate, Adlai Stevenson. Therefore let me drop my role of impartiality and for those who are unsure confine this article to that single topic which has been shown to be uppermost in the public's mind—Korea.

Let us begin at the beginning. After withdrawing our troops from Korea, (Korea was divided between the U. S. and Russia at Yalta) Secretary of State Acheson issued a statement to the effect that we would not defend Korea; moreover, would not even arm the Koreans for their own self defense. With this statement Acheson invited the North Koreans into South Korea; North Korea invaded soon after. Then Mr. Truman, the big noise from Missouri, decided that it would be an excellent idea to stimulate business and keep every one prosperous if he declared war in the name of the United Nations. Truman acted legally, for the United Nations Charter, despite our Constitution, gives the President the power to declare war.

Since then, 117,000 men have sacrificed themselves for the folly of one man. These men gave up their lives for a war in which no attempt has been made to win, and in which we alone seem to be vitally concerned. It is sufficient to say that 90% of all the troops in Korea are American.

But then we are not voting for Truman are we? We are voting for his alternate, the hand-picked choice of the Pendergast machine—Governor Stevenson. Mr. Stevenson is a man who has defended Truman's action in Korea and has, like Truman, proposed to do nothing about it. Not only in Korea, but in the whole world Stevenson is committed to the same policy of appeasement and blundering in dealing with Communists. There will be no changes in governmental positions if Stevenson is elected. The same men will still guide this country's future with as much colossal fumbling as they always have. They have succeeded in handing Russia half the world already and are a safe bet to give away more.

But perhaps we are unfair. After all, Stevenson played tennis and drank lemonade while occupying a puny governmental position in Washington during the war. Undoubtedly this job gave him vast experience in dealing with foreign nations.

I believe that this campaign is based on enormous stakes and that each political party should present to us clean, concise, and honest facts and judgements of the problems facing us. But no. Since the national convention the Republican party has constantly confused and baffled the real issues when presenting them to the American public.

The Republicans have seldom come out with specific or constant opinions, but instead have filled their speeches with generalities and pious platitudes, such as the Korean War. They imply that the only Republican candidates are righteous Americans and that all others are Communist sympathizers or corrupt treasoners. They seem to think only they can judge what's right and all others are money wasters and incompetent fame seekers.

A political party, whose last handling of our national affairs were the direct cause of our greatest depression and economic disaster, who judges the value of a dollar ahead of the national condition of the people, should not be given the opportunity to guide the United States for four years.

You have the power to vote into office a small group of men to whom we will turn over the power to guide the course and direction of our lives and the destiny of America.

I don't want our government given to a group of men who campaign on "catch words," and vagueness of actions and ideas. I don't want my son's and daughter's futures molded by men who act and think the way the Republican nominees do.

For these reasons I am for Governor Stevenson. He shows good sense, maturity, experience, and above all, a love of fairness to every one.

It is a great pleasure to welcome our alumni back to the campus and we hope that the events for this year's Homecoming will afford you an opportunity to see and enjoy old friends as well as making new ones.

Gigantic Program Planned for Pep Rally

Other Activities Include Luncheon At Cossitt, Coffee Hour and C-Men Dinner

Corty Bymaster, president of the Growers, and Toni Gadd, Tiger Club president, are lining up a wonderful, snappy, interesting program for the giant Pep Rally in Cossitt Bowl tomorrow night. Great secrecy surrounds the name of the queen and everyone is in a frenzy to discover who the lucky girl will be.

President Gill will be on hand to crown the queen and present flowers to the other queen candidates. Kay Kohler is master of ceremonies for the celebration which will include yells and singing to the accompaniment of the CC band. The festivities will be concluded with a gigantic snake dance by the student body.

COSSITT IS SITE OF LUNCHEON

The homecoming luncheon which is open to everybody who wants to attend, will be held in Cossitt Cafeteria from 11:30 a. m. to 1:30 p. m. Saturday. No formal program is planned but it is hoped that old friends, parents, and guests will take this opportunity to get acquainted or reacquainted.

There are no official class reunions scheduled for homecoming time this year. The '50 year class held its golden anniversary at commencement time and no formal reunion has been planned for the class of 1927. However, the alumni secretary's office has been receiving letters and wire from graduates indicating their intention to attend the activities of the week-end.

COFFEE HOUR AFTER GAME

Miss Sallie Payne Morgan, dean of women, has invited faculty, parents of students, alumni and friends to come to Bemis Hall for coffee following the Saturday afternoon game with the Greeley Bears. At this time they will be able to see the remodeling that has taken place in the dormitory during the summer.

In traditional style, all fraternities and sororities will hold open houses after the game. Alumni are cordially invited to attend these affairs.

"C" MEN HOLD DINNER

Field Phelps, '29, prominent business man of Colorado Springs, and a famous athlete of his day, is in charge of the "C" Men dinner as the El Paso Club. A record turn-out of "the boys" is expected to relieve their college days.

NOTE TO ALL BOBSTERS

So you can blow a horn—we know it, but not from any public demonstrations. A few blue notes squeezed through the cracks in Hag are our only clue. A temptation at that, but why not tell the world about it? Blow and beat 'till you collapse, but why not on the football field?

Sure we can drag the ROTC boys in by the scruff of the neck, and call on Carson or the High

DANCE CLIMAXES ACTIVITIES

Climaxing the entire weekend will be the all-college, all-alumni dance at the Broadmoor hotel, Saturday night at 9:00 p. m. Verne Byers and his orchestra have been contracted to play for the dance in the ballroom. Somebody buying a ticket with a number between 1 and 400 will be the winner of a special prize. Ray Scherer, publicity chairman for the dance, announced that a dinner for two at the Broadmoor will await the lucky winner. A $10.00 limit is the only stipulation for the prize winner. Chaperones for the gay, semi-formal, dance will be Dr. and Mrs. Fox, Miss Vicki Hann, and Dr. Leech.

Phi Delt Pledges

Phi Delta Theta is nappy to announce the pledging of Wally Harmon, Colorado Springs; Pat Bradford, Calif.; and Ed MacGuire, Conn.

School, but that's no band to yell and cheer behind.

Come on, let's get busy, join the band and get CC spirit back on its feet! We've got the lung power, but a tuba to get things started won't hurt. Let's no wait for the Saints to come marching in.—

Phi Delt Pledge Officers

ROTC Holds Open House for Members of Colorado Springs Military Affairs Committee

The Colorado College ROTC unit exactly one month old on Thursday, Oct. 16, held open house for the Colorado Springs Chamber of Commerce Military Affairs Committee. The committee members attending were Thayer Tutt, chairman; Russell Law, co-chairman; Howard Yates, secretary; Vern Hallenback, H. Chase Stone, and Joe Reich. President William H. Gill, also a member of the committee, was host at a coffee hour in Cossitt Hall at 9:30.

Lt. Col. Herbert Heyer, PMST (Professor of Military Science and Tactics), who heads the campus unit, then conducted the visitors through the ROTC facilities.

Inspected first was the arms room in Cossitt Hall, housing small arms and crew-served weapons. The well-stocked supply room next offered a display of clothing and equipment conspicuously price-tagged to impress upon the cadets the value of the items issued to them. Most impressive were the three well-equipped classrooms where the latest type sponge rubber terrain model drew admiring comments as Col. Heyer demonstrated its use in tactical problems.

The committee then proceeded to Stewart Field to watch the six their fifth drill since the unit was activated.

This visit by the Chamber Military Affairs Committee was preceded by inspections in September and October by Gen. Keyser, Commanding General of Camp Carson, Gen. Kean, Fifth Army Commander, and Gen. Van Brundt of the Organized Reserve and ROTC Affairs Branch.

The continuing interest in the CC unit by both the military and civilians has been most heart-warming to Col. Heyer and college officials and confirms the conviction that the local unit will be one of the finest anywhere. The CC unit is designated a Branch General ROTC unit which means that cadets at Colorado College have the widest choice in selecting the service arm in which to earn their reserve commission.

Aviation Exhibition Slated for Oct. 26

Naval Air Reserve Day in the Rockies is October 26 and Colorado's only Naval Air Reserve training station, the Denver Naval Air Station at Buckley Field, will celebrate that day with the greatest Naval Aviation Exhibition ever shown the people of the Rocky Mountain area.

The Navy's flight exhibition team, the "Blue Angels", will be featured at the Naval Air Station's open house.

The Blue Angels' portion of the show will be about 30 minutes duration.

AWS HIGHLIGHTS

There will be an important meeting of the AWS board this Thursday, October 23, at 6 o'clock in the AWS room in Ticknor.

Presidents of organizations planning to have booths at Activity Night are asked to make their own posters and printed information for their respective booths, and to put a copy of the list of interested people in the AWS box in Cutler some time during the week following Activity Night.

CC PLAYERS TO STAGE "THE POOR NUT" NIGHTLY IN PERKINS HALL

As kick-off to the 1952 celebration of Homecoming at CC, the College Players are presenting J. C. and Elliott Nugent's popular three-act comedy of campus life, "The Poor Nut". With the time, 8:15 p.m., and the place, Perkins Hall, the play will take the boards nightly through the eve of the college's gridiron contest with Greeley.

In the story of Jack Miller, the shy, studious, idealistic

Junior Phi Beta, confused as to whether he is in love with co-ed Julia Winters or co-ed Margie Blake, Director Woodson Tyree has made apt changes which were highly amusing to the first audiences to see the production. The scene of the action has been transferred from Ohio State University to Colorado College, and the visiting trackmen come, appropriately from Greeley. Lennox Book Store, Washburn Field, and a campus fraternity house provide the settings for the three acts, and the candidates for Homecoming Queen at the college appear before the spectators during the course of the play.

Kappa Sigma Announces 11 More Pledges

Kappa Sigma fraternity is happy to announce the pledging of Bob Deyo, Laary Pezoldt and Jim Stelson, Colorado Springs; Tom Reichert and Gary Spahn, Denver, Colo.; Karl Kinkade, Cody, Wyo.; Bob Marsolie and Don Dewsnap, Melrose, Mass.; Lenny Gagnon, Cambridge, Mass.; Dick Kennefic, Rowley, Mass.; Ken Kinsley, Saskatoon, Sask., Canada; and Bill Thompson, Pittsburgh, Penna.

If college life as seen in "The Poor Nut" resembles only partially college life as most undergraduates know it, the distortion is acceptable, welcome indeed, to most playgoers. Homecoming graduates and students alike view campus life at this season of the year through a golden autumn haze in which college friendships, parties, dates, "crushes", and sports events seem the most memorable part of college life. And perhaps they are. In any case, Jack Miller's decision to combine love and campus life on a permanent basis will not for the moment seem implausible to Homecoming graduates in whom such memories quicken with new life over a Homecoming weekend.

With the assistance of Dale Sinclair and Ruth Mitchell, Professor Tyree has arranged a pleasant staging of the play, simply achieved though adequate in every respect. The cast is largely composed of students who have not appeared with the CC Players before. Special mention should be made of the following actors: Robert Murphy, as John Miller; Nancy Pratt, as Margie Blake; Marian Haynes, as Julia Winters; Lee Ray Peery, as "Maggie" Welsh; Ron Kicklighter, as "Wallie" Pierce; and Normaloy Tackitt, in her "bit part" of Betty.

Political Science Graduates Offered Government Careers

The Department of State has recently announced its 1953 trainee program to colleges and universities throughout the country. Seniors and graduate students with good backgrounds in political science, economics, public administration, international relations or related fields and who are interested in a career in foreign affairs management may be considered for the program. The foreign affairs management trainee program is designed to secure a limited number of carefully selected trainees who possess outstanding potential for eventual promotion to top level executive and managerial positions.

Beginning salaries for the program, which begins in the summer of 1953, are $3410 and $4205 per annum, depending on individual qualifications and requirements of the department.

The department is again planning to use the Civil Service commission's junior management assistant examination as part of the selection process for its 1953 program. This examination opened October 14, and will close November 11, 1952. It is important that students who wish to be appointed in the department compete successfully in this examination.

Nominating boards, composed of faculty members, will assist the department on each campus by screening qualified students from among JMA competitors and nominating the most outstanding candidates for consideration by the department of state. Nominating board selections must be received in the Department of State not later than February, 1953.

Trainees will generally be assigned to administrative and managerial activities in Washington in keeping, where practice, with the operations to their training. Woodson Tyree, head of the drama and radio department at CC with thirty selected students from the five radio classes attended closed circuit TV operations at the TV Colorado Incorporated Laboratory at 115 E. Mill St., Friday afternoon at 1:15 o'clock.

This initial meeting will be followed by regularly scheduled meeting in which the students will operate TV pickup cameras and controls and participate in all phases of TV operations including the production of complete programs.

Cecil Seavey, well known Colorado Springs announcer, is directing the experimental TV operations at the lab. The meetings should be of great value to the students in supplementing their college courses in this modern communications media.

Five years ago, KVOR and KRDO donated air time and technical assistance to CC radio classes. In September, 1951, KRCC (FM), the first non-commercial educational FM station, went on the air. CC radio students employed by local stations include Edmonds, Bill Tyree, Duane Hart, Milt Norton, Al Dargill and Hook Danforth, with Bob Smith and Wes Bradley heard regularly over KVOR and KRDO. Another CC graduate, Jackie Burkey, is Faye Emerson's stand in on her TV show.

'J. Ray' Steals Show At Phi Delt Dance

The 1952 Phi Delta Theta pledge dance will be remembered by all those present for a long time to come. Everyone thoroughly enjoyed Ray Kranz' variety of music which was made up of all the popular songs with an assortment of different dance steps being made possible by such numbers as the Charleston and the Mexican Hat Dance.

The actives serenaded the group with a song after the poor man's J. Ray (Dick Evans) had exercised his vocal chords, and then the pledges sang a song for the group. Half way through the dance the engagement of Monty Roberts and Sue Bodine was announced. This was a truly fabulous dance.

General Homecoming Committee Headed By Gabe Duque

Gabe Duque, Homecoming committee general chairman, has worked long hours to complete the tremendous job of planning activities, and, abetted by the outstanding, enthusiastic, and efficient help of Tom Gross, parade chairman, Derry Cowles, vice chairman, and Ray Scherer, publicity chairman, the activities are certain to make the 1952 Homecoming long remembered.

Verne Byers Provides Music for Traditional Homecoming Dance

Verne Byers, along with the well-schooled members of his orchestra, will be present to provide music that is "eminently danceable" and "more than listenable", for the CC Homecoming Dance Saturday night at the Broadmoor Hotel.

Arrangements make free use of Verne's talents and the band is able to produce mellow mood music or bright brassy tones with equal ease.

Two featured members of the Verne Byers' troupe are songster and novelist, Jack Wheaton, and a talented pianist, Warren Shibe, who does numbers such as "Cumana" and "Twelfth Street Rag".

Verne's arrangements are widely varied and include pops, standards, and favored "oldies" loved by young and old. Aside from the numerous individual vocalists and entertainers,

Tickets for the Homecoming Dance are now on sale and are being distributed through the fraternities. It is necessary to buy your tickets early, for the first 400 will be eligible to win the door prize.

With the well linked and outstanding musical organization of Verne Byers providing the music, the Homecoming Dance should top off CC's other Homecoming activities with a bang.

CC Blood Drive Moving Slowly As Response Lags

Colorado College's contribution to the Armed Forces drive for blood was marked by a slow start when only ten pints of an expected fifty or sixty were given Thursday, Oct. 16.

A better showing is anticipated Tuesday, October 27, as an additional 170 pints have been pledged by fraternity and Independent Men.

The two-fold purpose behind this program is the need of 3,000,000 pints of blood for use by the Armed Forces now fighting Korea, and the building of a stockpile for civilian use in case of disaster.

Besides the contributions by the student and faculty men, student and faculty women will be donating blood Nov. 4 and 6. All who have missed the other times will be given an opportunity to donate November 7.

The infirmary will be open for contributions on these days from 9-12 a. m. and 1-5 p. m. If you wish to contribute blood but cannot at these times, call the Blood Donor Center at Camp Carson, Main 8,000, Extension 2260.

Bears Vs. Tigers in Homecoming Game

Greeley Team Led by Hancock; All-Conference End on Squad

This year's Homecoming football game will feature the Bears from the Colorado State College of Education at Greeley, Colorado. The Bears, wearing their purple and gold colors, will be out to win their seventh game against Colorado College. Previously, the Tigers have walloped the Bears eleven times and tied them twice. Last year the Bengals fed the Bears a 26 to 0 defeat.

The head coach for the Teachers is John W. Hancock. This is his 21st season as head football coach at Colorado State. Before this he was head coach at Mississippi State for three years. In 1946 he was named "Coach of the Year" by the sports department of the Denver Post. Hancock was also assistant coach at Marquette University.

HANCOCK A GREAT TACKLE

Coach Hancock was a great performer at tackle for Iowa University in 1922, 1923 and 1924. In 1922 and 1923, he was All-Big Ten tackle and in 1924 he was selected as an All-American tackle. Hancock received his bachelor of arts degree from Iowa University and his master of arts degree at Colorado State. He also has done advanced study at the University of Wisconsin and the University of Southern California.

Assistants to Coach Hancock will be Vincent A. Cyphers, backfield coach, Allan Ray Elliott, assistant backfield coach, and Tony Rossi, trainer.

The purple and gold will have sixteen returning lettermen to go into action against Colorado College.

One of the players who will see action against a strong Tiger team will be Ted Childers. Ted plays from the fullback position. He is a freshman from Greeley, Colo., and was all-state fullback for last year's Greeley High school state champions. Ted is an all around player and will be a good person to watch. Another Greeley boy is Jerry McMillan. Jerry, a sophomore, is an aggressive and game loving guard.

QUARTERBACKS SPARK SQUAD

A signal caller for the Teachers will be Bob Pi Giallonardo. Bob is a freshmen quarterback from Louisville, Colo. Being the smallest on the team is not a handicap but an asset to him. He is an excellent passer and field general. Another quarterback is Dick Porter, a junior. Dick hails from Palisade, Colorado, is an excellent back, and one of the most valuable men on the squad.

Some freshmen slated for action at the tackle slots are: Vic Collins of Hammond, Ind.; Bill Finch of Meeker, Colo.; and Ivan Kelly of Pueblo, Colo. These men are all new but will prove good with experience.

Don Williams, a senior from Brighton, Colo., will see action on both the offensive and defensive teams at the end position. He is a good blocker and pass receiver. Bob is 6 feet, 4 inches and weighs 172 pounds. He will be a hard man to hit at end and also punts the ball.

OTHER FRESHMEN TO PLAY

Some more freshmen slated to see action in this all important game are: Emerson Betz, a half-back from Loveland, Colo.; Hoy Frakes, guard; Roger Law, half-back from Golden, Colo.; and Norman Schmidt, brother of Martin Schmidt, who is a senior end.

Martin made all-conference end in 1951. He was Colorado State's most valuable athlete last year because of his football, basketball, and baseball performances. He is an outstanding student, a good blocker, and an excellent aerial receiver.

SENIORS

Proven senior players that will bolster the Greeley hopes are: Judd Brown, tackle; Duane Garrett, Clarence Minkel, a veteran 200-pound tackle with the best grade average of any man in the school; and Les Prothe, last year's all-conference defensive guard and biggest man on the squad.

With these men to carry the Bear's hopes, they will be hard to defeat. This strong team will give the Tigers a hard battle in their homecoming tilt.

"PIN MONEY"

The words "pin money" originated in the 14th century when pins were so expensive that manufacturers sold them in open shops only two days a year and husbands provided money for this luxury for their wives.—New York Times.

THE 1952 EDITION OF FOOTBALL Tigers shown above will be out to duplicate last year's victory over the Greeley Bears whom they defeated by a 26-0 count last year at the Greeley Homecoming battle.

I-M Cross Country to To Be Run Saturday

The annual cross country race will be run this Saturday afternoon between the halves of the homecoming game as has always been the custom. Each of the men's organizations is allowed an entry list totaling six men. Only the first four men from each group will be counted, and the points will be awarded to that the winner will get one point, the second man two and so on. The team with the lowest number of total points will be declared the winner. Entries are to meet at the top of the hill, just outside the dressing room entrance to Cossitt, when the scoreboard clock shows but five minutes to play in the first half. The race will get underway before the half is over.

Intramural swimming gets underway the 28th of this month at the YMCA. Entries in this feature have been working out in preparation for this year's meet.

Many fine highways cross the Continental Divide in Colorful Colorado. Among the highest are Trail Ridge, U. S. 34, 12,183 feet; Fall River, U. S. 34, 11,797 feet; Independence, State 82, 12,915 feet; Loveland, U. S. 6, 11,992; Berthoud, U. S. 40, 11,314, and Monarch, U. S. 50, 11,312.

Sarlo Looks to Coaching Career After Masters

By TOM SEELEY

Masterminding the Colorado College football team this year is John "Spike" Sarlo. John is the quarterback on the offensive team.

Spike hails from Pueblo, Colo., where he attended Pueblo Catholic High School. While there he lettered in football, basketball, and baseball. John was selected as quarterback on the all conference football team. In other high school activities he was president of the Student Council as senior, president of the Key Club, an organization sponsored by the Kiwanis Club.

John is a graduate student working on a master's degree in education. In future years he plans to go into the coaching profession.

Before coming to Colorado College, Spike went to Loyola University in Los Angeles, Calif. He played two years of football for that school. The only varsity sport Spike has played at Colorado College is football.

About the campus, John is a member of the "C" Club, Growl-

Boucher 'Moves' To Average Over 14 In Mont. State Game

SIDELINES

By Ray Scherer

Those that returned with the team early Monday morning from the trip to Bozeman, Montana, did not regard the Bengals as a strong but ill-fated squad, however, they did have a great deal of praise for the running of Wes Boucher. Wes compiled 296 yards of the team's better than 500. With running like that Wes averaged better than 14 yards per carry.

Well, this is the big weekend for the Tigers activity-wise as well as football-wise and the Greeley Bears are out to spoil it with a victory Saturday afternoon. After last year's victory by the Tigers in Greeley, Colorado State has wholeheartedly decided to avenge the defeat. Coming with the team this weekend will be the entire CSC band, consisting of 99 members, as well as a very large portion of the student body. Last year, you will remember, Colorado College went up in mass to cheer the team on to a 26 to 0 victory. So, the campus ought to be buzzing this weekend.

Last weekend was a pretty good one all the way around as far as I was concerned. CC beat Montana, the Gophers kept the spirit alive on the home front by beating the Illini, and I lucked out with a prediction of .840, coming on 25 predictions, with 21 being correct. For the year I was able to raise the average to .746.

Now let's take a look at games to be played this weekend.

Colorado College will garner its second Rocky Mountain Conference game Saturday, by beating Colorado State in the big homecoming battle.

California journeys to USC for the big game on the cost this week, and the Golden Bears are going to tough.

Army tangles with Columbia in New York and the Cadets should win this one.

Nebraska will be tough, but the Buffs are a hard team to beat at home; so I am looking for Colorado University to take that one.

The Aggies will be at Utah State this weekend and will come home the conquer.

Cornell and Princeton clash, and this should be a thriller. But stick with the Tigers.

In the Big Ten I look for Purdue to trip Illinois; Northwestern over the Hoosiers; Ohio State a decided favorite in Iowa City; Michigan over a gallant group of warriors from Minnesota (I hope I'm wrong); and Wisconsin over the visiting Uclans.

In other games look for Har-er's, Newman Club, member and past president of the Kappa Sigma fraternity, and is last year's president of the Interfraternity Council. For his hobbies John likes to hunt, fish, and ski.

Soccer Team Ties Britisher's with Revamped Lineup

Sporting a revamped lineup, the soccer team gained a 2-2 tie with the Britisher's Club of Denver on Stewart Field last Sunday. The biggest change in the lineup occurred when Martin Hanrahan played in the nets for the first time, and Walt Stone moved up from his former goal position to bolster the attack.

For the first fifteen minutes of the game, the play fluctuated back and forth at midfield, but Walt Stone broke the deadlock with a shot 25 yards away from the open Britisher goal. This score gave the Tigers their 1-0 lead at half time.

In the second half the Britishers scored first to knot the count, 1-1, but just a few minutes later Bjorn Akarmark broke through the Britisher defense and drove in alone for the second Tiger score. With only five minutes remaining in the game the opponents scored on a corner kick that deflected off CC's fullback Jack Sibilia, into the goal.

The team showed a great deal of improvement in its second match. Martin Hanrahan sparkled on defense as he made many fine saves to keep the Britishers away from the scoring column. On the for-

Tigers Maul Bobcats 40-12 Wes, Andy, Chuck Lead Way

Led by Wes Boucher, Andy Gambucci and Chuck Mollin, a trio of swift, hard-charging backs and a terrific line which opened holes consistently for ball carriers, Colorado College smothered Montana State Bobcats 40-12 last Saturday at Bozeman.

Boucher was easily the outstanding back on the field as he rolled up an amazing total of 296 yards in 20 carries for a near 15 yard per carry average. Add those 296 yards to those contributed by the other backs and they add up to a total of better than 500 yards, by far the best effort of the year for the Tigers.

The Tigers scored the first time they had possession of the ball. Gambucci went over from four yards out for his first touchdown of the afternoon after a march of 73 yards. They were never headed after that as they went on to score once more in the first period, twice in the second period and twice more in the final canto. Chuck Mollin picked up two touchdowns as did Andy Gambucci, with Jerry Engleson and Boucher garnering six points apiece. Jack Knight rounded out the scoring by making good on four of six conversion attempts.

Montana State picked up both of their scores in the third period while holding the Tigers scoreless, and had two more drives stopped just short of the goal line in the wild fourth quarter. Don Inkes intercepted a pass in the end zone to stall one threat and the final gun halted the other Bobcat attempt on the four yard line.

It was the best game of the season for the Tigers and gives them a 1-1 record in conference play while Montana State now sports an 0-2 slate. CC's record now stands at 2-2 for the season. They have lost to Denver University and Idaho State while winning from Camp Carson and Montana State.

The Kappa Sigma rolled over the Independents 26 to 12 on Thursday of last week in a hard fought battle until the final period when the Kappa Sigs opened up with two big touchdowns. ward line John Taylor, Mid Gammell, and Ben Haggin played very well, with Dan Mulford and newcomer Mort Forrester showing plenty of promise at the halfback positions. The team still has many weaknesses which can only be overcome by more experience, but there was a definite improvement over the play of a week earlier.

This Sunday the team travels to Denver to play the strongest team in the industrial league, the Macabi Athletic Club.

DIRECTORS CHOSEN FOR VARIETY SHOW; AUDITIONS WILL BE HELD NOV. 4, 5, and 6

The annual CC Campus Chest Drive Variety Show this year promises to surpass any previous production. The capable staff is making early preparations for a successful show.

The directors for the year's Variety Show are Jan Keefer, Paul Trietsch, Marcia Manning, Brook Kindred, and Gloria Townsend. The business manager is Hiram Liggett and Dick Hayes is serving as director of publicity.

Auditions will be held on Nov. 4, 5 and 6 at Perkins Hall. Acts which are being prepared now must be ready for auditioning at this time.

Each individual group or organization must be sure to contact Jan Keefer on or before this Saturday, Nov. 1. It is not too late for anybody who has not yet begun preparation of an act to start immediately.

As most of the students know the purpose of the Variety Show, is to support worthwhile charitable organizations chosen by the student body. In past years this CC annual production has been a financial success and has provided much needed help for certain charities. Previous casts have found working in the Variety Show to be not only very worthwhile but also very enjoyable. Remember that interested groups may contact Jan Keefer by Saturday.

Alpha Kappa Psi Will Hear Rumsey, Local Merchant

Alpha Kappa Psi, the national business fraternity on campus will hold its regular meeting this Thursday evening at 7:30 at Lennox House, Mr. E. C. Rumsey, owner and operator of the Cut-A-Corner stores in Colorado Springs, will be the guest speaker.

The purpose of this meeting will be to meet men who are interested in joining Alpha Kappa Psi. All business majors are cordially invited to attend regardless of their year in school. Tentative plans call for an initiation to be held the latter part of November. All those interested in being initiated must attend the next few meetings.

SICKNESS EXCUSES

The present system of absence regulations was adopted by the faculty on April 21, and went into effect this fall. Point 5 of the regulations voted reads as follows: "The Dean of Women, or Dean of Men, shall not grant an excuse later than one week after the student's return to class."

Through inadvertence, this provision was omitted from the rules on absences which were printed in the 1952 edition of the Student Handbook. However, it was printed in the original set of regulations which appeared in the TIGER and it was included in the regulations posted on various bulletin boards. It is definitely in effect. All students are advised that if they have an excusable absence, they must request such excuse from the appropriate dean not later than one week after return to class.

HOMECOMING GREAT SUCCESS; JOHNSON QUEEN

The 1952 Homecoming which ended last Sunday, was one of the most successful in the history of CC. With classes ending Thursday, the weekend was well under way by Friday.

Early Friday morning the Freshman and Sophomores battled it out in the annual Frosh-Soph fight. After much rotten egg and paint slinging, the Freshmen defeated the sophomores.

The Pep Rally was held in Cossitt Bowl Friday night. Judy Johnson, Kappa Alpha Theta, was crowned Homecoming Queen by President Gill. Judy's four attendants, Judy Baker, Jane Carroll, Pat Saam and Marilyn Marksheffel, were presented with attendant trophies. After the Cossitt Pep Rally, the cheerleaders led the student body in a snake dance.

The Saturday morning parade got under way at 10:00 a. m. under the supervision of Tom Gross. It proved to be exciting with the

Music Department Announces Variety of Concert Programs

The Music Department announces the opening of this year's Perkins Hall concert series on Sunday, November 2nd. These concerts are free to students, faculty and the general public. They will take place in Perkins Hall auditorium the first and third Sunday of each month at 4:30 p.m.

Members of the music faculty, outstanding students of the department, and fine artists in town will combine talents groups in different combinations, chorus and Collegium Musicum concerts.

The opening concert on November 2nd will present an all-Beethoven program, featuring Max Lanner and the LaSalle String Quartet. Max Lanner, head of the music department and concert pianist, will play Beethoven's Piano Sonata Op. 31 No. 3, in E-flat Major. The LaSalle Quartet will follow and conclude the program with Beethoven's String Quartet Op. 74 in E-flat major, known as the "Harp Quartet".

It is hoped that the greatest possible number of students avail themselves of this opportunity to hear these fine concerts free of charge.

Who's Who Selects Thirteen For Citizenship, Service to CC

Thirteen outstanding seniors at Colorado College have been named to "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities", it was announced today by the CC publicity office. Nomination to the official publication is on the basis of outstanding participation in one or more prominent campus organizations. Student council and the office of the dean make the initial compilation, while the final choice, based on the school's enrollment and the individual records of the students, is that of the "Who's Who" publication.

Named for their citizenship, service to the college and academic overages are: George Abbott, president of the student body; Dale Arie, editor of The Tiger; Wes Boncher, member of Red Lantern, Interfraternity Council, "C" Club and Kappa Sigma; Connie Cover, president of Pan Hellenic and a member of Honor Council; Andy Gambucci, president of Kappa Sigma, member of Red Lantern; Cynthia Haymes, co-editor of "Kinnikinnik", secretary of Kappa Kappa Gamma, president of Newman Club; Emily Howe, president of AWS; Bill Jobe, vice-president of ASCC, Red Lantern; Mel Kunsinger, Alpha Kappa Psi, Red Lantern; Hiram Liggett, Red Lantern, Honor Council, Business Manager of Kinnikinnik; Sue McMillin, president of QA, member of Honor Council; Rosemary Musgrave, active member of CC Physicians; Ben Snyder, president of Red Lantern.

Only 20 Percent Of Those Pledged Have Given Blood

Cooperation on the part of the fraternities on campus has been sadly lacking so far in the Armed Forces Blood Donor's drive, as only twenty per cent of the people who had pledged to give a pint of blood have done so far.

The Sigma Chi's are the leaders in donating at this point, with a percentage of 34 achieved by donation of 11 pints out of a total of 32 pledges. They are followed by Phi Delt with 15 per cent, the Kappa Sigma with 10 per cent and the Phi Gamma with 6 per cent. The Blood Donor Center expressed concern over the apparent lack of interest shown by the fraternities and said that all those who have not been to the infirmary to donate, still have one day when they can live up to their pledge. A make-up date has been set for Nov. 7. That is next Friday and all those who have not donated are strongly urged not to miss this appointment.

This life-giving fluid is urgently needed by our Armed Forces every day so it should not be too difficult for all of those who have pledged, to bear the small discomfort entailed and in so doing, may save a life.

YOUTH FOR STEVENSON

There will be a meeting of the Youth for Stevenson organization of Colorado College on Thursday afternoon, Oct. 30 at 4:30 p. m. The meeting will be held in the ASCC room at Lennox House. All those interested in helping the Democratic party are strongly urged to attend.

In the annual fight for that valuable flag, the CC greensies thoroughly smeared the sophs and captured the flag to win back their freedom. The freshmen pyramid maneuver turned the trick as a light frosh grabbed much wanted symbol of freshmen superiority.

POLITICALLY SPEAKING

Next week climaxes the presidential campaign and by November 5 the people of the United States will have chosen their next Chief Executive. Charges and counter-charges will no longer fill the air as before. Our nation will once more turn its attention to the domestic and foreign problems which have been overshadowed by the political campaign. It will then be up to Dwight Eisenhower or Adlai Stevenson to guide the United States in world leadership. Did I say guide us in world leadership? Perhaps I meant, to be shackled by world participation.

Two weeks ago in Chapel, we were told that the United Nations admittedly has not accomplished as much as expected. But nevertheless, it has provided, we are told, a forum in which to discuss world problems; unfortunately this is all that is frequently accomplished. But I admit that the U. N. has been of some help in international affairs for it would be foolish to say otherwise. But has its existence brought us any closer to its supposed aim of world peace? Korea, Indo-China and Malaya all stand squarely in our eyes and challenge us to say there is peace. There are 117,000 dead and wounded G.I.'s who ask us if we have peace. We, being somewhat embarrassed, admit it has not. Members of the U. N. have repeatedly avoided complex problems by delay, veto or some other form of obstruction. They actually forbid discussion, which is supposedly the shining star of the U. N.'s success. And yet this weak institution has the power to dictate to the United States.

The criticisms that we read of the U. N. are not always true. There is prejudice and exaggeration (which I will probably be accused of) that warps our thinking. But if there is one thing that I detest it is the continual bombasting that comes from U. N. delegates. I am thoroughly disgusted every time I see, or hear, a reminder that we must support the U. N. Posters, speeches, movies, and radio programs hurl a constant demand that our duty is "Support the U. N., America comes second."

Now I will accept all the scorn that the one-worlders and internationalists wish to hurl at me. I will be labelled an isolationist or reactionary or some other scare-word they can think of. But worst of all I will be called an America-Firster. This is the filthiest name a person, such as myself, could have. For this implies that I believe in the principles of democracy and free enterprise that have made our nation so powerful. That I believe in the Constitution and the Bill of Rights and the right of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. That we have the greatest country on the face of this earth and that its people are strong and determined. And I believe that no other nation, or group of nations, should ever be allowed to ridicule and humble us as we have been. Lastly that I am proud of my nation and believe it should come first, last and always. If that labels me as an isolationist or an America-Firster then I accept the honor.

IN RUBUTTAL

This letter is written in reply to the irresponsible statements printed in THE TIGER last week, October 23. The author of the questioned article blamed Democratic incompetence for the Korean situation, and attacked Governor Stevenson as a puny office holder. He is blind on both accounts.

He simplified Korea by declaring that the administration left the door open for the Communists. The writer maintained that our mercenary president thought it would be an "excellent idea" to improve business conditions by involving us in the conflict. It is neither wise or sane to so eagerly dismiss the true reasons for the Korean catastrophe.

Joint Chiefs of Staff

On September 26, 1947, the Joint Chiefs of Staff, including Eisenhower, told Secretary Acheson that Korea was not strategically essential. On this advice, John Foster Dulles, one of the writers of the Republican foreign policy plank, asked in the General Assembly for the withdrawal of all occupational forces in Korea.

American troops finally left Korea on MacArthur's contention that the South Koreans were able to defend themselves. Although the general was later proved mistaken, we still tried to assist the young Korean Republic.

Republican Sabotage

Republicans in Congress sabotaged the administration's efforts to lend economic aid to Korea. Two-thirds of House and Senate Republicans voted to cut Korean military aid by 40 percent. Eighty-six percent of House Republicans voted against immediate Korean economic aid just five months before the attack!

To escape the realization of this condemnation, many self-styled crusaders are hiding behind a cloak of the moments frustration. "Why are we in Korea?" they shout from their platforms. They stir anxiety like quacks holding dime store medicine.

We are in Korea to prevent World War III, and to halt aggression. We are in Korea to fulfill part of a practical program for world peace.

It is our obligation as the strongest free power in the world that we should bear the brunt of the load. Yet, do not forget that England in Malaya, and France in Indo-China, have been bearing a heavy burden against Communism.

Pendergastism

The writer then labeled Stevenson as the hand picked choice of Pendergastism. One need merely to find out how the governor ended Republican chaos in Springfield, and established effective state reforms to answer this criticism.

Next, Stevenson's government jobs were termed as puny. The implication was that government work is unclean and ignoble. I ask you to check Stevenson's experience in the national government, and you will see that the puniness of his positions reflects the scope of vision of those that make such a charge.

No amount of vilification can weaken the essential dignity, humility, courage, and strength which Adlai Stevenson has shown to so many Americans.

Holiday Cut Policy Clarified

At this week's Student Council meeting the cut policy was clarified in regard to cutting before holidays. It was brought to light that penalties for cutting before holidays applied only to Christmas and spring vacations. This will be news to many of you. We are reminded that Variety Show acts are needed badly, so if any of you have any hidden talent be sure and contact Jan Keefer before Nov. 1. Tryouts are Nov. 4, 5 and 6.

DEADLINE FOR SELECTIVE SERVICE EXAM APPLICATIONS SET FOR NOV. 1

Selective Service officials today reminded college students that the deadline for submitting applications for the December 4th Selective Service College Qualification Test is midnight, November 1 (Saturday), and that applications postmarked after that time cannot be considered. Local draft boards have an adequate supply of test application blanks on hand for draft-eligible students.

To be eligible to apply for the college deferment test a student must (1) intend to request deferment as a student; (2) be satisfactorily pursuing a full-time course of instruction; and (3) must not have previously taken the Selective Service College Qualification Test.

Another test will be held April 23, 1953 but General Hershey emphasized that increasing manpower demands make it important that each draft-eligible student who has not taken the test do so as soon as possible.

Students whose academic year will end in January, 1953 have been urged to take the December 4, 1952 test so they will have a test score in their cover sheets before the end of their academic year, at which time their boards will reopen and reconsider their cases to determine whether they should be deferred as students.

The present criteria for deferment as an undergraduate student are either a satisfactory score (70) on the Selective Service College Qualification Test or specified

Twenty Organizations Present for Activity Night at Cossitt Gym

The second annual AWS Activity Night was held last Tuesday in Cossitt gym. A large crowd, consisting mostly of freshmen, was entertained by displays put on by various clubs represented, and by Jenny Singleton, who gave her hilarious presentation of "Victor Borgia's Verbal Pronunciation of Romeo and Juliet", and Judy Clave, who played "Variations of Three Blind Mice" on the piano.

With 20 clubs having booths at Activity Night, and all of them obtaining lists of people interested in joining their activities, the project was counted a success by the AWS board, and will be held again next year.

This year the following twenty organizations took part in AWS Activity night: the TIGER, Nugget, Kinnikinnik, AWS, Vocational Guidance, Growlers, French Club, Sociology Club, Pic and Pan, American Chemical Society, Riding Club, WAA and Wakuta, Tiger Club, Ski Club, Mountain Climbing Club, Newman Club, Canterbury Club, KRCC and Jonathan Edwards Club.

black Phi Gams, armed Sig Chis and the water shooting Betas. The Gamma Phi sorority took first place in the women's division while the Phi Deltas won in the men's division.

The peak of the weekend activities was the football game Saturday afternoon. Alumni and students alike saw the Tigers beat the Greeley Bears 40 to 20. During half time the queen and winning floats were paraded around the field. The winners of the house decorations were announced and honors went to the Sigma Chi "train" while the Beta "rocket ship" placed second. Also during the half, the annual cross country race was held and Jim Duque ran the Phi Deltas to victory.

To climax the weekend, the annual Homecoming dance was held at the Broadmoor Hotel.

Much of the success of the Homecoming weekend should be credited to Gabe Duque, chairman of Homecoming, and the committees that worked under him.

ROTC Rifle Team Organized for Competition

Colorado College's ROTC Rifle team took its first step towards reality Thursday, October 23, when 18 regularly enrolled cadets met with Captain L. M. Stofflet, director of Marksmanship, and Pfc. R. F. Pittsinger, coach. Captain Stofflet outlined team organization and the general program as presently scheduled.

Arrangements have been made for rifle practice and competitive firing at the Colorado Springs City Auditorium from 1 to 5 p.m. each Monday and from 8 to 11 p.m. each Thursday. Team members will fire the Springfield 22 calibre M-2 rifle, a regular issue small bore rifle.

After preliminary marksmanship training, to be held daily at Stewart Field, the prospective team members will begin record firing at the auditorium. Team selection will be made from top record firing each week.

Several matches are being planned including entrance in the William Randolph Hearst National ROTC Competition. This match is fired on each ROTC unit's home range with targets being mailed to Army Headquarters for final scoring and team standings. Postal matches with other ROTG units as well as shoulder to shoulder matches both home and away are being scheduled with nearby ROTC units.

TIGERS BEAT BEARS IN HOMECOMING GAME

AROUND THE CONFERENCE

Denver, Oct. 26—Colorado Mines once-beaten defending champions and the undefeated Idaho State Tigers meet Saturday in a game that'll likely assure the Idahoans of at least a share in their first Rocky Mountain conference football championship.

Idaho State has won three straight decisive victories over Colorado College, Colorado State and Western State, Colorado College and C-State were rated the strongest title-challengers. Colorado State beat the 1951 champion Miners 20-6 before C-State was thrashed 46-16 by Idaho State.

The Mines-Idaho State clash will be at the Orediggers' home field in Golden.

The Idaho club continued its impressive play Saturday with a 33-13 breeze over Nevada University, an independent. Colorado College swept by Colorado State 40-20 and Montana State climbed out of the cellar with a 16-12 win over Western State.

Colorado College plays Western State at Gunnison in the only other league contest. Colorado State meets Adams State at Alamosa, Colo., in a non-conference test.

Halfback Andy Gambucci, Colorado College, leads the conference scoring with 10 touchdowns for 60 points in six games.

VARSITY BASKETBALL
Coach Eastlack announced today that there will be a meeting of all those interested in playing varsity basketball in the "C" Club room in Cossett Hall, Monday, Nov. 3, at 7:00 p. m.

Phi Delt Lead After Two Events In I-M Swimming

The qualifying heats of this year's intramural swimming meet were run off last Tuesday night in the YMCA pool with the finals scheduled to be held in the same pool next Tuesday evening.

Here's who you can expect to see in the finals: In the 40 yard freestyle event will be Hale, Davis, Knight and Howell. Hale had the fastest qualifying time of 20 seconds flat. In the 60 yard backstroke will be Fowler, Channer, Conroy and Hansucker. The fastest time in this event was 41.4 seconds. In the 100 yard freestyle event will be Hale, McCormick, Knight and Wolfe. Hale once again had the least time elapse between start and finish, and it amounted to one minute, one and four-tenths seconds. To follow in the 60 yard breaststroke will be McCormick, Robson, Deyo and H. Rice. McCormick went the distance in 50.4 seconds.

Two finals were held Tuesday night, the individual medley and the medley relay. In the individual medley five points were given the winner, three points to second place, two points to the third place finisher, and one point for fourth. In this event Timroth, Kappa Sig, was the winner, followed by McCormick, Moyer and Pond.

In the Medley Relay points were distributed in this manner: ten points for first, eight for second, six for third, and four for fourth. The Phi Deltis won this event, the Independents were second, the Phi Gams third, and the Kappa Sigs fourth. Beta Theta Pi did not enter.

The winning time of the 60 yard individual medley was 41.3 seconds, while the medley relay of 120 yards was run off in 1:33.0.

Gambucci and Boucher Paced CC Ground Attack For 360 Yards

Last Saturday afternoon the Tigers of Colorado College caught the spirit of Homecoming and walloped the Bears of Colorado State, 40-20. Wes Boucher and Andy Gambucci paced the Tiger ground attack which rolled up 360 yards in rushing. Jerry Engleson ably directed the CC eleven, mixing passing and running plays expertly. The CC forward wall opened up gaping holes in State's line and, except for Dick Dean's 45 yard dash in the second quarter, completely bottled up State's ground game. Only the fine passing of the Bears' Dick Porter kept the boys from Greeley in the game.

Colorado State scored first after recovering Boucher's fumble deep in Tiger territory. Four plays later, Porter passed 24 yards to Bob Tucker in the end zone for the score. CC rebounded immediately to tie the score. Gambucci passed to Walt Bennett for 47 yards, and 6 plays later Andy ran around left end for CC's first score. A few minutes later Bennett took another Gambucci pass to put the ball on State's 40. Boucher smashed through the right side of the Bear's line and raced down the sidelines to give CC a lead which they never relinquished.

Chuck Mollin went 6 yards to score early in the second period after Sandoval recovered a fumble on State's 26. State took the kick-off and marched 87 yards to make the score, 20-13. The Tigers increased their lead taking the kick-off and going 80 yards downfield. Gambucci raced the last 35 yards to score his second touch down of the day. Late in the second quarter Jerry Engleson passed 30 yards to Walt Bennett to put the ball on the Greeley 19. Rocky Anderson

Gambucci Sixth In Nation's Scoring; Lux Out for Season

SIDELINES

Andy Cambucci, as a result of last week's homecoming tilt with Colorado State, is the sixth ranking scorer in football this season. Andy picked up three touchdowns Saturday afternoon to bring his total to ten and 60 points. With three more games to go, and two of them not too rough, Andy may be able to move up in the ranks. Colorado College's toughest opponent this week will be over-confidence. When the Tigers invade the Mountaineer's stadium in Gunnison Saturday afternoon, they will meet a team that has not been "fired up" all season, full of some fine talent, and ready to explode at any minute. Football fans may remember a year ago when CC's only title hope lay in Western State defeating the heavily favored Idaho State Bengals. They did it too, remember. I don't believe Idaho State would lose much sleep if the tables were turned this season. Not a bit.

CC's starter Tom Lux will be out of the Tiger lineup for the rest of the season as the result of a badly twisted knee received in one of the modern dance courses offered. In the past football players have taken the course to keep their muscles in good condition, but this is the first time the course has ever sidelined one. Athletes take notice.

Saturday is the first of November, and possibly a little steadiness will come along with it. October has been pretty wise, often indignant, breaking all kinds of rules or precedents in conjunction with the pigskin. But now that we have hit November, should begin to settle down to consistent football. The month of October, like the month of March often does, went out like a lion upsetting all sorts of football scoreboards around the nation. The lion whipped through the "tall corn" state and bumped Ohio State, then passed on north and east to Madison to boot the badgers in the britches in the fourth quarter. It moved east to Syracuse to help them overthrow Holy Cross. It generally played havoc, and knocked Gus' average down to a new weekly low of .704. The average for five weeks of this stuff stands at .742, so you can see there is plenty of room for improvement.

East

Coach "Red" Blaik and his CA-DETS will roll over V.M.I. MARY-LAND, ever plugging for the top spot in the nation, will be out to blast Boston University. Brown will get its nose rubbed in the dirt when it journeys to PRINCETON. BUCKNELL and Lehigh square off. Last year it was Bucknell 47-7. The "Big Red" is going to win its first ballgame of the year Saturday against Columbia. It has been a disastrous season for the boys from Ithaca. Yale should smack Dartmouth. PENN over Penn State. HARVARD should rake Davidson, and in one of the top intersectional games in the east I'm picking HOLY CROSS over Marquette. But this is one of those games you just don't know about. And TRINITY will win its fifth game in six starts taking the Coast Guard in to port.

Midwest

It's another big week for the Big Ten, but we have to wait two more weeks for the big one. On Nov. 15 Purdue and Michigan square off in Ann Arbor, and unless one or the other gets dumped before then, we will be hearing the battle for the championship and the tickets to the Rose Bowl. But that's two weeks hence. This weekend MICHIGAN should knock off a spirit lacking bunch of ballplayers from Champaign. INDIANA over Pittsburgh, who was knocked off surprisingly by West Virginia last week. MINNESOTA should have a nice homecoming with a win over the Hawkeyes, but don't forget what the Hawkeyes did to Ohio State last week. Iowa State seems to be playing out of its league this season and should drop their sixth in a row to mighty OKLAHOMA. Nobody can say they are "doggin' it" this year.

Intra-Mural BILLBOARD

By DON STONE

An upset was in order and an important victory was accomplished this past week, as the intramural program saw one of its most active weeks.

Saturday afternoon, between the halves of the homecoming game with Colorado State, the Phi Deltas impressed a halftime crowd with a decisive victory in the annual cross-country run. The Phi Deltas won the event by placing first and second. Winning the event was Jim Duque with the time of 17 min. 23.8 sec. Tom Able also a Phi Delt placed second with Carroll Hill, Independent, coming in third. Altogether thirty-seven men entered the race only seventeen crossed the tape. Since four men were required to place from each team only the Phi Deltas and Betas were eligible. Because of the lack of interest there is some doubt that cross-country competition will be continued.

The Betas handed the Phi Gams their first defeat in three years in an upset in the intramural program this week. The Betas rolled up the score of 35-15. The Phi Deltas thoroughly trounced the Kappa Sigs with a score of 25-12. Another upset on this week's schedule was the Independents defeat of the Sigma Chis, 19-12.

Swimming Meeting To Be Held Wed.

Coach Robert M. Stabler announces that an important meeting of all returning swimming lettermen and interested freshmen and transfer students will be held at 8:00 p. m., Wednesday, Nov. 5, at the Stabler ranch. This meeting will be held to acquaint the new prospects with the oldtimers, to discuss the 1952-53 schedule, to talk over practice dates, transportation to the pool, and other items. The beautiful and modern Camp Carson swimming pool has again been secured by the college for the team's practice sessions and home meets.

Varsity swim practice will begin Thursday, Nov. 6, at the Carson pool, Colorado College, last year's Rocky Mountain Conference champs, will have the following lettermen returning: freestylers; Harry Holton, Ted Bilharz, Bill Schaet and Wally Harmon. Backstrokers; Ed McGuire and Pete Roberts. Andy Spiegel, Chuck O'Connor and Norm Brown as breaststrokers, with O'Connor excelling as a diver and Norm Brown starring in the individual medley. Captain Tom Abel and Bard Brown are distance men. With the welcome addition of freshmen and transfer swimmers, CC should again have a powerhouse in Rocky Mountain conference circles.

Soccer Team Loses in Match To Macabi Sunday

Still looking for a lineup that will combine scoring punch with defensive skill, the Tiger booters went down to defeat at the hands of Macabi Soccer Club of Denver, 5-0. Macabi, showing by far the greatest strength of any team CC has met this year, completely controlled the game and the outcome was never in doubt.

Macabi only held a slim 1-0 lead at halftime, but the Tigers had played their best half of the game with goalie Martin Hanrahan saving at least half a dozen goals. During the first 35 minutes of play CC didn't have one shot on the Macabi goal.

In the second period Macabi continued to put the pressure on the CC goal and scored four times, the last two coming within three minutes of the final whistle. CC scored.

THESE HANDS ARE PRICELESS!

They protect the American way of life . . . our homes, our freedoms, our future.

These Hands sensitively trained to respond acutely to the commands of an alert mind and courageous heart, are the hands of a United States Air Force Pilot.

The skillful touch of these hands attunes the blasting speed of modern jet aircraft to effective missions in discouraging any enemy. These hands are supremely capable of flying and fighting these machines with devastating effect.

These Hands belong to young, spirited American men (not supermen) who desire to live unmolested in a free America . . . who want the same rights and opportunities open to all real American people.

These Hands belong to our sons—yours and mine. Youths who must decide today how they can share in defense of our nation and also better themselves. To insure greater chances of their success, today's college men should be encouraged to complete their education and then serve their country best by enlisting as Aviation Cadets in the U. S. Air Force.

Theirs is the choice of becoming either a Pilot or Aircraft Observer. After graduation as Second Lieutenants in the U. S. Air Force, they wear the silver wings of flying executives and begin earning nearly $5300 a year.

These Hands represent a man ready to qualify for this tremendous task because he is between the ages of 19 and 26½ years, unmarried, and in excellent physical condition, especially eyes, ears, heart and teeth. He possesses at least two years of college and the inherent urge to fly.

These Hands shape the destiny of America . . . the difference between our survival and oblivion. The U. S. Air Force needs the hands, the minds and the hearts of young Americans who desire to make the American way a greater way of peace and happiness for all.

This Sunday the team entertains the Denver Italians on Stewart Field at 2:00 p. m. The Italians are a new team in the league this year and haven't been able to rack up a win as yet.

The Tigers scored their 6th and last TD in the third quarter as Andy Gambucci scored his third touchdown of the day on a four yard sprint around end. Dick Porter ended the scoring for the day with a 34-yard pass to Schmidt in the Tiger end zone. In all, Porter completed 10 passes in 21 tries for 140 yards.

There was no doubt left in the minds of the fans that Andy Gambucci and Wes Boucher are real all-conference candidates. Andy rolled up 3 touchdowns and 142 yards in 21 plays. Wes was equally good, scoring once while smashing for 144 yards in 19 carries.

A responsible consulting organization has reported the results of a continuing study by a competent medical specialist and his staff on the effects of smoking Chesterfield cigarettes.

A group of people from various walks of life was organized to smoke only Chesterfields. For six months this group of men and women smoked their normal amount of Chesterfields—10 to 40 a day. 45% of the group have smoked Chesterfields continually from one to thirty years for an average of 10 years each.

At the beginning and at the end of the six-months period each smoker was given a thorough examination, including X-ray pictures, by the medical specialist and his assistants. The examination covered the sinuses as well as the nose, ears and throat.

The medical specialist, after a thorough examination of every member of the group, stated: "It is my opinion that the ears, nose, throat and accessory organs of all participating subjects examined by me were not adversely affected in the six-months period by smoking the cigarettes provided."

Seniors Eligible for $2,500 Cash Prize in National Essay Contest

Here is an opportunity for all seniors at CC interested in writing to prove their skill. A contest sponsored by the National Council of Jewish Women is now underway for essays on "The Meaning of Academic Freedom." This is a fine chance for up and coming authors to express their feelings on the significance of academic freedom, the responsibilities involved, and the relation of this freedom to the preservation of democratic liberties. Judges of this contest, one of whom is Ralph Bunche, winner of the Nobel Prize in 1950, do not want to limit the area of discussion, so writers are free to argue any idea they feel to be pertinent. Each essay must not exceed 2,500 words, must be typewritten, double-spaced, and sent to The National Council of Jewish Women by December 31, 1952. Winner of the $2,500 first prize will be announced around April 15, 1953.

Additional information concerning the form of manuscripts, rules, and certificate blanks may be obtained from Mrs. Haskill, secretary at Hayes House.

IN BEHALF OF A STRONGER U.N.

Couples are being married today in America and in lands far from us. Will they bear flesh and blood into a nightmare of chaos? Is there, will they wonder, an answer to the eternal degradation of war? This questioning has too often been expressed for those supposedly made in the image of God. War's evil dance is straining once more to listen to the music of nationalism. Again, all might become expedient before the interests of national gain.

Once we fought to save the world for democracy. We fought to strangle the scourge of facism. Now we are planning to silence the rumbling of international Communism. Who among us would deny the principles of these struggles and would not have died for the destruction of evil? But who could tell the fallen to rest easy while flags still are lowered and raised at will by near sighted patriotism?

The United Nations was to have been an organization founded upon good will and cooperation. The statesmen would not have it that way. They became petty puppets pulled by national pressures. They forgot that if we were ever to obtain peace, they would have to utilize something which would transcend mere nationalism.

The cry is heard in some quarters for us to muffle the U.N. because it has not realized the faith of its conception. It is true that the U.N. has not, and cannot, fulfill its mission as it now stands. It is a "rope of sand", incapable of forthright action. When a person has a disease, the cure is to apply the needed remedy. When an organization for world peace is weak, it is common sense to strengthen it. The U.N. must be given vital new blood. It would do little good to use medieval antedotes in the form of blood letting. The leaches of fearful ignorance can only make the patient more susceptible to illness; indeed, that would be their purpose.

Suppose that if we had no police force, there would be no crimes. This is clearly impossible. Yet, even with police protection, crimes may be committed. We have laws, yet they can be violated. Is this any reason to do away with police protection and laws which are established for the common good? We are living in a condition of international anarchy. Our situation will remain intolerable for as long as law and order are at the mercy of the individual states.

—Marshall Miller

A friend of ours is renowned in our little town for her malapropisms. At a tea recently, one of the guests complimented her on the new shoes she was wearing: "They're very handsome, and they look comfortable, too." "Yes," she agreed pleasantly, "I like their comfort—they make streetwalking so easy."

By JOAN CASTELLAN

This past week some strange creature has been going around asking the most absurd question. I was asking "What would you do if you went out with a fucoid?" I got quite a variety of answers. Some of them were:

"I'd run my fingers thru his hair!"—Sue Griffin. Next came Sam Argenta with, "I'd be fucoidish and please her." Ken Kinsley seemed to be in doubt about the whole thing and he said he'd punt because he always punts when he's in doubt. Maggie Larkin said she'd "take him home to meet my parents." I guess there's one in every crowd. Tom Rowe said he'd "take her out and park." Debbie Brewster would have "an awful good time," while Ken Kenefie would "be bashful."

Susie Beer said she'd tell him, "Honey, if you have some money, it's O. K., I don't care who you are." Nancy Hubbard says that she would "tie a ribbon on his tail." Penny Demin would "eat bananas." Mitzi Knudson says she'll do "nothing." Beth Coley would "wear skis."

On the boys' side of it, John Munger would "bring up the subject of music right away." Bill Clark would "throw in the towel" and Tom Pankau would "take it home and put it to bed."

Mary Ellen Cruthirds says she would "spend all of his money and have a party."

Just off hand, I think that most of these people would feel kind of silly doing the things that they said, if they really were out with a fucoid. In fact most of them would feel awfully silly if they did have a date with a fucoid. The date situation on campus may be pretty dire but really, just no one would go out with a fucoid! After all, who wants to date a seaweed . . . and that's what a fucoid is.

TIGERS PICK UP FOURTH WIN AT GUNNISON

TAKE 44-13 WIN FROM WESTERN STATE AFTER ONLY 6-0 LEAD AT HALFTIME

The Western State Mountaineers made a ball game of it for three quarters last Saturday at Gunnison, but the superior manpower of the Tigers finally broke loose in the fourth canto to score three times and turn the game into a 44-13 rout.

With the score only 6-0 at halftime, the Tigers had been bottled up for the most part with the only score coming early in the second quarter, as the Mountaineers showed promise of pulling off a startling upset. Coach Heiss must have used the "needle" effectively during the rest period as his charges came back after the start of the second half and scored two touchdowns, while the Western Staters matched them to make the score read 20-13 going into the final period. It was here that the Tigers really broke loose as they scored three times while holding the Mountaineers scoreless.

Wes Boucher and Andy Cam-bucci again led the way offensively as they racked up five touchdowns between them, with Wes garnering three fallies. Jack Knight added five extra points and Ron Zier scored the other touchdown to round out the scoring for the afternoon.

The Tigers total offense was greater than that racked up by their hosts, but the Mountaineers picked up 150 yards via the air-lanes as compared to the Tigers 30.

Next Saturday afternoon, the Tigers play host to the Ft. Hays

State team which defeated Colorado College on the strength of an extra point last year, 14-13. It was one of the best ball games of the season for both squads and promises to be much the same this year. Coach Heiss tabbed the Ft. Hays team as the hardest charging unit his team met last year with the exception of the Argies from Ft. Collins. It promises to be a good ball game.

Intra-Mural BILLBOARD

By PHIL GOOD

The intramural football draws to a close this week. The standings more or less hung in balance depending on what happened last night in the Beta-Phi Delt game. A brilliant passing attack, plus good defensive play has earned the Betas an almost certain championship. In the event the Phi Deltas won, coupled with the Phi Game win over the Sigma Chis Tuesday night, there will be a three-way tie for the top spot in intramural football.

As of Tuesday night, the Betas were in first place with a 4-0 record, the Phi Game were in second place with a 4-1 record and the

Minneapolis Scene Of Big Ten Game of Week

SIDELINES

The pigskin took a few unexpected bounces last Saturday; however, my percentage for the week was up eight points over last week thus raising the season's percentage one point. In picking 40 games last week I was right on 30. There were some upsets, and one of the big surprises was Penn State bashing Penn. But one of real concern to Coloradans was the victory of Missouri over Nebraska. The Buffs meet the Tigers this Saturday in Missouri, and on the strength of that game I'm picking the TIGERS over CU.

Here at home COLORADO COLLEGE, making its final home appearance, will whip Fort Hays State.

Around the nation, in the East: TRINITY over Amherst, GEORGIA TECH will whip the Cadets, BUCKNELL over George Washington, COLGATE will surprise Holy Cross, also COLUMBIA over Dartmouth, NAVY over Duke, PENN over Georgia, PRINCETON over Harvard in an Ivy bowl classic, and PENN STATE over Syracuse.

In the midwest and some great ball, I'll take MICHIGAN to do as it pleases with Cornell; the ILLINI to mop Iowa, but hold on; MICHIGAN STATE, number one in the nation, over Indiana; IOWA STATE over Drake; KANSAS to down the Cornhuskers, and in the upset of the week MINNESOTA will dump Purdue in Minneapolis. Here's why: The Boiler-makers were up for their important game with Michigan State, took a physical beating, and will be let down mentally. Minnesota will be up this week for this important clash, and, as you know, can surprise. However, I'm probably the only sports writer in the country doing this, but it's not all sentimentality. Also, WISCONSIN will power past Northwestern; OHIO STATE will eke past Pittsburgh; and in another midwestern clash OKLAHOMA will outlast Notre Dame. Journeying to the South I find TULANE over Kentucky, TENNESSEE passed LSU, and VIR-

AROUND THE CONFERENCE

Denver, Nov. 2 — Montana State's twice-beaten Bobcats are the only obstacles in the path of Idaho State's all-victorious drive to the Bengal's first Rocky Mountain conference football championship.

The Idaho team, already certain of at least a tie for the crown, can take sole possession of the title by whipping Montana State at Pocatello Saturday. Idaho State won its fourth straight league game Saturday by sailing through the air for a 21-13 triumph over Colorado Mines, last year's champions. Mines outplayed the Bengals on the ground but couldn't stop two scoring passes and another long-gaining aerial that set up the winning touchdown.

Winless Western State, embedded in the cellar after four losses, plays Colorado State at Greeley Saturday in the week's only other conference game. Western dropped a 44-13 decision to Colorado College Saturday playing CC nearly even for three quarters. Colorado State walked away from Adams State 47-27, in a non-conference game at Alamosa, Colo.

Montana State dropped a 35-12 game with Montana of the Sky-line on the fifty-first renewal of their long rivalry.

Both Colorado Mines and Colorado College have non-league foes Saturday. The Orediggers go to Alamosa to play Adams State, CC entertains at Colorado Springs for Fort Hayes, Kans.

Soccer Team Beats Italians For Initial Win

The soccer team won its first game in four starts last Sunday from the Denver Italians, 2-0. The hero of the attack was John Taylor who scored both Tiger goals, one in each half. The first score came at the midway mark in the first half as Taylor scored from his right wing position. The second goal came when halfback Mort Forrester passed to Taylor and he drove in on the goalie alone. The shot bounced off the goal post and into the nets for the score.

The big improvement in the team which was probably most responsible for the victory was the play of the halfbacks, Mort Forrester, Bud Krause and John Terpin. These men not only played very well defensively, but they

ANDY GAMBUCCI IS RATED FOURTH TOP SCORER OF SEASON IN U. S. FOOTBALL

Andy Gambucci, CC's hard running right halfback, has moved up from sixth to fourth in the ranking of this year's high scorers. Gambucci picked up two touchdowns against Western State last Saturday afternoon to run his total points to 72.

Preceding Gambucci are Al Conway of William Jewell (Mo.) with 96 points, Mac Moore of Sam Houston State with 92, and Jack Parker of Mississippi State with 73. Bill Snyder of Union and Buddy Leake of Oklahoma are right behind Andy.

Here are the top scorers in the nation today:

Snyder Plays Final Year of Football

Starring at offensive right end for the Tigers this year is Ben Snyder. Previous to this year, Ben used to play center. He was switched to the end position because of an unlucky habit of breaking bones. Up to this year, Ben has broken seven bones in twelve games. Besides playing football, Ben has been outstanding in basketball and track. He was the second highest scorer on last year's basketball team.

Bloomington, Illinois claims Ben as one of its residents. In high school he played football and basketball. In football Ben made all-city and honorable mention on the all-state game. After graduating from high school Ben entered Illinois Wesleyan University. He left that school and transferred to Colorado College in his sophomore year.

At CC Ben belongs to the "C" Club, Sigma Chi fraternity, and is president of the Red Lantern Club. As about everyone on the Phi Delt trailed in third place with a 3-1 slate.

The intramural race last week saw the Sigs defeat the K-Sigs in a 16-4 thriller. The Phi Delt and Betas both won rather decisive victories over the Independents.

Intramural tennis is also drawing to a close. In a doubles match this week, Mitch Mann and Hank Royer posted an 8-6, 6-4 victory over Eddie Craig and Dale Arie. Phi Delt Eddie Craig dropped a singles match to Nick Ferris, Kappa Sigma; Rick Carpenter won from Wick Congdon by default and Sigma Chi Mitch Mann moved into the finals by beating Phi Delt Tom Lowry.

Although the team only scored two goals, late in the second half the entire forward line started clicking together for the first time this season and made many strong rushes on the Italian's goal. On the defensive side of the game Milt Nichols and Jack Sibilia turned aside the infrequent Italian attacks, and goalie Martin Hanrahan turned aside the few shots taken at him to chalk up his first shut-out of the season.

This Saturday morning the team travels to Boulder to play CU. A victory this week would put the team in position to move into the top half of the Colorado State Soccer Association.

LaSALLE QUARTET OFFERS COLLEGE UNIQUE OPPORTUNITY FOR GOOD MUSIC

By ELIZABETH PARKER

Often the presence of the LaSalle Quartet at Colorado College is taken for granted by those of us who are students. In reality this is a unique organization for which the college and the Colorado Springs Community can be justly proud. Resident string quartets of such fine calibre as ours are found almost exclusively on the campus of large universities situated in metropolitan communities. Joseph Szigeti paid tribute to the quartet and college when he commented about the group with these words, "I enjoyed the finish and cohesion of the LaSalle Quartet immensely, and it is a great thing for the decentralization of chamber music that they are now 'in residence' at Colorado College."

It is of interest and significance to know why four extremely talented young men desire to perform together as a unit and to settle in a community such as this. Walter Levin, a violinist in the quartet, has pointed out that the primary objective of the group is to provide the country with the stimulus of first-class, live performances of chamber music. In the past two decades there has been a steady decline in interest for string playing. By performing with perfection some of the greatest music, the quartet feels that it can arouse interest and promote a return to the study of such music.

Few Quartets In The Country
Today there are very few quartets in the country and Colorado College is the smallest school to have such a group as a part of its faculty. Collier's magazine wrote: "The LaSalle Quartet is performing valuable service in selling the country on serious music. The little town of Colorado Springs boasts a finer string quartet than can be claimed by most large cities."

Due to the financial backings which the college gives as sponsor of the quartet, the musicians are able to offer their services to cities and towns which otherwise would not be able to hear the outstanding performances which the quartet provide.

After organization of the quartet at the Juilliard School of Music, they spent three years of concertizing on the East coast before coming to Colorado.

Rev. Berneking Chapel Speaker Next Tuesday

The Reverend Gerald Berneking of the First Christian Church of Colorado Springs will be the next chapel speaker. He will describe some of the most interesting and significant experiences of his recent trip around the world.

Berneking attended the world convocation of his denomination in Australia and that was the primary destination of his trip. In addition, he visited numerous other places of interest and has returned with valuable information concerning political, social, and religious attitudes of other people.

Some of these attitudes will be conveyed to us and the speaker will give some of his evaluations of their meaning.

First TV Game

Varsity football coach Bill Heiss is looking for help this weekend in the way of screen talent. TV owners in Colorado Springs will be able to view the game if their reception is good.

Sunday Afternoon Concert to Feature Moorhead, Margolinski

The second Sunday afternoon concert of the season will be presented in Perkins Hall on Sunday afternoon, Nov. 16 at 4:30 o'clock. Featured on the program will be Mr. Richard Moorhead, professor of voice and director of the Colorado College Choir, and Mr. Henry Margolinski, teacher of piano.

Mr. Moorhead, who holds degrees from the Cleveland Institute of Music and the University of Southern California, was vocal teacher and director of choruses at the Hockaday School in Dallas for some years, and has appeared as soloist many times in Los Angeles, both on radio and television programs. The Sunday concert will present Mr. Moorhead for the first time to a Colorado Springs audience.

Mr. Moorhead will be featured in two groups of songs; the first, settings by Arne Purcell of poems from early English plays, the second a group of five songs from the pen of Franz Schubert. Mr. Moorhead will be accompanied by David Kraehenbuehl, pianist.

Mr. Margolinski, a popular piano teacher in Colorado Springs, has had an extensive background as teacher of piano in Germany and Shanghai where he also was conductor of numerous opera productions and composer of film music. He will perform the charming "Variations on 'Twinkle Twinkle, Little Star,'" by Mozart, and the Scherzo in B-flat minor by Chopin.

Since a capacity house is customary for these free concerts, it is suggested that members of the audience plan to be early for the program.

STUDENT RIGHTS

By Sue Pfeiffer and Larry Waddington

Do you realize that your rights as a CC student have been endangered? A recent case which occurred on campus, has us in doubt.

For the purpose of developing a sense of responsibility our Student Council was set up by authority of the CC Constitution.

One of the Student Council's rights is that of student discipline. In their jurisdiction are all cases which involve breaches of good conduct and good citizenship. To make certain that student government may operate effectively, the Constitution provides for a Jurisdiction Committee composed of the Dean of Men, Dean of Women and two Student Council members. Their purpose is to determine which undergraduate body should complete investigations and try cases involving student discipline. Lastly, it is specifically stated in the Constitution, "that all cases of student discipline requiring trial shall be referred in the first instance to the Student Council".

All these provisions which are stated clearly in the Constitution were thrown aside last week in a case of student discipline. These are the facts: A student was accused of theft and General Gill gave the case to Dean Reid who on October 22, took it to the Committee of Undergraduate Life, a committee composed of Faculty and Administration members and by Reid that they had jurisdiction. The student was tried and found guilty, the student members of the committee abstaining. Yet this committee, as set forth by the Constitution, is to review cases after they have been tried by the Student Council. In addition, the Student Council minutes of November 3, 1952, reveal it was the first time they were aware of the case. The Committee's decision was not even given to the Student Council for review.

We are not defending any person. We are trying to defend the Constitution of the college. The Jurisdiction Committee was not consulted as provided. The case was not originated in the Student Council as provided. The very rights which are guaranteed to us were denied. What, then, will be the procedure in the future? Will you as a student be denied your rights if faced with similar circumstances?

We do not presume to judge the decision in the case, nor do we question the right of review that is given to the Committee of Undergraduate Life. But we do want to have the assurance that in the future justice will be dealt with according to the principles guaranteed in the Constitution. Is the Committee of Undergraduate Life prepared to assure us of that?

HERE WE GO AGAIN!

It's happened again. Colorado College co-eds have become dissatisfied with the boys at home, and are turning instead to those of the Colorado School of Mines at Golden. Reciprocating their last year's trip to CC, the boys have invited one hundred and fifty girls to the game between CC and Mines the fifteenth of November, and to dinner and dancing afterwards. Cail Lund, chairman of the AWS social committee, with the aid of hall representatives is matching up lists of boys and girls names according to height, age, class standing, and hometown. Wave goodbye to your gals, fellows, they're off for a day at "The Mines."

TO THE STUDENT BODY OF CC

Very shortly, I hope, the 1952 NUGGET will be in your hands. The tribulations and scandal associated with its publication will probably fade away in the months to come; consequently, I should like to take advantage of this space to express my contrition concerning the whole matter and to make my sincerest apologies to you all.

All that I know concerning the circumstance which have delayed its publication has been relayed to Dean Adams. Furthermore, I do not feel that I have any right to make excuses regarding my failures as editor.

I can only say that I am truly sorry that I did not fulfill the responsibilities with which you honored me.

I hope, however, that you will not be displeased with the results of the efforts of those who assisted me.

Best wishes to you all.

With all sincerity,
Robert A. Humphreys, editor

ACS Announces Varied Program For Coming Year

Last Friday the American Chemical Society here at Colorado College held their first meeting of the semester. The program for this year was planned. It consists of a series of industrial trips to many of the bigger industries in the state and lectures from men like Dr. Lewis of the Medical Center, Max Bowen of the Golden Cycle Mill Corp., and representatives from Holly Sugar Corp., Dow Chemical Co., and Alexander Film Co., to mention a few.

On a Tuesday evening either this month or the first of December a representative from the Corning Glass Works, Corning, New York, will present a colored movie and talk on "Careers in Glass." Another meeting soon will be devoted to a tour through Alexander Film Co., here in Colorado Springs accompanying a talk on "Progressive Advertising".

Christmas Vacation

In order to assist those students whose homes are located at great distances from Colorado College and to remove a portion of the pressure for railroad and air reservations, the following ruling relating to Christmas vacation is announced:

Students whose homes are in the Eastern time zone or in the Pacific time zone or outside the continental limits of the United States may apply for permission to leave the college twenty-four hours before the beginning of the official Christmas vacation period which this year is noon, Saturday, December 20.

In order to assist in the preparation of lists to be sent to instructors, applications must be made in writing to the Dean of Men or Dean of Women. The application should state the student's residence and should be made as soon as possible. All applicants will be promptly notified of the granting or withholding of this privilege. The student who receives this permission will be expected to use it for the purpose for which intended, namely of reaching home as soon as possible.

You are reminded that all students are required to attend classes on Monday, January 5. The only exceptions to this requirement will be granted by the Dean of Men or Dean of Women for the most urgent reasons.

MARRYIN' SAM DID A RUSH BUSINESS AT DOGPATCH STYLE DANCE SATURDAY

Last Saturday night from 9 til 12 the Sadie Hawkins dance was held at Cossitt gym. Altho it was kinda cool outdoors the people came in traditional Dogpatch outfits. Cossitt-patch was decorated with corn husks and other customary Dogpatch decorations. The center attraction of the dance was the marryin' booth. Marryin' Sam was on hand and did a boom-in' business. During the course of the evening Sam performed many two-bit, four-bit, and six-bit ceremonies. Another attraction that ran competition to the marryin' booth was the refreshment table. Cider and doughnuts were served.

Quite a variety of costumes were seen. Many of the gals wore jeans and more wore jeans cut off rather jaggedly at sort of shorts length. Along with the more usual costumes there were many very unusual ones. Several gals were dressed like the Wolf Gal. One of the girls in a leopard skin was Diana Ashforth. Sally Padon was a typical Daisy Mae in tattered looking shorts and a polka dot blouse. Sarah Sheldon and Jody Shattuck were dressed as Daisy Maes and they even dyed their hair and blacked one of their front teeth to give them that authentic Dogpatch look. Margaret Vincent, Helen Adams and Lou Ann Cutler looked very cute in costumes that they made themselves by sewing some towels together. Lee Sage and Helen Morgan made their own costumes, too. They made theirs out of red and blue polka dot material.

The girls didn't have the edge on the costumes, tho. Some of the fellas looked pretty Dogpatchy too. John Price had on a real small, short jacket and real baggy pants dressed by a rather bright pink tie. Chuck Moller showed up in a monstrous outfit. Seems he sort of combined a tux and a pair of dungarees. Bob Krohenke dyed his hair black and covered his face with black freckles. Pete Roberts looked very unusual. He had smeared his face and arms with black. His clothes were completely ragged.

Kamnitzer Talks To German Club At November Meet

Members and friends of the German Club met November 4th in the Hayes House Library with Peter Kamnitzer of the Music Department. Mr. Kamnitzer discussed German music and played appropriate selections giving special emphasis to the German song form.

Charles Hawley, president of the organization, introduced the speaker for the evening. An informal period of refreshments and popular music followed the talk.

JoAnn Castellan, Sigrid Freudenberg, Evi Levin, and Elizabeth Parker helped with the refreshments. The club is making plans for its next meeting which will be the annual Christmas party.

Truth brings the elements of liberty. — Mary Eddy Baker.

dressed-alike couples were Kim Timberlake and Dick Taylor. They had burlesque—I mean burlesque outfits.

Costumes and all, it was a lot of fun. But now the marryin' booth is closed and the gals don't get another chance to ask their guys out until Goldiggers'. So gals, you might as well start savin' your money 'cause that's really not far off.

Soccer Team Takes Beating From Colorado U.

Last Saturday the Colorado College soccer team met its first college opponent of the season and took one of the most thorough trouncings in the three year history of soccer at CC. Colorado University just showed entirely too much ability and experience as they rolled up a 7-1 margin. Only once before has that many goals been scored on CC, and that was also CU last year.

Not too much can be said for the play of the team after such a poor showing, but again it was quite evident that the inability of the defense to clear the ball with a long boot hindered that rather important CC attack. The field at CU also hindered the Tigers for it was the smallest regulation field permissible, while Stewart Field, where the team plays at home is almost twice as large.

The score was only 2 to 0 for CU at halftime, but they had several goals called back because of offside. In the second half, with

10 Seniors Play Last CC Game

Ten seniors will drop from the ranks of the CC football team after this Saturday afternoon's game with Colorado Mines at Golden.

Counted on to be a 60-minute center for the '51 season, Ben Snyder received a broken collarbone and missed most of the season. Because of previous injuries, Snyder was transferred to the position of end. Previous to this year he lettered in football, basketball, and track. Ben is a transfer student from Illinois Wesleyan.

Don Linger of Denver will also be playing his last game this weekend. Linger is in his third year of play and has won two letters. Don has played almost entirely on the CC defensive end.

John Sarlo, first string quarterback for most of this season and last, is headed for the service at the end of the semester. Sarlo, who hails from Pueblo, Colorado, lettered in football at Loyola of Los Angeles before coming to CC. He has lettered for Colorado College the past two years.

Named one of the region's finest ball carriers last season, 160-pound fullback Wes Boucher, will run his last for CC this Saturday. Boucher, who hails from Colorado Springs, is a top ground gainer. Last year he ran 83 times from scrimmage for 801 yards. He has earned two letters in football and baseball. Watch his bat in the spring.

Andy Gambucci from Eveleth, Minnesota has proven to be one of the hardest running backs on the team. He did not play last year because of his participation in the Olympic Games. Andy has lettered twice in football and twice in hockey and will be seen this winter on the blades.

Chuck Mollin, halfback from Denver, moved from third string to first in the past two years. Mollin has proved to be a very effective runner. He has lettered twice.

Brig Young, a two letterman, was an All-Conference tackle last year. Brig has been a standout on both the defense and the offense this season. He played football at Canon City high school in Colorado and then served in the Armed Forces before entering Colorado College.

The first hike will take place this Sunday in the North Cheyenne Canyon area under the leadership of Ray Phillips, Colorado Springs, and Pat Harkins, president of the College Mountain Club.

For information regarding this Sunday's hike and the new hiking group in general, please inquire of Bob Graham, Hagerman Hall; Ann Davis, Ticknor Hall; or Pat Harkins at 8039-W.

Bengals Maul Outclassed Fort Hays 49 to 0

Tigers Travel to Golden For Saturday's Feud

'52 Footballers Have Hit for 299 Points Now

The rough and ready Tigers of Colorado College completely mauled and outclassed a Fort Hays team by the awe-inspiring score of 49-0. The Bengals had their revenge Saturday for the narrow margin defeat of 14 to 13 suffered at the hands of the Kansans last year. Fort Hays was sadly handicapped by the loss of seventeen men of this year's team to the armed forces.

Andy Gambucci and Wes Boucher plowed through Fort Hays for one and two touchdowns respectively. This touchdown runs Gambucci's seasonal total up to thirteen. Ned Pfeiffer, back from the injury lists, made up for lost time by scoring one touchdown and passing to Rocky Anderson for another. Chuck Mollin also appeared in the scoring column when he bucked the line and rang up another score for CC.

Fine line play for CC accounted for two touchdowns for the Black and Gold. Craig Richardson dashed in and blocked his second punt of the season. The ball was recovered and Mollin dashed for the score. An interception of a pass by Ron Schwartz in the first period set up another score. In the final minutes Ben Snyder smashed through, blocked a punt, gathered up the pigskin, and romped into the end zone.

A final highlight of the game was the seven out of seven conversion points booted through the uprights by Jack Knight.

The big spark for the Kansas aggregation was pint-sized Gene Jacob. All the CC men on the bench saw action in Saturday's freezing weather.

This win over Fort Hays was the fifth straight and seventh victory of the season against only two losses for the Tigers. Next week, they will travel to Golden to give battle to the Colorado "Mines". Last year the Orediggers dampened our homecoming spirits by

ROTC Rifle Team Opens Competition Here December 4th

The Colorado College's ROTC Rifle Team, working out twice a week at the Colorado Springs City Auditorium range, will open the 1952-1953 season on December 4, 1952. The University of Iowa; Coe College, Cedar Rapids, Iowa; Iowa State College, located at Ames, Iowa; and St. Johns University, Collegeville, Minnesota have been challenged for the Tiger Rifles' first postal match.

Tentative schedules now being arranged by Capt. Stofflet, director of marksmanship, entails the competitive firing of three or four ROTC Rifle Teams each week. Firing will be held at each team's respective institution, with final scores mailed to each team represented for scoring and relative standings. Each match will consist of the five individual high totals, with each team member firing a total of 40 shots, 10 shots from the prone, sitting, kneeling and standing position, all shots being fired drubbing CC 14 to 6. No brotherly love will be shown during next week's fracas. This game is one of the oldest clashes in the west. Each team will be out to win in the old tradition in their hardest fight of the season.

Colorado College has set a new record for total points scored in one year by picking up 299 points so far this season. The old record set in 1900 and tied again in 1913 was 229 points. All American Dutch Clark and the Colorado College football team of 1928 moved through their opponents and collected 228 points. In 1950, the last year that Colorado College won the Rocky Mountain Conference championship, the team under the direction of Coach Allison Binns garnered 215 points.

Right halfback Andy Gambucci, one of the top-ranking scorers in the nation today, and point leader in the Rocky Mountain Conference as well as at Colorado College, has a total of 13 touchdowns and 78 points.

The Tigers in the last game of the season face their old rivals, Colorado School of Mines, in Golden this Saturday. This game will enable them to better the new mark and afford future Colorado College teams a higher goal.

HALLS OF IVY

To many of us "The Halls of Ivy" stands for the thoroughly enjoyable radio program on which Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Colman in the roles of college prexy and spouse enact the little dramas of college life with rare understanding and delightfully literate humor.

To many more of us, however, the "halls of ivy" is the symbol of college... those seats of higher academic learning whose doors will soon open once again to receive eager(?) students returning for their sophomore, junior and senior years — and many trembling and perhaps not-so-eager freshmen. If you're getting ready to go off to school, you're probably thinking — among other things — about the state of your wardrobe, and the clothes you'll need. We have a large selection of famous Van Heusen wardrobe-completers: underwear, pajamas, ties, and, of course, the college man's traditional uniform: Oxford shirts. These Van Heusen Oxfords are styled with all the studied casualness so necessary to the well-dressed man, and they're rugged, too... to withstand laundering. Whatever your school, you'll want to be an "Oxford Man." So let us outfit you.

Some of the better games of the intramural season were played last week as the season came to a colorful finish. The Betas beat both the Phi Deltas and the Sigma Chis to win the championship and possess an undefeated season.

A determined Phi Delt team almost upset the Betas as they scored two touchdowns in the final two minutes of the game. At half time the Betas held an 8 to 0 lead. Both teams scored once in the third period to make the score 14-7. With two minutes to go in the game the Phi Deltas tied the score with a touchdown and an extra point. The Betas took the kickoff and with four seconds remaining, scored on a long pass. The extra point was good, making the score 21-14. The Betas kicked off, and with time for one play, the Phi Deltas threw a long "do or die" pass for their second touchdown in two minutes. They threw away a tie as the extra point pass fell into the end zone untouched. The final score was 21-20.

The Phi Gams beat the Sigma Chis a week ago Tuesday 13-0, thus assuring themselves a tie with the Phi Deltas.

SIDELINES

By Bay Scherer

Percentage Down to 615;
That's the Way it Goes;
Win a Few, Lose a Few

There were 13 major upsets in football this past weekend, and I venture to say that all but a few prognosticators were at least a wee bit surprised. Here in the region alone, we found Wyoming coming through against Kansas State, Utah upsetting A & M, and of course Nebraska overcoming Kansas. Some thought Denver would nip New Mexico, but I was fortunate to pick it the other way. Also, my hunch about the Golden Gophers almost turned into reality. Purdue "lucked out" on an interference penalty in the last two minutes to put the ball on the Minnesota 12. They tied it up from there. So last week was a little rough on the average. I went for 39, came up with 24 and had one tie. The average "fell" to 615 for the week, and 725 for the year. I hope that 615 is rock bottom for the season.

Let's take a look at the week ahead. In the East: PENN will romp over Army, B. U. will trounce New York University, BOSTON COLLEGE over Xavier, HARVARD over Brown, CINCINNATI should beat Washington and Lee, SYRACUSE over Colgate, NAVY to beat Columbia, DARTMOUTH will smother Cornell, PENN STATE should nip Rutgers, PITT over North Carolina State, and PRINCETON will win from Yale.

In the South: it looks as though GEORGIA TECH should smash Alabama, DUKE to roll over Wake Forest, TENNESSEE to surprise Florida, GEORGIA will beat Auburn, and MARYLAND will keep right on rolling with a win over a very good Mississippi.

The Midwest will be booming this weekend and we are looking for MICHIGAN to beat Purdue and catch the train for the coast in December, MICHIGAN STATE over Notre Dame, MINNESOTA will beat Nebraska and it better be by 14 points or better, OKLAHOMA over Missouri, OHIO STATE to win from Illinois, NORTHWESTERN over Iowa, WISCONSIN will beat Indiana, and KANSAS will be on top when it's over against Oklahoma A&M.

Moving to the Southwest we find TULSA to move through Detroit, TEXAS over Texas Christian U., ARIZONA to beat Texas Western, SOUTHERN METHODIST will capture one from Arkansas, and BAYLOR, who played a great game last week against Texas, will beat Houston.

In the far west CALIFORNIA will get back in a winning frame of mind against Washington State, STANFORD will also come back and win from Oregon, while SANTA CLARA will beat the Utes, and SOUTHERN CAL will beat Washington.

Here at home in the Rocky Mountain region, COLORADO COLLEGE, in the eyes of TV viewers, will secure a second place berth in the Rocky Mountain Conference, WYOMING will win from Arizona State, COLORADO UNIVERSITY will enjoy its homecoming celebration because of a win over Kansas State, and A&M will thrash New Mexico.

On this week's list of predictions I have collaborated with the past sports editor of this paper. We were, of course, in agreement on most of the games being played this weekend, but on one occasion we couldn't see eye to eye. I picked Michigan to beat Purdue, simply because the Boilermakers are a tired bunch of ballplayers. They have had a rough schedule the past two weeks and will find that they have to boom against the Wolverines in order to win. I don't think they have it for this contest.

A truth that disheartens because it is true is of far more value than the most stimulating of falsehoods.—Masterlinck.

AROUND THE CONFERENCE

Colorado College and Colorado Mines tangle Saturday at Golden in the Rocky Mountain Conference's only football game. If CC wins this game it will securely lodge the Bengals in second place. At the present time CC is in second place with a three to one record while Colorado State is third with a three to two record. If Mines, which is in fourth place, wins its last two games, they will tie for second with CC and Colorado State.

First place championship went to Idaho State last week when they beat Montana State 35 to 0. This was their seventh straight win of the season. They will be out for their eighth win when they take on Lewis and Clark at Portland, Ore., in a non-league clash.

Winless Western State finishes its season against Panhandle A&M at Goodwell, Okla., Saturday.

ends on the field were Tom Dutton, Bob Kroehke and Rule Olson. The exceptional passers in the backfield were Ken Simon, George Hamada, Leroy Pezoldt and Dale Arie. At the center spot, exceptional work was done by Don Diones. Many other men showed good play in the line as the football season moved along.

Because of the cold weather no tennis matches have been reported. The Phi Deltis still hold a slight edge in the total tennis points. Results of the finals should be in by next week.

The next intramural sports will be boxing, wrestling, and volleyball. Plans for these sports will be announced in the near future.

Will the person who mistakenly took the clothes from the scarecrow used for the Sadie Hawkins Day dance return them to Patsy Carter at Howbert House. This is important as the clothes were borrowed from other students.

Craig Richardson has been a valuable defenseman on the squad. He has earned two letters in football and two in track.

Dick Meyer, the only letterman tackle on the CC squad, plays both offense and defense. He is a product of the Carl Schurz high school of Chicago. Meyer has two letters to his credit.

All ten of these men will see plenty of action this Saturday afternoon in Golden as the Tigers go out to secure for themselves the second place berth in the Rocky Mountain Conference.

NOSE, THROAT,

and Accessory Organs not Adversely Affected by Smoking Chesterfields

FIRST SUCH REPORT EVER PUBLISHED ABOUT ANY CIGARETTE

A responsible consulting organization has reported the results of a continuing study by a competent medical specialist and his staff on the effects of smoking Chesterfield cigarettes.

A group of people from various walks of life was organized to smoke only Chesterfields. For six months this group of men and women smoked their normal amount of Chesterfields—10 to 40 a day. 45% of the group have smoked Chesterfields continually from one to thirty years for an average of 10 years each.

At the beginning and at the end of the six-months period each smoker was given a thorough examination, including X-ray pictures, by the medical specialist and his assistants. The examination covered the sinuses as well as the nose, ears and throat.

The medical specialist, after a thorough examination of every member of the group, stated: "It is my opinion that the ears, nose, throat and accessory organs of all participating subjects examined by me were not adversely affected in the six-months period by smoking the cigarettes provided."

RON AND JIM TO HIGHLIGHT ALUMNI GAME

15 All-Time Hockey Greats Will Be On Hand Nov. 29

Saturday, November 29th, the CC Alumni hockey team will take the ice against the Colorado College varsity team to compete in the annual alumni game for the benefit of the hockey and basketball training tables.

This year the alumni boasts the strongest and most capable team that has yet to play in an alumni game. The team consists of such able players as: Tony Frasca, Ron Hartwell,

"Wally" Walholm, president of the CCA and promoter of this year's game, announced Tuesday night that Ron Hartwell and Jim Starrak, now employed in Regina, Saskatchewan by Tidewater Oil Company, will be on hand to lend their valuable assistance and further bolster the alumni team. Walholm also announced that Bruce Stewart, his wife and five children will be up for the game from Wichita, Kans. Bruce is now employed with Boeing Aircraft Company down in Wichita and will be remembered for his fine defensive work and bullet-like shot from the blue line.

Tony Frasca, the center on the All-American line of Frasca, Brandt and Hartwell, will be remembered for many years to come for his stick-handling ability and aggressive, hustling type of play. Frasca, one of CC's most colorful players, will probably center the line of Hushion and Hartwell in this forthcoming challenge. Tony is now employed in Colorado Springs, resides in Bonnyville and has just become a proud father for the second time to a little girl, Patricia Marie. The Frasens have another girl, aged one year, Gail Ann.

Ron Hartwell, CC's gift to hockey posterity of the all-time greats, and all-time high scorer here, will be remembered for his terrific speed on the right wing of the All-American line mentioned in the previous paragraph. "Ronnie," another very colorful player and recipient of the KRDO most popular player award in the two consecutive seasons of 1951 and 1952, is to be remembered for his sportsmanlike conduct and the esteem held for him by his teammates. Ron was voted most valuable player on his team, by vote of his teammates last year. Ron is engaged to Judy Baker of CC and this handsome couple plan to be married this coming March. Best wishes from the Tiger sports staff Ronnie and Judy!

Jim Starrak, another of the greats that CC can boast of, will be remembered as a "rockem-sockem" defenseman who was a tower on defense and just as able on offense. Jim, a great scorer is also to be remembered as being selected to the United Press All-American teams for three consecutive years, 1949, 1950 and 1951. Jim is the proud papa of a son, James Ray, born in October, 1952.

Mike Yalich, known in the hockey circles as "Black Mike," was captain of the team that won the NCAA hockey tournament in 1950. Mike is to be remembered

FIRST PRESENTATION OF VARIETY SHOW PLAYS TO FULL HOUSE AT PERKINS HALL

Last night the 1952 edition of the annual Campus Chest Variety Show opened to a packed house. Judging from comments made by the audience after the performance, this year's show is not only as good as those in the past, but is the best ever to appear on the stage of Perkins Hall.

Among the acts received by the receptive audience last night was the Gamma Phi Beta's "Full House" which is a variety show in itself. A hilarious version of "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" is presented by the Betas. Included in the act are Paul Trietsch as Snow White; Bob Kroehnke as Prince Charming; and Bob Heller as the Witch. All seven dwarfs are present and the remainder of the chapter represent the animals of the forest. "Meet Mr. Calahan" is the theme for the Kappa Kappa Gamma act. The scene is Calahan's Bar and what happens on a typical Saturday night. Many able singers add their talents to the show. Among them are Joyce Gladmond and Lynne Wigley. A sextet entitled "Five Flats and a Sharp" entertain with their gay 90's repertoire. The members of the group are John Munger, John Garver, Bill Pond, Bud Cohen, Kip Herried, and Glen Sorensen. Barbara Vance, Judy Avery and Jane Addenbrooke give a convincing version of rough neck, dead-end kids in an act rightfully called "The Red-blooded American Kids". Talented Janet Paine and Elaine Lundstrom do an accordion duet and Maurey Hammond, Lucy Hammond and Mary Dickson entertain with their guitar trio. Pat H and has developed a very unusual act, that of painting a picture to the rhythm of music. "Freud We Hail", done by Jan Keffer, Pat Hunt, Mary Ann Harman and Jan Charters, tells of four girls just out of high school and on their way east to college. The finale of the show is a humorous number from the Broadway hit, "New Faces in 1952", entitled "Lizzy Borden". It is based on the true story of an incident that happened many years ago in Fall River, Massachusetts. This is only a small representation of the great amount of talent that is in the Variety Show this year.

As in the past the Variety Show this year is entirely under student direction. Prof. Woodson Tyree provides technical assistance. Approximately ten different charitable organizations will benefit from the Campus Chest show. Ticket reservations can be made today and tomorrow by calling the Perkins Hall box office between 4 and 6 p.m. or from 6:30 until show time.

Andy Still Fourth In U. S. Scoring; Winds Up with 96

Colorado College's Andy Gambucci has wound up the season with 96 points and still remains in fourth place in the ranks of the nation's high scorers. Gambucci's 96 points came on 16 touchdowns.

The nation's leading scorer is Al Conway of William Jewell, who has a total of 121 points coming on 20 touchdowns and one extra point. Conway was in second place last week but moved into first by scoring four touchdowns and one extra point last Saturday. In second place is Mac Moore of Sam Houston State with 110 points. His came on 17 TDs and eight conversions. Jack Parker of Mississippi State is third with 106 points on 14 touchdowns and 22 conversions, while Jules De Rouen of McNeese State in Louisiana is tied with Gambucci with his 96 points also coming on 16 touchdowns.

Dr. Boucher Has Pictures In Annual Photography Show

Members of the College Community are reminded of the Annual Photographic Salon now open at the Fine Arts Center. Dr. Paul E. Boucher of the college faculty and a member of the Pikes Peak Camera Club, has four prints in the exhibition.

One of Dr. Boucher's prints, titled "The Cloister" (at the Capistrano Mission) received a blue ribbon with honorable mention. Another picture, titled "Where's da Pirate?", received first place and a cup in the annual Pikes Peak Camera competition.

This exhibition will be open throughout the month of November.

Kinnikinnik Seeking Contributions for This Year's Book

Editors of Colorado College's literary magazine, the Kinnikinnik, are asking the support of the student body in putting out this year's magazine.

All contributions, serious and humorous, will be appreciated and given due consideration for publication. Especially needed are short stories, poems, one-act plays, essays on drama, music, art, current events, or school life.

Any entries may be left in the Kinnikinnik box in Cutler Hall, Box No. 33, or may be given to Mary Jeanne Perenyi, Cynthia Haymes or Rhoda Percival. The staff has set a tentative deadline of December 19, so please turn in your material.

GERMAN STUDENT SEES UNITED STATES OF EUROPE IN 15 YEARS

The prospect of a United States of Europe should be realized in the next generation or in about 15 years, according to a German exchange student now attending Colorado College.

Speaking Sunday before the discussion group of the All Souls Unitarian Church, Gunter Rinsche said that East Germans under Communist rule would support the unification of Europe. "But they say, 'Make it quick!'"

The young German student, in this country nine weeks, indicated that such unity could not be brought about by one nation. In this effort, "every nation must be equal and free. The rights and responsibilities must be shared," Rinsche stated.

Steps toward a united Europe are the Schumann Plan and deliberations on the Saar industries, the German student said. He also spoke of International Youth Camps at which young people come together from all over Europe. In these camps, he pointed out, European youth learns that "basic feelings are all the same."

Indicating that unification of Europe is a "step-by-step evolution," Rinsche said, "you can't create unity of the whole world if there are some nations struggling against it."

He also commented upon opposition of England to the idea of European unity. "England doesn't think it belongs to Europe," he said, "and the Scandinavians are closely tied to England. If England doesn't join (in the effort toward a United States of Europe), they won't join."

There are many political difficulties in the way of a united Europe, Rinsche admitted. He pointed to the "big rivalry" between France and Germany and to the necessity to get industrialists of both countries to put the common cause above profits.

"Europe today is in danger of becoming a small part of Asia," Rinsche maintained, "and unification will make a better balance of power."

Pointing to intensive efforts of the Communists to "educate" the

SOUND OFF!

Well, you've done it again! You have shown your lack of any interest in anything which does not have something to do with your own little sphere of existence. Your own narrow, little world of "do nothing", "too busy" and "I can't be bothered". Yes, that's about all it amounts to. About whom am I talking? Who else but the seven out of eight people who didn't go to the infirmary (just across from Palmer for the information of those who couldn't find it) to give a pint of blood in the late, lamented Colorado College blood drive.

The figures about the number of American casualties in Korea have been published many times before, so they won't be given here again. Everybody should know them. What stumps me, in the face of such data, is how anyone physically able, can ignore the plea of those thousands wounded every month, fighting for a cause which all college students should understand. Could it be that these data are only so many figures, which are too profound for our weak little minds to comprehend? Would it be better that a picture be taken of every wound and that picture be sent, with appropriate captions, to everyone here to drive home the point? Or would that too, be too direct for your cultivated tastes?

Complacency is a word which is much over-used, but Brother it applies here! The Army Blood Donor Center called today inquiring if we would like to have another date set so that another attempt could be made to garner a few more donations. From past experiences, they will probably be wasting their time, but an attempt must be made, so watch for your next opportunity to give and try to make it. It would be an opportunity to show some people that the students of Colorado College are starting to emerge from the cocoon of indifference!

"WHAT'S THE USE?"

Last week in this space we attempted to expose a case involving student discipline which we felt was not handled properly. We felt that the action taken was unconstitutional. Apparently those in authority have seen fit to ignore our views.

The section in the Constitution which we so helplessly defended last week was placed there for a reason. A case similar to this recent one occurred a few years ago and was handled in much the same manner. To avoid a recurrence of such a case, a section involving student discipline, in which the Student Council was given more power, was placed in the Constitution. Yet, when a similar incident did arise, this section was either disregarded or misinterpreted.

If it was misinterpreted then we need a common definition for the term "student discipline". If it was not misinterpreted then it must have been disregarded. If our Constitution is to have its proper authority and command respect such a weak article should be strengthened.

Student Council is known as nothing but a figurehead on this campus. Yet, by authority of the Constitution, the Council was set up for a definite reason and has certain powers vested in it. Why, then, are these powers being denied?

We have been constantly reminded of the importance of a congenial CC family. We are not trying to cause a revolution or create ill feelings. But, only when the Student Council is assured its rightful voice in student affairs will this problem disappear. And unless this unfortunate situation is cleared up to everyone's satisfaction there can never be an area of mutual trust.

CC Co-eds Enjoyed Day at Mines Sat.

Last Saturday at 12:00 despite flurries of protest from the boys on campus, about seventy CC coeds left by bus for Mines. The girls got up to Golden at about 2:30 and as they got off the buses were greeted by their dates. They all went to the game but it was awfully cold so many left early and watched the game on television.

After the game was over the boys took their date to dinner. It was up to each individual boy to make plans for dinner. Many couples ate at the frat houses. Since lots of the boys live in Golden and Denver, some of them took their girls home for dinner and many of them ate in Denver.

The dance was held at the parish hall of the Catholic Church in Golden, and began at nine. At the dance there was a contest for naming a "little brown jug." The prize for the best name was a big box of chocolates. The winning name, "Bip Bop Burp," was submitted by Debby Brewster's date. At the same time as the big dance, the fraternities all had record dances at their houses.

The buses left at 12:15 and a lot of the girls hated to leave, as it had been a lot of fun, and a huge success! Thanks, loads to Janie Carroll who was in charge of the arrangements.

Christian Science Organization Will Meet on Friday

The Christian Science Organization is meeting every Friday afternoon from 5:00 to 6:00 in Hayes House library.

The meeting consists of a short reading from the Bible and from the Christian Science textbook, Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, the discoverer and founder of Christian Science.

The readings are on various subjects selected and prepared by alternate student readers who are members of the group. These are then followed by an open discussion which includes testimonies, experiences and remarks on Christian Science. At this time general or specific questions can be brought up and discussed.

It is hoped that in the near future we can have a registered Christian Science lecturer, from the Mother Church Board of Lectures in Boston, address us here on campus. This, however, will depend on the attendance of the group to make such an address worthwhile.

All those interested in Christian Science are urged to support the group regardless of their experience in Science. Everyone is welcome. It is our purpose to study, work and profit together.

AWS

Meet Your Officers

This is the first of a series of articles introducing the officers and board members of the Associated Women Students of Colorado College. Pictured above is Emily Howe, president of AWS, and her faithful assistant and advisor, Komo. Emily, an active senior from Webster Groves, Mo., calls and presides over meetings of the AWS Board, works with Dean Morgan in discovering problems on the campus which AWS might be able to solve, and represents the Associated Women Students on Student Council and the Committee on Undergraduate Life. Emily also represents Colorado College at regional and national AWS conventions, where she exchanges ideas with representatives from other campuses, and tells them how things are done at CC. Probably her most important duty, as president of AWS, is to further enthusiasm, among board members and women students as a whole, for all school activities.

Few people realize the place of the Associated Women Students on the Colorado College campus. Every woman student enrolled is automatically a member of AWS. Since it would be impossible for all the women to meet and carry out AWS activities, this work is done thru the four elected officers, the six heads of women's organizations, such as QA and Tiger Club, and the nine appointed committee chairmen, including service chairman and personnel chairman.

The main purpose of AWS is to co-ordinate all activities on the campus, and the board is willing and anxious to offer its services to any organization which needs help in recruiting members, organizing activities, publicizing activities, etc.

for his long reach and adeptness at breaking up line rushes at the blue line, whether it be by poke check or body check. Mike will in all probability start on defense with Ron Newson. Watch out for his long shot from the blue line Ken! Mike and his wife, the former Barbara Nealy of Colorado Springs, are the parents of a baby boy, "Nickey," who in the opinion of many, is going to dwarf Mike in size.

Harry Whitworth, in the line of Hartwell and Ray, centered the first line of the championship team in the season of 1949 and 1950. Harry is to be long remembered for his stick-handling prowess and when the fans used to yell, "Wind it up Harry," Harry usually "wound it up" in good fashion. Harry is the father of a three-year-old son, "Rocky." Harry is employed at Alexander Film Company.

Chris Ray, whose record of scoring Hartwell broke by six points last year, will long be remembered in the hockey circle around here for his fast breaking in from right wing and hitting the short corner of the net for a tally. Before attending CC Chris served in the U. S. Navy for four years and spent a year playing for the American Hockey Association team which hand picks their players to tour Europe in competition. Chris is now employed at the Broadmoor hotel, and was team captain in the season 1950-1951.

Howie Hushion is now employed at Interstate Gas; Chic Ross is the manager of the Broadmoor Ice Palace, married; Jack Chamney is principal of the Cheyenne Mountain School and is married and the father of three children; Joe Slattery (Bullet Joe) is employed by a finance company and has just been promoted and transferred to Denver; Bob Scarlet is employed by the Colorado Springs Sky Sox married; Jack Night, who also doubles as a figure skater, is employed at the Pikes Peak Optical Company, is married and the father of a curly headed boy, "Jackie"; Roy Ikola, goalie on the championship team is employed at Cheyenne, Wyo.

Slated to see action for the varsity this year will be a crew which had its ranks greatly depleted by a recent riding of the Midwest Hockey League which ruled ineligible all first year and transfer students. The 1951-52 team will furnish only seven men to this year's aggregation. Back for another season at CC are: Ken Kinsey in the nets; center, Leo Soligo; wings, Norm Diviney, Omer Brandt, Bill Clark and Ed Robson; and defenseman, Dick Kennefic. Up from last year's JV squad are: Jim Weir, Fred Eastwood, Doug Bates, Pete Kosick, Ken Simons. Rounding out the squad will be Bill Thompson who sat out last season with an ulcer; Len Gagnon who dropped out of school last year and Jim Gubbins who spent last year as Jim Gubbins. Gubby this year is handling the managerial duties in addition to being an active player.

This forthcoming game will offer people who have never seen a hockey game a new experience in the way of thrills and excitement; and to the rest of us, the beginning of a new season in tension and thrills. Let's all get out and support our men whether they be alumni or students. By doing this you support your school and the ever growing CCA.

The Music Workshop held its opening meeting Wednesday, Nov. 12. Elections for Workshop officers were held and resulted as follows: Connie Cover, president; Ted Coons, secretary-treasurer; Joyce Gladmond, publicity; and the refreshment committee will be appointed separately upon each occasion.

Various suggestions as to the activities this year were discussed. Among them were trips to Denver, speakers from other colleges or professional musicians, talks by members of our music department and possibly a demonstration by the LaSalle Quartet. A tradition of the workshop which will be continued is their Christmas caroling.

It was the opinion of the group that Tuesday nights would be best for meetings. There will probably be one a month so watch for notices. The Music Workshop plans to have another successful and interesting year.

SOCCER TEAM

Last Sunday the Tiger soccer team absorbed its second licking in as many weeks at the hands of a college team. This time Colorado Mines soundly trounced the booters 6-0 on Washburn Field. Mines boasting the best team in the state wasted little time in showing their supremacy as they scored after five minutes of play. For the next 15 minutes CC played its best soccer of the year, sparked by Ken Smith playing his first game at center forward. After this period Mines dominated play for the rest of the game, scoring twice more before the first half ran out, and three times in the second half.

Captain Walt Stone returned to the nets after an absence of four games and played an outstanding game. Late in the second half as he was defending against a head shot of Mines right inner Romero, he broke a bone in his left hand. Especially outstanding thruout the game was Fullback Jack Sibilia, who almost singlehandedly stopped many Miner rushes. The three halfbacks, Bud Kaue, John Terplan and Mort Forrester also did a fine job in trying to stem the tide of the surging Orediggers.

This Sunday the team travels to Denver to play the Heinsolin Athletic Club. Two players from CC, Jack Sibilia and Ken Smith, are to play against the industrial league all-stars on Nov. 30 in Denver.

Tigers Are Impressive In Final Game of Year; Won't Forget 1952

SIDELINES

By
Scherer

So, Colorado College winds up another football season, and, although we all had some rough moments, the season certainly has been a good one. The Tigers set a new scoring record with 339 points. Wes Boucher picked up 1,007 yards this year to bring his three year total to 2,450 yards. That is the highest recorded figure in Colorado College history, but records were not kept in such detail in "Dutch" Clark's days here. It is known only that Clark amassed a total of 1,246 yards in his junior year, statistics being kept for the All-American selection committee.

Yes, the team will have many pleasant memories of this past season, and some of them will stem from last weekend's game with Mines. That game in Golden was a mixture of almost every element of football. It was rough, at times filthy, possessed thrills from long runs and pass plays and was the first game to be played before TV cameras in this region. Besides all of that, the weather was a bit nippy. Chuck Mollin will remember the contest for at least a month, as will Rocky Anderson. Don Linger will remember the weekend the rest of his life, but for a different reason. Every senior will not soon forget the congratulatory message from Coach Bill Heiss in the dressing room following the game. In the dressing room after the game I asked many of the players, mostly seniors, if they were a little relieved that football was over for good. Some said, "yes," others said, "no." But I caught the way a lot of them felt, I'm sure, when Craig Richardson said, "Next season will be the first season in 12 that I haven't played the game." Actually, more of the players than now realized will be automatically getting the "urge" next September.

Spirit ran high among next year's returning lettermen as they dressed after the game, and, if they feel next fall the way they did then, Colorado College football fans can look forward to a hardworking bunch of men on our gridiron.

Well, it won't be long before the whole season skids to a close as already a number of colleges and universities have completed their seasons. Others have not, so let's take a look at the "dope sheet." First, though, let's see what happened last week. My guest prognosticator Dale Arie and I, had an average week. We predicted 37, and missed ten for an average of .729. My yearly average now stands at .726. Now for a look at this coming weekend.

In the east this weekend the big one is the Harvard-Yale game in Boston, and I'm looking for the BULLDOGS to take this colorful classic before a capacity crowd. BROWN will beat COLUMBIA, as will BUCKNELL over Delaware. PRINCETON'S Tigers will mash Dartmouth in another hot gridiron rivalry renewal. DUKE will

AROUND THE CONFERENCE

This year's winner of the championship crown of the Rocky Mountain conference, Idaho State closed its season undefeated when they won over Lewis and Clark of Portland, Ore., 21 to 18 on the strength of three conversions. Colorado College is securely lodged in second place with four wins against one loss. The third place spot is held down by Colorado State with three wins and two losses. Fourth place is in a tie position between Colorado Mines and Montana State. This place rests on the outcome of next Saturday's game when the two contenders clash for fourth swamp North Carolina; SYRACUSE will power past Fordham, and GEORGIA TECH will mangle Florida State.

The Midwest has a important Saturday approaching. The Big Ten, in a nip and tuck battle this year, swings into the homestretch as Purdue tangles with Indiana, Michigan with Ohio State, and Minnesota with Wisconsin. Here's the way this conference stacks place ribbon. Last week Western State lost in a non-conference game to Panhandle A&M of Goodwell, Okla. This year's basement dweller is Western State. They finished their season with no wins and five losses.

The game with Colorado Mines made football history in Colorado. This is the first grid game to be televised from a Colorado Field.

The clash between Colorado College and the Colorado School of Mines is one of the oldest football battles west of Mississippi. The contest dates from 1889 to the present time. The series now stands at Colorado College 30 wins, Mines 21 wins and five ties.

up with this reporter. Saturday, MICHIGAN will beat an inept Ohio State squad decisively; PURDUE, attuned in the last two weeks by Minnesota and then Michigan, will hop back on the winning side of the records taking Indiana; and don't be too surprised if MINNESOTA'S Golden Gophers make the conference race thicker than molasses in January with a win over Wisconsin's Badgers in Madison, WISCONSIN. ## LUCKIES TASTE BETTER!

They're made better to taste
cleaner, fresher, smoother!

Ask yourself this question: Why do I smoke?

You know, yourself, you smoke for enjoyment. And you get enjoyment only from the taste of a cigarette.

Luckies taste better—cleaner, fresher, smoother! Why? Because Luckies are made better to taste better. And, what's more, Luckies are made of fine tobacco. L.S./M.F.T.—Lucky Strike Means Fine Tobacco.

So, for the thing you want most in a cigarette... for better taste—cleaner, fresher, smoother taste... Be Happy—Go Lucky!

Tigers Claw Mines in Final Game of Season 40-13

Gambucci Scores Three TDs In Wide Open Mines Game

Burying the Miners under a 40 to 13 landslide, the Colorado College Tigers slid undisputed into second place in the Rocky Mountain Conference. Besides being an important win for CC, it highlighted the first football game to be televised in Colorado.

The Bengal's attack was sparked by Andy Gambucci and Wes Boucher. Gambucci smashed for 189 yards in twenty-one carriers and passed for 42 yards on two completions in five attempts. His total of 231 yards was close to half of the entire CC gains for the day, 489 yards. Wes Boucher, from the fullback slot, bucked the line for 125 yards in fifteen carries. Boucher raised his season's rushing total to 1,007 yards. Gambucci's three touchdowns gave him sixteen for the season and a total of 96 points to tie for fourth place in the nation's leading scorers.

Gambucci scampered for the first Black and Gold score around left end from eight yards out. The CC rush started from their own 19 after Colorado Mines lost the ball on downs. Jack Knight booted his first of four conversions for the day.

Five minutes later the Orediggers retaliated by striking pay dirt on a run around left end by Roy Essary from the ten. The Miners used eleven plays to score the touchdown. Jack Earl, Mine's ace passer, was hurt midway in the drive and had to be carried from the field.

A half minute after receiving the kickoff, Gambucci found a hole on the left side of the forward wall and raced 75 yards for his second touchdown. Knight's extra point made it 14 to 6. Fumbles highlighted the second quarter on both sides.

In the opening minutes of the second half, Gambucci again started off on a long jaunt to the goal line, when a desperation tackle by a Miner nailed him on the 19. On the next play Quarterback Jerry Engleson handed off the pigskin to Andy in the very same play as the preceding one. Andy galloped over for the Tiger's third touchdown. The conversion was made good by Knight and the score stood 12 to 6.

In the final quarter Colorado Mines got down to business. They began to charge and hit hard to make the action really rugged. Colorado College picked up most of its 110 yards of penalty losses in this quarter. Andy Gambucci was taken out of the game in this quarter due to injuries.

Ron Zier, who replaced Andy, scored CC's fourth touchdown. The drive was spotlighted by a 67 yard run by Wes Boucher. It took four plays to send Ron over.

At this point the Orediggers started a drive of their own. In eight plays they moved 60 yards to score. Ron Bethurum scored for Mines while Ed Turner made the extra point good.

The next play is what a lineman always dreams about but rarely sees happen. The Miners tried an on side kick and tackle Art Elder grabbed the ball in flight and dashed through a whole herd of tacklers for the touchdown. Knight collected his fourth conversion to make it 34 to 13.

In the final minutes Lowell Slocum intercepted a Mines pass on his 10 and raced 90 yards to score. This game rings down the curtain on CC's football season. The Tigers finished in second place in the Rocky Mountain Conference, defeated only by Idaho State which copped first place. The Bengals have a seven win, two lost record for the year. The other loss was to

ROSENTHAL FEATURED AS SPEAKER IN COLLEGE LECTURE SERIES

Dr. Albert Rosenthal, regional director of the Federal Security Agency for the Rocky Mountain region, was presented by Colorado College in a public lecture at Perkins Hall on the campus, Tuesday, Dec. 2, at 8:15 p. m. Since the issue of integrity of government officials has become a major one, Dr. Rosenthal's subject, "What Goes On Behind the Scenes in International Administration," was a pertinent one. He also appeared before Professor Douglas Merz's class in public Administration at 9 o'clock Tuesday and made a twenty-minute chapel talk. The chapel talk was entitled "Public Service as a Career."

Dr. Rosenthal is a distinguished public servant. A graduate of the University of Denver, he received his MA degree from the University of Minnesota and his Ph.D. degree from Harvard University. He aided the first administrator of Social Security and developed the Basic Organization Chart used in setting up the Federal Security Agency in 1939; he has had special assignments with the Bureau of the Budget, the Federal Security Agency, the Department of State and UNESCO. He has served as a member of the United States delegations to UNESCO, first in Paris, then in Mexico; he represented the U. S. in negotia-

H. Chase Stone Elected to Fill Trustee Vacancy

H. Chase Stone has become a member of the Colorado College Board of Trustees, CC President William H. Gill announced last night following a meeting of the eighteen man group. Mr. Stone is replacing William Howbert, whose duties as trustee put additional strain on an already overburdened schedule and necessitated his resignation after being re-elected to the board early in 1952.

Mr. Stone has been extremely active in community affairs since coming to Colorado Springs over twenty-five years ago. He is president and director of the Colorado Springs First National Bank, trustee of the El Pomar Fund, president of the board of trustees of Fountain Valley School, and last year was elected as the Most Outstanding Business Man of Colorado Springs by the Alpha Kappa Psi business fraternity.

He has served in the past as president of the Colorado Springs Boys Club; president of the local Council of Boy Scouts of America. He also had the office of president of the local Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Stone was educated at Phillips Exeter Academy and at Cornell University.

With Max Lerner at the piano, Kapusinski will play the Cello Sonata in G minor by Handel and the Cello Sonata in E minor by Brahms.

Between these two numbers members of the LaSalle Quartet and David Kraehenbuehl, flute, and Warren Stannard, oboe, will play a Quintet for strings and woodwinds by Johann Christian Bach, one of the famous sons of the great Johann Sebastian Bach.

In keeping with the Christmas season the Colorado College choir will present a Christmas candle-light service at Shove Memorial Chapel on Wednesday, December 17, at 8:15 p.m. This program will take the place of the fourth regular Sunday concert in the Perkins Hall series.

Carson Commander Thanks Colorado College Blood Donors

In a letter to President William H. Gill of Colorado College, Brig. Gen. George V. Keyser, Camp Carson commander, said in part: "On behalf of the National Blood Program, the wounded men in Korea, and the staff at Camp Carson, I wish to express my sincere thanks for your cooperation and participation in our Blood Donor Program. The faculty and student body at Colorado College should feel great pride and satisfaction in knowing that they have given their blood to save the lives of the men who have fallen in battle. To date no satisfactory substitute has been found for whole blood.

"Our troops here at Camp Carson are giving generously of their blood each three months. May we call upon Colorado College again when three months have passed?"
Actually this initial blood donation drive at the local campus was only a moderate success. A variety of reasons including a misunderstanding of schedules, plus the fact that many had already donated thru local Red Cross facilities before the campus drive was announced, held down the number of donations.

With the experience gained, the Blood Donor program at CC under the direction of Sue Beer, working with the AWS Service Committee and the Interfraternity Council, expects to put the forthcoming spring drive over with a bang."

American Universities Face Crisis Caused By Inflation

Following an investigation of the financial crisis in U. S. higher education it was found that colleges and universities neglect themselves where money is concerned. The twelve man investigating committee set up by the Association of American Universities reported that U. S. campuses are in real trouble. The rising costs of education have far outstripped its growing income. Expenses of organizations requiring more

Andy "Back of Year," Wes "Most Valuable" At Fall Sports Dinner

(From the United Press and the Free Press)

Colorado College placed four men on the Rocky Mountain All-Conference team, it was announced at the fall sports banquet November 24. Of those four Andy Gambucci and Wes Boucher were repeaters. Gambucci was voted the conference back of the year, while Coach "Babe" Caccia was the conference coach.

In addition to Andy and Wes, CC tackle Dick Meyer and guard Willard Linton were also named. Meyer is a senior and Linton, a junior.

Craig Richardson was the only CC man to be named to the second team. He was picked at end, Brig Young, Jim Demos, Dick Pearson and Maury Hammond received honorable mention.

At the C.C.A. sponsored Fall Sports Banquet Wes Boucher received the DeFries award for the "most valuable player" of the year here at Colorado College.

money are libraries and student services. These have helped to double administrative costs to $81 per student a year. It can almost be said that the success of higher education has been its financial undoing. The chief culprit has been inflation. Building costs have jumped 100-200 per cent and the cost of operating a campus is tripled.

The question has arisen as to how much more money the nation's campuses need? The commission states that it depends upon their goals. The commission offers no actual plan for paying for the staggering bills, but it does make a few suggestions. U. S. higher education must economize. Campuses should divide their specialties, cooperate with one another in exchanging students and teachers, and in using common facilities. But no matter how far U. S. campuses go in slashing their budgets, they will still need more money to streamline their methods of getting it. Among the commission's suggestions were:

- 1) Research contacts should be made to cover all expenses.
- 2) Education must press for a definite military man power policy.
- 3) Tuitions should be raised in some instances.
- 4) U. S. campuses should join state or regional groups to solicit funds from new sources.

The commission warns that "we as a nation should call a halt at this time to the introduction of new programs of direct federal aid to colleges and universities. We also believe it undesirable for the government to expand the scope of its scholarship aid to individual students . . . lest the freedom of higher education be lost."

HOW TO STAY IN COLLEGE

1. Bring the professor newspaper clippings dealing with his subject. Demonstrates fiery interest and gives him timely items to mention to the class. If you can't find clippings dealing with his subject, bring in any clippings at random. He thinks everything deals with his subject.
  2. Look alert. Take notes eagerly. If you look at your watch, don't stare at it unbelievably and shake it.
  3. Nod frequently and murmur, "How true!" To you, this seems exaggerated. To him, it's quite objective.
  4. Sit in front, near him. (Applies only if you intend to stay awake). If you're going to all the trouble of making a good impression, you might as well let him know who you are, especially in a large class.
  5. Laugh at his jokes. You can tell. If he looks up from his notes and smiles expectantly, he has told a joke.
  6. Ask for outside reading. You don't have to read it. Just ask.
  7. If you must sleep, arrange to be called at the end of the hour. It creates an unfavorable impression if the rest of the class has left and you sit there alone, dozing.
  8. Be sure the book you read during the lecture looks like a book from the course. If you do math in psychology class and psychology in math class, match the books for size and color.
  9. Ask any questions you think he can answer. Conversely, avoid announcing that you have found the answer to a question he couldn't answer, and in your younger brother's second grade reader, at that.
  10. Call attention to his writing. Produces an exquisitely pleasant experience connected with you. If you know he's written a book or article, ask in class if he wrote it.
- As to whether or not you want to do some work, in addition to all this, well, it's controversial and up to the individual.

Let's Face It

By Sue Pfeiffer and Larry Waddington

Has anyone read the CC drinking Code lately? Or did you know we had one?

The code, in brief, states that the administration disapproves of the use of alcoholic beverages by students; alcoholic beverages are prohibited in all college buildings; and individuals drinking at a college athletic event or social function are subject to dismissal.

The Student Council, regaining some of their rights, conducted a trial last Monday concerning a violation of this Drinking Code. The Kappa Sigma Fraternity was found guilty of having alcoholic beverages in their house during their Skunk Hollow Dance and lost their costume dances for next semester. Last year for similar reasons the Betas also lost their social privileges.

Now whose fault is this "drinking problem"—the students or the rule-makers? Probably both, but what can be done in order to solve this problem?

We feel that setting hard and fast rules on drinking is not the solution. It would only push it underground. Students have no place to go now to dance and have a beer—drinking in cars is playing with danger.

It will be found that we have no more of a problem than society in general, and further that it is a matter of personal stamina and guts as to whether we as individuals are affected by the situation or not.

We agree with the idea of the Social Committee and Dean Morgan that the drinking code should be rewritten. A code facing reality which can settle our "drinking problem."

MEET YOUR OFFICERS

Vice-president of the Associated Women Students of CC is Miss Peggy Root, a junior from Glencoe, Ill. Peggy's duties included planning and organizing the AWS Fall Conference, which was held last September at Bruin Inn. She was also in charge of the "Buzz-bee" program and arranged for professors to meet with small groups of girls in the dorms to discuss the honor system, grading system, requirements, and to answer questions. The recent very successful Activity Night was also due to Peggy, who called together the presidents of the organizations represented, planned for publicity and organized the entertainment.

Besides these major jobs of her office, Peggy takes over AWS meetings when the president, Emily Howe, cannot be there, and she attended both the national and the regional conventions of AWS with Emily.

There will be a meeting of the AWS board Thursday night at 6:00 p.m. in the AWS room.

SCIENCE FOUNDATION ANNOUNCES GRADUATE FELLOWSHIP PROGRAMS

The National Science Foundation has recently announced its second graduate fellowship program for the academic year 1952-53. Fellowships will be awarded for graduate study in the biological engineering, mathematical, medical and physical sciences. The programs now offered are sponsored by the National Science Foundation, Merck and Company, Inc., the Lilly Research Laboratories, the Radio Corporation of America, the Rockefeller Foundation, the National Tuberculosis Association, the James Picker Foundation and the American Cancer Society.

More than five hundred fellows will be selected for a year of graduate study. Selections are made solely on the basis of ability. The three-part rating system for predoctoral fellows will consist of test scores of scientific aptitude and achievement, academic records and recommendations regarding each individual's merit.

The stipends for predoctoral fellows range from $1,400 to $1,800; the stipends for predoctoral fellows $3,400. In addition, tuition and certain required fees will be paid by the Foundation. Limited allowances will be provided for dependents and for travel to a fellow's institution. The tenure of a fellowship is for one year.

This year, for the first time, Senior Fellowships only are offered by Merck and Company, Inc., and are open to applicants who have completed advanced training equivalent to that represented by the Ph. D. degrees and have at least three years of postdoctoral professional experience in the major field, only one of which may have been fellowship work.

Information and application blanks may be secured for any of the programs by writing to the Fellowship Office, National Research Council, 2101 Constitution Ave., N. W., Washington 25, D. C.

Introducing Thomas Alva Edison at a dinner, the toastmaster mentioned his many inventions, dwelling at length on the talking machine. The aged inventor then rose to his feet, smiled and said gently: "I thank the gentleman for his kind remark but I must insist upon a correction. God invented the talking machine. I only invented the first one that can be shut off."

A teacher, making a trip with a group of children, stopped for lunch at a restaurant where one youngster noticed a slot machine and asked what it was. The teacher launched into a lecture on the evils of gambling. To emphasize the futility of trying to get something for nothing, she said she'd show them what she meant. She marched up to the machine, put in a nickel, pulled the handle, and hit the jackpot.

CC Variety Show Entertains GIs At Camp Carson

The CC Variety Show went on the road last Tuesday when they provided an hour's entertainment for the Camp Carson hospital. The show opened with "There's No State Like Colorado" and closed with a hilarious performance of "Lizzie Borden". The filling for this "stage sandwich" was gay and varied. Most of the solos and small groups from the original show were again presented. Included in the program were "Freud We Hail", "Red-Blooded American Kids", Five Flats and A Sharp", the guitar trio, the accordion duet, and numerous individual acts.

Swim Team Opens In Laramie Dec. 26 At Wyoming Relay

Coach Doc Stabler has announced the 1952-53 schedule for Colorado College's Rocky Mountain champ swim team. It will include four home meets at the beautiful Camp Carson pool. The CC men will open the season at Laramie, Wyo., December 6. This meet is designed primarily as a kick-off for the swimming season in the Rocky Mountain region, with all regional schools being represented, irrespective of their conferences. This meet is composed mainly of relay races, of different distances and strokes. No point totals are kept, and no winning team is determined at this opening meet although individual winning relay teams will receive medals.

December 13, Colorado College will have its first home meet, which will be against the large Colorado Springs High School squad. This meet, as well as the other meets at the Camp Carson pool, is open to the public, and all college students and others are welcome to attend. After the Colorado College raised the curtain on the new hockey season last Saturday night when CC took to the ice against the Alumni. The Varsity handed the Alumni a 5 to 4 defeat. This Friday and Saturday the Bengals take to the ice to do battle with the University of Toronto. On Wednesday and Thursday nights the Canadians clash with Denver University in the Community Chest benefit game.

AROUND THE CONFERENCE

The Toronto Blues finished second in Canadian college ranks last year after winning the championship the year before. Denver will start this year's season with 15 lettermen paced by the All-America defensemen, Eddie Miller and Don Burgess.

The University of North Dakota iceemen started practice Monday. The Sioux have 10 returning lettermen and five other players who will make up the 15-man roster. The Sioux will open their winter campaign December 19 and 20 against the University of Saskatchewan. Colorado College will meet the Dakotans when the Tigers travel to Grand Forks on February 10 and 11.

Turning to the basketball scene the Mountaineers from Western State will begin their season on December 4. This year's team will be comprised of 15 men. Four of these men will be returning lettermen. The Tigers meet the Mountaineers on their home court on January 9 and 10.

At the completion of the Mountaineers' 2-won, 6-lost football season, the team elected Virg Stan and Frank LeFevre, co-captains. Stan was selected as All-Conference quarterback. He carried the ball 1200 yards and had a 44 yard per kick average. LeFevre was a defensive tackle all season.

Western State is also conditioning a ski team for the winter slopes. Their season will include six meets. Coach Wiik is making tentative plans to take a team to the national championship.

tangle with Denver U. in Denver on February 4. The opening conference competition for CC's defending Rocky Mountain Conference Champions will be on Feb. 7 with the Mines at the Carson pool. February 14 at Greeley, CC tangles with Colorado State. Finishing out the season will be the Rocky Mountain Conference meet on February 21, which for the first time will be held in Colorado Springs at Camp Carson.

The swim team has three weeks of practice under its belt going into the Wyoming Relays, and Coach Stabler, with the invaluable help of assistant coach Bill Mann, is molding another strong contender for the R.M.C. crown. Several promising freshman swimmers have considerably strengthened the returning champs from last year. Included among these are Don Hale, a hustling sprint man from Shaker Heights, Ohio, and Jim Fowler, a good backstroke from Iowa City, Iowa. Both men were captains of their local high school teams and are shooting for regular positions on the team. Slated for plenty of action in the freestyle sprint races will be John Stewart, a Kewanee, Illinois product, with Chuck McCormack of San Francisco, California, battling for a crack at the breaststroke

They're made better to taste
cleaner, fresher, smoother!

Ask yourself this question: Why do I smoke?

You know, yourself, you smoke for enjoyment. And you get enjoyment only from the taste of a cigarette.

Luckies taste better—cleaner, fresher, smoother! Why? Because Luckies are made better to taste better. And, what's more, Luckies are made of fine tobacco. L.S./M.F.T.—Lucky Strike Means Fine Tobacco.

Nation-wide survey based on actual student interviews in 80 leading colleges reveals more smokers prefer Luckies than any other cigarette by a wide margin. No. 1 reason—Luckies' better taste. ## Tigers Open '52 Cage Season Lose to Denver Bankers 80-44

Basketball made its way into the public eye Monday night at Cossitt gym as the CC varsity fell to the Denver Central Banker's semi-pro team of Denver, 80 to 44. A new system of basketball was given a trial run in the Banker game. Several college teams across the nation have considered the new method. Instead of using a clock to determine the length of a game a new system of 40 points per half has been in-

Intramural volleyball opened its season Tuesday night and will run through the ninth of this month. Following volleyball will be the rough and ready boxing and wrestling matches. The elimination contests will begin the tenth and end the eleventh of December. The final matches will be held December 16.

Weigh-ins for both boxing and wrestling will be held tomorrow at Cossitt. There are eight weight divisions in each sport ranging from flyweight, which is 121 lbs., through heavyweight, which is 185 and above.

For each match won, the fraternity represented will be awarded one point, no points for byes will be given. Those winning in the semi finals will draw four points, and the winners of each weight division will be given five points.

The tennis finals have yet to be played because of weather conditions. Indoor courts have been secured, and it is hoped that the results will be by next week. Three men remain in the singles tournament. Rick Carpenter of the Phi Deltas drew a bye in the semi-finals and now awaits the outcome of the Mitch Mann, Sigma Chi and Bill Clark, Independent, match. The finals match proves to be a hot one as all three men in the tournament are top notch men.

The doubles tournament has not changed in the last three weeks. Henry Royer and Mitch Mann, outstanding Sig team, who are in the finals, are awaiting the outcome of two doubles matches which will decide the other finalist.

stalled. As a result of this method the first team to reach 80 points wins the ball game. It is hoped such a method will speed up the game and especially do away with the last minute stalling exhibitions. A new free toss system has been put into use this year. The new rule will affect all college teams. If a player is fouled other than while in the act of shooting, he is given two attempts to make a point. If he makes the first shot the ball goes out of bounds and play is resumed.

The Bankers more or less out-classed the Tiger quintet in a rather slow moving contest. The Tigers drew first blood in the opening of the game as Mel Kensinger hit the net from 15 feet out. Both teams matched points to eight. At this point the Bankers blew hot and carried the lead to 40-17 at halftime.

The semi-pro team boasted a very tall team which proved to be a great disadvantage to the CC club. Tall man for the Bankers was Gene Gibson, six foot eight standout, who proved his worth by hitting the hoop for seventeen points. McKetchen, who previously played standout ball for Montana State was second high with eleven points. The Bankers put out a team of class as they fielded such well known ball players as Smith, who was voted All-American from Utah, Al Gossitt who rated all AAU last year. Gossitt hit the net for nine points in the CC fracas. Other well known Bankers are Eicher, who played or the Artesia, New Mexico, semi-pro team last year; Stokes, who played at CC and DU standouts Howell and Grey.

CC fielded a veteran ballclub composed of Done Stone, Spider Kensinger, Tom Dunton, Ed Lodemell and Jim Bergstrom. The Tigers have a well rounded team and should do well in the coming season. Reserve strength was quite noticeable as the entire squad saw action.

Spills Highly Touted Alumni In Overtime Thriller, 5-4

Colorado College's hockey team sneaked past a "loaded" alumni outfit before 2,600 fans at the Broadmoor Ice Palace last Saturday night, 5 to 4, in a blistering overtime period that capped a very successful move to earn funds for the hockey training table. The entire endeavor was made wholly successful under the leadership of "Wally" Walholm, CCA president. The evenly played contest went into a sudden death overtime when the varsity rallied for two goals in the third period. The alumni took advantage of the breaks to chalk up a 3 to 1 lead in the first period. They notched the first at four minutes when Ron Hartwell, midwest league leading scorer last year, got a break on Kinsley and pulled Ken out of the net.

With the Alumni one man short, veteran Bruce Stewart scored on a screen shot from the blue line that came close to tearing a hole in the net. The varsity retaliated when Andy Gambucci, U. S. Olympic star last year, flipped Kennefic a beautiful pass that Dick shoved past Alumni goalie Bob Scarlett.

In the torrid first period eight men warmed the penalty box bench. To conclude the scoring in the first period "Bullet" Joe Slaughtery and Mike "the black one" Yahch teamed to beat Kinsley as the buzzer sounded.

"The old ones" notched another goal early in the second period when Bruce Stewart skated thru the shorthanded varsity to score his second of the evening. Then the Tigers caught fire and opened up with a goal by Ed Robson to bring the count to 4 and 2 at the end of the second.

In a furious third period Andy Gambucci got his first and Ed Robson his second goal of the year as the varsity tied it all up, sending the contest into overtime. The "sudden death" affair was brought to a close when Omer "the bull" Brandt slapped a short pass to Norm Diviney. Norm blasted it home and the game was over.

Alumni goalie Bob Scarlett staved off 33 scoring attempts, while the Tiger netminder, Ken Kinsley knocked out 15.

races along with Horace Rice, transfer from Connecticut's Wesleyan University.

As the backbone supporting this new talent, Coach Doc Stabler is depending heavily on his returning lettermen from last year's champs. In the distant races, Captain Tom Abel, Bard Brown, and Bill Schacht are on hand, and can be counted on for winning points. Returning in the breaststroke is Norm Brown, CC's conference record holder and high point man of last year's team. Ed MacGuire will be out to cop this year's records in the backstroke, at which he is a top performer. Returning freestylers are Ted Bilharz, conference 50 yard sensation, and Wally Harmon, workhorse of last year's freestylers. In diving, Coach Stabler can count on Chuck O'Connor, last season's mainstay, backed up by Ron Zier and Tom Tolman.

A responsible consulting organization reports a study by a competent medical specialist and staff on the effects of smoking Chesterfields. For six months a group of men and women smoked only Chesterfield—10 to 40 a day—their normal amount. 45 percent of the group have smoked Chesterfields from one to thirty years for an average of ten years each.

At the beginning and end of the six-months, each smoker was given a thorough examination including X-rays, and covering the sinuses, nose, ears and throat. After these examinations, the medical specialist stated . . .

Congress American Industry Is Attended By College Students

NEW YORK—A group of 76 young people, including 60 college students and 16 industrial apprentices from every state in the union were in New York for a full week of activity designed to better acquaint them with industry's problems and solutions.

The students and apprentices were guests of the National Association of Manufacturers at the 57th annual Congress of American Industry which was held at the Waldorf-Astoria.

The entire program for the group had been arranged and was under the supervision of the NAM Education Department.

For the first time this year business fraternities, Delta Sigma Pi and Alpha Kappa Psi, were represented by a student from each.

To set the stage for the week the group toured Manhattan and visited the United Nations headquarters, attending a session of the General Assembly.

Each morning the students and apprentices met for breakfast and then left for the Waldorf-Astoria where they attended Congress sessions of their own choice, basing their selections on individual interests.

Subjects they were allowed to choose included the effect of international policies on the American economy, military preparedness, foreign assistance, employer's problems in industry, government policies affecting the economy, and others.

During these sessions they had an opportunity to hear and meet leaders in all fields of industry, government and economics.

On Friday the students and apprentices took part in the Congress program with a forum period. The 24 students and eight apprentices were selected by their own groups to participate and questioned industrialists and economists. This session, with no holds barred, was one of the popular features of the Congress.

Special regional dinners gave the young people an opportunity to meet industrialists and NAM leaders from their own area.

A special feature on the industrial application of atomic power gave the students an opportunity to discover the latest research findings as discussed by Dr. Robert E. Wilson, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana; Dr. William Lee Davidson, director of the Office of Industrial Development of the Atomic Energy Commission and Charles H. Weaver, manager of the Atomic Power Division of Westinghouse Electric Corp.

As a climax to the week the students heard a major address by Gen. Douglas MacArthur at the annual Congress dinner in the ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria.

Saturday morning the students and apprentices met for their final breakfast together and then left for the trip back to the campus.

Chapel Program Will Feature A Capella Choir

The Colorado Springs High School A Capella Choir will present a program of Christmas music in the Chapel service next week, December 19. The choir is directed by Mr. Frank H. Gilles. Those who have heard the choir in the past will realize that they have a distinct treat in store for us. During the Christmas season the choir is in great demand, and we of Colorado College are very grateful for their willingness to appear in the Chapel program. It is hoped that everyone will make an effort to help them feel welcome.

Faculty Talent To Perform at Pan-Hel Dance

A faculty auction will high-light the January Jubilee, a semi-formal dance to be held at the Broadmoor on Saturday, January 10, by the Pan-Hellenic organization. Ray Kranz and his orchestra will provide the music and other entertainment will be supplied by the faculty. Various members of the college faculty have consented to have their talents and services auctioned off during the dance, proceeds going for a Pan-Hellenic scholarship.

Each fraternity has nominated the boy they think most likely to succeed, and an election is to be held at the dance to determine the winner. This boy will be honorary General for a day. General Gill will go to the winner's classes the morning of January 17.

The candidates nominated by the various fraternities for this honor are: Sid Keoughan, Beta; Andy Gambucci, Kappa Sigma; Bob Voshall, Sigma Chi; Ted Gould, Phi Delta; and Tom McGonagle, Phi Gamma Delta.

Tickets are now being sold by Pan-Hellenic members at $1.50 per couple.

CC Choir to Present Service At Shove December 17 at 8:15

The Colorado College choir will present a Christmas candlelight service at Shove Memorial Chapel on Wednesday, December 17, at 8:15 p.m. The CC choir under the direction of Mr. Richard Moorehead will tell the story of the birth of Jesus in scripture and in songs of praise. Rosemary Musgrave will act as narrator.

Poem By Ted Coons, 'Ecclesiastes', In Nat'l. Anthology

Ted Coons, a graduate student at CC recently received word that his poem, "Ecclesiastes 13," has been accepted for publication in the Annual Anthology of College Poetry. The letter from the National Poetry Association said, "The Anthology is a compilation of the finest poetry written by the college men and women of America, representing every section of the country. Selections were made from thousands of poems submitted. We heartily congratulate you on this honor."

When asked about the significance of his title, "Ecclesiastes 13," Ted replied that there are only 12 chapters in the book of Ecclesiastes; he decided to add the thirteenth. Here is his poem as it will appear in the Anthology. A wide and bitter chasm looms Unyielding in the bitter sun: Two infinities of crags and juts Eroded out of one.

But look! across the precipice There spans a vital strand of rope: From hopelessness to hopelessness Transversed between by hope.

Included in this program will be famous and familiar Christmas music of many countries and many ages. Two Bach chorales, "Christmas Be Joyful" and "How Shall I Fittingly Meet Thee," open the service. Following a scripture reading, the choir will sing "Lo, How A Rose E're Blooming" and "O Holy Night," an old French carol. The next selection is a medieval carol arranged by Gustav Holst, "Lullay My Liking." "Carol of the Bells," a sprightly Ukrainian carol, follows the medieval number. The choir echoes the joy of Christmas when they sing "Christmas Day," a carol fantasy, and "The Shepherd's Story." The "150th Psalm" by Franck will close this concert. Jessie Hawkes, college organist, will play the prelude and postlude and accompany the choir in their numbers.

CC Choir Will Present Three Concerts In Dec.

The Colorado College choir will present their first Christmas performance of the season at the Printers Home in Colorado Springs this Thursday night. The main part of the program will consist of popular carols loved by everyone. The busy schedule for the choir this year includes a performance at Shove Chapel, Dec. 17, when the program will be taped and broadcast over KVOR that same night. Also included will be a trip to Denver's Central Christian Church on Dec. 14. The program at Denver will be the first of a series entitled "Colorado's Finest Concert Series". This will be the third consecutive year that the Denver church has sponsored this series. On Feb. 15, following CC's performance at Denver, the Colorado State College of Education will present Faure's "Requiem". On March 8, Mendelssohn's "Elijah" will be given by Colorado A and M, and "Brahms' Requiem" will be performed by Colorado University on April 19. Concluding a successful series will be the University of Denver choir singing "Pilgrim Psalms".

Let's Face It

By Sue Pfeiffer and Larry Waddington

How many Chapel cuts are the administration and faculty allowed? Lately we have taken note of their attendance in Chapel. Today we had all of two—out of approximately 70 members. Before Dr. Rosenthal lectured, we were all informed that a fine speaker he'd be. The faculty and administration flocked to chapel and boosted their attendance to five. . . . Last Wednesday's meeting of Student Council with the Committee on Undergraduate Life didn't end in bloodshed as many of us expected. Instead the meeting was conducted in much the same manner as an afternoon tea. Students have asked us if we settled anything in this meeting about the cut system, drinking code, Student Council's powers, etc. Although there was a great deal of discussion, nothing was settled. We felt the meeting was cut short but realize that this sort of meeting can only be used for hashing over problems and not settling them. Some stayed afterwards and had informal talks with members of C.U.L. and felt there was an understanding and a willingness to help solve the problems. There were varied opinions and dissension among many. Yet we feel a discussion is better than no discussion, for only in this manner can the faculty, administration and students strike a happy medium. . . . ## AWS MEET YOUR OFFICERS

Claire Chamberlain, a junior from San Antonio, Tex., acts as secretary of the AWS Board. Claire's duties include notifying board members of meetings, taking roll and minutes at the meetings, and managing the AWS elections in the spring. She is responsible for picking the election committee, takes charge of nominations and of publicity for candidates, and counts the votes. Besides her AWS office, Claire is also vice president of Gamma Phi Beta and is a member of Tiger Club.

Among the topics discussed at last Thursday's AWS meeting was the improved singing at Bemis. The AWS Song Chairman Gloria Townsend has been working on a program to have the dining room quiet when pinned or engaged girls are being sung to, so everyone can hear. Just one more service performed by AWS.

The Personnel Chairman George Shaw has been assisting Chuck Mollin in organizing an active and effective ski club. A very important meeting of the club and of those interested in belonging will be held Thursday evening at 7:00 in the AWS room in Ticknor. Also, the AWS personnel files, which list interested students by activities and by name, are available to coming? We see a lot of them during football season—why not hockey—why not basketball? Oh dear, school spirit again—no comment.

COLORADO SPRINGS RESIDENTS ATTEND BEMIS HALL OPEN HOUSE LAST SUNDAY

More than 500 Colorado Springs residents, faculty members and college students attended the open house and tea in Bemis Hall given by Mrs. Barkalow, Miss McNary and Miss Morgan last Sunday afternoon from three to six o'clock. The open house was given so that the building improvements undertaken by the college during the last year could be seen by the general public.

In connection with the open house, prizes were given to the girls who had the "neatest and most original" rooms. A committee of judges selected the room of Judy Bishop as the first place winner. Judy, who is a freshman

ROTC Rifle Team Receives Gift from Chamber Committee

Last October 16 the Colorado Springs Chamber of Commerce Military Affairs Committee visited the newly organized Colorado College ROTC unit upon the invitation of President William H. Cill and Lt. Col. Herbert Heyer, head of the 173 student cadets.

The committeemen thoroughly enjoyed their tour and were impressed with the facilities shown, the progress made by the month-old unit, and the comprehensive plans for the future.

Concrete evidence of the committee's interest in this newest addition to the CC campus was revealed in the receipt by President Gill of a generous gift. The check was turned over to Col. Heyer who will use it to purchase equipment and awards for the ROTC rifle team whose 14 members are eager but untried.

The team fired its first (postal) match Thursday night at the City Aud. range, competing against ROTC teams in St. John's University in Brooklyn, Coe College at Cedar Rapids, Iowa State, and the University of Idaho. Results are exchanged by mail and the winning team and high scorers recorded.

While Col. Heyer noted that expert riflemen are not made overnight, he feels the Military Affairs Committee's gift will give aid and incentive to the CC marksmen.

Members of the committee, Thayer Tutt, Russell Law, John art student at CC, had her own oil paintings on the walls and clever bedspreads and drapes fitted into the general art theme. Second and third place winners were Mary Louise Wain and Lindy Lock.

Guests were met as they entered Bemis Hall by members of the Hall Council and freshmen girls who invited the visitors to tour the dormitory.

The tours, led by freshmen girls, included an inspection of the washrooms, kitchenettes and laundry rooms in addition to the individual rooms of the girls. After completing the rounds of the upper floors, the visitors were led by Monica Morris through the Bemis Hall kitchen and dining room where a large painting of Christmas carolers by Pat Hand adorned the south windows of the room. Then the guests saw the apartments of Mrs. Barkalow and Miss Morgan which are also located on the first floor.

Following the tours, refreshments were served in Bemis Commons from a table decorated with poinsettias and appropriate Christmas greens.

Love, Vern Hallenbeck, H. Chase Stone, John Reich, and Howard Yates, have been invited to attend future firing sessions and some of the old war horses will probably welcome the chance to smoke off a few shots at that elusive bullseye.

Platoon Leaders Class Assures College Men Completion of School

Upon completion of college, the PLC will receive a commission as second lieutenant, and will then be sent to school for five months training as an officer. After completing the five months of officer schooling, the new officer will be assigned to one of the hundreds of different jobs to Marine officers.

Smith was sitting down to breakfast one morning when he was astounded to see in the paper an announcement of his own death.

He rang up his friend Jones at once. "Hello, Jones!" he said. "Have you seen the announcement of my death in the paper?"

"Yes," replied Jones. "Where are you speaking from?"

Representatives of United Air Lines Visited CC Campus

On Dec. 3 representatives from United Air Lines were here on campus to discuss the requirements of the position of air line hostess. A film was shown at that time. Those girls attending thoroughly enjoyed the program. Miss Miriam Grant, director of the Vocational Guidance Center, announced that the air line representatives would return sometime this spring at which time they will interview those others who were unable to attend this past week.

What are your plans for the future? Do you know what job you want? Stop in to see Miss Grant at the Guidance Clinic in Ticknor Hall. Information on jobs of all types is offered as are various tests which aid you and the counselors in determining where your capabilities lie.

First Hockey Game Fast, Thrilling, But Confusing

By LEE SAGE

Last Friday night I spent two hours in constant amazement. The occasion was seeing my first hockey game. There were a few big things which impressed me as well as many little details. The first thing which startled me was the fast action of the game. My inexperienced eye constantly lost track of the puck. Secondly, the skill of the players was unbelievable. In lunging for the puck or chasing after a player, the men were exact in their movements. Invariably they passed accurately and made seemingly impossible shots. Another skill, that of stopping, held my attention. The players treated the ice as a tennis player treats the concrete. Perhaps even more than the skill and fast action shown, I was impressed by the good sportsmanship displayed. When a player committed a foul, he never argued with the officials but went off the ice for the required time. The most important test of a team in my opinion is its goalie, who seems to be the most important man on the team, was always backed up by his defense. However, if the defense did miss, the actions of the goalie were remarkable. He always knew where the puck was and made beautiful stops. How the players could take such a beating on the boards and still come back for more will always amaze me.

Some lesser points which I wondered about, and still do, are the following: First of all, I think the length of each period is too long. Even with replacements, twenty minutes seems too long for such a fast and hard game. I have not seen anyone hurt yet, but on Friday a puck did fly into the stands.

Phi Delts to Hold Annual Yule Fling At Antlers Hotel

At the Antlers ballroom this Friday the Phi Delts will hold their annual Christmas formal. The music of Bob Bishop and his band will be heard from 9 until 12 when the dance will end. Christmas favors will be given to the young ladies by their escorts. Chaperones for the dance will be Mr. and Mrs. Chicklis and Mr. and Mrs. Shaw.

That was the first time I became aware of the danger a puck could cause. On the same subject of safety the attitude toward broken sticks was casual. When a stick broke the player simply went and got another as fast as possible. The official sometimes took what seemed to be a very long time to clear the pieces off the ice. Meanwhile, the game continued without slowing down at all.

However, as a spectator I have never enjoyed anything as much as my first ice hockey game. Maybe it is because the game is completely new to me, but I find the hockey more exciting to watch than any other sport.

As the doorman ran down to open the limousine door, he tripped and rolled down the last four steps.

"For heaven's sake, be careful," cried the club manager, "they'll think you're a member."

Girl's Swim Team Organized As 'Niads'

A new synchronized swim club has been recently organized at CC. It has appropriately been christened "Niads" which means fresh water nymphs and is headed by Shirley Gregory, Mary Spindel, and Lucy Allen. The first performance given by the organization was presented at the Broadmoor, Tuesday, Dec. 9. Two numbers were done by Shirley Gregory, Mary Spindel, Tim Timmel, Martha Boettger, Lynn Fouley, and Lucy Allen to Fred Waring arrangements of Jingle Bells and White Christmas. Plans for the spring show are based on the theme "Traveling" and should provide good entertainment for everybody.

Mermen Take Two Trophies At Wyoming Relays in Laramie

A surprising Colorado College swim team returned from the 5th annual Wyoming Relays last Saturday, December 6th, after capturing two trophies against a strong Skyline Eight and Big Seven swimming competition. Swimming without the aid of their freshmen prospects because of the host conference's rule against the use of yearlings, and facing the largest schools of the Rocky Mountain region, Coach Doc

Ted Bilharz doing the swimming. Also, they took second in the 300 yard medley relay races, with MacGuire and Brown swimming as before, but with Wally Harmon doing the free style leg of this relay team. It is good to note that the time of this relay (3:27.2), even this early in the season, was only one second slower than the best time ever made by CC in this event.

In the other relays, CC mermen also did very well. A team composed of Bill Schacht, Captain Tom Abel, Ed MacGuire, and Wally Harmon took fourth in the 200 yard free style relay, composed of four 50 yard legs. In the 400 yard medley distance relay, composed of legs of 50, 100, 200 and a final 50 yards, Wally Harmon, Bill Schacht, Captain Tom Abel, and Ted Bilharz also captured a fourth place.

An indication of CC's excellent showing is the fact that, although swimming against such big schools as Denver, University of Colorado, University of Wyoming, and Colorado A & M, the Tiger tankmen did not take a single last place in any of the four events which they entered, and were forced to do all this without their freshmen help. Incidentally, no other team from

First of all, I'd like to clear up my averages for this past football season. Over a period of nine weeks I picked 256 games, 190 correctly, and of course, was wrong on 66. My highest weekly average was .880, the fourth week, October 18. My lowest was .620 coming in the last week, November 22. My average for the season, .740, was not bad, considering the great number of upsets this year. Here is the way the season went for me this year:

Week	Average	No. Picked	Right	Wrong
1st, Sept. 27th	.643	14	9	5
2nd, Oct. 4th	.846	26	22	4
3rd, Oct. 11th	.750	32	24	8
4th, Oct. 18th	.880	25	22	3
5th, Oct. 25th	.800	25	20	5
6th, Nov. 1st	.769	39	30	9
7th, Nov. 8th	.633	38	24	14
8th, Nov. 15th	.722	36	26	10
9th, Nov. 22nd	.620	21	13	8

I might add, that at the first of the season I counted ties as a loss, but changed my mind in the middle of the season and decided not to count them against me. Therefore, several of the weekly averages have been changed. Tie games dropped entirely from the listings.

What has happened to CC's intramural program? This year there are not enough boxing and wrestling entries to fill one night's card. Many weights have only one entry; some with two entries have both men from the same organization. In the cross-country race this year at Homecoming, instead of scratching individuals, whole teams withdrew. Even football showed a marked lack of enthusiasm this fall. I, personally, would like to have your personal comments and suggestions as to what has happened and what can be done. Mail them to me, Sports Editor, Tiger, Colorado College. I'll be waiting to hear from you.

Despite the new ruling thrust at us at the Western Conference hockey meeting in Minneapolis last month, Colorado College is still going to have a fine hockey team this season, if we can go by the showing of last Friday night. The Tigers showed plenty of hustle in conquering Toronto 11 to 3. Coach Cheddy Thompson so far has done a remarkable job in keeping morale high among "the few", and it is encouraging to see their spirit running high at this time of the year. Keep it up Tigers. Your big test is a week from this Friday night.

the Rocky Mountain Conference was represented at the meet.

Next Saturday, December 13th, 1952, Coach Doc Stabler and his Rocky Mountain Conference Champs will tangle with the large Colorado Springs High School squad. The meet will begin at 2:00 p.m. at the beautiful Camp Carson pool. This meet, as well as the other meets at the Carson pool, is open to the public, and all college students and others are welcome to attend.

Intramural boxing and wrestling will get underway today in Cossit. The following wrestling weights will compete in the C club room at 4:00 p.m. They are 145, 165, and 175. Again at 7:30, wrestling will begin with all weights competing. At the completion of the wrestling prelims, the boxing matches will begin, all evening matches will be held in Cossit. No admission will be charged during the elimination contests but a charge of ten cents will be the admission price for the finals which are to be held December 16.

The meet has been dampened a bit by a disappointing turnout by the fraternities, but it is hoped that a full card can be set up. Because of the poor turnouts, many

Positions for Tiger Editor And Business Mgr. Open

The Student Publications Board in a meeting last Friday decided to accept applications for the positions of editor and business manager of the TIGER for the coming two semesters. Dale Arie, the present editor and Byrd Parmelee, business manager, will complete their elective positions with the January 16 issue of the TIGER. Persons interested in applying for the position of editor and business manager must submit letters of application to the Student Publications Board before Friday, January 9, 1952. Applicants may be members of the student body in the sophomore or junior classes.

No specific qualifications are necessary for these positions on the TIGER, although persons with experience in the journalistic field who are maintaining a passable grade average, and are willing and capable of performing a time-consuming job should apply.

A salary of $500 a year is paid to both the editor and business manager. They will be responsible to see that a newspaper is issued each week during the academic school year.

The editor will see that he has proper coverage of all school events, activities, and any news pertinent to the students, faculty and administration. He will be responsible to see that he has an office staff who will be competent writers and to see that the news stories will be written up properly and presented to the college in newsworthy form.

The business manager is responsible to see that local and national advertisers will be solicited weekly and arrange their ads throughout the paper. He will be responsible for the collection of payments of all bills; he will see that the paper is distributed weekly throughout the campus and that it is circulated through the mails to all local and national subscribers.

If you feel that you can fill either the position of editor or business manager, apply now. Address all applications to the Student Publications Board in Cutler Hall. The new directors of the TIGER will be announced in the January 16 issue of the paper.

Graduate Record Exam

The next graduate Record Examination will be given January 31, 1953, at 1:45 p.m. Application blanks may be obtained at the registrar's office and must be mailed to Educational Testing Service before January 15th.

Music Students View First Televised Opera In Denver Theatre

About 25 students from Colorado College, taking "Music for the Layman" or "Fundamentals of Music", had a chance last week to see the first experiment in television off projecting an entire opera on the screen. In this case, Bizet's "Carmen", direct from the Metropolitan Opera House in New York City, was projected on the screen of the Paramount Theater in Denver.

This new form of entertainment was most enthusiastically received throughout the nation. CC students helped the response by filling out ballots put out by the Metropolitan Opera asking for the experiment to be made into a regular feature.

The trip was organized by Mr. Walter Levin of the Music Department who teaches the above two courses.

PRESIDENT GILL holds a copy of the book, "Origins of American Scientists", in which Colorado College is ranked thirteenth in the nation in the education of American scientists. Gill said that the two things that impressed him about the study which formed the basis for the book was the fact that the great majority of successful scientist come from small liberal arts colleges, and the fact that CC stood in the top 50 in productivity.

OPPORTUNITY FOR TRAVEL ABROAD OFFERED STUDENTS THROUGH SITA

Because of the widespread interest in travel abroad that has been shown by Colorado College students this past semester, Dr. Thomas O. Brandt of the German Department, has investigated possibilities for foreign travel.

Dr. Brandt was recently made the local representative for SITA (Students' International Travel Association) and a number of CC students are already making plans to travel on the scheduled tours of this organization.

The SITA tours are not the conventional type of trip. Their tours combine rail, motor, and bicycle travel in such a way that young people live as close as possible to the people of the country. They try to see many things which the ordinary tourists do not find time to see, yet include all the famous cities and "sights".

Numerous Tours Offered

Students may take any of the multitude of tours which SITA offers but some of the most popular ones are: E-1 or the Adventure Tour in Europe; Music Study Tour, this year the Salzburg Music Festival; German Study Tour. Briefly, the Adventure Tour in Europe consists of 65-75 days including the boat trip and travel in England, France, Italy, Switzerland, Germany, Holland and Belgium at a cost of $990-$1190. Each tour leaves New York or Quebec at different times throughout the year.

Another interesting trip is the German Study Tour sponsored by the University of Washington in cooperation with SITA. Those on the tour attend classes at the University of Munich for the four-week term, July 10-August 10, and receive University of Washington credits in German language and literature. The stay in Munich includes visits to the theater, opera,

CC Receives $600,000 Loan From Government For Building

The Housing and Home Financing Agency in Washington, D. C., has granted Colorado College a loan amounting to $600,000 for the building of a men's dormitory, it was announced Tuesday by President William H. Gill. The loan was originally sought last February 4, and was revised last July 15. Funds already collected for the building will be used for the proposed women's dormitory soon to be erected.

The men's and women's dorms, a part of the long range building program set up by the trustees, treasury and the president of CC, will also include a new student union and an addition to the present library.

The Housing and Home Financing Agency is an organization which was set up by the passage of a bill in 1950 that enabled the president of the United States to allot funds for the housing of students in colleges in the United States. Colleges applying for loans must base their applications on National Defense, as has CC with its ROTC unit.

In the interview with President Gill, he pointed out that bids will again have to be submitted by the four concerns which submitted bids last year because of the change in the cost of building materials and labor. Bids will also be entertained from other concerns.

Gill also mentioned that in all probability Tomney Hall will be torn down by early spring, and that the new building could be completed early in 1954.

Science Fraternity Features Address By Oscar Richards

The Colorado College Chapter of Delta Epsilon, National Scientific Fraternity, takes pleasure in announcing that Dr. Oscar W. Richards will address the chapter today on the subject of "Modern Methods of Microscopy."

The occasion is the first Delta Epsilon "Coffee Hour" of the current college year to be held at Lennox House at 3:30 p.m. These coffee hours have become one of the traditions at Colorado College—combining a pleasant social hour with an address or discussion of scientific interest. For this meeting, the fraternity is especially fortunate in the choice of such a notable authority in his field as Dr. Oscar W. Richards. Dr. Richards, a pioneer and leading contributor in the development of phase microscopy, has had a brilliant career in biological science. He graduated from the University of Oregon in 1923, took his Master of Arts degree there in 1925 and was awarded the Ph.D. from Yale University in 1931. His subsequent career includes teaching at Oregon, Clark and Yale universities and research with the Spencer Lense Company and the American Optical Company. His present position is director of Biological Research at the American Optical Company; an appointment which he has held since 1947. He has published more than twenty five scientific papers on microscopy.

Because of the interest Dr. Richards' subject will have for all scientists and technicians em-

HAVE A MERRY CHRISTMAS, HAPPY NEW YEAR

I-M BILLBOARD

weights have only one entrant. Even though a man is the only entrant he will receive no points for entering, unfair as it may seem. It is the general opinion that a man entering a contest should win by default if no other contestant signs up for said match. Many men have signed up but will not be allowed points or recognition because of this rule.

Final tennis matches have yet to be played. In the semi finals singles matches, Mitch Mann, Sig entrant, lost a tough match to Independent Bill Clark. Clark moves into the finals with Phi Delt Rik Carpenter who moved into the finals on a bye. A good match is in store for the championship as both men control the courts very well.

Doubles matches are still in progress as we go to press. The Phi Delt team of Tom Lowry and Rik Carpenter are playing Fed Rediske and Kellogg, talented Sig duo, for a finals position. Mitch Mann and Henry Royer, the second Sigma Chi team, are in the finals and await the outcome of the semi-finals match so they can begin finals play. All three teams are excellent.

The Phi Delt has earned a sure tie for the tennis championship and need only to win one more match to clinch an undisputed title.

Volleyball went into final play last night. Results of last week find the Betas and Phi Gams tied for the lead with four wins apiece against no losses. In the final day of play in the tournament, the championship will be decided when the Betas meet the Phi Gams in a rough and tumble two out of three. Taking a shot at the game of prediction I will pick the Phi Gams over the Betas in a very close contest.

Betas, Phi Gams and Kappas Make Many Children Happy

Beta Theta Pi fraternity, instead of holding its regular Monday night meeting, went out to St. Francis hospital polio ward and visited with the children. The great surprise came when Santa Claus, alias Dean Mathias, distributed gifts, ice cream and cookies. While the children were having their party the Beta singing group, led by Paul Trietsch, serenaded other wards in the hospital. All arrangements were made by Jack Geary.

Eleven little boys from the Colorado Springs Nursery were entertained at the Phi Gam House Wednesday, Dec. 17, from 5:30 until 8:00 o'clock. The children, ages 5 to 7, feasted on turkey with all the trimmings; the chefs being members of the fraternity. Santa Claus was guest of honor and brought in his bag of toys for the children.

Thursday afternoon the Kappas will hold a Christmas party for 20 underprivileged children. This party at the Kappa lodge will begin at 4:00 o'clock and last until 5:30. The children will see a movie, play games, and sing Christmas songs. Refreshments will be served. To highlight the party, Santa Claus will be on hand to distribute gifts to all.

ANNOUNCEMENT

A candlelight service will be presented tonight by the Colorado College choir at Shove Chapel. The program will begin promptly at 8:15 and will include famous and familiar Christmas music of many countries and many ages. The story of the birth of Christ will be told in scripture and in songs of praise.

Christmas in France Provides Theme for French Club Party

The French Club celebrated the season of Noel by having a party in Hayes House Tuesday, Dec. 16, at 7:30 p.m. The program for the evening opened with records sung by Maurice Chevalier. Then Michel Chaudy, a CC student from Nancy, France, entertained the group with tales of the way in which Christmas is celebrated in France. He told of the French Santa Claus and of the religious customs of his people during the Yuletide season. Next the club heard recordings of music by Bizet and songs by Jennie Tourel. After refreshments were served, Christmas carols were sung in French. The Christmas tree that decorated both the French and German club parties will be donated to a DP family in Colorado Springs.

KRCC Staff Plans More Programs Over KVOR

This coming Saturday afternoon over KVOR, KRCC will present its third performance from 3:00 to 4:00 o'clock.

This program, which has been tape recorded, will feature the Colorado Springs High School A Cappella Choir as they sang in the chapel service last Tuesday. Rosie Musgrave will present a reading from Dickens, also.

In the arly part of next semester, Dr. Brandt will speak on UNESCO. Another feature will be Dr. Ross and Bob Rhodes with popular music and Dr. Pearl and Louise Bohannon with a discussion of precious stones. Later, Ray Scherer and Judy Clave will represent the TIGER staff with a program of campus news.

A NEW IDEA

This New Year's Eve, as in the past, will be the eve when millions of people will make resolutions which they earnestly and sincerely intend to carry out. However, there are two things wrong with 90% of these resolutions: first, they are made for the benefit and fulfillment of our own lives. I say "our" because "our" includes me, you and those around you. We are all guilty of these egotistic self-satisfying desires at one time or another.

Secondly, these resolutions, in the form of personal desires, are usually short-lived. I really think we are sincere in intending to keep our resolutions, but within forty-eight hours we've broken one or all of them and become tired of leading a "good life".

Perhaps we think little of violating these promises because they are shallow and needless. If we would think more of the gains these resolutions would bring to a large group—our family, friends, school, and community—perhaps we would put more effort into sticking by them.

I would like to propose a resolution for the coming New Year and all of those remaining. A resolution that will make life more pleasing to those with whom we live—both to our friends and to our enemies.

We resolve:—We will take out of our hearts the bitterness, resentment and prejudices that cause hard feelings. We will try to remove all of our stubborn pride which keeps us from apologizing and confessing our faults to ourselves and others, and make us unwilling to open our hearts to one another.—Suzan Beer

LET'S FACE IT!

BY LARRY WADDINGTON AND SUE PFEIFFER

Everybody screams for authority, responsibility, and a say in things. Many have felt that the students have been deprived of some of their rights, and in this column we blamed the administration and faculty for everything. Now, without wholly contradicting ourselves, we wish to say that the possibility of the students being wrong is very probable.

Last week we accepted an invitation to attend a meeting of the Committee on Undergraduate Life. In all sincerity it is only fair to say that it was not only enjoyable but also highly informative. But, in addition to realizing that the members of C.U.L. are not monsters whose only pleasure is to ride rough shod over students, we discovered something else. Something which made us stop and think that the students themselves may be at fault.

It was brought to our attention, rather impressively, that the students on this campus fall into two groups. One group consists of those who don't care about anything. The other group cares, but only in degree. If this is the reason, student lack of interest in CC affairs, then it is understandable why the administration and faculty had to take over certain responsibilities. As long as something is agreeable and to the students' benefit, they are all for it. But give the students an item of responsibility which is disagreeable or "too tough" and watch what happens.

The attitude that students will take the "easy stuff" and let someone else handle the tough problems is ridiculous. The administration has proved themselves willing to cooperate and meet us half way. But if we shirk our share of responsibility, great or small, when they are handed to us, then we deserve nothing better than what we get.

Drinking Code Discussed At Meeting Monday

In the Student Council meeting this week there was a discussion of the ever present problem of which cases of student discipline come under the jurisdiction of the ASCC.

A committee has been set up to study the drinking code and discuss changes which may be desirable. Members of this committee belong either to the student council or the social committee. Frank Florey is the chairman.

If you have order prints of your Nugget pictures, these pictures can be picked up tomorrow, Thursday, at Lennox.

There will be another joint meeting of Committee on Undergraduate Life and the ASCC Wednesday, February 11. At this time it is hoped that the report of the committee concerning the drinking code will be ready for presentation.

Holiday Spirit

Drop those books Thursday at 10:00 a.m. and join the faculty and students in refreshments at Lennox House.

Play Tryouts Soon

Sometime in late February, the CC Players will have ready for presentation "Mr. Pim Passes By," a comedy drama by A. A. Mill.

Anyone interested in working either on stage in the cast or behind the scenes is asked to see Woodson Tyree, the director, for tryouts after the Christmas holidays. There will be few rehearsals until after the semester tests are over, however.

MEET YOUR OFFICERS

Artie Kensinger holds the purse strings for AWS, and keeps close tabs on the money allotted to the board by Student Council. She is in charge of paying the bills of the various officers and committee heads, and also of selling tickets to the annual AWS Goldiggers' Ball and to the spring AWS banquet, honoring seniors. Artie is also pledge trainer for her sorority, Delta Gamma, and manages to stay busy going to classes and keeping house.

At the last AWS board meeting, the problem of getting washing machines for the dorms was discussed. It was decided to take a poll of the girls living on campus to see how many would use them and to decide the most convenient location for them.

Radcliffe College has announced the 17th session of the Management Training Program, which is a one-year graduate course designed to provide a basic training for young women in the various fields of administration. Two periods of full-time field work totaling ten weeks give the student an opportunity to obtain some practical experience in business. Instruction and materials are provided mainly by members of the faculty of the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration. A number of Full Tuition Fellowships are available; in addition, there are several Partial Fellowships and Loans. More details will be given later. For those senior girls interested, write to the Director, Mrs. T. North Whitehead, Management Training Program, Radcliffe College, Cambridge 28, Mass.

OMISSION

We were sorry to have discovered that the Crown and Lance candidate for "Most Likely to Succeed" was omitted in last week's issue of the TIGER. Their candidate is Paul Evans and will compete in the Panhellenic "January Jubilee" Saturday, Jan. 10, at the Broadmoor Hotel.

Betas, Phi Gams and Kappas Make Many Children Happy

Beta Theta Pi fraternity, instead of holding its regular Monday night meeting, went out to St. Francis hospital polio ward and visited with the children. The great surprise came when Santa Claus, alias Dean Mathias, distributed gifts, ice cream and cookies. While the children were having their party the Beta singing group, led by Paul Trietsch, serenaded other wards in the hospital. All arrangements were made by Jack Geary.

Eleven little boys from the Colorado Springs Nursery were entertained at the Phi Gam House Wednesday, Dec. 17, from 5:30 until 8:00 o'clock. The children, ages 5 to 7, feasted on turkey with all the trimmings; the chefs being members of the fraternity. Santa Claus was guest of honor and brought in his bag of toys for the children.

Thursday afternoon the Kappas will hold a Christmas party for 20 underprivileged children. This party at the Kappa lodge will begin at 4:00 o'clock and last until 5:30. The children will see a movie, play games, and sing Christmas songs. Refreshments will be served. To highlight the party, Santa Claus will be on hand to distribute gifts to all.

ANNOUNCEMENT

A candlelight service will be presented tonight by the Colorado College choir at Shove Chapel. The program will begin promptly at 8:15 and will include famous and familiar Christmas music of many countries and many ages. The story of the birth of Christ will be told in scripture and in songs of praise.

Christmas in France Provides Theme for French Club Party

The French Club celebrated the season of Noel by having a party in Hayes House Tuesday, Dec. 16, at 7:30 p.m. The program for the evening opened with records sung by Maurice Chevalier. Then Michel Chadeu, a CC student from Nancy, France, entertained the group with tales of the way in which Christmas is celebrated in France. He told of the French Santa Claus and of the religious customs of his people during the Yuletide season. Next the club heard recordings of music by Bizet and songs by Jennie Tounel. After refreshments were served, Christmas carols were sung in French. The Christmas tree that decorated both the French and German club parties will be donated to a DP family in Colorado Springs.

Phi Gamma Delta Wins Wrestling; Betas Win Boxing; and Phi Delts, Point Totals

Intramural boxing and wrestling came to quite a colorful end last night in Cossitt hall. The Phi Gams took the wrestling rather decisively with the Phi Delts and Kappa Sigs following respectively. The Betas took the boxing trophy in a close decision over the Phi Delts and the Phi Gams, and which may be amended yet. Boxing was perhaps the most colorful of the two sports as all three final matches were slam bang affairs.

Independent Mort Forster and John Taylor, Beta, fought it out for the 145 lb. weight Taylor was fighting out of his own weight class which was quite evident. Forster coasted the first round but put Taylor to the canvas twice in the second round and took the match in the third on a T.K.O.

Ryder, a Beta, won by default as Taylor was unable to show because of head injuries received in the previous match.

Phi Cam Bobo Zier, fighting in the 155 pound division, decisioned Phi Delt Dick Houlebeck in a regular slug fest. Zier was the more clever of the two boxers but Houlebeck had the will to win as he took blow after blow from Zier.

In the 165 pound division, Doug Goiding, Phi Delt, put Maury Hammond, Phi Cam, on the canvas for the count of ten with 1:40 gone in the first round. Hammond had been down twice previously, but was up before the count on both occasions.

Danny Wandell, Dick Evans, Ray Pezoldt and Harry Javarnic won medals but gained no points as no one opposed them. The final score was Beta 11, Phi Delt 10, and Phi Cam had 9 points.

In wrestling the Phi Gams took six out of eight of the final matches. Danny Wandell, Dick Evans, both Phi Delts, won medals but no points were given because they had no opponents.

Phil Shoezel and Cordy Hatch, both Phi Gams wrestling at 135, opened the card with Shoezel winning by a fall.

Pete Stead, another Phi Cam, took Jim Duque, a Phil Delt, in the 145 pound class. Stead won on points, 9-2.

Don Linger, a Phi Cam, wrestling at 165 pounds, won over Doug Goiding. Linger won on points, 11-0. Linger jumped a weight in the next match and wrestled with

CC ROTC Rifle Team Fires Postal Match

The ROTC rifle team, firing its first Postal Match during the week ending December 7, 1952, has won and lost 2. Of the 4 teams scheduled for firing, Coe College of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, turned in the top shoot of 1866 out of a possible 2000. Closely following Coe College was the University of Idaho, with 1838. Colorado College, firing a 1550 total, edged out St. Johns University, Collegeville, Minnesota, who fired 1498. The fourth scheduled team, Iowa State College, failed to mail

CC Iceman to Make or Break Wolverines, Champs of '52

Underdog Colorado College will face mighty Michigan at the Broadmoor Ice Palace this Friday and Saturday nights in an old grudge fight. Last year the Wolverines downed injury ridden CC in the NCAA Championships 4 to 2 to take the crown. A rough and ready Tiger sextet will be out to either make or break the Wolverines. This Tiger, Wolverine series will be the 22nd and 23rd between the two schools. Colorado College has emerged from the ice frays with a record of 8 wins, 11 losses, and two ties.

The Tiger's lineup for this series will feature a change at center on one of the two CC lines. Omer Brandt switched off with Dick Kennefic, and Kennefic will team up with Norm Diviney on the wing position. The other Tiger line of Captain Leo Soligo, Andy Cambucci, and Ed Robson remains without change. The Tiger's blue line chores will be left in the capable hands of Jim Weir, Fred Eastwood, Bill Thompson, and Len Maccini. All-American Ken Kinsley will be handling the nets, while Willard Ikola will stop Colorado College's scoring attempts.

The first Midwest League game of the season for both clubs will feature a Michigan team "loaded" with veterans.

Both teams have played Toronto University for their first game of the season. Michigan topped the Canadians 6 to 3 while the Tigers split the series with the Blues 11 to 3 and 3 to 4.

After battling Colorado College, the Ann Arborites will move on to Denver for a two-game series with the Pioneers.

Tuesday evening, December 9th, the women's intramural swimming meet took place at the Broadmore Hotel's indoor pool. The Thetas had the winning team, while the Kappas and the Delta Gamma's tied for second place. Dr. Stabler officiated and Miss Dickie and Miss Vickia Hann judged the various events. Credit should go to Shirley Gregory who did an excellent job in organizing the swimming meet.

Paced by Richard E. Richards, firing 347 out of a possible 400, the high five individual firers were Richards; Robert M. Thompson, 332; William B. Pollard, 324; Gibson Hazard, 278; and Carl Kohen, 269.

Special rifle equipment, as well as awards, is being purchased for the rifle team through funds made available by the Military Affairs Committee Chamber of Commerce.

The rifle team is scheduled to fire the William Randolph Hearst National ROTC Rifle Competitions during the week ending December 20, 1952. The competition is of a postal nature, with Colorado College firing against all college and university ROTC rifle teams nation-wide.

museums, and trips about the countryside. Other study tours in foreign countries may also be selected.

Unique Family Plan

Perhaps the most unique type of tour which SITA sponsors is the European Living in Families Plan. On this trip students live with families in France, Germany, and Switzerland for periods of a week or more and are able to become better acquainted with the customs and family life of each country.

It is hoped that in 1954 there can be a European Living in Families Plan for Colorado College students, led by Dr. and Mrs.

Brandt.

SITA is very careful in selecting good American student representatives to travel abroad. They offer some scholarships and grants-in-aid to outstanding students whose financial situation would prevent them from taking such a trip.

An Educational Organization SITA is one of the largest educational travel organizations in the country and fifty per cent of its net income is spent each year for educational purposes. To insure the most profitable trip for each student, extensive language courses are offered on the boat for the tour members. Each tour is carefully organized and is accompanied by a reliable leader.

Dr. Brandt has been informed by SITA that to insure shipping space this summer, registration should be made by February. For further information concerning any of the above mentioned tours or others, contact Dr. Brandt at Hayes House.

CRIPPLE CREEK WILL PLAY HOST TO WINTER CARNIVAL OF SPORTS

The Winter Carnival is here again with a flash of skates, a swoosh of skis, and a flurry of snow. Until 1949 this carnival was an annual CC affair. This year on Jan. 27 and 28 Crown and Lance will again sponsor a bang-up snow party at Cripple Creek. Paul Evans, who is in charge of the Carnival, reports that there is plenty of snow in Cripple Creek and that a rope tow will be installed for the festivities. All of the events will be based on competition among fraternities, sororities, and the independent organizations. Whatever winter sport you enjoy you will be included. Here are the events: giant sialom and downhill skiing, figure skating, broom ball, speed skating, hockey, tobogganing, snow sculpture, and sled racing. Preliminary contests are scheduled for 10 a. m. on Jan. 27; the finals will be the following day. A trophy or cup will be awarded to the winning individual or team in each event, and points will be given on the basis of first, second, and third places. An additional prize of $5.00 will go to the best all-around skier. All who wish to register for the events should sign up with their various organizations Monday, Jan. 10, or in Palmer Hall on Jan. 13. Boys who have played either JV or varsity hockey cannot enter the hockey competition. However, they are free to enter other skating events. For team events the entry fee is $1.00 and for individual events 10 cents.

A place to stay, either in the Imperial hotel or in private homes, will be provided for everyone. So housing arrangements can be made in advance, students interested are asked to give their names to the committee in charge at Cossitt on Friday from 9 until 12, Saturday from 8 until 10, or Tuesday from 10:30 until 11, or at Palmer hall on Friday from 8 til 9, 11 to 12, or Tuesday from 10:30 until 11. All girls who plan to take part in the carnival should consult head residents about their blanket permissions and overnight permits.

A big party will be held at the Imperial hotel Jan. 27. The Carnival Queen will be chosen and a good band will be on hand to provide the music. Tickets for the dance are 30 cents per person; and don't bring your tux or formal—the dance is strictly casual. So don't miss this mid-semester fun. Grab your skis, skates, and long red woollies and come along to the Winter Carnival!

The next graduate record examination will be given Saturday afternoon, 1:45 p.m., January 31. Application blanks may be obtained at the Registrar's office and must be mailed to the Educational Testing Service before January 5th.

Garson Red Cross Praises CC Show

A troupe selected from the CC Campus Chest Variety Show recently entertained at the Camp Carson Army Hospital to the great delight of the patients. In a letter received at the college, Anne J. Rosokoff, Red Cross Field Director, and Mary E. Hibbs, Recreational Worker, said to Pres. Gill:

"Both the staff and the patients here at the Camp Carson hospital express our sincerest appreciation for the most enjoyable entertainment furnished us recently. The program was outstanding, and furnished us all a very fine evening of entertainment. In addition to the fine entertainment it was good to have a group with so much enthusiasm and spirit as we had from your college.

We hope that it will be possible for a group from your school to entertain us again. We wish you and Mr. Tyree, and the students Season's Greetings."

NOTICE!
Applications for the positions of editor and business manager of the TIGER must be in the hands of the Publications Board no later than 12 noon, Friday, Jan. 9.

Steven Chas. Roades Is Latest Addition To CC's Tigertown

The latest addition to "Tigertown," the quonset community on the Colorado College campus, came home today. He is Steven Charles Roades, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Roades of 109 Tigertown.

Steven Charles is one of six children born in 1952 to the CC students who are combining marriage with college studies. Of the six, two are girls, Sally Kim Padden and Caryn E. Keller. The four little boys are Robert A. Maunton, Richard Pierce, Garry Lawrence, and Steven C. Roades, the youngest of them all.

The total population of Tigertown now consists of eighteen families with 27 children. Though all the men are veterans, the current occupants represent a cross-section of college students everywhere. Studies range from Business Administration, through History, English, and Engineering.

Going to college and raising a family at the same time is not the easiest thing in the world, but thanks to the vision and cooperation of the CC administration it has been made possible.

The committee for the revision of the drinking code will meet on Thursday at 4:00 o'clock in the cafeteria of Leunox. All students interested are urged to attend and are asked to contribute their ideas on the subject.

Man Most Likely to Succeed To Reign at January Jubilee

The Panhellenic organization has promised to begin CC's 1953 social calendar with a bang by presenting an all college dance this Saturday night. This "January Jubilee" is destined to be one of the highlights of the year. The Broadmoor ballroom will be the site of the jubilee. Dancing will be from 9-12 to the music of Ray Kranz and his orchestra. The female half of campus will wear cocktail dresses while the better half will don suits.

CC Gets Official Okay for NCAA Ice, Golf Fests

FREE PRESS, Jan. 6—Colorado College has been designated by the NCAA executive committee as the only host school to stage two top college championship tournaments in 1953.

The NCAA Hockey and Golf Tournaments were officially awarded CC by the NCAA Monday.

CC and Broadmoor will team up to stage the sixth annual ice hockey championship March 12, 13 and 14.

The NCAA Golf Tournament will make its first appearance in the region at the Broadmoor hillside course June 21 through June 27.

Idaho State was the only other regional school to land a championship tournament. The Bengals will be host to the NCAA Boxing Tournament at Pocatello April 9, 10 and 11.

The intermission of the January Jubilee will be filled with excitement and laughs. It has been heard through the grapevine that the faculty will auction off their services along with movie dates and dances. How this will be done and what will happen remains to be seen at the dance.

Also during intermission the CC man "most likely to succeed" will make his debut. Each men's organization on campus has put up a man to run for this honor: Paul Evans, of Tiger Town, will run for the Independents; hockey player, Andy Gambucci, is the Kappa Sigma candidate; nominee for the Sigma Chi is their president, Bob Voshall; Tom McGonagle (McGoo) will carry Phi Gamma colors; Phi Delta Ted Gould vies for the honor while marching along for Beta is Sid Keoughan.

Tickets may be secured from any Panhellenic member by the coeds. The money is going for two very good causes: better student-faculty relations; and to the Panhellenic Scholarship fund.

Commissions and Advanced Training in Meteorology Now Offered by Air Force

College graduates, or seniors who will graduate this June, may now apply for appointments in the Air Force as second lieutenants and receive government-paid weather training at one of eight nationally known colleges and universities, according to Major General W. O. Senter, USAF, Commanding General of the Air Weather Service, General Hoyt S. Vandenberg, Chief of Staff for the Air Force, pointed up the need for Air Force meteorologists in a recent statement to presidents of ROTC colleges. He said, "We are desperately in need of good minds—young and flexible minds eager to meet the rising challenge of our times, anxious to grasp the evolving meaning of air power..."

Applicants for these positions must possess a baccalaureate degree with credit for one year of college physics and mathematics through integral calculus. Qualified graduates or seniors should write to Headquarters, Air Weather Service, Washington 25, D. C., for the required application forms.

Training for selectees will begin in June, 1953, and again in September, 1953. Seniors graduating in June, 1953, will be considered for the latter class only. Trainees will be ordered to duty about three weeks in advance of commencing training and will arrive on campus about ten days before classes begin in order to permit them to arrange housing and other personal business.

The schools participating in this USAF program include Massachusetts Institute of Technology, New York University, the University of Chicago, Pennsylvania State College, the University of Washington, the University of California at Los Angeles, Florida State University, and St. Louis University.

Lecturer: "Of course, you all know what the inside of a cornucopia is like."

Chairman: "Most of us do, but you'd better explain it for the benefit of them as have never been inside one."

Three C. C. Graduates Commissioned

Ens. Warren Arter

Ens. Donald McKee

Ens. Pat Killen

Newport, R. I.—Among the 777 enlisted men receiving ensigns' commissions here recently at the Navy's only Officer Candidate School were: Warren Arter, '52, Donald McKee, '52 and Pat Killen, '51. Killen received his degree in economics while Arter and McKee majored in business administration. Warren and Pat were members of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity and McKee was affiliated with Beta Theta Pi.

Rear Admiral C. E. Olsen, USN, commander of the Newport Naval Base, presented diplomas before an audience estimated at 1100.

Former graduates of this school are already serving aboard every conceivable type naval craft from ice breakers and mine sweepers to destroyers and submarines. And they are serving, too, as jet pilots, beach masters, "frog men", and demolition experts. There are even CC graduates in Korean foxholes, acting as gunnery liaison officers for the Marines.

In four rigorous months, members of this class—the eighth and largest since the school opened in June, 1951—covered the same naval subjects that college NROTC students do in four years. Foremost in their training was the study of gunnery, navigation, seamanship, engineering, damage control and operations.

College degrees are required of all officer candidates. In addition, they must be between the ages of 19 and 27 and must pass rigid physical examinations. The only exception to the age restriction is for members of the school's so-called "short course".

About a month ago in this column we asked where the Tigers and Crowlers had been. No one offered any suggestions, and from talking with other students they seem to be as much in the dark as we are.

The tradition has been, in the past, for both these groups to go into a state of semi-hibernation following the football season. Apparently the fact that our hockey team was second in the nation last year has no significance. And because we have a team at all, which incidentally we think is pretty good, is reason enough to warrant our support.

It was heartening to note, however, that despite the fact that there was no one around to lead cheers at the hockey games, several students did their own cheering. It was spontaneous at best, but goes to show that the school does have some spirit.

And while we are on the subject, where are our cheerleaders? If no one else showed up, they at least should be there. Either they can't be bothered or they just don't care.

The Tigers, Crawlers and cheerleaders supposedly have a job. They have failed miserably. It would seem apparent that there is only one solution, and that is to junk the whole thing. Scrap the entire idea of spirit and just sit there and watch our teams in glum silence.

Now surely nobody wants that. That's like quitting when the game is half over. So we suggest this. That the Growlers, Tigers and cheerleaders who have no interest quit your jobs. Let some underclassmen who want to do something about school spirit take over. Get rid of the dead weight in your organization and let those who want to do the job have your position. Only then can the students have respect for those three groups which now occupy nothing but a somewhat doubtful honorary position.

Professor—Do You Want to Be Popular?
The standards of a C. C. professor have reached deplorable depths. In order to remedy this situation, the following suggestions are highly recommended:

1. Dress appropriately. Students feel inferior when confronted with professors wearing coats and ties.
2. Be one of the gang. Have at least a three days growth of beard. Skip classes frequently. Make students feel you're a good guy.
3. Never be on time. Students may shy away from you because they think you show too much interest.
4. Avoid lecturing too loudly. May awaken some students who are tired.
5. Waste time by calling roll slowly (gives the sleepy ones time to answer.) Talk about some insignificant thing which won't bother students who are talking.
6. Encourage knitting. Gives the class musical background which is decidedly restful.
7. Select courses with four hours credit, no attendance, all get A's and hold labs at Oddones.
8. When a note is seen to pass between students—relax. It may not contain an acid comment on your technique.
9. When correcting identically written exams, think of the result and not the cause.
10. Bravely accept the fact that your subject is of no absolute value in the life of a normal, intelligent CC student. Show gratified surprise if they give you correct answers.

Colorado College,
Colorado Springs, Colorado.

Dear Cen. Gill,

On behalf of the Directors of the Community Chest I want to thank you very much indeed for the generosity of Colorado College in agreeing with the Broadmoor hotel that the net proceeds of the hockey game on December 5th between Colorado College and Toronto would be donated to the Community Chest. Although we do not know yet the exact amount, that will be realized from the game, I know that whatever the amount may be will be a great boost to the Chest Campaign which is now in its final stages. We are tremendously appreciative of the fact that Colorado College contributes to the Chest in this way.

Juan Reid and Cheddy Thompson were most co-operative and helpful in making arrangements for the game and I am writing separate letters to them.

Sincerely,

Irving Howbert

In next semester's radio class there will be openings for a few new students. Since class membership is restricted, those interested in taking this course are asked to see Chief Tyree in South Hall before registering.

JOHN SCOTT, TIME CORRESPONDENT WILL LECTURE AT PERKINS JAN. 15

John Scott, author, lecturer, foreign correspondent, at various times chief of several overseas bureaus, and one of the editors of "Time" and "Life" magazines, will speak on "Europe, the Rebirth of a Continent," at Perkins hall, Colorado College, on Thursday, Jan. 15 at 8:15 p. m. The lecture, presented by Colorado College, is open to the public. Scott brings to the platform a wealth of experience and a deep first hand knowledge of Europe. He lived and worked for nine years inside the Soviet Union and was expelled two weeks before the German attack against the USSR for "slandering" Soviet foreign policy and "inventing" reports of Soviet-German friction.

He filed his first dispatches as a correspondent for "Time" magazine from Japan in 1941. A year later he became a contributing editor for "Time" in New York. In 1943 he was in Washington covering the State Department for "Time"; later that year he was sent to London and then to Stockholm, where he was chief of the "Time" and "Life" bureau until 1945. For the next two years he was chief of "Time's" Central European bureau in Berlin, after which he returned to the New York office. During 1951 he was an editor for "Time, Inc." and worked on a secret Air Force project being produced by the "March of Time", the screen and television division of "Time, Inc." He was in Europe and North Africa during the summer of 1952, spending most of his time in Germany and Austria, but also working in Greece, Turkey, Italy, Morocco, France, and England.

New York Fashion School To Give Fellowship in '53

Three Fashion Fellowships to Tobe-Coburn School for Fashion Careers will be awarded in a nation-wide competition among college seniors, it was announced on campus today. Each fellowship covers full tuition of $1,050 for the one year course in 1953-1954. Senior women graduating before Aug. 31, 1953 are eligible to enter.

This is the fifteenth competition conducted by the New York school, widely-known for training women executives in buying, advertising, styling and personnel, and currently broadening its program to include a new fashion medium, television.

The One Year Course at Tobe-Coburn School emphasizes actual contact with the fashion industry through lectures by important fashion personalities; visits to manufacturers, department stores, fashion shows and museums; and ten full weeks of working experience, with pay, in New York stores and other fashion organizations.

Winners of the 1952 Fellowship contest graduated from Ohio University, Texas Christian University and the University of Kentucky. Colleges represented in previous years have included Wellesley, Hood, and Barnard, the State College of Washington, and Stanford, Syracuse, and Utah Universities.

AROUND THE CONFERENCE

Midwest Conference standings are breaking wide open in the race for the title. D.U. is leading the field as of now with a 4-1 record. Colorado College has gained a part in a three-way tie for second place along with North Dakota and Michigan U. Michigan Tech and Michigan State follow respectively in the Midwest conference standings.

Last week's results—Minnesota handed first place Denver U. their first loss of the season. Two last period goals by Minnesota's John Mayasich gave the Gophers their 3-2 victory, on the previous night D. U. scored a 3-2 victory over the Gophers.

Soligo Is Active In Athletic and Campus Activities

Leo Soligo, captain of the Colorado College hockey team, began his career in hockey when he played for the Trail Boys Booster Hockey Association. This club was sponsored by a local athletic association. Leo led his team to the provincial title of 1946 and 1947 and later to the Western Canadian Semi-Finals. For his excellent playing the City of Trail presented Leo with two Most Valuable Player awards.

Soligo, tenth in league scoring last year, is now playing his third and final year of hockey for Colorado College. He centers the powerful line of Gambucci and Robson. Besides playing hockey, Leo also is an infielder for CC's baseball team. He also devotes some time to coaching the Fountain Valley Dances, a member of the Colorado Springs High School Hockey Conference.

Leo, majoring in Business, plans to be a Certified Public Accountant and if possible, join the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Corp., a large company in Trail. Soligo is an active member of the Kappa Sigma Fraternity and is secretary of the C-Club. Tennis and golf claim much of Leo's leisure time. Early in the mornings Leo peddles pop for the Coca Cola Bottling Co.

Leo's excellent spirit of competition and friendliness has contributed much to CC. We wish him the best of luck in the future.

Tiger Cagers Taste Victory Defeating Ent Air Base

Colorado College snapped a short losing string with a 82-73 victory over Ent Air Force Base Tuesday night in Cossit gym. The victory was well earned as both teams matched points throughout the second half and a good share of the first. Don Stone opened the game with a quick shot with 55 seconds gone. Mel Kensinger added a free toss before Ent could counter. At this point Bill Brown put the air force base into the game with two jump push shots. Both teams exchanged baskets several times before Ent tied the score with another push shot by Brown and then went momentarily ahead with George Garrett's free toss. Baskets by Stone, Snyder and Kensinger plus four charity points by Snyder put the Tigers out in front for good.

The Tigers looked like a different ball club with their hot shooting and aggressiveness. Snyder, Kensinger and Stone were especially hot at the basket. Ent was by no means a push over for the Tigers as they rallied time after time but to no avail.

The first quarter ended 22-14 to the Tigers advantage. Ent played the CC men on a pretty even keel from this point on. The air force boys staged one good rally in the second quarter as they brought the score within six points of the Tigers.

The half ended 33-24 for Colorado College. With two minutes of the second half gone Ent had closed the gap to three points. The air force rallied once more in the third quarter but fell away to a 62-53 disadvantage at the end of the quarter. Both teams scored 24 points in the third quarter.

In the fourth stanza the Tigers and the men from Ent shot almost point for point, each scoring 20 points. Ent was no threat at any time in the fourth quarter.

Ben Snyder was the hot boy for the night as he netted 27 points.

Snyder picked off 14 points in the first quarter to put the Tigers out in front by a fairly comfortable margin. Mel Kensinger and Don Stone followed respectively with 15 and 12 points. Fine shooting was done by Bob Lovelace, Lowell Slocum, and Ed Lodmell.

Sharpshooter Ned Marten led the losers with 21 points. Bill Brown was a close second with 20 points followed by Paul Eckart who netted 14.

The entire Tiger squad saw action as the game progressed. All three CC squads held their own against a very scrappy Ent ball club that never gave up.

Tomorrow and the following night the Tiger club travels to

CC Winter Carnival On January 27, 28; First Since 1949

SIDELINES

It has been a long time since Colorado College has had a winter carnival, but a big one is being planned for the period between semesters, Jan. 27 and 28. I was talking to Paul Evans, president of Crown and Lance, the other day, and he explained the whole setup. The story concerning events is on another page. Evans has not left out a single detail, or so it seems. He has made arrangements for a rink, a ski tow, and a dance to climax the carnival with a good band to supply the music. Now, all that remains to make the carnival a successful venture is participation. No one here has experienced such an outing, with but a few exceptions, so I urge you to fit this event into your vacation schedule. I'm sure you will be glad you did.

During our Christmas recess, something usually not seen in sports has popped up: the slugging of an official. It took place in the Denver arena while Denver University was beating the University of Michigan. John McKennell, star leftwinger on the Michigan sextet, in contesting a Denver goal, slugged Mike Yalich, former CC hockey captain and now an authorized official of the Midwest Hockey Conference. McKennell has been temporarily suspended by Michigan athletic director Fritz Chrysler and is now awaiting further word from the coaches and officials of Denver University and the Reverend Arthur Pierpoint, head of the officials' union. Actually, the officials' organization can not make a ruling against McKennell, because the suspension for slugging of an official is only a moral code. Chrysler apparently does not intend to throw McKennell out, and, if he doesn't, nothing can be done. If nothing is done, watch out. It could mean a lack of officials and further slugging from the schedules of Midwest Hockey League schools, but let's wait and cross that bridge when we come to it.

As for CC hockey, well I haven't seen much, being gone over the holidays. However, I did get a chance to see the Minnesota-Toronto series in Minneapolis. After watching those games, I rushed out and placed a bet that CC would at least garner a split with the Gophers. As you know, I was able to pick up a little change on that one. CC has a .500 average as

CC Tankmen Tangle With CU Saturday at Camp Carson Pool

The Colorado College swimming team will return to action Saturday with a dual meet with the strong Colorado University team from Boulder. The Buffs are always rated as one of the top teams in the Rocky Mountain region, and this year's squad appears to be no exception. A good showing by the Tiger tankmen against this Big Seven squad will provide an indication of CC's chances against its own Rocky Mountain Conference competition for the year. The action will begin at 2:30 p.m. in the spacious Camp Carson pool, and all interested persons are invited to attend this free-admission varsity sport.

Coach Doc Stabler's mermen will have only one week's practice after the Christmas holiday layoff before this meet with CU, but the Tigers boast one of CC's strongest swimming teams in years. Captain Tom Abel, Bill Schacht, and Bard Brown will be ready for action in the grueling distance races, with Wally Harmon, Don Hale, Ted Bilharz, Misto Stewart and Dave Brown the freestylers who will be on call for speed in the dashes and freestyle relays. Ed MacGuire and Jim Fowler will churn the water in the backstroke events with conference champ Norm Brown and Chuck McCormack flying the breaststroke races. It is expected that the diving honors will be divided among Chuck O'Connor, Chuck Mollin and Ron Zier.

On Wednesday afternoon of the last week of school before the Christmas recess an inter-squad meet was held between returning lettermen and the "newcomers". The "old men" eked out a win over the plebes by a close victory in the last relay event. Previously, the tankmen won over a game Colorado Springs High School squad, 65-18 and had captured two trophies against top Rocky Mountain region university mermen at the Wyoming Relays in Laramie.

Support your swim team, and show up at the Camp Carson pool this Saturday at 2:30!

ANDY GAMBUCCI who is not pictured here, scores for CC against Michigan State's Spartans last Saturday night at the Broadmoor Ice Palace. Omer Brandt looks on as does the Michigan State goalie and two of its defensemen. CC won both games against the Spartans 6-4, and 5-3.

Continued from Page Five) of today, which speaks pretty well for the group. If the Tigers could put a little more teeth into its defense and erase some of the spottiness from their offense, they could better their percentage I'm sure.

At a dinner party in New York, a South American visitor was telling about his country and himself. He concluded, "And I have a most charming and sympathetic wife but, alas, no children." Then, as his companions seemed to expect further enlightenment, he continued haltingly, "You see, my wife is unbearable." This was greeted with puzzled glances, so he sought to clear the matter up. "I mean, my wife is inconceivable." Seeing that this, too, was not understood, and floundering deeper in the intricacies of English, he finally explained triumphantly: "That is, my wife, she is impregnable!"

HOCKEY HOLIDAYS GOOD FOR THREE WINS

Three Wins Tie Bengals With Michigan For Second Place, Denver Holds League Lead

While many CC students were stuffing themselves on the Christmas turkey, the Bengal icemen were busy spending their vacation putting packages of sorrow under the Christmas trees of Michigan and Minnesota. In the second game of the two game series with Michigan, the Tigers dropped the tilt 10 to 6. The previous night the Wolverines barely scraped through with a 3 to 2 win. The Black and Gold belted the Minnesota aggregation 5 to 2 in one game and lost 5 to 2 in the next to the Gophers. In the Michigan State encounters the Tigers swept over the Spartans 6 to 4 and 5 to 3.

A fast and furious skating Michigan sextet plowed through the Tiger defense time after time and hammered the puck at Ken Kinsley, goalie, without giving him a minute's peace. Kinsley knocked out an unbelievable 49 saves. Willard Ikola had it fairly easy when he only turned aside 29 attempts.

The Wolverines went right to work and scored a fast five goals before the Tiger's initial tally in the second period. This did not slow down the Michigan onslaught a bit. They scored three fast goals before the Tigers began to come to life. The Bengals settled down to work and flipped three scores past the out-flung pads of goalie Ikola. CC scored the first and final goals of the last period, but the Wolverines tacked up two more tallies to put the game out of reach for the Tigers.

Two scores apiece were 'garnered by GC's Len Gagnon and Omer Brandt. Norm Diviney and Leo Soligo picked up a goal apiece for the Bengals. On the Michigan side of the scoring ledger, Earl Keyes, John McKennell, and John Matchefts stuck in two goals apiece while single scores went to Jim Haas, Pat Cooney, Louis Paolatto, and George Chin.

As in the Michigan fracas Ken Kinsley handled most of Minnesota's attacks alone. Trailing the Gophers by two tallies, Lenny Gagnon on the end of a perfect pass pattern batted the disk past Jim Mattson to cut down the lead by one score. A few minutes later

SMILING DICK KENNEFIC threw his weight around against Spartans last weekend, too. Here he puts a little body english on a shot. Sorry, the shot was wide.

CLOSE, BUT NO CIGAR could have been the thought in CC's Norm Diviney's mind after he took this shot at the Michigan State net last Saturday night. Norm made good on another try, however.

Bill Thompson was escorted to the cooler and the Gophers wasted a little time in uping the score by two points.

The third period was a haphazard affair. Dick Dougherty faked out Kinsley for his second score of the evening. In return Leo Soligo took a pass from Gagnon and slipped the biscuit into the twines. The Tigers couldn't capitalize over the tiring Minnesotans and the game ended with a 5 to 2 loss for the Tigers.

The next night's game with Minnesota was a different story for the Tigers. They accomplished their first win after three straight losses. The big gun for the CC attack was Andy Gambucci, who notched four goals. The main thing absent from the previous games, hustle and defense, was very present in this game. The Tiger's other score came off the stick of Len Gagnon. Ken Kinsley again accumulated the spectacular amount of 49 saves. Omer Brandt caused frustration among the Go-pers when he kept riding the puck around the pond to gain time. Colorado College's first win of the season of 5 to 2 over the Minnesotans brightened the Bengals outlook for the season. They went on to beat Michigan State 6 to 4.

The Tiger's encounter with the Spartans was one of more fighting and playing the puck. The Bengals won the game but came out on the long end of the casualty list. Len Maccini and Dick Kennefic were bounced for fighting. The Spartans did not lead once in the game. Single scores were marked up for CC by Omer Brandt, Len Maccini, Norm Diviney, and Leo Soligo, and Andy Gambucci added two more goals to his credit. Weldon Olson led the scoring for the visitors with two goals. As usual, Ken Kinsley came up with an astronomical number of saves, knocking out 47 tries.

The Tigers used the same rock-'em-sock-'em tactics to bow Michigan State 5 to 3. The first to be led to the showers were Omer Brandt and Dick Lord, co-captain of the Spartans, for tangling behind the nets. Norm Diviney and Spartan Henry Campanini soon followed. The visitors broke the scoring ice but Andy Gambucci soon evened the score. Leo Soligo's first of two unassisted goals started the Bengals on their way for their third win. Bill Thompson accounted for CC's other goal. Ken Kinsley, working behind an admirable defense, was credited with only 18 saves.

This win over Michigan State put the Tigers in a second place tie with Michigan University. The league leader is our neighbor to the north, Denver University.

John Scott Has Wide, Varied Background For CC Lecture

"Europe, the Rebirth of a Continent" will be discussed by John Scott, one of the editors of "Life" and "Time" magazine, at a public lecture at Perkins Hall, Colorado College, Thursday, Jan. 15 at 8:15 p. m. Born in Philadelphia, Scott attended schools in the U.S. and Switzerland. He graduated from George School, Pennsylvania, and attended the Univ. of Wisconsin for two years. He left college early in the depression years, decided to see the world and write. After a few months of intensive work and study at General Electric training school in Schenectady, N. Y., he earned a metal worker's certificate and sailed for Russia. There he worked for five years in industrial plants and mastered the language. The great purge of 1937 forced him along with thousands of other foreigners from Soviet industry. The story of Scott's life in these Siberian steel mills and chemical plants is told in his first book (published in 1942), "Beyond the Urals". Shortly afterward his second book, "Duel for Europe", was published.

Scott stayed on in Moscow for three years as a correspondent for HAVAS, the French news agency, and later for the "London News Chronicle".

In 1940 and 1941 Scott made two long trips through the Balkans, the Middle East and Asiatic Russia writing reports which attracted attention in many countries. Two weeks before the German attack against the U.S.S.R., the Soviet authorities expelled Scott from the country for "slandering" Soviet foreign policy and "inventing" reports of Soviet-Cer-

LETTER TO "LET'S FACE IT"

Dear "Let's Face It,"

Your apparent despair over the so-called "semi-hibernation" of the Tigers, Growlers, and cheerleaders is evidently caused by blindness. There is one solution for your defect, when searching for information at least approach the correct authorities.

Your attempt to excite school spirit is directed to the wrong organizations. Tigers, Growlers, and cheerleaders are only a minority of students with a limit to their capacity for participation in school activities. What you need is a police force to prod the student body, en masse, to a greater masterpiece in enthusiasm! Have you ever tried to cheer by yourself? It's quite embarrassing. Support is necessary! This is the ideal opportunity for ambitious underclassmen to prove their school spirit. Tigers, Growlers, and cheerleaders cannot assume the duties of the entire school.

To relieve you of your defect, the designated organizations have made previous plans to attend hockey, basketball, and baseball games as a body. Tiger Club is now the sponsor of the cheerleaders, for the purpose of giving them the recognition they deserve. Due to the present lack of knowledge concerning the dates of featured sports events, the Tiger Club is posting this information. There are numerous other events in which these three organizations are active participants. If your interest continues, they will be glad to supply any information you desire.

Your attitude has been one of the typical college student with a LIBERAL education—"we'll change the world, now the CC campus, overnight." We especially hope your reformation succeeds. But, first, for your success, we suggest you direct your energy, criticism, and demand toward the correct channel.

Sincerely,

"Recalcitrant."

WHO'S HAPPIEST? The smiling gent seated at the desk is "Chip" Shaw the new business manager of the TIGER, while looking over his shoulder is Byrd Parmelee who is winding up two terms of successful managership of the paper.

YES, LET'S FACE IT!

As representatives of the groups mentioned in the editorial last week we would like to approach this subject in a more rational and constructive manner. According to all records there have been three hockey weekends so far: One with the alums during Thanksgiving vacation, one the fifth and sixth of December at which time four formal dances were scheduled and one December 19th and 20th when Christmas vacation started. This we feel explains the one specific statement in your editorial. The next games are scheduled for the 16th and 17th, plans have long since been made for complete attendance. How about some support! Remember that we are only elected representatives of the student body and not delegates.

We are cognizant of the fact that the authors of the editorial are writers but are you thinkers and doers? You are both members of the organizations which you are tearing down. But have you ever worked at making the organization a success? If you have suggestions and helpful criticism that are worth your support let's have them. That's all we're interested in.

—Toni Gadd, Kay Kohler

LET'S FACE IT

By SUE PFEIFFER and LARRY WADDINGTON

We have tried to bring to the attention of the Tiger readers the "social problems" of the campus by stating them forthrightly, not presenting them through rose colored glasses. Usually we were critical and have seldom thrown bouquets. All this is done for a purpose, not to antagonize, but to be constructive. We feel that some of these problems which have confronted the students are better solved when recognized. For this reason we propose to review what has happened and what has been done.

Student Rights: We presented two articles on this subject before anything pro or con was said. We defended the CC constitution when it had been violated. A combined CUL and ASCC meeting resulted, and some of the misunderstandings were ironed out. We hope that in the future there will be more of these meetings for better student-faculty relationships.

Drinking Code: One fraternity was tried for the violation of the drinking code and lost their social privilege. The fallacies of our present code became glaringly apparent. We tried to bring this to the attention of not only the students but also the administration and faculty. A committee has been formed by the students and is rapidly shaping a new code.

Student-Faculty: First, we place the blame for strained relationships between student and faculty upon the faculty alone. Later it was brought to our attention that the students might be at fault. We feel that, now, the administration and faculty are making an effort to work with the students with the Pan-Hellenic dance as an example.

Pep Organizations: We got repercussions galore on this topic. Either we were unjust or "the truth hurts." The Tiger Club and cheerleaders will appear en masse at the Friday night hockey game and the Growlers, well . . .

But there's a lot more stuff to hash over. Undoubtedly next semester will bring more comment.

A. S. C. C.

We're going to try a new method of registering this coming semester. Juniors and seniors will register from 1 to 5 on Friday afternoon and freshmen and sophomores take their turn from 8 to 1 on Saturday. Doors will open half an hour before official starting time so that we can fill out the numerous cards before faculty members arrive. It would be a good idea to see your advisor about schedule changes before registration to save yourself time.

AWS

Know Your Officers

The very important personnel committee of the AWS board is headed by Georgie Shaw, a junior from Wichita, Kansas. The main project of the AWS personnel committee is to keep the files up to date which indicate the interest in extra curricular activities of every girl on campus. The freshmen girls indicated their interests on the personnel interest blanks earlier in the year. These files, kept in Dean Morgan's office, are for the use of any organization on campus which wants to find out who may be a prospective member of its group.

The personnel committee also tabulated the results of the questionnaire on the effectiveness of the AWS Buzzbee program, and helped send out notices to all those who showed an interest in the Ski Club to meet with Johnnie Johnston. As a result, the Ski Club now seems to be flourishing.

The personnel committee should be instrumental in helping to carry out the main purpose of AWS—that of co-ordinating all organizations on campus.

Plans are now being made for the biggest and best "Goldiggers' Ball" yet. To be held at the Broadmoor on February 7, the dance will see the most popular boy at CC crowned "King," and a new, visiting band will play. All girls should start thinking about dates right now!

One more chance for Nugget pictures! At registration you'll find a time schedule in the C-Club room. Sign that and pictures will be taken three days during the first week of the new semester.

We had another discussion of the report of the committee studying the drinking code. Getting rid of the loop holes in the code is the goal at present. There will be a meeting of this committee Thursday at 4:00 p. m. downstairs at Lennex.

GOING! GOING! Auctioneer "Doc" Stabler was in rare form last Saturday night as he acted as the hustler at the Panhel January Jubilee at the Broadmoor. Dean Reid seems to be enjoying the action now—but later?

January Jubilee Highlight Is $158 Collected by Panhel

The first All College Dance of 1953, presented by Panhellenic Organization, will certainly go down as one of the highlights of the year. The Broadmoor ballroom was the site of the "January Jubilee" and was gayly decorated with pink balloons. Dancing was from 9-12 to the music of Ray Kranz and his orchestra. The long-awaited intermission rolled around and was full of the promised laughs and excitement. "Doc" Stabler, acting as auctioneer, removed his coat and began auctioning off the services of the faculty. Enthusiasm rose with "Doc's" barking and bidding flew from person to person.

Byrd Parmelee paid $3.50 to have his date, Dorothy Tucker, sung to in French by Mr. Boyce. For a solo by Dr. Ross, "Duff" Decker paid $8.50. John Price put up $3.50 for Dean Adams to dance with his date, Nancy Bush. Mrs. Fox danced with John Wolfe for the price of $3.50. To the tune of $6.00 Dr. Fox danced with Magie Larkin. Kip Herried gallantly paid $5.50 so his date could dance with Hank Williams. $5.25 was paid for the privilege of dancing with Dr. Curran. Ernie Trefz consented to dance with Ray Scherer for $5.25. Henry Meyer played a violin solo to John Wolfe and Carol Salzman for $12. Corty Bymaster and Clare Chamberlain were charged $2 for listening in. Jerry Engleson paid $8.75 for Miss Ellis' book, "Elizabeth the Woman." Professor Van Saun read the bumps on Joyce Enright's head which cost her date, Don Diones, $6.50. Peggy Root received a trip to the zoo with Peter Kamnitzer for $5. After much bidding, Dr. Leech paid $50 for a date with "Sugar" Morgan to the movies. Beta Theta Pi with the "do or die" attitude, finally won the bid to throw a lemon pie in Dean Reid's face for $35. The total sum of the faculty's services amounted to $158.75.

Phi Delta, Ted Gould, was elected at the dance the "man most likely to succeed." Ted was gloriously crowned by Connie Cover with an old derby hat.

The January Jubilee was brought to a close with two extra dances by Ray Kranz and his orchestra and with the hope that it will become an annual event.

No Chapel Service
So that we may be free to hear or view the Inaugural Ceremonies there will be no Chapel service on January 20. The next Chapel service will be on January 27, at which time the Reverend Hurley Begun of the Unitarian Church of Colorado Springs will be the guest speaker.

Sports Schedule
Montana State basketball series, scheduled Friday and Saturday at Cossitt Hall, will commence at 7:00 p.m. This arrangement is being made in order to permit students to witness both the basketball and hockey series.

GONE! For this, the Betas paid $35. The be-spattered gent is Dean of Men Juan Reid, shown just after Prexy Sid Keoughan had the supreme pleasure of mashing a lemon pie all over the seemingly happy Reid's face. This was all in the interest of scholarships?

200 Fellowships For Foreign Study Now Available

A brochure listing nearly 200 fellowship opportunities for American students to study abroad during the 1953-54 academic year was issued this week by the Institute of International Education, 1 East 67th Street, New York City.

The awards, which are largely for graduate study, are offered to American students by private organizations and by foreign governments and universities. Most of the awards are for study in European and Latin American universities. Grants are also available, however, at the University of Ceylon and at the University of Tehran.

In announcing the opening of the competition for these fellowships, the Institute of International Education emphasized the fact that although a good knowledge of the language of the country is a prerequisite, the awards are not limited to the study of languages and literature. Suggested fields of study in the sciences, the humanities, and the social sciences are given with the listing of grants.

General eligibility requirements for the majority of grants are 1. citizenship; 2. a Bachelor's degree; 3. a good academic record; 4. a good knowledge of the language of the country of study. The closing date for applications for grants given by the French government is February 1; for most of the other grants the closing date is March 1.

The pamphlet, entitled "Fellowship Opportunities for American Students to Study Abroad, 1953-54," may be obtained from the Institute of International Education, U. S. Student Program, 1 East 67th Street, New York 21, N. Y.

The Institute of International Education is a private, non-profit organization which administers international scholarships and fellowships for many private and governmental agencies.

AROUND THE CONFERENCE

Hockey—North Dakota University moved closer to the league crown as they whipped Denver U. in two games, 3-2 and 2-1. North Dakota has won six out of six games for ten points and first place. In second place there is a tie between Michigan U and DU, each of whom have a seven point total. In spite of Denver's two losses, they have retained their second place and seven point total. In third place is CC with a point total of six points. The Tigers have maintained a 3-3 win-loss record.

Minnesota, Michigan Tech and Michigan State hold fourth, fifth and sixth places respectively. The Gophers have a five point total, while the other two teams have no points.

Other games last week saw Michigan State fall twice, State dropped one game to Michigan and one to Minnesota.

The Tiger basketball situation looks rather grim after the CC cagers lost two close games to Western State. CC is steadily

Tigers Drop Two At Western State

After an impressive victory over Ent Air Force Base, the CC cagers dropped two games to Western State College. Friday night the Bengals were tied on a last second shot, then lost in overtime, 61-58. On the following night the Tigers, hampered by the loss of Mel Kensing, dropped the second game to the Mountaineers. 60-53.

In Saturday night's game it was Andy Buyok who spelled defeat for CC as he poured in 33 points to lead the Mountaineers. CC took a slim 15-11 margin at the first quarter mark, but in the second quarter Buyok found the basket and Western State passed the Tigers easily. By half time the Mountaineers held a 30-25 lead.

Colorado College could do no more. In the second half the Tigers pulled within three points of the victors but soon fell away.

Ben Snyder paced the Tigers with 12 points followed by Lowell Slocum who hit for 10.

The Tigers loss could well be accounted for by the fact that in the shooting department they managed a poor 21 percent of their shots in the first half and 19 percent in the final half. The loss was the seventh in eight outings for CC.

Friday night the Tigers lost a heartbreaker. Western State took complete control of the game from the start but with three minutes to go in the final quarter the spunky CC team closed the gap and the game went into an overtime.

A long one handed push shot by Jim Nutting, a Western State sub guard blew the hopes of CC. The ball hit the net as the buzzer sounded to end the game. Western State never trailed in the extra period.

Don Stone and Bob Lovelace led the Tigers with 14 points apiece. Ben Snyder was second with nine points. Walkup and Kirkmyr paced the Mountaineers with 13 points respectively.

CC's next outing will be against Montana State this weekend in Cossit Hall. Both Friday and Saturday night will see the two teams in action.

Montana State led the league last year with a 8-2 record and are proving to be back in contention once again this year. The Bobcats drew their first loss of the season last week against the league leader, Idaho State, 70-65. Montana State's loss sent them down to third place with their CC's ice men return to active duty again this weekend at the Broadmoor Ice Palace when they take on the mentally bruised and physically beaten Denver aggregation. Don't make a mistake about the quality of material on the Denver squad, but rather pay attention to the powerhouse in North Dakota, winner of a two game series with DU last weekend.

In a telephone interview with Coach Cheddy Thompson, the Tiger sports department learned that CC's hockey mentor holds the highest respect for "Fido" Purpur and his puckchaser from North Dakota, but let's wait and cross that bridge in a few weeks.

Presently, however, we have the Denver University game. So far DU has split with Minnesota, Michigan, and has swept a series from Michigan State. They have seven points in the conference right now, one more than we have.

Coach Thompson in his telephone interview went on to say that if CC can continue to defend against attack, as they have in the last three games, he is certain that the Tigers have a good chance in the DU series.

In looking over the listings of individual scoring I have found that, as of January third not including games played last weekend, three Minnesota players hold the top berths in the conference. John Mayasich, Dick Dougherty, and Gene Campbell, the first line for the Gophers have 34, 28, and 23 points respectively. Leo Soligo, who is tied for seventh place along with Johanson and Matchefts, is the leading CC scorer. Gambucci is also in a three-way tie for the number 10 spot. Norm Diviney is ranked 13th, and Omer Brandt is in a four-way tie for the 14th position.

Both Mayasich and Dougherty are credited with 18 goals. Mayasich leads the league in assists. He scored at least one goal in the first ten Minnesota games this season, but he was shut out of the goal column and held to one assist by Denver in his eleventh game on January 2.

MANY TOP-FLIGHT ARTISTS ON DISPLAY AT DENVER ART MUSEUM UNTIL FEB. 15

The ultra-modern in art is being presented during the next five weeks in an exhibition called "Origins and Trends of Contemporary Art," by the Denver Art Museum in its Schleier Memorial Gallery, 1343 Acoma St. Sponsored jointly by the Museum and the University of Denver School of Art, the exhibition encompasses all of the present day expressions which are most highly touted in Eastern exhibitions and in publications such as "Time" and "Life". It includes the work of men who draw the highest acclaim in the New York market. This provocative show will include not only the recent arrivals in the vanguard of contemporary art expression but also many of the modern "old masters", such as Henri Matisse, Pablo Picasso and Georges Rouault. This survey covers the work of both American and European artists. Although the exhibition is composed predominantly of paintings, there are also works in sculpture by such outstanding artist as Marino Marini, Jacques Lipchitz and Henry Moore.

Including work by 54 different artists, the roster of the exhibition reads like a who's who in modern art. An interesting aspect of the show is the combination of modern objects with traditional expressions which are closely related to the contemporary work, proving thereby that present-day expression is built on a tradition of long standing.

It is hoped that the collection will show that the art of this age does not grow from a vacuum and from a total rejection of cherished values, but that it is based upon distinct traditions long since established. The exhibition will remain open free to the public from January 11 until February 15.

MERMAI DUNKED BY BUFFS SATURDAY AT CAMP CARSON POOL, 51-33

The scrappy Colorado College swim team gave a good account of itself in the meet with CU last Saturday at the Carson pool. Due to the overall strength of the Buff squad the tiger merma were beaten, but unbowed, to the tune of 51-33. CC natators were not awed by the large Buff team, and forced it to go all out for every point it tallayed. Despite the apparent lopsidedness of the score, it was actually no walkaway, and was the closest meet in the history of swimming competition between the two schools. First places were taken in the 300 yard medley relay and the 200 yard breaststroke races by Doc Stabler's tankmen. Evidence of the Tiger strength in every event was the total of seven seconds and two thirds garnered by CC in the meet.

Colorado College's winning 300 yard medley relay team was especially brilliant. Ed MacGuire (backstroke), Norm Brown (breaststroke), and Don Hale (freestyler), not only colored CU but made the excellent time of 14.7, which clipped 27 seconds off the Rocky Mountain Conference record set by the Tiger's last year. Another Tiger first was topped by Norm Brown, CC's nearly-invincible breaststroke, in his 200 yard breaststroke specialty.

Adding further to CC's laurels were seconds by Captain Tom Abel in both the gruelling 220 and 440 yard races, by Ted Bilharz in the 50 yard freestyle, Chuck O'Connor in the diving, Ed MacGuire in the 200 yard backstroke, Don Hale in the 100 yard freestyle, and by Norm Brown in the 150 yard individual medley. CC's total was added to by thirds in the one meter diving and the 100 yard freestyle earned by Chuck Mollin and Wally Harmon respectively.

This coming Saturday the Tiger merma will travel to Fort Collins, where they tangle with the always strong Colorado A. & M. swimmers, coached by Tommy Tompkins. Last year the "Aggies" finished second in the Skyline Conference, only one point behind the winner, Denver University. Doc Stabler's swim team will be out to better its last Saturday's performance against CU.

The Tigers give a strong indication, as a result of their first collegiate dual meet of the 1952-53 season, that they will be the team to beat this year in the Rocky Mountain Conference. The CC swim mentors have developed a well-rounded tank group, composed of lettermen from last year's R.M.C. champs, plus the several outstanding new prospects.

The man of the house finally took all the disabled umbrellas to the repairer's. Two days later, on his way to his office, when he got up to leave the street car, he absentmindedly laid hold of the umbrella belonging to a woman beside him, for he was in the habit of carrying one. The woman cried: "Stop, thief!" rescued her umbrella and covered the man with shame and confusion.

That same day, he stopped at the repairer's, and received all eight of his umbrellas duly repaired. As he entered a street car, with the unwrapped umbrellas tucked under his arm, he was horrified to behold glaring at him the lady of his morning adventure. Her voice came to him with a withering scorn: "Hihi! Had a good day, didn't you?"

man friction. At this time he left the country for good and went to Japan and shortly afterward joined the staff of "Time".

Scott filed his first dispatches as a correspondent for "Time, The Weekly Newsmagazine," from Japan in 1941. A year later, he became a contributing editor for "Time" in New York. In 1943, he was in Washington covering the State Department for "Time"; later that year he was sent to London and then to Stockholm where he was chief of the "Time" and "Life" bureau until 1945. For the next three years he was chief of "Time's" Central European bureau in Berlin, after which he returned to the New York office.

During 1951, he was an editor for "Time, Inc." and worked on a secret Air Force project being produced by the "March of Time", the screen and television division of "Time, Inc." He was in Europe and North Africa during the summer of 1952, spending most of his time in Germany and Austria, but also working in Greece, Turkey, Italy, Morocco, France and England.

A thirsty gentleman wandered into a corner saloon and ordered a dry martini. He drank it with relish, and allowed as how it was the best darn martini he had ever tasted. The bartender whipped up another, and the customer declared it was even better than the first.

"Such a genius deserves a reward," he said. He reached into his pocket and produced a live lobster. "Here! Take this with my compliments," he said.

The bartender held the live crustacean gingerly at arm's length. "Thanks," he said dubiously. "I suppose I can take it home for dinner."

"No, no," objected the customer. "He's already had his dinner. Take him to a movie."

WELCOME!

ARE YOU TOUGH ENOUGH FOR THIS JOB?

If you can make the grade, the U. S. Air Force will award you a commission, your wings and pay you over $5,000 a year!

CAN YOU "take it" 6 days a week? For 52 weeks? Can you meet the high standards required to be an Aviation Cadet? If you can—then here's a man-size opportunity! An opportunity to serve your country and build a personal career that will fit you for responsible positions both in military and commercial aviation.

It won't be easy! Training discipline for Aviation Cadets is rigid. You'll work hard, study hard, play hard—especially for the first few weeks. But when it's over, you'll be a pro—with a career ahead of you that will take you as far as you want to go. You graduate as a 2nd Lieutenant in the Air Force, with pay of $5,300.00 a year. And this is only the beginning—your opportunities for advancement are unlimited.

ARE YOU ELIGIBLE?

To qualify as an Aviation Cadet, you must have completed at least two years of college. This is a minimum requirement—it's best if you stay in school and graduate. In addition, you must be between 19 and 26½ years, unmarried, and in good physical condition.

YOU CAN CHOOSE BETWEEN PILOT OR AIRCRAFT OBSERVER

If you choose to be an Aircraft Observer, your training will be in Navigation, Bombardment, Radar Operation or Aircraft Performance Engineering.

New Aviation Cadet Training Classes Begin Every Few Weeks!

HERE'S WHAT TO DO:

1. Take a transcript of your college credits and a copy of your birth certificate to your nearest Air Force Base or Recruiting Station. Fill out the application they give you.
2. If application is accepted, the Air Force will arrange for you to take a physical examination.
3. Next, you will be given a written and manual aptitude test.
4. If you pass your physical and other tests, you will be scheduled for an Aviation Cadet Training Class. The Selective Service Act allows you a four-month deferment while waiting class assignment.

Where to get more details: Visit your nearest Air Force Base or Air Force Recruiting Officer.

ROTC Rifle Team Fires in National Annual Tournament

Colorado College's ROTC rifle team, firing a tight end of the semester schedule, completed firing of the William Randolph Hearst National ROTC competition on Sunday, January 11, 1953. The Hearst Match is an annual event in which each ROTC unit enters on a postal basis with targets mailed to appropriate Army Headquarters for final competition and selection of national and army winners.

A 10-man CC rifle team has completed two phases of a four-phase intercollegiate tournament, presently being held on a Fifth Army area-wide level. This competition will be completed on or about February 15 with final standings made known by Army Headquarters at a later date.

The team also continued to fire its postal circuit, dropping matches to the University of Colorado, Kansas State College, University of Wichita, and Kansas State Teachers College during the week ending January 11, 1953. The rifle team tallied a 1589 out of a possible 2000 during the week ending January 18, 1953, against Michigan College of M. T., Mississippi Southern College, University of Nevada, University of Nebraska, and University of Alaska. However, scores from the above teams have not yet become available.

Girls! Get Your Man and Come To Golddigger's Ball Saturday

Hurry, hurry girls! Only three days left to ask that "certain boy" to the fabulous "Goldiggers' Ball". One of the most outstanding traditional social events at Colorado College, this year's ball, with Gail Lund in charge, promises to be the biggest and best ever. Scheduled for Saturday night at the Broadmoor ballroom, the dance will start at 9 p.m. Larry Stewart's band from Greeley will furnish the music.

A strictly formal affair, the girls must do the inviting, foot the bills, and concoct funny and appropriate corsages for their dates. In this "turn-about-is-fair-play" deal, most of the young men on the campus think it is very nice if their "escorts" treat them to dinner before the dance. Therefore, the AWS Board is raffling off a $5.00 check (in Bemis Commons after lunch Friday) to help defray expenses for some lucky girl who bought her ticket early.

Intermission at the dance will be taken up with the grand march displaying the hilarious corsages, the presentation of a loving cup for the best corsage, and will be climaxed with the crowning of the "King" by Emily Howe, president of AWS. Photographers will be on hand to snap pictures of couples for a small sum, so the girls will have a remembrance of the dance for their scrapbooks.

Tickets for the dance may be obtained for $2.00 from representatives in each dorm, or at the dance. (Remember to buy your tickets early so you will have a chance to win $5.00!)

Air Force Offers Weather School To CC Graduates

Mid-term college graduates who completed degree requirements in January may apply for immediate direct commissions in the United States Air Force Reserve and assignment to basic meteorology graduate training in June, according to an announcement made today by Major General W. O. Senter, commanding general of the USAF Air Weather Service.

Qualified graduates, who must have received credit for one year of college physics and mathematics through integral calculus, will receive complete application forms by writing to the Commanding General, Air Weather Service, Washington 25, D. C. College seniors, both men and women, who will graduate in June with required physics and mathematics credits may also apply at this time for commissions to be awarded following graduation. June graduates will enter graduate meteorology school in September.

During the graduate training in either basic or, later, advanced meteorology, all tuition and other expenses are paid by the government and the student receives full (Continued on Page Six)

Dr. Otis A. and Mrs. Barnes Grant Scholarship Fund to CC

One of the clearest indications of faith in Colorado College and its educational program was shown recently when Dr. Otis A. and Mrs. Margaret Barnes presented CC with the Otis A. and Margaret Barnes Trust Fund. This gift is unique in that it comes from a faculty member, who has given over a quarter of a century of distinguished service to CC. The Trust Fund will offer a full tuition scholarship renewable annually for four years to a selected high school or preparatory graduate. There are no restrictions as to race, creed or locality. However, the Barnes' trust will be granted only to candidates with the following qualifications: be of high moral character and conduct; be a native born citizen of the United States; believe in and support the constitution of the United States and the form and structure of our American system of government; be above average in scholarship and student application, with emphasis on chemistry, physics and mathematics; and possess attributes and qualities of stability, promise, and personality actually manifested outside the classroom, such as aptitude in leadership, citizenship, and competitive athletics.

The Barnes plan to add to the fund so that in a few years, four full tuition scholarships will be available for those promising students who plan to make chemistry their life's work. Any extra in-

AEC Fellowships Available to CC Science Majors

Colorado College seniors majoring in chemistry, physics or engineering are eligible for Atomic Energy Commission-sponsored graduate fellowships in radiological physics for the 1953-54 school year.

Radiological physics is a new and expanding field of science. It is concerned with health physics, radiation monitoring and control radioisotope measurements and similar activities associated with the use of radioisotopes or the release of nuclear energy.

Up to 75 fellowships may be awarded, with fully-accredited graduate study to be carried out in three locations. One program is operated by the University of Rochester and Brookhaven National Laboratory, another by the University of Washington and the Hanford Works of the AEC, and the third by Vanderbilt University and the Oak Ridge National Laboratory.

In each case, nine months of course work at the university is followed by three months of additional study and field training at the cooperating AEC installation. The program is accredited for graduate-level training leading toward an advanced degree.

Colorado College To Celebrate 'Brotherhood Week' With Panel

In cooperation with the National Conference of Christians and Jews, Colorado College will celebrate "Brotherhood Week," February 15-22. The National Conference, which is sponsored by responsible authorities of the faiths represented, has for some twenty-five years been active, and sometime quite successful, in furthering inter-social harmony. This group is pledged to:

"promote justice, amity, understanding and cooperation among Protestants, Catholics and Jews, and to analyze, moderate and finally eliminate intergroup prejudices which disfigure and distort religious, business, social and political relations, with a view to the establishment of a social order in which the religious ideals of brotherhood and justice shall become the standards of human relationships."

The committee appointed to prepare for this event has decided to sponsor a panel discussion at Shove Memorial Chapel on Tuesday, February 17. The membership of the panel will include a rabbi, a priest and a minister. Each member will deliver a five minute talk, stating the meaning of brotherhood as he or the group which he represents conceives it. Then the moderator will assume control and lead the panel in a discussion of several of the more important pertinent issues of brotherhood.

It is vitally important in a project of this kind for the audience to have made some preparation in its own individual and collective thinking. To facilitate this preparation the committee proposes the following question for discussion—IS A SOCIETY RULED BY THE IDEALS OF BROTHERHOOD AND JUSTICE POSSIBLE?—and invites the student body to discuss it in every way feasible: in classes where such an issue is relevant, in "bull sessions," in church or club groups.

Further, the TIGER invites any

IF YOU CAN WIN

THESE WINGS YOU CAN EARN OVER $5,000 A YEAR AFTER GRADUATION

Important facts about the opportunities for YOU as a Commissioned Officer—Pilot or Aircraft Observer— in the United States Air Force

Must I be a college graduate to be a Pilot?

No. But you must have completed a minimum of 60 semester hours or 90 quarter hours toward a degree. In addition, under the new Aviation Cadet Pilot training program, you must be between the ages of 19 and 26½ years, unmarried, and in good physical condition—with high requirements for eyes, ears, heart and teeth.

How long before I get my commission?

60 calendar weeks. You will receive the finest aviation training in the world—training that not only equips you to fly modern military aircraft but prepares you for executive and administrative work as well. At the completion of your training, you will have acquired a commission as a 2nd Lieutenant and won the coveted silver wings of the United States Air Force.

Where do I take my training?

Pre-flight training will be at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas. Primary, basic and advanced training will be taken at any one of the many Air Force bases located throughout the South and Southwest.

What happens if I flunk the training course?

Every effort is made to help students whose progress is unsatisfactory. You can expect extra instructions and whatever individual attention you may require. However, if you fail to complete the course as an Aviation Cadet, you will be required to serve a two-year enlistment to fulfill the minimum requirement under Selective Service laws.

What pay do I get as an Aviation Cadet? And after?

As an Aviation Cadet you draw $109.20 a month pay. In addition, you get summer and winter uniforms, flight clothes, equipment, food, housing, medical and dental care and insurance . . . all free. After you are commissioned a 2nd Lieutenant you will be earning $5,300.00 a year—with unlimited opportunities for advancement.

Are all Aviation Cadets trained to be Pilots?

No. You can choose between becoming a Pilot or an Aircraft Observer. Men who choose the latter will become commissioned officers in Navigation, Bombardment, Radar Operation, or Aircraft Performance Engineering.

A traveling salesman, caught in a torrential rainstorm, stopped overnight at a farmhouse. In the morning, he looked out on a flood coursing through the front yard. He watched pieces of fence, chicken coops, branches, an old straw hat floating past with the current. Then he saw the straw hat come back, upstream past the house! Then he saw it go down again. Pretty soon it came back upstream—and by now the salesman wondered if he had gone crazy.

Finally he called the farmer's daughter. "Oh," she said, after a glance out the window, "that must be Grandpa. He said yesterday that in spite of hell or high water he was going to mow the yard today."

Les Sherman Crowned At Winter Carnival

Bob Kroenke, winner of the trophy for the best party giver, set the mood for the entire Winter Carnival held at Cripple Creek between semesters. The carnival was sponsored by Crown and Lance which won the sports events with 27 points. Second place went to the Gamma Phi Betas who held 18 points.

Highlighting the final event of the carnival was the announcement of the carnival queen, chosen by ballots. The honor went to Leslie Sherman of Winnetka, Ill., a CC freshman. She is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority. Other queen candidates were Jill Loubser of Leeper, Mich., a freshman and member of Kappa Alpha Theta; Helen Heaney of Corpus Christi, Tex., a senior and independent; Marge Epler of Los Angeles, Calif., a junior and member of Gamma Phi Beta; and Jan Newton, a sophomore and member of Delta Gamma. Queen Leslie was presented with her trophy at 9:30 p.m. The four attendants will also receive trophies, at a later date.

As winner of the carnival, Crown and Lance received the Thurston J. Davies Winter Carnival Trophy. Other results of the carnival were:

Speed Skating—Neel Tyree, first; William Tyree, second; William Pond, third.

Barefoot Ice Race—Bun Smith, first; Rule Olson, second; Harold Cowan, third.

Best Feminine Skier—Sue Boer, first; Beta Theta Pi, second.

Broomball Cup—Junior class (Harold Cowan and Mel Weiss).

Best Party Giver—Bob Kronke. Sled Race—Sally Wright, first; Richard Savage, second; Rule Olson, third.

Best All-Around Skier—Art Erickson.

Toboggan Race—Gamma Phi Beta (Carol Watson, Carroll Hill and Jack Barber).

The snow sculpture events and women's broomball were canceled due to conditions of the snow.

The carnival ended Wednesday night with a dance and presentation of awards at the Elks Hall in Cripple Creek. Jack Geisler and his band provided smooth music for dancing.

Do Aircraft Observers get flying training, too?

Yes. Aircraft Observer Cadets receive approximately 200 hours of "in the air" instruction. The primary phase of Aircraft Observer training is the same for all branches (navigation, bombardment, etc.). The basic and advanced phase of training varies, depending on the specific course you wish to pursue.

What kind of ships will I fly?

You will fly jets. The Pilot Cadet takes his first instructions in a light, civilian-type plane of approximately 100 horsepower, then graduates to the 600 horsepower T-6 "Texan" before receiving transition training in jets. You then advance gradually until you are flying such famous first-line aircraft as F-86 Sabre, F-49 Scorpion, B-47 Stratojet, B-50 Superfortress. Observer Cadets take flight instructions in the C-47 Dakota, the T-29 Convair, and the TB-Superfortress before advancing to first-line aircraft such as the F-89 Scorpion, B-47 Stratojet or TB-50 Superfortress.

Will my commission be in the Regular Air Force or Reserve?

Aviation Cadet graduates, both Pilots and Aircraft Observers get Reserve commissions as 2nd Lieutenants. Some outstanding graduates in both programs will be offered Regular commissions.

How long must I remain in Service?

After graduation as an Aviation Cadet, you are tendered an indefinite appointment in the United States Air Force Reserve and are called to active duty with the United States Air Force for a period of three years.

What recreation and leisure time will I have as a Cadet?

Discipline will be rigid—especially for the first few weeks. However, it is not all work. You'll find swimming pools, handball courts, movies and other forms of recreation on the post. After your first 4 months, your commandant may allow you to apply for overnight passes.

Where will I be stationed when I get my commission?

You may be stationed anywhere in the world . . . Hawaii, Far East, Europe, Puerto Rico, elsewhere. During your tour of duty, you will be in close touch with the latest developments in new flying techniques. You will continue to build up your flying experience and later, should have no difficulty securing a CAA commercial pilot rating.

Your future is assured if you can qualify! Here's what to do:

- 1 Take a transcript of your college credits and a copy of your birth certificate to your nearest Air Force Base or Recruiting Station. Fill out the application they give you.
- 2 If application is accepted, the Air Force will arrange for you to take a physical examination at government expense.
- 3 Next, you will be given a written and manual aptitude test.
- 4 If you pass your physical and other tests, you will be scheduled for an Aviation Cadet training class. The Selective Service Act allows you a four-month deferment while waiting class assignment.

Tiger Cagers Face Big Week Play Adams, Colorado State

Colorado College's basketball team inaugurated televised basketball in this area last Saturday night at Cossitt gym. The Tiger cagers also marked the 50th anniversary of basketball at CC by dropping 67-53 to a rugged Colorado State team. Colorado College led through the first five minutes of the game, once by five points, but they soon fell away to the powerful offense of the Bears. The inability of some regulars to hit consistently was probably the main factor in the Tiger's defeat.

At quarter time the Bears held a seven point advantage and pulled steadily away to a 26 point margin at half time. The Tigers however did not give up as they threatened the Creeley visitors time and again. The Tiger cagers came within two points of the Bears twice in the second quarter.

In the final half the CC men outscored the Colorado State team which seemed to lose their accuracy to hit the basket. The CC players cut the half-time margin in half but could do no more before the final whistle blew.

Archie Yelek, new student at CC and a 6'7" center, made his first appearance in college ball Saturday night. His services were well rendered, especially in the first quarter of the ball game. A bit more seasoning with the Tigers should help the Tiger outlook quite a bit.

High man for the evening was Lowell Slocum who hit the net for seventeen points. Yelek was next high for the CC cagers as the new center dropped in 12 points. Flashy Don Doolin was high man for the Bears with 13 points.

In the coming week the Tigers encounter two teams for four games. This Friday and Saturday CC meets Adams (Colo.) State in a non-conference match. Idaho

BENGALS TRAVEL; OPEN WITH DU

In opening a long and hard road trip the Bengal's travel to Denver for a two-game stand this week end. Colorado College is a definite underdog but will be out to revenge the two losses administered by the Pioneers last month at the Broadmoor. In league standings the CC pucksters have six points to DU's nine.

At the end of last week, DU held down a fairly stable tie for third place with Michigan so the coming series could tell the tale. Colorado College follows Denver and Michigan in the league standing, being three points in back of the Pioneers and Michigan.

A capacity crowd is expected as only a limited amount of tickets remain to be sold. Almost all reserve and box seats have been sold.

An action packed week end seems to be in store for hockey fans as these two rival teams clash again. In the first series a number of players were expelled from a rough and tumble game and sent to an early shower after numerous fisticuffs. Ken Kensley, Tiger goalie was one of those expelled for CC.

Next Tuesday and Wednesday the Bengals will be battling it out with North Dakota.

Mermen Whip Aggies, Meet Mines Saturday

On January 17, an underdog Colorado College swimming team defeated the highly rated Colorado A.M. mermen. It was the first time in history that CC was able to defeat the Aggies in a dual swimming meet. The improving tankmen edged A.M. 48-45 by winning the last event of the meet, the 400 yard freestyle relay.

Norm Brown and Don Hale each won two individual races and also swam on winning medley and freestyle relay teams, respectively. Norm Brown's wins came in the 150 yard individual medley and 200 yard breaststroke races while Don Hale splashed to firsts in the 50 and 100 yard freestyle sprints.

Aiding CC's winning cause were Captain Tom Abel with seconds in both distance races, Chuck O'Connor drew second place in diving, and Ted Bilharz in a fast second in the 50 yard freestyle sprint. Third place points were added by Wally Harmon and Ed MacGuire in the 100 yard freestyle and 200 yard backstroke races. The winning medley relay was composed of Brown, Ed MacGuire and Wally Harmon while Bill Schacht, Ted Bilharz, Wally Harmon and Don Hale composed the winning freestyle relay.

Saturday's meet against Colorado Mines will mark the CC tankmen's first taste of conference competition this year. Mines has already defeated Colorado State and appears to be much improved over last year's runner-up team in the Rocky Mountain Conference. On the basis of Jack Cain, Mines conference holder and the strong freshman swimmers, Mines has definite ambitions to dethrone Colorado College from its present conference championship. Attend the swim meet at 2:30 p.m. on Saturday at the Carson pool and support your college swimming team.

CC Ski Team In Competition

Coach Ed Simpson and the Colorado College ski team journeyed to Winter Park last week end to compete in the annual DU Invitational ski meet. Against some of the nation's top skiers, CC's seven-man team competed in the slalom, downhill, cross country and jumping events.

Although the team placed last in the meet there were promising factors. All of the team placed within ten places of each other in all events. Add that to the factor that it was several of the members' first race, and meet, the future may bring better results.

CC's next meet is scheduled on February 28 at Gunnison, Colorado against the same competition.

HORACE BRIGGS RICE DIES SUDDENLY AFTER SHORT ILLNESS IN INFIRMARY

Horace Briggs Rice, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul N. Rice of Pelham, New York, a member of the junior class, passed away last Tuesday morning. Horace had been suffering from a throat infection for more than a week and was confined to the college infirmary on Sunday. The death at first was thought due to an acute dilatation of the heart, but a post-mortem revealed that it was due to an acute pulmonary edema caused by acute tracheo bronchitis.

Horace entered Colorado College last September as a transfer student from Wesleyan University in Middletown, Conn. Prior to entering he attended the Pelham Memorial High School and the Loomis School of Windsor, Conn., where he was active in athletics, and was a member of the band and the glee club. While at Colorado College, Horace was an active member of the Mountain club. He was well-known on the campus and had made a host of friends during his short stay here.

Memorial services for the deceased will be held in Shove Memorial Chapel Thursday afternoon at 4:00 p. m. by Dean Howard Berkle. It is the request of his parents that no flowers be sent.

Root-Tilden Law Scholarships to N.Y.U. Announced

Dean Russell D. Niles of New York University's School of Law has set March 1 as the 1953 deadline for applications for the 20 Root-Tilden Scholarships awarded annually at the school. Qualified college seniors from this state who apply will be interviewed shortly after the deadline date, he added.

Culminating in a bachelor of laws degree, the program under which Root-Tilden Scholars study at NYU's Law Center, includes individual tutoring in courses related to law as well as special lectures and seminars with distinguished members of the bench and bar.

"Root-Tilden Scholars of former classes," Dean Niles said today, "have had the opportunity to meet and talk informally with international as well as national leaders in the judicial field. In addition, each of the Root-Tilden scholars has appointed for him upon his arrival in New York a graduate of his university who is practicing law in and around New York City to act as his sponsor, friend and counselor during the scholar's stay in the Law School. This permits close liaison between active practitioners and the young man during his training."

Besides an outstanding faculty and roster of lecturers and consultants, Dean Niles stressed today, the Root-Tilden Scholar will be geographically close to one of the world's great "legal laboratories."

CC Debates With 48 Schools Friday

This weekend Professor Ray Werner takes Colorado College's debate team to Denver to enter the 22nd annual Rocky Mountain Speech Conference. Chuck Hawley, Paul Evans, Hiram Liggett and Larry Waddington will comprise the CC team. Regis, Denver University and Colorado State are among the 48 entries providing competition.

Werner announced that CC's attendance at this meet is in preparation for the National Debate tournament at Denver on April 22, 23, and 24.

THIS IS ONE OF THE MANY ACTS and entertaining groups which will be seen at the Circus Ball at the Broadmoor hotel Saturday night.

"Can 50 Million Frenchmen Be Wrong?" Subject for Faculty Lecture Series

Wallace C. Boyce, instructor in French at Colorado College, will discuss "Can Fifty Million Frenchmen Be Wrong?" at a public lecture at the Shove Memorial Chapel lecture room at Colorado College on Wednesday, Feb. 18 at 8:15 p. m. Boyce came to Colorado College in 1950 from Princeton University, where he was doing graduate work. A native of New Jersey, he attended Englewood High School before graduating from Exeter. After receiving a B.A. from Williams College, Mr. Boyce was in the advertising and insurance business in New York City; later he accepted a position as teacher of French, Latin, and History at the South Kent School in Connecticut, where he taught for three years. Then came four and a half years in the Army.

Drafted into the service, he went to the Engineer Officer Candidate School and served as second lieutenant, first lieutenant and captain with the 89th Division at Camp Carson. Transferring to Military Intelligence, Boyce was assigned to Headquarters Seine Section in Paris and later to Headquarters Third Army in Luxembourg and Germany. At the close of hostilities, he was on the staff of the U. S. Army section of the University of Nancy, as director of Studies for American soldier students. He holds the rank of major in the inactive reserve.

Back in the United States Boyce attended Columbia University of graduate school, completed a master's degree at the Middlebury French summer school, and begun work on his doctor's degree at Princeton, where he taught part-time. A Princeton M.A. degree was completed in 1950. Since then, Mr. Boyce has been working on a thesis on "The Problem of the Presence of the Author in the Novels of Francois Mauriac."

LET'S FACE IT

By SUE PFEIFFER and LARRY WADDINGTON

Once again CC's honor system comes under fire from students and faculty. It is attacked by people who believe that the idea of any type of honor system in college is ridiculous. And when the unprecedented amount of cheating was brought to light at semester finals, the critics had their field day. With this in mind, we conducted interviews with nine faculty members to ask their opinion of the honor system. We were surprised to find that every one favored keeping the system, especially, when we heard that they were all against it. It is true there is opposition, as well as criticism. But for the majority of students and faculty, and for us, the honor system is far more acceptable than proctors.

The students seem to be the system's biggest problem with their casualness about a thing called honor. The best solution here might be a regulation for all tests to be taken in the room which they are given. Sounds as if we're giving up on part of our honor system, yet we feel that students can be tempted just so far. But far more important is the necessity for students and professors to turn in offenders. For here lies the strength or weakness of an honor system. But how can we attain this? The solution here is dependent upon the cooperation of the Honor Council, students and faculty.

The Honor Council must be given constant publicity, who they are—how they operate. And in electing Honor Council members, the votes should show capability, not popularity. For it is the Council's responsibility to lay the ground work for a successful honor system by orienting freshmen and transfer students. They must impress the new students with the importance of the system. It is essential that new students be trained not to cheat. In a sense, the honor system must be portrayed as something sacred at CC.

In addition, the upper-classes could use some education in moral responsibility. Those who fail to turn in offenders are as guilty of violating the honor code as cheaters, and you're not a squealer—or a sneak—and a college student should be able to recognize this.

The final link lies with our faculty. In their hands is the power to make or break the system. Their support is no less essential than the Honor Council's or student's.

Colorado College wants the honor system. The professors who had cheating in their classes still favor the system. The Honor Council is more than willing to receive suggestions for improvements of the system. Lastly, the students agree in their desire to have some kind of an honor system. But, what is needed is the complete cooperation of the three groups to work toward the same goal. A chain is no stronger than its weakest link.

BROTHERHOOD AND FAITH ARE EVERYDAY WORDS

In Louisville recently, a cancer patient whose disease was in an advanced stage decided to try a new type of operation. The adrenal glands were removed by surgery, and the patient is now greatly improved. The surgeon who developed and performed this delicate operation was a young Chinese.

In Korea, the breaking down of race barriers occurs every day. A white soldier is rescued from a shell crater by a Negro. A Frenchman fights side by side with a boy from Kansas who could not understand a word he might say. Theirs is the brotherhood of common danger.

Brotherhood is something like faith. Religious faith is a concept most of us honor, but which we neglect during the ordinary hours of our lives. Then comes a crisis. Our life is threatened, or the life of somebody we love. Our lips begin to form unaccustomed prayers that pour straight up from the heart.

It is the the same way with Brotherhood. We are glad to acknowledge that we are our brother's keeper, and he is ours, when danger sharpens our sense of common cause. Yet the common cause is always there. If we are all brothers on the field of battle or in the operating room, we are brothers in the plain surroundings of our daily lives.

Let's not put faith and brotherhood up on a shelf, to be reached for in an emergency. Let's use them every day. They should not be associated with death or the threat of death. They are really the elixir of life.

Constitution Change And Honor System Under Discussion

Attention independent students: There is a motion before student council that would change the eligibility requirements for candidates for president of A.S.C.C. To put this into effect there must be a two-thirds vote of the student body to change Article VII, section 2 of the by-laws of our constitution. Under this by-law a candidate must have maintained a 2.0 average for each of the two semesters preceding his candidacy. The motion before the house would change this to read an overall average of 2.0 for the preceding two semesters.

The procedure for acquiring the necessary vote is to bring the matter before the various organizations. If you are not a member of any such organization and wish to vote on this matter we call your attention to Article XII, Section 2 of the A.S.C.C. constitution which reads as follows: "Members of A.S.C.C. not connected with organizations listed in the conference may include their vote on by-laws through presentation of petitions for or against, providing such petitions are in the president's hands by the announced date of final tabulation (Monday, Feb. 16.)"

For all new students: Every student is required to attend chapel services every Tuesday at 10:00 a.m. This knowledge may save you embarrassment in the future.

Honor System Disregarded

There was some discussion in the meeting of the obvious disregard of the Honor System. Suggestions given to remedy this situation were made. Some of these were: more tests, possibly even weekly so as to take some pressure off finals; restriction of a student to a certain room while taking the tests; more thorough explanation of the Honor System to incoming freshmen; and restriction of the Honor System to juniors and seniors. We were asked to discuss these and other suggestions in our organizations in order to bring about the formation of constructive ideas on how we can make the system work as it should.

Sally is a member of Gamma Phi Beta sorority.

Don't forget to vote for your new AWS officers—primary election will be held next Monday night in hall meetings (Town Girls may vote Monday morning in Palmer) and the final election will be on Wednesday. The AWS officer's duty is to serve you—it's up to you to elect those you think would do the best job.

Women's Educational Soc. Gifts Aid CC Expansion Scholarships

At its board meeting this week, the Women's Educational Society of Colorado College completed plans for repairing the chairs at Perkins Hall. Several years ago the society, in a two year project, remodeled and renovated Perkins Hall Auditorium at a cost of $28,000. Last year, at a cost of a little over a thousand dollars, the organization had an elevated floor put in the auditorium. The old chairs from the Trail theatre were placed in the auditorium late last year. A contract has been awarded to Ralph Giddings to repair and re-upholster the chairs in a mottled yellow leather and to paint the iron and wooden parts of the chairs black. This project will cost about $3,000.

Members of the society have been asked for contributions and the money raised from a lecture given last year by Mrs. Elizabeth Cowles has been applied toward this fund. At the present the fund thus raised amounts to $1,118.47, most of this contributed this month and in January. Money is still coming in daily and the society will welcome further contributions.

SOCIETY GIVES SCHOLARSHIPS
Dean Sallie Payne Morgan stated that the girls awarded half tuition scholarships by the society for this year have done very well scholastically. With A as the highest grade obtainable at the college, one of the girls received all A's; others, B plus and B averages. Scholarships have been awarded to Suzanne Stearman of Wichita, Kan.; Mary Spindell of Springfield, Ill.; Deborah Brewster of Yankton, S. D.; and Sue Griffin of Rhododendron, Ore. Three foreign students, brought to the college in previous years, have written the society expressing their appreciation for their scholarships.

PREVIOUS WES AID

Organized in 1889 to aid Colorado College, the Women's Educational Society has given over $60,000 in scholarships and loans to Colorado College students. It also has given to the college, a completely furnished women's dormitory, Montgomery Hall; the Infirmary, completely furnished and equipped; has brought public lecturers of note to the community; and has given other gifts like that of a microfilm reader to Coburn Library.

Membership is open to all women in the community interested in the work of the society. Miss M. Catharine Gregg is membership chairman for the organization which numbers about 300 members this year. Mrs. Hartley Murray is president of the group.

Oregon Professor Will Lead Tour to Europe In June

A summer tour of France, Switzerland, Italy, Austria, Germany, Holland, Belgium, and England is being organized under the leadership of Dr. Edward Bourbousson, associate professor of modern languages at Oregon State College, who escorted trips to Europe in 1950 and 1952.

Sailing date is June 20 from New York on De Grasse, a steamer of the French line, and return August 28.

This tour is planned for those who are interested in art and in political, economic, and social problems of Western Europe. Eight countries and the most interesting places in each country will be visited. Due to Dr. Bourbousson's knowledge of Europe and personal connections, there will be interesting features included not ordinarily available to tour parties.

These include interviews with French government officials in Paris and leaders of the Academie Diplomatique Internationale in Geneva. A stay of three days in Salzburg during the Music Festival gives those interested in music the opportunity to attend symphony and opera performances.

Dr. Bourbousson said the 69-day trip costs $1,295, which includes round trip steamer transportation in cabin class, accommodations in first class hotels, sightseeing, tips, and excursions in each town. Reservations being limited, write for more information to Dr. E. Bourbousson, Oregon State College, Corvallis, Ore.

Dutch Information Officer Speaks Here on European Unity

Jerome L. Helderling, Dutch information officer for the United States, spoke before a group of students in Professor Mertz's class in political science and a number of faculty members at Shove Lecture Room last Thursday on European Unity. "The problems of European unity are confusing," he said; "Americans are not the only ones confused; Europeans themselves are at times somewhat baffled by their own brainchild. Whereas Europe has not had unity of purpose before, today all Europe, subject to the same threat of aggression from Russia, is unified by the same desire to be free. America shares these wishes."

ECONOMIC UNITY NEEDED

Unity of purpose, however, is not sufficient, he added. There must be a greater unanimity of means and methods toward that end. There must not only be military and political unity, but also economic unity. Without the latter, the others cannot succeed. All trade barriers should be removed so that there will be one big free market area; then the various countries should merge their sovereignties into one European political authority or government, eventually becoming a kind of United States of Europe.

"Today," Helderling said, "there is unity of purpose, of approach and methods leading to economic and political unity; but there is no emotional realization of a European community which can command the first loyalty of each European individual." The French for example, fear that Germany will dominate and feel that French interests must come first. These emotional barriers are the most difficult to overcome. In practice, many countries assume there is European unity; but the need for an intellectual rather than an emotional approach is essential. Today, Europe must recognize the collective danger, must realize that if one country is attacked, no country is safe.

HOLLAND WANTS UNITED EUROPE

As evidence that there are gains in the intellectual facing of this problem, Helderling stated that seventy percent of the trade between European countries is free of "quantitative restrictions, that is limiting the amount of goods going from one country to another." There is, however, no such spectacular result achieved yet in tariffs. The Schuman Plan and the European Defense Community Plans have made progress in breaking down economic barriers. For example, under the Schuman plan, there is an international fund to aid industries that have suffered losses thru removal of trade barriers; under this plan, national subsidies are not possible. Illustrating the working of this plan, Helderling showed how the Belgian coal industry is being paid subsidies from this international fund; the money is being paid largely by Holland and Germany, whose coal industries are flourishing. This fund has been guaranteed the Belgian coal industry for five years, during which time, Belgium is supposed to "clean up its coal problem."

In a discussion period, Helderling

MERMEN DUMP MINES, LOOK TOWARD TITLE

CC Travels to Greeley Saturday RMC To Be Feb. 21 at Carson

Colorado College's well-balanced swim team defeated an eager Oredigger squad from Colorado School of Mines by a 52-31 margin last Saturday at the Camp Carson pool. Coach Doc Stabler's mermen captured eight of the ten first places of the meet. Leading point getter for the Tigers was yearling Don Hale, with dependable Norm Brown and freshman Jim Taylor following close behind. Don Hale and Norm Brown took two first places each, while Jim Taylor's blue ribbon in the backstroke event coupled with Chuck O'Connor's first in diving, plus the two winning relays, accounted for CC's eight first places. Hale copped first place honors in the 50 and 100 yard freestyle events. Norm Brown was first in the 150 yard individual medley and the 200 yard breaststroke. Jim Taylor outclassed his opposition in the fancy diving. The combination of Jim Taylor, Norm Brown, and Wally Harmon was an easy winner in the 300 yard medley relay, while Bill Schacht, Wally Harmon, Jim Taylor, and Don Hale found the competition almost as easy in the 400 yard freestyle relay, in which they turned in the respectable time of 4:07.3.

Adding other welcome points to CC's winning total was Captain Tom Abel's second in the 440 yard freestyle, and his third in the 220 yard freestyle, points won after thrilling races with Mines' Don Walker, Harry Holton's fast third in the 50 yard freestyle, Bard Brown's strong finish for a third in the individual medley, Chuck Mollin's easy third in diving, and Ed MacGuire's exciting touch-out of Mines' Sulzback for a second place in the 200 yard backstroke race added further to CC's laurels. Jim Fowler's third place in the 440 yard freestyle was denied when the finish rope accidentally delayed his and his opponent's finish.

Big gun for Mines was Jack Cain, conference triple holder from Tulare, California, who was held to a first in the 220 yard freestyle, and a second in the 100 yard freestyle, in which event he was beaten by freshman freestyle sensation, Don Hale. Don Walker accounted for the other first place snared by Mines, when he touched-out dependable Captain Tom Abel in the 440 yard freestyle grind.

Next Saturday, Colorado College travels to Greeley to tangle with Colorado State in the fast local pool. Colorado College won its first R.M.C. championship last year in this pool, and has always done well there. On the basis of CC's defeat of Mines, which took Greeley into camp, Doc Stabler's

CC Looks Good In Idaho State Loss

CC cagers went to court Tuesday night an inspired ball club, only to lose in the second half, 65-82 to the league-leading Idaho State club. The victory assures the Bengals of the crown.

CC played their best ball game of the year in the first half Tuesday night. The team blew hot and cold, hot in the first half and a quite evident cold in the second half.

Big Don Stone was the hot boy in the first half as he pulled in 16 points, 11 of which were in the first quarter. The teams saw-sawed for the first few minutes, then Stone hit from 20 feet out, quickly followed by two more long push shots. Ben Snyder hit for two and then Stone dropped in two more quick two pointers and a gift shot to put the Tigers out in front 17-9. At the end of the quarter CC held a 19-13 edge. Stone fouled out with half of the last stanza gone.

In the second period both teams scored evenly with the Idaho State team coming within four points four times. At the end of the first half the Tigers held a seven point lead, 42-35.

In the second half it was a different story. The Bengals tied the score and went ahead before the Tigers could counter. A gift shot by Lowell Slocum tied the score again but for the last time. The game was all Idaho State from this point on. At the end of the third quarter the score was 49-59 for the Bengals.

In the fourth period the Tigers could not begin to roll except for one rally when they brought the score to within seven points.

Don Stone's first half shooting along with Jim Bergstrom's hustling tactics kept the Tigers in the game. Bergstrom's play was good not only in control of the courts but also at the hoop where he popped in 12 points.

Idaho State showed its worth as a scoring unit as four men hit 15 points apiece. Bus Conner, freshman Les Roh, Sam Beckham, and Dick Bauer were the four hot shots. Jerry Belkow hit for 14 points.

The Tigers' next outing is against the Miners here at Cossitt, Feb. 13, and on the following night at Mines.

In the first game of the Idaho State series, the Idaho boys won their eighth straight game by topping CC 78-75. The game assured the Bengals of at least a tie in the conference and left the Tigers leaning pretty heavily against the cellar wall.

Lowell Slocum, CC center was the big gun in the Tigers' attack. The CC men played on a fairly even keel throughout a good part of the first quarter but the Bengals soon caught fire and pulled slowly away.

Slocum lead the Tigers with 19 points. Les Roh, Idaho State freshman, retained his lead as high scorer of the conference as he dropped in 18 points to help the winner's cause.

Last weekend the Tigers dropped two more games, both non conference, in hopes of breaking into the win column. Adams State whipped the Tigers Friday night 54-43 and on the following night they dropped the CC cagers 62-53.

Weakness in ability to hit free throws was the main factor in the two losses obtained last weekend. Saturday's loss was the seventh for Coach Eastlach's club.

Don Stone was the main gun in the Tiger offensive. Stone kept the Tigers in the game the first quarter as he accounted for half of CC's points. Stone led the Ti-

D.U. WHIPS TIGERS IN FOUR GAMES; MICHIGAN TECH. FINAL CONF. GAME

The Denver Pioneers made hockey history last weekend as they dropped the Bengals two more times to give them the four game series for the first time. Friday night the Bengals trekked to Denver and returned with a 5-4 loss; on the following night CC dropped their last effort 8-3. CC trailed 6-1 going into the last period when they finally caught fire with Norm Diviney netting two goals for the Tigers. But this was all the Tigers could manage as the Pioneers took over once again and netted two more before the game ended. It was the eighth loss for coach Cheddy Thompson's club.

The clubs were locked at one apiece at the end of the first period with the deadlock breaking abruptly in the second quarter as DU put away five goals, three being within 48 seconds.

The big outburst came in the second period when Jim Weir and Andy Gambucci tangled with Denver's Miller. Both CC men were canned for two minutes. At this point the Pioneers pushed two tallies across the ice to put the score at 5-1.

The first game of the series was by far the most colorful when fistfuffs seemed to be in style as fight after fight was broken up.

Individual performers were many, but the fine work of goalie Ken Kensley and the efforts of Willis O'Leary, Denver center, were perhaps the most outstanding.

After several free-for-alls the boys settled down for a bit of hockey. Goalie Kinsley repeatedly erased would-be Denver scores as he swept 27 shots away from the net.

The clever work of O'Leary was well noted as he faked his way to two outstanding goals. His work in 14:33 of the third period scored Denver's winning goal. O'Leary also tallied Denver's tying goal in 8:10 of the third stanza, when he knotted the score at three apiece.

Both teams started out at a slow pace but Denver dominated the play. With half of the first period over, Bill Kossian put one away for the first tally of the game. CC came back near the end of the first stanza when Ed Robson scored on an assist from Omar Brandt.

In the second period CC went into the lead 2-1 when Bill Clark scored with the assisting done once again by Brandt. Denver tied the score at 12:16 of the second period as Mel Mullin slipped one past Kinsley. 15:03 of the second period saw Len Maccini drive home a 25-footer, unassisted. Maccini's goal put the Tigers back into the lead once again.

At this point O'Leary sent the boys from CC home with his two deciding goals.

This week the Tigers travel to North Dakota for two and then close their conference play against Michigan Tech with a two game series this weekend.

Women's Ski Team Travels to Alta

Colorado College Women's ski team travels to Alta, Utah, this weekend to compete in a tri-state invitational meet. Miss Dickie will enter seven girls in the meet.

The girls will enter in the slalom events against top competition of Colorado University, Denver U., Colorado State, U. of Utah, and the University of Wyoming.

Shirley Adair, Gail Lund, Sue Pfeiffer, Judy Johnson, Jackie Hannan, Carol Northcutt, and Jo Warner are the girls making up the team.

The meet is divided into three divisions. Friday the skiers are given trial runs to see which class they will compete in. If a girl fails to make any of the classes, she will be given free ski lessons. The team left early this morning.

AROUND THE CONFERENCE

Hockey—Hockey competition this week finds the CC Bengals in action four times as they meet North Dakota Tuesday and Wednesday and then travel to Michigan Tech for a two game series this weekend. After last week end's double loss to Denver the Bengals are out of competition in this year's NCAA hockey tournament but took the role of the spoiler this week in hopes of knocking North Dakota from top position of the conference. North Dakota topped twice last weekend to Minnesota for the third straight time, the double loss by the Nordaks moved the Gophers into a tie for first place, each team having thirteen points. Denver's two wins of last weekend put them into third place, two points behind the first place teams.

The Tigers will be without the aid of Len Maccini for the weekend. Maccini will leave for the Springs immediately following the North Dakota series for his marriage Saturday. His matrimonial plans were made before he was made eligible for the present hockey season. The Bengals will also be playing without the aid of Dick Kenefic, who has been dropped from the school.

Michigan seems to have the best chance to walk off with the title this year even though they are in fourth place. Michigan has yet to play six games, thus far they have six wins against two losses.

Michigan Tech won its first game in two year's of league action last Saturday with a 5-2 victory over Michigan State. The Spartans won their first game of the season the night before as they whipped the State boys 3-1.

Minnesota's high scoring first line of Johnny Mayasich, Dick Dougherty, and Gene Campbell continue to pace the Midwest Ice Hockey League scoring parade. Mayasich has a total of 57 points with 32 goals and 25 assists in 19 games and he is eight goals short of the record 40 set by Ron Hartwell of CC last year. He has ten goals to play. Mayasich has tallied four hat tricks among his 32 goals.

Andy Gambucci is tied for ninth place in most points scored, he has hit the cage for 20 points. Leo Soligo and Gambucci are among ten conference players who have collected four goals in one game.

Basketball—Idaho State moved closer to the conference crown last weekend after a victory over Western State, 71-55. Andy Buyok of Western State continues to lead the Mountaineers as he dropped in 27 points even though he rode the bench for the better part of a quarter after he had four fouls charged against him. The other conference game saw Colorado Mines lose a well earned victory in the third quarter to the favored Colorado State five.

CC Star Wins World Figure Skating Title

Hayes Alan Jenkins, a 19-year-old sophomore at Colorado College, skated to gain the Men's International Figure Skating championship last Tuesday in a brilliant display which gave him a small edge over Jimmy Grogan, a Colorado Springs boy. The competition was held in Davos, Switzerland.

Jenkins trailed Grogan as the free style skating began but his display was so near perfect on that, he won in that division to give him an edge in the tourney.

In the final scoring, Jenkins received a placement figure of 13 and a total point score of 1,647.6. Grogan's score was 16 and 1,636.8.

Jenkins takes the crown from Dick Button as the world amateur figure skating champion. Last year this honor gave Button his fifth straight championship but he has since turned pro after winning his fifth time.

terial but it doesn't seem to function properly. The addition of Archie Yelek should help considerably in the Tiger attack. Yelek has averted ten points in his first three outings.

In Friday night's loss it was the inability to hit on charity tosses. CC missed 18 freethrows out of 32, Snyder missing six of eight shots.

The Tigers came within five points of tying the game with less than six minutes to play but their rally failed as the game went into the final minutes of play.

Jim Bergstrom and Ed Lodmell lead the losers with nine points apiece.

Collegium Musicum To Present Concert For Canon City Group

Collegium Musicum under the direction of Mr. David Kraehenbuehl will present a concert in Canon City next Tuesday evening, Feb. 24. This concert will be one in a series of the Canon City Civic Music Association. The musical group will be accompanied by the LaSalle String Quartet as it presents a program of Lenten choral works.

This organization is a group of CC students and Colorado Springs residents who meet every Saturday morning for two hours to sing contemporary choral music and music by unfamiliar composers of past centuries. The program in Canon City will consist of:

"In Monte Olivete," "Tristis est anima mea," "Caligaverunt oculi mei," and "Tenebrae factae sunt" by Michael Haydn (1737-1806); "Tristis est anima mea" and "Tenebrae factae sunt" by Francis Poulenc (1889-); "From the Lamentations of Jeremiah" by Francois Couperin (1688-1733); and "Lord, How Long Wilt Thou Be Angry?" by Henry Purcell. ## SCIENTISTS ARE NOT A MENACE SAYS DR. FOX IN FACULTY LECTURE

By AMANDA M. ELLIS

Speaking before a capacity crowd at the lecture room at Shove Memorial Chapel last Wednesday evening, Mr. Richard M. Fox, associate professor of zoology at Colorado College, stated that scientists were not a menace to society; he placed the responsibility for the fact that man seemed to be destroying himself through the things he had invented or discovered on the hands of philosophers and religious leaders who had not taught man how to discipline himself. Science, he contended, has progressed faster than man can assimilate his own discoveries and inventions.

This was the first in a series of three faculty lectures given by Colorado College. Dr. Fox spoke on the subject, "Are Scientists A Menace?"

ATOM BOMB NO MENACE

The atom bomb, Dr. Fox added, is not a menace; it is the use to which irresponsible men put it that is menacing. He reminded his audience of the good uses to which atomic energy can be put. The automobile with its high death rate, and television, with its overabundant "hucksters that appear too often," he pointed out, are not bad in themselves.

To the early Greeks, science and philosophy were closely related. The scientists collected material; the philosophers interpreted the findings of science. There followed a period when philosophy and religion sought to dominate science; today, again there is a reconciliation of the three; yet philosophy and religion have not kept abreast of the advances of science. Fox asserted, however, that the philosopher and the preacher realize that their fields are strengthened by scientific, proved theories.

Without the scientist, he affirmed, there would be no literature, art, or music. He pointed out the value of science in the invention of paper, printing presses, the materials with which the painter or sculptor work, the violin and the piano. Without the psychological sciences, he pointed out, the many themes that are the focal point for novels, plays and biographies would be lost to the world. Today, he added, science is closer to the people than are the arts that tend to belong to the people.

DISCUSSION PERIOD

In a lively forty minute discussion period that followed Dr. Fox's lecture, the question of the ethical responsibility of the scientist arose. The question of whether science was being menaced by governmental control and the demands of industry was presented. Dr. Fox argued that government and industry had given science a tremendous impetus. On the other hand, he conceded that they had done science a dis-service by paying such high salaries that many good scientists had been lured away from the teaching field. From the audience came the statement that Benjamin Fine last Sunday in The New York Times gave a report of a commission's finding that among students the last few years, the best brains were going into science, the next best into the humanities, and the poorest into public school teaching. Did this fact explain why science was so far ahead of man's ability to assimilate his own inventions and discoveries?

The next faculty lecture presented by Colorado College will be given at Shove Memorial Lecture Room at 8:15 p. m., Wednesday, Feb. 18, when Wallace Boyce will have as his subject: "Can Fifty Million Frenchmen Be Wrong?" These lectures are open to the public.

Georgie Shaw Elected President of AWS

GEORGIE SHAW is the newly elected president of the Associated Women Students at Colorado College, it was announced today by the AWS board. Georgie, who is a junior from Wichita, Kansas, has served as song chairman this year for her sorority, Gamma Phi Beta, and has done an excellent job as personnel chairman on the AWS board. The new president will take over her duties next week.

Last Chance to Take Selective Service Tests This April

All eligible students who intend to take the Selective Service College Qualification Test in 1953 should file applications at once, Selective Service National Headquarters advised today.

An application and a bulletin of information may be obtained at any Selective Service local board. Following instructions in the bulletin, the student should fill out his application immediately and mail it in the special envelope provided. Applications must be postmarked no later than midnight, March 9, 1953. Early filing will be greatly to the student's advantage.

Results will be reported to the student's Selective Service local board of jurisdiction for use in considering his deferment as a student, according to Educational Testing Service, which prepares and administers the College Qualification Test.

Students are warned that this is the last opportunity they will have this school year to take the Selective Service Qualification Tests. Regardless of your present standing, you are advised to take the test if you have not already done so as a protection to yourself in case of a change in policy.

The test will be given here at Colorado College, April 23, 1953. Blanks are now available at the registrar's office.

LET'S FACE IT

By SUE PFEIFFER and LARRY WADDINGTON

It is a rare thing when an opportunity arises for the fraternities on this campus to lower the standards which are set up to govern their organizations. But just such an occasion presented itself at the semester when some ingenious lad discovered a clever way to change the scholarship requirements for initiation.

Prior to this time fraternities could not initiate men unless they had a 2.0 average. Last fall the North Central Association, an accrediting institution, recommended that Colorado College set up certain academic standards which a student must maintain in order to participate in extra-curricular activities. Accordingly, Colorado College set up a 1.6 average requirement for freshmen, 1.8 for sophomores and 2.0 for juniors and seniors. These averages are so ridiculously low that they could hardly be even called regulations.

With this idea in mind the fraternities saw a chance to cash in.

"If this grade average is good enough for the school, then it ought to be good enough for us," they reasoned.

And with that they dumped the idea of the 2.0 average and initiated their men on the basis of the college standards of 1.6. Actually, there is nothing illegal about this method. The only legitimate reason might be the financial need arising from lack of actives. But if in such a position, these fraternities should have had the foresight to plan a scholarship program which would have insured the initiation of their pledges. Instead of stressing college, grades and scholarship, it was easier to have the IFC lower the grade average for the new initiates.

The latest attempt to cut corners was made recently in trying to change the grade requirements for Student Council President. The suggestion was to lower, in effect, the grade average. Now in order to be consistent it would seem that this proposal should pass easily. Instead it was defeated—and quite fortunately—by the students themselves. Indeed it was a glorious victory for those who proclaim long and loud that the banner of scholarship must be kept flying. But those fraternities who lowered their own averages at the same time rejected lowering the grade average for Student Council president.

Now it's perfectly true that there is a difference between initiating men into fraternities and electing an ASCC president. It would seem that a 2.0 average per semester is not asking too much of anyone in order to qualify.

This is not a rah-rah plea for scholarship. It is only an attempt to show the inconsistency of these two actions. The solution lies within the fraternity in both cases. It should be their purpose to stress scholarship from the beginning in order that both pledges and candidates could have fulfilled the necessary requirements.

CC Honor Council Gives 23 Warnings To Code Violators

For those critics of the honor council who believe that it is an ineffective organization, let it be known that a total of 23 warnings have been given to various students this year with more cases to be tried. Two second warnings have been given, one in the field of sociology and one in geology. On the third offense, the guilty student is expelled from the college. Also, first warnings have been given as follows: in history, two; in psychology, two; in political science, seven; in geology, two; in economics, three; in military science, two; and in business, one.

It was brought to the attention of the Honor Council that many students are ignorant of the procedure to be used in reporting violations of the honor system. This list of the names, addresses and phone numbers of the Honor Council should facilitate the students at CC to abide by the honor system.

Dr. Brandt Offers Attractive Plans For Foreign Study

Last week's TIGER story about the Oregon professor leading student groups on European tours resulted in an interesting disclosure from Dr. Thomas O. Brandt, our own German professor.

Dr. Brandt is the approved Students International Travel Association representative on our own campus and his promotion of SITA tours is mutually beneficial to our own college students and something well worth knowing about. One of Dr. Brandt's deepest and enduring interests is in the fostering and strengthening of international amity, especially among young people who are the hope of the future. One of the best ways of increasing international friendship and understanding is by study and travel in other lands. Therefore, when Dr. Brandt undertook to represent the SITA here he immediately proposed to CC authorities that a Travel Scholarship Plan be set up.

This means that for every ten student tours that are arranged for by Dr. Brandt, one very fortunate CC student will receive a free scholarship tour. In addition Dr. Brandt feels certain that an additional tour can be obtained from SITA which, in its role of educational auxiliary, offers free tours to worthy students. The number so offered depends on the total number of tours booked.

In addition to the very tangible free scholarship tours Dr. Brandt hopes to achieve for our own students, he also is working to secure official academic credit hours from our college for those doing foreign travel and study. Tentatively, this calls for the presentation of observations and reports of selected aspects of life abroad.

Both the travel scholarships and college credits depend of course on the degree of participation by potential CC student travelers. As Dr. Brandt points out, the cost of some SITA tours is less than $10 a day, and there are many on our campus who will spend more than that on their summer vacations.

One of the best SITA tours, according to Dr. Brandt, is one during which travelers live with selected families abroad, offering them unique insight into the real life of people in other lands.

Applications Being Received by Yale For Foreign Study

New Haven, Conn. — Theodore Anderson, director of Yale University's Master of Arts in Teaching Program, announced today that applications now are being received from prospective students for the Yale-Reid Hall Summer Session in Paris, France.

The foreign study program is under joint direction of Mr. Anderson, associate professor of French at Yale, and Miss Dorothy F. Leet, president of Reid Hall.

The six-week session begins on July 6 and will end on Aug. 15. It is open to qualified men and women students recommended by their college or university who have two years of college French or its equivalent.

Students accepted will leave New York in mid-June and be conducted on a tour of Normandy, Mont St. Michel and the chateaux of the Loire Valley before beginning their studies in Paris. At mid-session another tour will be taken through Fontainebleau, Bourges, Vazelay and other points, and at the end of the course, the group will be given three weeks to travel on their own before returning to this country.

Fine Arts Center Ball Literally a Circus

The Broadmoor hotel last Saturday night was the scene of one of the best dances of the entire year. Not only were many CC students represented, but a large number of people from Colorado Springs, Denver and various other sections of Colorado were also present. Side shows completely covered the second floor of the hotel and the large ballroom was reserved for dancing.

Every type of costume imaginable was worn from clown outfits to grass skirts. A prize for the best costume was awarded to a Colorado Springs couple. Other smaller prizes were given to runners-up.

Life magazine was present for the purpose of covering the affair for their article "Life Goes to a Party." It was definitely one of the most brilliant Broadmoor dances of the season.

Many types of side shows were displayed and various prizes given. Just as in a genuine circus, a ring with lions was shown with Melba Cimino as official lion tamer. Huge Barnum and Bailey posters decorated the floor on which the party was held. There is no doubt that everyone had a wonderful time and there are hopes that another circus ball will be held next year.

By PHIL GOOD

Intramural basketball got under way last week with four games. On Wednesday night Kappa Sigs fell to the Phi Deltas and the Independents topped the Sigma Chis in a couple of good ball games. On the following night the Phi Gams edged out the Phi Deltas and the Kappa Sigs won over the Betas.

On Wednesday night the Phi Deltas dropped the Kappa Sigs 27-23. Both teams played pretty even throughout the game with the Phi finally coming out on top. Team scoring for the Phi Deltas went pretty even with Carl Wendnagle at the head of the list with six points. Karl Nelson and Ted Gould followed with five points apiece.

The Kappa Sigs played good ball but couldn't score consistently. Bob Deyo was high man for the losers with seven points. Bildstein and Engelson were the control men on the court for the Kappa Sigs.

In the second game the Independents felled the Sigs in another close game, 40-37. Tony George was the high man for the Indies with 13 points, with Bill Winkler next with 10. The Sigs' Jack Stiegelmier played a bangup ball game with 13 points. Fred Rediske and Bob Voshall were next high with eight points apiece.

Thursday night saw the Phi Gams come from behind to beat the Phi Deltas, 31-33. Regis Lisowski potted 18 points for the Phi Gams. It was his 13 points in the second half which told the

MERMEN EDGE GREELEY TEAM 50-34; CONF. MEET AT CARSON SATURDAY

Colorado College's defending Rocky Mountain Conference swimming champions warmed up for the conference meet with a 50-34 victory over Colorado State at Greeley last Saturday. Outstanding performers for Coach Doc Stabler's Tiger tankmen were freshman Jim Taylor and Captain Tom Abel, with each posting double wins. Taylor's record-breaking performance in the 200 yard backstroke was one of the highlights of the meet. His time of 2:28 was more than seven seconds lower than the previous Greeley pool record. Taylor's other win came in the 150 yard individual medley. Captain Tom Abel surged from behind in the late stages of his races to win both the 220 and 440 yard freestyle.

Other firsts for CC were garnered in both relay events, and in the 200 yard breaststroke event, the latter being won easily by the classy Norm Brown. The Tiger's winning medley relay had Ed MacGuire, Andy Spiegel, and Wally Harmon as its members, while Jim Taylor, Wally Harmon, Norm Brown, and Don Hale combined to win the 400 yard freestyle relay in the excellent time of 4:02.5, which was CC's fastest sprint relay time of the year.

In the last game the Kappa Sigs dropped the Betas 52-40. Dick Meyer was high man for the Kappa Sigs with 18 points. Wes Boucher and Rog Bildstein followed respectively with 12 and 11 points.

Van Skilling was the point-getter for the Betas with 14 points as the Betas had a hard time locating the basket Larry Waddington dropped in eight points as he played a bang up game on the courts.

CAGERS WIN LAST TWO CAGE CONTESTS

Victory Moves CC from Cellar Travel to Portales This Week

CC cagers broke into the win column twice last weekend as they topped the Miners in Cossitt hall gym Friday and Saturday night.

It was the first time that the Tigers have come through with a clean sweep of a conference series in many campaigns. The win moved the Tigers from the cellar and dropped the Miners to the basement..

In Saturday's game a late rally by the Miners almost spelled victory for the Miners but CC had only winning on its mind. Lowell Slocum was the point-maker in both of the games as he put in 17 points for the first night and dropped in 18 more in the second game. Slocum has been consistent in hitting the basket for the last five games.

The first half of the game was dominated by the Tiger cagers as they left the floor at half time with a 35-26 lead. The second half of play was a different story as the Miners came back an inspired ballclub. After four minutes of the third quarter the Miners had closed the gap to 41-40.

Tom Rollins, five foot, nine inch guard for Mines, was a big aid to the Mines aggregation. Rollins hit for 25 points in the last game, 11 of them being in the big third quarter.

At the end of the third quarter the CC men held a very slim margin of two points, the score being 62-60.

Ned Pfeiffer, CC sub, entered the game in the fourth quarter and seemingly sparked the Bengals to a 57-50 lead with only minutes of the last quarter gone. But as the Tigers grew hot so did the Mines team. Rollins caught fire and pumped in three shots before fouling out of the game. With Rollins

RMC Ski Meet At Rozman Hill Feb. 28 - March 1

At least 10 and possibly all 12 members of the Rocky Mountain Conference will send teams to compete in the Colorado College-Western State College sponsored ski meet to be held at Rozman Hill Feb. 28 and March 1.

The meet will include down hill and slalom Saturday morning, with jumping and cross country to be held Sunday. A new cross country course has been set up which runs parallel with the highway so that a better view of the race will be possible.

The University of Montana is a new member of the RMCSA. Other members include Montana State, Wyoming, Colorado Aggies, Colorado U., Denver U., Regis College, Colorado C., Colorado Mines, Utah U., and Western State.

Bengals Win One of Four; Play Brandon This Week

The Colorado College hockey team returned to town Saturday night after a rough road trip which saw them drop three out of four games played. After absorbing a shellacking at the hands of the North Dakota Soos at Grand Forks on two successive nights, the Tigers traveled on to Houghton, Mich., to split with the Michigan Tech Huskies.

After dropping two straight games to North Dakota the Tigers got back into the swing with a win over Michigan Tech, 7-5. On the following night the Bengals dropped a game to the boys from Tech, 5-0.

Saturday's Tech victory was the third over a Colorado College team in 13 games the teams have played. The Huskies came back Saturday night to completely outskate and outshoot CC.

The Bengal team was hindered in the last contest by injuries. Omer Brandt, who scored four goals in the first game, was removed from the game in the third period because of facial cuts. Norm Diviny left the game during the second period after suffering a charley horse.

The game was a stalemate at 0-0 throughout the first period, but the Huskies grabbed a quick lead in the opening minute of the second and continued to dominate the play from this point on. Four minutes later the Huskies extended their lead to 2-0 after Ray Puro smacked a shot from a few feet out.

A good defensive line put on the ice by Tech was a main factor in stalling the Bengals. Gonlio Harry

• Bengals Win

Taylor was the big man in the Huskie lineup as he brushed would be scores from the net time after time.

On the previous night the Bengals gathered in their fourth win of the season in the Mid-West Hockey league. CC occupies the fifth spot in a seven team league.

Omer Brandt paced the Bengals with four goals. Brandt proved to be an all around standout in the Tiger victory. Ron Nettel paced the Huskies with a hat trick. Other fine play was seen in the work of goalie Harry Taylor who swept away 49 shots.

CC grabbed a 2-0 lead in the first period but the Huskies were still in the game as they tied the game in the second period, 3-3. Later in the same period the Huskies grabbed the lead but with a few minutes left in the second period Len Gagnon tied the score. Another goal by Brandt put the Tigers momentarily in the lead.

In the final period the Huskies tied the score at 5-5. At 4:30 of the last period Andy Gambucci hit the nets to put the Bengals in the lead once and for all. With 30 seconds left in the game Leo Soligo's tally put the game on ice.

the first half. At the end of the third quarter the Orediggers sported a 46-42 lead. In the opening minutes of the final period the Tigers pulled even with the Miners and then retained a good part of the last quarter. With two seconds left in the game Chuck Russell sank a set shot to tie the game at 65 points apiece—sending the game into an overtime.

The overtime was all Colorado College as the CC cagers walked off the floor with a 73-71 victory, their first conference victory of the season.

Slocum was high for the night with 17 points with Don Stone following with 13 points.

AROUND THE CONFERENCE

HOCKEY—Coach Cheddy Thompson suspended, with approval of the administration, seven leading and key members of the hockey team for disciplinary reasons. Those suspended were; Leo Soligo, Andy Gambucci, Jim Weir, Ken Kinsley, Fred Eastwood, Len Gagnon and Prince Thompson. Six men however, were declared eligible to play because their standing in school makes them eligible for NCAA games. Those now eligible to play are Bun Smith, Spud Ewanus, Genet Daniels, Doug Bates, Harold Cowan, and Phil Hilton. Two more player probables are Don McDougald and Bernie Royal.

Last week's games were highlighted by two victories of Minnesota over Michigan. Minnesota picked up two points in their double win to put them in second place, two points behind league leading North Dakota. In the first contest it was Minnesota 5-2. On Saturday it was the Gophers once again with a 4-0 victory. The series pushed the Michigan team a bit farther from the title.

Records Fall As Taylor, Hale and Brown Star For CC Mermen

Colorado College's well-balanced swimming team, paced by the unbeatable combination of Norm Brown, Don Hale, and Jim Taylor, successfully defended its Rocky Mountain Conference championship title last Friday night and Saturday at the Camp Carson pool. Coach Doc Stabler's mermen captured eight first places to roll up a commanding 81 points. Second place Colorado State earned 68 points, while Colorado Mines had 64, Montana State finished last with 11. The Tiger tankmen also captured three seconds, three thirds, three fourths, and four fifth places to thoroughly dominate the meet.

Freshman Jim Taylor established three new records for CC, setting new times in the 200 and 100 yard backstrokes and the 150 yard individual medley to capture individual scoring honors for the meet. Taylor's three firsts gave him possession of the trophy awarded to the individual high scorer of the meet.

The meet's second high scorer was the untiring Norm Brown, who copped victories in the 100 and 200 yard breaststroke events, and finished second by an eyelash behind teammate Taylor in the individual medley. This race developed into the high point of the meet, as these two really great swimmers fought it out stroke for stroke over the 150 yards of this grueling event. Further demonstrating his championship caliber, Norm Brown established a new conference record in the 100 yard breaststroke, and also broke his own individual medley record as he pushed Taylor to his record breaking finish. In Saturday morning's qualifying trials Norm also broke the Conference 200 yard breaststroke record.

Yearling Don Hale was only a step behind Taylor and Brown as he took third individual honors for the Conference and for Colorado College. Don had the great personal triumph of winning the 100 yard freestyle championship over

"Mr. Pim Passes By" Due March 3, 4, 5 at Perkins Hall

The CC Players will present "Mr. Pim Passes By" March 4, 5, and 6 at 8:15 p. m. in Perkins. Mr. Pim will be portrayed by Bill Prescott, whom many of you will remember from his performance in "The Poor Nutt"; Olivia will be played by Ruth Mitchell, a veteran of many college plays. Calvin Lamb, a graduate student and a newcomer to the CC stage, is cast as George, Olivia's second husband. Judy Clave will play the part of Dinah, George's niece. Rosemary Musgrave will be seen in the character of Aunt Julia, a typical English country gentlewoman. Brain Strange, a young futuristic painter who wishes to marry Dinah, is played by Bob Catlett, another newcomer. Anne, the maid who introduces complications in the form of Mr. Pim will be Pat Freeland.

This sparkling three-act comedy opens in the home of George Marden, a stuffy English gentleman. Into this happy family group comes Mr. Pim, who unwittingly throws the entire family into an uproar. Because of a careless word he says, Olivia thinks herself a bigamist, George believes himself to be living with another man's wife, and Aunt Julia thinks that the whole proceedings are scandalous and unnecessary. To complicate an already complex situation, Dinah and Brian become secretly engaged to the consternation of George, Dinah's guardian. The result is two hours of laughs and fun. Tickets are priced at 65c, but students will be admitted free of charge on their activity books. Call Perkins Hall box office for reservations right away.

Prof. Boyce is Second Speaker At Faculty Lecture Series

Speaking before an enthusiastic audience that packed the Shove Memorial Chapel lecture room February 17, Wallace Boyce, instructor of French at Colorado College, said that it was difficult for Americans to understand Frenchmen but that if we used a lively and expanding curiosity and tolerance, we could better understand them. He spoke on the subject "Can Fifty Million Frenchmen Be Wrong?" in the second of a series of three faculty lectures.

Beginning with conditions in France in 1944-45 after the liberation from Germany, Boyce said that 600,000 Frenchmen had been killed in World War II, 800,000 deported, and 300,000 disabled. The problem of distribution of food and other basic needs was great. When, after a year, there was no real improvement for the ordinary consumer, editorials in French papers pointed out that there was a need for moral rather than for political reform, and for concerted effort. France is appreciative of the aid the Allies gave her, but she dislikes her own feeling of indebtedness and continued appreciation.

In the eight years since the liberation, Boyce said, production has been sped up considerably; yet inflation has brought many problems. Realizing that modernization, a state of mind not of things, must change, French leaders set up commissions consisting of members from all walks of life. The goals were development of national production and foreign trade, increased productivity of labor, full employment, a higher standard of living, and improvement of social conditions.

In speaking of France's "government by coalition," Boyce pointed out that no party had a strong majority; hence, at times crucial issues were not voted on and that one government lasted but 55 days. Though France has stepped up production of agriculture and of industry, the country still is in nervous disorder because of chronic mishandling of money and hoarding. Thus France's chief problem, they feel, is economic.

In a lively discussion of French culture and education, French individualism and idents, the French professor pointed out that strict French training seems to make rebels who are uncooperative and that American free education seems to result in making conformists. French education seems to have achieved good results in literature and art, to have brought forth excellent high government officials, but to have had poor results in economic ideas, in cooperation and in vitality. Often, he stated, the French agree in principle, but not in application of the principle. He concluded by pointing to France's awareness of other cultures, their being bi-lingual, and having today great interest in the arts, not only in those of France but in those of the world.

ATTENTION CAR OWNERS

President William H. Gill announced today that students, faculty and employees will be required to register their automobiles in order to be authorized parking and driving privileges on the Colorado College campus. Cars must be registered at the secretary's office, Cutler Hall, by March 15th, and each registrant will receive free of charge an attractive windshield decal. The decals are numbered serially and feature the college seal in black and gold. The decals are to be placed on the lower right-hand corner of the windshield.

President Gill explained that the reason for car registration is to provide more effective traffic regulation and to assure that campus parking facilities are not usurped.

EPC Includes CC Counseling Center In 1953 Directory

The chairman of the national committee investigating counseling agencies has notified Colorado College that the Guidance Center here has been approved by the Ethical Practices Committee and will be included in the 1953 directory which gives listings of approved agencies. This is the third year that the Guidance Center, located in Tieknor Hall basement, has been in operation on campus.

The EPC, in charge of investigation, is a part of the American Personnel and Guidance Association. This national association has set up a series of standard requirements which must be met by any organization providing vocational guidance service. To be eligible for approval the organization must be recognized by suitable educational institutions, he under the direction of competent and qualified staff members, and operate under standards set forth by the National Vocational Guidance Association.

The last issue of the Directory of Approved Guidance Agencies had only one such organization listed for the State of Colorado.

LET'S FACE IT

By SUE PFEIFFER and LARRY WADDINGTON

Last week's column aroused more than a little interest in some minds and as a result we came in for both criticism and praise. But one disconcerting trend was noticeable in virtually every argument. That is, it was essentially a matter of blowing off oral steam, for as this paper goes to press we have not received a single letter stating an opinion one way or another.

We got accusations, none in writing, that charged us all the way from stupidity to downright distortion of facts. And no doubt there were a lot of people who just moaned.

Briefly, in review, we maintained that the action of the fraternities in lowering their grade averages requisite for initiation of new men was wrong. First because it was the easy way out of a precarious situation (situation that they should never have allowed themselves to get into). Second, because these same fraternities refused to lower the requirements (grades) for Student Council president.

The first horrified cry came from students who screamed that we had blundered. We had committed the unpardonable sin of giving misinformation. We had said that the required average set up by this college for participation in extra-curricular activities was 1.6 for freshmen, 1.8 for sophomores and 2.0 for juniors and seniors. It seems we were wrong, because it should read 1.4, 1.6 and 2.0 respectively. And we're sorry if we said that those requirements were ridiculous. They're pathetic.

Next, "Fraternities would die out unless something was done." Most people are under the impression that if one fraternity on this campus died out it would force the others to close their doors. This is false! Under no circumstances would the disbanding of one fraternity preclude the others to take the same action. But even so we don't say it's O. K. if a couple of fraternities "fizzle out."

But most loudly came the rears of scorn for our inability to face the facts and/or reality.

"Don't you know that the freshman men's average was about 1.6," they bellowed. Why should ours be any higher for initiation."

There is one slight error here which might be mentioned. That is, the freshmen all men's average was 1.935. It seems that somebody went hog-wild when they shoved it down to 1.4.

But the fact remains that there would have been no need to scrap the old requirement of 2.0 if the fraternities had been aware of what they were facing and done something about it. Maybe they tried but weren't able to. Or maybe it was too much of a sacrifice.

Thetas Hold Initiation: Stage Outstanding Pledge

Last Sunday, Feb. 22, the Kappa Alpha Thetas held initiation. The Thetas were proud and happy to add to their active chapter the following girls: Tim Belcher, Newburgh, Ind.; Jan Charters, Ashton, Ill.; Nancy Drexler, Western Springs, Ill.; Sue French, Park Ridge, Ill.; Diane Hartshorn, Ft. Collins, Colo.; Pat Hunt, Highland Park, Ill.; Dot Harriss, Chicago, Ill.; Toddy Huberth, Chappaqua, N. Y.; Joan Kirpatrick, Oklahoma City, Okla.; Carol Kramer, Denver, Colo.; Margaret Larkin, Phoenix, Ariz.; Elaine Lundstrom, Denver, Colo.; Jill Loubser, Lapeer, Mich.; Carol Northcutt, Denver, Colo.; Janet Paine, Denver, Colo.; Phyllis Paxton, San Marino, Colo.; Lee Sage, Berlin, Conn.; Jody Shattuck, Denver, Colo.; Sarah Sheldon, Oak Park, Ill.; Carol Salzman, Chagrin Falls, O.; Mary Spindle, Springfield, Ill.; Lynn Wigley, Denver, Colo. Following initiation it was announced that Lee Sage was the outstanding pledge.

Attention Grippers ! ! !

There seems to be a great tendency among us to gripe about the kind of school, the kind of campus life, the effectiveness of our organizations, etc. Yet, how many of us who do this continual griping ever make any effort to go to the group we are censuring and offer some constructive criticism or offer our services to help make it more effective? Often the ineffectiveness of an organization is due to the fact that only a few members are carrying the load. They are usually doing the best that they can, but a sheer lack of time prohibits them from doing real justice to the activity.

So, the next time you are inclined to criticize a particular group among some of your friends, why not go to the group and find out just what is causing the malady you find. It is your school, and if you think enough of it to attend it and to criticize it, then why not put some of your efforts to use in doing something constructive for at least one of the

AWS Know Your Officers

The AWS Board announced this week the remaining final results of the elections for AWS officers, held last week. Besides Georgie Shaw, president, of the following girls were chosen to hold office: Marcia Manning, vice president. Marcia is a sophomore from Denver, who won the $4,000 Alice Bemis Taylor Scholarship in her freshman year. She serves as rush chairman for her sorority, Kappa Alpha Theta, and is secretary of McGregor Hall.

Marcia Manning

Patsy Reeves, secretary. Patsy is a sophomore from Denver, who transferred to CC this year from Stanford. Already active on campus, Patsy was recently elected assistant membership chairman for Kappa Kappa Gamma. She is the holder of a Trustee Scholarship.

Gwen Jude, treasurer. Gwen is also a transfer, coming to CC this year as a junior from Colorado Women's College. A native of Gilman, Colo., Gwen is a counsellor in Bemis this year, is a member of Gamma Phi Beta sorority, and also holds a Trustee Scholarship.

Georgie Shaw, whose election to president of AWS was announced last week, received a $4,000 Alice Bemis Taylor Scholarship in her freshman year. She served on this year's AWS Board as personnel chairman, and was song chairman for the Gamma Phis. A junior, Georgie is from Wichita, Kan.

George Abbott Sees Need for More Interest in Campus Life

By TOM PANKAU

"The biggest problem that the student council has faced and is facing, is the lack of interest shown by a great many students toward the college and particularly toward the student council," according to George B. Abbott, president of the Associated Students of Colorado College. He continues, "This year some positive steps have been taken, which I believe will help to alleviate this situation." The first thing mentioned by George was that each organization should be very careful to select only qualified students as representatives to the student council. In the past, too many popular, but relatively incompetent students have been attempting to serve as liaison between their organization and the ASCC.

Born 21 years ago, George Abbott came to CC as a freshman from his home town of St. Louis, Mo. Moving up through the ranks of academic and campus life, George stepped into the job of leader of the student body last April from his position as vice president. This came about upon the untimely death of Harry Halsted, who had just been elected to this post.

Now finishing his senior year, George is majoring in economics and plans to take up graduate work next fall. Through his years at CC he has been constantly engaged in one type of activity or another. As partial reward for his efforts, he was recently elected to the 1952-53 edition of "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities." Among other things, George has been a member of the Honor Council, a Growler, and a member of the Red Lantern, a group of 12 senior men whose duty it is to insure that the traditions and customs of Colorado College are upheld.

One of the major problems faced by the student council this year was the fact that the council was failing to exercise fully the authority vested in it. After the Kelly case, which was tried by the Committee on Undergraduate Life, it was learned that ASCC had the ability to meet and solve their own problems. "It also presents a challenge to all students here, in that they must learn to take the bitter with the sweet," according to Abbott.

"As a result of the work of a student council sub-committee, headed by Frank Florey, there will be in effect, next fall, a revised drinking code. While this revision is not exactly what many students wanted, I personally feel that this is a step in the right direction," says our student body president.

When the elections for the new ASCC president come up on the 17th of March, George wishes to admonish each and every student to vote—but, "Most important," he says, "to vote for the most qualified man rather than the common practice of voting for the most popular man."

"A student council committee, composed of Toni Cadd, Bill Jobe, Sue Pfeiffer, and Bob Voshall, has worked out a plan which calls for an assembly of each class separately once a month. The purpose is to discuss college problems and to enable each student to bring out his particular grips or ideas on campus life. I feel that this plan, which will be started in March, will help stimulate some much needed interest among the students here at CC concerning problems which affect us all," according to George.

"Quiet, soft-spoken, unassuming Abbott has gone about his duties in the best way he knew how. Everyone can be criticized for mistakes, but if a man has done his best and tried to uphold and foster the principles he believes in, little more can be expected of him.

CC Newman Club To Play Host for Regional Meeting

The Colorado College Newman Club will play host this Sunday to the regional meeting of Newman clubs in Colorado and Wyoming. Expected to attend the meeting are about 100 students from Colorado University, Denver University, Wyoming University, Colorado State College, Colorado A&M, Western State College and CC.

The meeting will be held Sunday, March 1, at St. Mary's school assembly hall, and will begin at 1:00 p. m. and close at 5:00 p. m. with benediction and supper. In charge of arrangements are Harry Shearer, president, and Mary Jo Ahern, social chairman. All members of the CC Newman club are cordially invited to attend.

So it has been with our student council. They have done the best they could with the limited knowledge they had of what the students really wanted done. George encourages, "every student who has anything to say to the student council, whether it be gripes or constructive ideas, to attend the student council meetings on Monday afternoons."

AROUND THE CONFERENCE

CC will play a prominent part in the final Rocky Mountain Conference basketball standings this weekend as they meet second place Colorado State in a two game series. Should the Tigers win either of the two games, the State boys will be delegated to give their second place to Montana State.

C-State moved into second place last weekend after sweeping two games from Western State. Montana State dropped into third place as a result of their loss to Idaho State's unbeaten champions.

Montana has a good chance for tie with Colorado State should the C-State team drop one of their games with Colorado College, and should the Tigers win both games of the series Montana State would one again retain the second place spot.

Idaho State won the title with a 10-0 win-lose record. I-State dropped one game to Montana State last Friday but the game did not count in the RMC final standings.

Montana finishes its cage season this week with Bozeman in two non-conference tilts at Montana.

Les Roh, Idaho State freshman, regained the individual scoring leadership from Andy Buyok, Western State center. Roh has scored 363 points in 22 games to hold a 16.5 average. Buyok scored 369 points in 23 games for 16 point game average.

• Intra-Mural • BILLBOARD By PHIL GOOD

Intramural basketball moves into high gear as the second round gets underway Thursday night. The first round failed to produce a leader as the Betas, Independents and Sigma Chis share the top spot with two victories and one loss apiece. With no teams definitely out of the running the next two weeks should provide some keen competition.

Last Tuesday's play saw the Independents take another win in a thriller with the Kappa Sigs. Bill Winkler and Tony George paced the Indes by combining top rebounding and timely long shots. Big Dick Meyer was the big gun in the Kappa Sig attack as his shooting accuracy and work under the boards kept the K-Sigs in the game until the final whistle.

The second game of the evening was a very close contest with the Sigs finally edging out the Phi Deltas in a see-saw battle. The Phi Deltas led thruout most of the game, but as the game neared its finish the Sigma Chis pulled into the lead for good.

Carl Wendnagel paced the losers with Fred Rediske and Jack Stieg-

G Phis Elect Officers; Chamberlin New Prexy

At their weekly meeting Monday night, Feb. 23, the Gamma Phis elected officers for the coming year. These new officers are: president, Claire Chamberlin, San Antonio, Tex.; vice president, Joyce Somerville, Los Angeles, Calif.; corresponding secretary, Nancy Hubbard, Wichita, Kans.; recording secretary, Liz Hugins, Denver, Colo.; treasurer, Beth Coley, Colorado Springs, and pledge trainer, Gwen Jude, Gilmore, Colo. They are also proud to announce the pledging of Valerie Johnson of Grover, Colo.

clmlier being the big guns in the Sigma Chi attack.

The Sigs lead the Phis with only a minute left, but the Phi Deltas hit for two points to close the gap to one point. With only a few seconds left in the contest a long push shot by Wendagel swished the net but was not counted.

On Wednesday the Kappa Sigs beat the Phi Gams, 56-48 and in the second game the Betas whipped the Phi Deltas, 54-38.

Wes Boucher and Rog Bildstein were the hot boys for the Kappa Sigs. Boucher scored 17 points, followed by Bildstein with 13. Regis Lisowski lead the Phi Gams once again as he hit the net for 11 points. Rule Olson was next high with 10 points. The game was all Kappa Sig except in the first quarter when the Phi Gams took a first quarter lead of 13-9.

In the last game of the night the Betas dropped the Phi Deltas 54-38. Chuck Mollin led the winners with 19 points to take scoring honors for one game this season. Bob Kroehnke was next high with 16 points.

Carl Wendagel lead the Phi Deltas once again with 14 points. Ted Gould was next on the list with 11 points. The first casualty of the year occurred in this game when Don Diones left the game with pulled ligaments.

On Thursday night the Phi Gams continued on their losing streak by dropping to the Sigs, 34-55. Bob Voshall led the winners 14 points. Fred Rediske was second with 13 points. Rule Olson led the Phi Gams with 13 points. The Sigs drew an early lead, and kept it from the Phi Gams reach.

In the final game of the week the Betas upset the undefeated Independents 45-36. The Betas grabbed an early lead and were never headed in one of the most exciting games of the season. Sparked by Kroehnke and Larry Waddington, who shared the point honors, the Betas iced the game in the final qtrtr.

Winkler once again led the Inde attack with 14 points followed by Tony George with 9.

New Bengals Drop Brandon; Play Alberta in Last Game

Following the suspension of seven Bengal hockey players, a reshuffled team containing five new men gave CC two wins last week against Brandon at the Broadmoor Ice Palace. In the first game the Tigers came out on top with a 6-4 count and on the following night, skated to another victory, 11-4.

The five new additions to the CC club John Smith, Phil Hilton, Harold Cowan, Harold Ewanus, and Gene Daniels, gave the fans a good preview of next year's season. The newcomers were brought up from the junior varsity as a result of the expulsion of seven varsity players because of disciplinary reasons.

Coach Cheddy Thompson played new lines against the inexperienced Brandon Caps with quite a bit of success, especially in the last game. Each line produced a "hat trick" performer as one line gained five goals to the other's six. Bun Smith and Harold Cowan were the big scorers for the CC club, each picking up a "hat trick."

Doug Bates came on the ice Wednesday night for the second time this season. Bates showed a completely different game Wednesday night in contrast to his appearance in January against Denver when numerous goals were slipped past him.

Bates picked up 25 saves the first night and on the next night he pushed away 23 would be goals. Gordon Hunter, the Brandon goalie, played a pretty average game at the nets as he pushed away 28 attempts the first night and 29 the next.

The front line consisted of Omer Brandt and Cowan with Bun Smith in the middle and Ed Robson, Norm Diviney and Bill Clark were members of the second line. Len Maccini and Phil Hilton combined to form one defense unit with Carl Lawrence and Gene Daniels composing the relief defense team.

Phil Hilton showed his talent both nights with brilliant defense work and also fine offensive skating.

Cagers Drop Two; C-State Last Game

CC cagers dropped two in a row to Portales last weekend in non-conference competition. The Greyhounds took Friday night's tilt 74-59 and on the following night, made it two in a row with an 81 to 56 victory.

Saturday night, the Tigers found that they were no match for the New Mexico Conference club but did their best to keep the score to a minimum.

The Greyhounds took a first quarter lead of six points and increased it to nine points in the following quarter. In the second half the Eastern New Mexico squad lashed out with a 50 point scoring spree which mentally injured the Tiger cagers who were able to hit for only 36 points.

CC put a damper on the big guns for the winning club as they held Roy Franse scoreless in the first half. Archie Yelek was all over Bill Griggs as he held him to 10 points in comparison to his 20 points on the previous night. Don Burney, however, continued to be hot for Eastern New Mexico as he paced both teams with a 22 point output.

Ben Snyder and Ned Pfeiffer paced the losers with 13 points. Pfeiffer, flashy substitute for CC showed his ability to be a point-maker as well as a hustler.

In the first game of the two game series Colorado College was very cold at the basket. The Tigers hit for only seven points in the first quarter compared to the 20 points netted by New Mexico cagers. In the second period the

ANSWER THE CALL

1953 Red Cross Drive Begins New Slogan; 'Answer the Call'

"ANSWER THE CALL!" is the plea this year as the annual Red Cross drive for '53 begins.

President Gill has appointed Bob Maunton, acting director of publicity, to take charge of the job for the faculty and administration. Plans for student participation are not known yet, although it is understood that the Campus Chest plans a

Bob Maunton will distribute pledge cards, envelopes, and membership buttons to all faculty and administration members. Please fill in the cards and enclose them with your gift in the envelope provided, and return them to Box 20, in Cutler. Even a token gift of one dollar will help Colorado College show 100% participation. Your cooperation will be deeply appreciated by the Red Cross, and by your college representative.

A final accounting of all returns will be filed with the college, as was done with the accounting for the Community Chest drive.

Help make the Colorado College Red Cross drive a success. Help to "ANSWER THE CALL!"

Enrollment Figures Reveal an Increase Over Last Year

Final second semester enrollment figures for Colorado College released from the office of the registrar, Mrs. M. E. Scoggins, reveal some interesting data.

Total enrollment is 845 students in all categories, a heartening rise from last year's February figure of 802. This confirms the optimism felt by Colorado College officials who have noted that CC enrollment has either held steady or increased despite U. S. Office of Education estimates forecasting an approximate 15 per cent drop for the nation. Some immediate reasons for CC's comparatively favorable position may be traced to the addition of a ROTC unit, the increase in student aid, such as the recently announced Barnes Chemistry Scholarship; and the carefully planned educational policy. College officials emphasize that wisely directed and unremitting effort by the college, and cooperation by all its friends is the key to continued high enrollment.

A breakdown of the current figures show 478 men, and 367 women enrolled. The freshman class leads with 271 students, followed by 191 sophomores, 169 seniors, and 154 juniors. There are 29 graduate students working for the M.A. degree. The figures also show that CC has 69 veterans on campus; of these 43 are from World War II, and 26 have seen Korean service. All are men.

ATTENTION SENIORS! Senior Tea Thursday at 4:30 in Bemis Commons. BE SURE AND COME!

There will be a brief organizational meeting for all students interested in becoming candidates for the varsity golf team. The meeting will be held in the "C" room at Cossitt Hall, Monday, March 9, at 4:00 p. m.

LA SALLE STRING QUARTET—(Clockwise from the top): Walter Levin, first violinist; Henry Meyer, second violinist; Peter Kammitzer, violist; Richard Kapuscinski, cellist.

Mann Composition In World Premier By LaSalle Quartet In FAC Concert

Highlighting the LaSalle Quartet's final recital of the season will be the world premier of a string quartet by a young American, Robert Mann. The concert will be given Wednesday, March 11, at 8:30 p. m., in the Fine Arts Center auditorium. The composition of the youthful Mann is entitled, "Five Pieces for String Quartet." A composer from the Northwest, he is at present the first violinist with the Julliard String Quartet of New York City. His composition will be taken on the annual spring tour of the quartet and will be played March 30 at a "Symposium of American Music" in Cincinnati, Ohio, which will be attended by Mr. Mann. It will also be played in Washington, D. C., where a request was made to have a piece played that was written by a contemporary American composer.

Children's Concerts In Cincinnati, as in many other eastern cities, the quartet will give children's concerts in addition to the evening recitals. The LaSalle Quartet members are interested in giving young Americans an opportunity to become acquainted with fine music, and to hear and see it performed by living musical groups. They feel that through performances such as these children's concerts they can give young people a new insight into the endless field of beautiful music.

At present the LaSalle Quartet is in the middle of a series of concerts being given in the fifteen Colorado Springs grade schools.

First Semester Dean's List Shows Seniors With the Highest Percentage

Dean Adams just released the first semester Dean's List figures for 1952-1953. A total of 27 freshmen, 13 sophomores, 23 juniors, and 41 seniors are represented on the Dean's List this semester. Individual percentages for the classes are as follows: freshmen, 8.33 percent; sophomores, 6.53 percent; juniors, 13.77 percent; and seniors, 25.46 percent.

In commenting on the list, Dean Adams said that he was struck with the very high senior percentage and could not understand the low percentage of the sophomores in comparison with the freshmen. He believes that the scholarship at CC is showing improvement in percentages over previous years.

LET'S FACE IT

By SUE PFEIFFER and LARRY WADDINGTON

The Tiger Club's appearance at the last hockey game was heartening to those who thought spirit was dead at CC. And even better, their attendance has not been occasional or sporadic. If the Tiger Club continues to do their job they should prove a definite asset to CC. . . . The school has begun a system of registering cars which should alleviate some of the parking problems that have been such a plague. Maybe the decals on the windshield will help identify the car that drops into the crater holes which are typical of the roads around the Quad.

Everyone talks about it—everyone writes about it—but its all worthless unless something is done. The drinking code is one thing that is materializing. The problem was there—it was talked and written about—and now something definite is being done. A drinking code committee was set up for the purpose of revising the present code. Student Council and Committee on Undergraduate Life in a joint meeting hashed out the difficulties and co-operatively set up a new code. No, you won't be guzzling beer at Lennox or having a cocktail before dinner at Bemis. The new code has omitted those statements which were meaningless. Not only has a new code been written, but penalties for violations of it have been drawn up; and take our word for it—they will be enforced. If a few organizations have to lose their social privileges before everyone realizes that the new drinking code means business, well—that's the price.

"CC Honor Council is Effective, Strong," Says Mose Harrison

By TOM PANKAU

"Colorado College's honor system is one of the strongest and most effective in the nation," according to Moses W. Harrison, president of the honor council. "I have exchanged constitutions and correspondence with many colleges employing such a system," he continues, "and I find that we have a more workable and apparently more successful organization than do most of the other colleges." One reason that Moses gives for the success of the honor council this year is, "that it has some really qualified members who are not afraid to speak their minds and act accordingly." He feels that the council has passed its crisis as an infant and is here at CC to stay.

This affable, 20-year-old junior hails from Collinsville, Ill., and first showed up at CC as a freshman. Since that time, Mose has been active in several campus organizations. For the past two years he has been rush chairman for Phi Gamma Delta. He is also a member of the Interfraternity Council, the Student Council, and the Public Lectures Committee. Mose played basketball during his first two years and was a Growler last year.

But his association with the honor council has been continuous throughout his years at CC, and has resulted in his appointment to lead that group this year. Majoring in political science, this lanky, winning, good-natured lad is gaining some valuable experience in working with the honor council, which he will be able to apply directly to his major field of work.

"I feel that the only weakness in our honor system is the reluctance of some students to report violation. When you fail to report someone who is cheating, it is just like failing to report a hit and run driver," explains Harrison. "A cheater," he adds, "like a hit and run driver, takes advantage of innocent people and unwittingly destroys a system set up for the common good. There is no 'gang loyalty' shown by not reporting a cheater, because so many other students are hurt when information of a violator is withheld."

The first class assembly meeting (mentioned in last week's TIGER) which will be held in about two weeks will be conducted by the honor council for the purpose of bringing out the way the students really feel about CC's honor system and honor council. "The council would certainly appreciate and seriously consider any suggestions to better the system," says Harrison, "because, while we do have a good honor system, there may be some needed changes." The honor council cannot know what changes you, the students, want or what things you find wrong with it, unless you speak to them or write them about your ideas.

There is a point about which many students seem to be confused and Mose wishes to clear it up for the student body. The honor council has no power to expel anyone from CC. It is merely an administrative group which attempts to see that some substantive justice is done when a violation of the code occurs. It weighs evidence and judges a student guilty or not guilty of cheating and issues an official warning to those students found guilty of cheating. When the second warning is given, the student is reported to the Committee on Undergraduate Life, where action, if any, is taken. It takes a unanimous vote of all 12 council members to find a student guilty of cheating.

Again, the strength of any organization lies in the support it gets from the general student body. If you must criticize, let's keep it constructive and see that it gets into the hands of the honor council so that it may be considered along with other potential changes.

Bengals Grab Alberta Hockey Series

Congratulations!

Heartiest congratulations are in order for Colorado College's own Dr. Robert "Doc" Stabler who once again has not only molded a winning team but a repeat RMC championship team. It is most fortunate for Colorado College that Doc has found time to devote to this sports program, along with his many other activities. Bill Mann, the unofficial "assistant coach" of the Tiger tankmen, who has done such a great job of passing his training know-how on to the swimmers, should be given the most sincere praise. Sgt. Bernie Gehl of the Camp Carson pool cooperated wonderfully with the college in making all of the pool's facilities available. To Bernie are extended the team's warmest thanks. Particular appreciation is expressed to the Special Services Officer, Major Keller, under whose supervision the Carson pool is run. Without his interest and help in the matters of the pool there would have been no Rocky Mountain Conference meet in Colorado Springs. Had the Tiger mermen not had the hearty cooperation of every man above, a successful swimming season, culminating in a Rocky Mountain Conference Championship for Colorado College, would have been impossible. Thanks again, one and all!

Tigers Close Season, 9-1 6-4 Remolded Team Looks Good

Colorado College's hockey team ended an only average season in a happy way last week end with two victories over a plucky Alberta Univ. team in the Broadmoor Ice Palace. After a run away game Saturday the Alberta team pulled a complete reversal Monday night as the Tigers came from behind to win one of the sweetest games of the year. In the last game it was a last minute rush the hands of the remolded Bengals. A four goal spurge in the last period saved the Tigers from an unpleasant story.

The Bengal team played a casual first two periods as the Alberta club built up a lead. Goalie Jack Lydons kept the Bengals' efforts from the nets and CC could do nothing. In the first period Alberta broke the ice with a fourth of the period on the books. Colorado brought blood at the same time in the same period to tie the score with a rebound shot by Bun Smith. The Bears proceeded at this point to put away three straight goals to grab the lead, 4-1. With only two minutes left in the second period, Ed Robson added one more for the Tiger cause.

With 38 seconds gone in the Three cheers to a team that wouldn't be licked!

third period Bill Clark put one into the nets on a pass from Ed Robson. The one goal deficit remained until Cowan put one away at 8:26 quickly followed by a goal by Carl Lawrence at 9:16. Clark's second goal of the evening came at 17:14 of the final period to put the game on ice.

In the first game of the series Omer Brandt put away four goals to help the Tiger cause. Brandt, who played his last collegiate game Monday, hit the nets for three goals in the first period and added the grand finale to his career as the game neared its end.

With six minutes gone in the first period the Tigers had a 3-0 lead. Brandt led the first period outburst at 2:19 with Norm Diney picking up the assist. Robson scooted the next one to the net at 4:17 of the first period. Jack Lydons was a busy merchant at the cage but could do nothing to subdue the bewildering Tiger attack. Robson followed his first goal with a solo. Brandt scored once more before the Bears could lay one away, and then Brandt countered again during the final minute of the first period.

Miami Triad Dance at B'moor Features Vern Byer's Band

This Saturday night will feature the Miami Triad dance. The dance is an annual affair held each year in commemoration of the founding of the following fraternities: Sigma Chi, Beta Theta Pi, and Phi Delta Theta, who all had their start at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio. This dance has always been considered one of the bigger events on campus. Last year there wasn't anyone who went to the dance who didn't miss.

For the dance each of the fraternities is putting up a queen. One of the oddities of this is that all three girls are Kappa Alpha Thetas. Beta Theta Pi's choice is Jan Charters of Ashton, Illinois; Sigma Chi's queen is Peggy Gould Snyder of Birmingham, Mich., and Phi Delta Theta's is Barbara Harvey Esden of Colorado Springs. Wow! Here's one place where Queen is an understatement.

The dance is to be held at the beautiful, spacious Broadmoor Hotel in the main ballroom. Dancing will start at 9 and continue until 1. One of the great things about this affair is that Vern Byers has been hired to provide the entertainment. Everyone will remember Vern for the splendid job he did at last year's Homecoming dance. Favors will be presented to all the little women by their dates.

Chaperones for the dance will be Dr. and Mrs. K. J. Curran and Prof. and Mrs. W. A. Fischer.

Nation-wide survey based on actual student interviews in 80 leading colleges reveals more smokers prefer Luckies than any other cigarette by a wide margin. No. 1 reason—Luckies' better taste. Survey also shows Lucky Strike gained far more smokers in these colleges than the nation's two other principal brands combined.

"Mr. Pim Passes By" Opens at Perkins Hall; 3-Act Comedy Well Received Wednesday Night

Last night the cast of "Mr. Pim Passes By" gave their first performance in Perkins Hall. As the lights dimmed and the curtains opened, the audience had their first glimpse of the Marden home. During the course of the three acts, this conventional room was the scene of many unconventional events. The parts of George and Olivia Marden were completely handled by Cal Lamb and Ruth Mitchell. Marden's niece and ward, Dinah, played by Judy Clave, skipped gaily across the stage leaving a ripple of concern wherever she moved. Bob Cattlet convincingly portrayed the futuristic young painter, Brian Strange, who becomes secretly engaged to Dinah. Rosie Musgrave, Aunt Julia, brought many chuckles by her portrayal of the aging spinster who "generally says what she thinks." Throughout the play wanders Mr. Pim, alias Bill Prescott, a bewildered traveler with a disturbingly poor memory for names. Complications arising from an untimely visit by Mr. Pim settled in a long and hilarious chain of events that proved entertaining to all.

There are still two more performances of this delightful comedy, so get your tickets now and come to Perkins Hall Thurs-

Phi Beta Kappa New Requirements For Eligibility

Kenneth J. Curran, president of the Colorado College Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa, announced recently that the CC chapter adopted some new rules regarding eligibility for membership. Beginning with those students to be initiated in 1957, no one will be eligible who has not had at least three years of high school foreign language study and two years of high school mathematics. The equivalent of the above may be taken in college.

The new rules apply to no one now in college and become effective with freshmen entering in the fall of 1953. The rules were adopted in accordance with the national policy of Phi Beta Kappa. The rule concerning mathematics is already met by practically all students. The rule concerning foreign language study was adopted because Phi Beta Kappa feels that some knowledge of a foreign language should be had by every educated person.

* Mann Composition

Many interesting incidents occur during these mornings with the children and last week it was the children who had a special treat in store for them when Frances Bible, guest soloist at last Thursday's Colorado Springs symphony concert, sang as a part of the program at Taylor school.

Tour Itinerary

This year's tour by the LaSalle Quartet will include performances in Bloomington, Ill.; Baltimore, Ohio; Philadelphia, Penna.; Wilmington, Delaware; Boston, Mass.; and New York City.

Their appearance in Boston is significant because it is the first time that any group has appeared for three consecutive years in the Sunday Concert Series at the Isabella Stewart Gardner Museum. The tour will begin the end of March and continue through the spring vacation.

Included on the program for Wednesday's concert will be a Haydn Quartet, the Ravel Quartet, and the Robert Mann composition that is having its world premier.

Students will be admitted to the concert with activity tickets.

Mr. H. Richard Van Saun, assistant professor of psychology at CC has been invited to speak before the University Club of Canon City, Colorado on March 10. His topic for the evening will be, "The Meaning of Adjustment."

Professor Van Saun Delivers Final Lecture in Faculty Series

By AMANDA M. ELLIS

Americans do grow up physically and intellectually, but not emotionally, Prof. H. Richard Van Saun told a capacity audience at Shove Memorial lecture room Wednesday, Feb. 25, in the last of three faculty lectures. Using as his subject the question, "Do Americans Grow Up?" he showed how we can measure man's mental and physical growth today and in comparison with that in other days. The American is stronger and lives longer than did his ancestors. We know too, that man reaches his peak in the learning process at 20 years of age, but that he still is able to learn at 60 as a 10-year-old, and a child of 10 has great learning potentiality.

After tracing man's emotional growth from babyhood, Professor Van Saun showed how, as we grow older, some of us become set in our ways, form emotional biases and refuse to let reason alter these biases. Racial, political and religious prejudices, he pointed out, are evidences of emotional immaturity. He warned that he did not mean that one devoid of racial prejudice need go on a crusade to fight for racial equality, but he should try to understand the problem and help others to do so.

In speaking of psychopathic personalities, he commented on how some psychopaths cannot endure frustration and will do anything to get their own ways, not even stopping at murder. How divorce resulting in broken homes often prejudices immature adults, he pointed out, and added that a large percent of shell-shocked soldiers came from broken homes. The Casper Milktoast person, an "over restricted" one, results from dictatorship in the home or from being over-protected. Half the beds in our hospitals today are filled with psychopathic patients; one of every seven people in America will spend part of his life in a psychopathic institution.

On the positive side, the Colorado College professor saw signs of maturity in America's helping oppressed peoples. Our role in the United Nations, he sees as an improvement over our withdrawal into our own shell after World War I.

In a 40-minute discussion period that no one seemed to wish to end, questions of whether America is more than other nations, whether Americans are less grown up than our ancestors, whether immature parents can be educated and helped to grow up, whether the community is not taking on some of the responsibilities of the home, were presented. Some contended that the church and the psychologist had the same purpose: that of making mature adults, well integrated social beings.

In concluding, Professor Van Saun said that Princeton University had as its motto: "Princeton in the service of the nation"; he would like to see Colorado have as its motto: "Colorado College in the service of humanity."

DETAILS OF SELECTIVE SERVICE ARE GIVEN BY MAJ. GEN. LEWIS B. HERSHEY

National headquarters of Selective Service recently reminded college students that applications for the April 23, 1953 Selective Service Qualification Test must be postmarked not later than midnight March 9. The deadline is necessary to allow the administrators of the test, the Educational Testing Service at Princeton, N. J., time to process the applications and assign each applicant to the testing center, of which there are 1,000, requested by the student—or to the closest possible alternative center. This will be the last test given during the current academic year.

Blanks from Local Boards

Application blanks may be obtained by students from the nearest local board. They do not have to return home to the local board which has jurisdiction over them.

Major General Lewis B. Hershey, director of Selective Service, has stated on a number of occasions that new regulations, which will substantially tighten the deferment criteria by raising the standards, are in the process of formulation because the limited manpower supply no longer justifies deferment of so many students and because veterans are now returning in sufficient numbers to take the places of college students drafted.

General Hershey has urged all eligible students to take the test so they will have scores in their files when the local boards reconsider their cases to determine whether or not they meet the criteria for deferment as students. He has emphasized many times that the present criteria are variables which may be raised or lowered either to increase or decrease the number of students as the national interest shall require. Confusion Clarified

Many students have been confused in differentiating between the I-S and II-S deferments. The II-S deferment is considered on the basis of class standing or qualification test and is discretionary on the part of the local board.

The I-S deferment, on the other hand, is provided for by the law. A college student ordered to report for induction while he is satisfactorily pursuing a full-time course is entitled to this I-S deferment until he finishes his academic year provided he has not had his induction postponed or been deferred as a student prior to June 19, 1951. He may be given but one such deferment and it is incumbent upon him to notify

Kinnikinnik Deadline March 15; Need Contributions Now

The KINNIKINNIK's deadline is less than two weeks—March 15, to be exact. We are still in need of contributions — short stories, poems, one-act plays, original art and especially essays on any and all topics, including science, sports, school life, etc.

We want this year's KINNIKINNIK to be the best ever, and it's up to you to make it that way. Don't forget that the more contributions you turn in, the better chance you have of winning $10.00. This is our last reminder, so turn in your contributions to box 33 in Cutler immediately, if not sooner.

The KINNIKINNIK, the only outlet on the campus for the creative talents of students, is being offered this year to parents for the exceptionally low price of 50c.

The editors of this year's issue his local board of his status when he receives the order to report for induction.

CC Ski Team Winds Up '52-'53 Season

Racing against the Rocky Mountain Region's top collegiate skiers, Colorado College's ski team showed vast improvement over previous attempts. Although missing two first team men, Coach Ed Sampson's charges placed two men near the top in both downhill and cross country. This meet was the last for the CC schussers in a poor season, but Sampson stated that with three veterans returning, next year would be a different story.

of the KINNIKINNIK feel that parents of the students will want to help maintain a tradition established at Colorado College in 1908, and will also want to read the excellent stories, poems and essays written entirely by students.

Differing from other publications, the KINNIKINNIK contains no advertising and for support depends solely on subscribers.

AROUND THE CONFERENCE

Basketball is in the limelight this week as the 1952-53 season comes to a close. Tournament time is here again with some of the better teams of the nation coming together in various national tournaments. Idaho State has taken conference laurels in the RMC and by doing so has earned a part in the N.C.A.A. tournament. Idaho State will play Seattle University at Seattle March 10.

Colorado State drew a second place in the conference with a victory over Colorado College last week end. Montana State reluctantly went to third place after Colorado State's victory. Montana closed their season with a 66-60 loss last week end.

Idaho State took the title with 10 victories against no losses while second place Colorado State had a 7-3 win-loss record. Montana State held a final 6-4 record.

Les Roh, Idaho State's sensational center, won the individual scoring honors with an average of 16.5 points per game in 22 outings. Western State's 6 foot 5 inch center, Andy Buyok, was second with a 16 point average in 23 games.

Minn. U. Heads Poll; CC Not Represented

Minnesota University dominated the all star Midwest Hockey League team chosen by the Denver Post. Colorado College failed to place a man on either of the two teams.

Minnesota who is presently in contention for the trophy for the top spot in the league grabbed four of the six positions on first team. Denver and North Dakota copped the other two positions.

Jim Mattmon, goalie; Tom Wegleitner, defense, John Mayasich, center; and Dick Dougherty, wing, were the Gophers named to the first string. Eddie Miller of the Pioneers grabbed off a defense position. Miller was the only man to return to the same berth from last year. Ben Cherski took the other wing spot. Cherski is a North Dakota boy.

Three Michigan players were named to the second team plus single entries from North Dakota, Denver, Michigan Tech, and Minnesota.

No player received unanimous choice although Mayasich received 22 of 23 possible points. One voter failed to name Mayasich to either of the two teams.

Four of the second team choices were repeaters from last year. They are goalie Willard Ikola of Michigan, Elwood Schell of North Dakota, Joe Debastiani of Michigan Tech, and Denver's Bill Abbott.

Intra-Mural BILLBOARD

By PHIL GOOD

Three games were turned in as a result of last week's Intramural program. The Kappa Sigs moved into first place as a result of two wins. Beta Theta Pi pushed into second place with a 2-1 record. The Independents, Phi Gams, and the Sigs moved into a three-way tie for third place with the Phi Deltas in last place.

In the first game of the week the Kappa Sigs dropped the Sigs 41-44. The Sigs moved into a first quarter lead but fell two points behind the end of the first half. The Kappa Sigs extended their lead to seven points at the end of the third period and the fourth quarter scoring went along fairly even.

Boucher and Bildstein were the big guns in the Kappa Sigs offense as Boucher hit for 15 points and Bildstein for 12.

Bob Voshall was high man for the Sigs with 14 points. Jack Stiegelmier dropped in 12 points to help the cause of the Sigs.

In the second game of the evening the league leading Independents fell to the Phi Gams, 44-33. This game was another close match, especially in the first three quarters. The Indies pulled to a 10-8 lead at the end of the first stanza but faded a bit as the game wore on. The Independents held a one point lead at the end of the half and also at the end of the third quarter. The Phi Gams took over in the fourth period with an 18 point quarter in comparison to the Independent's weak eight point final quarter.

Regis Lisowski continued to lead the Phi Gams, this time with 17

Tigers Close Season; Lose to Colo. State

CC Cagers closed a rather poor season last Saturday at Greeley with a 71-55 loss to Colorado State, who by their victory clinched a second place in the RMC.

The teams played even ball for the first few minutes but by the end of the first quarter Colorado State had pushed to a 18-17 point lead over the Tigers.

Earl Sandstedt paced the winners with 22 points in the game that finished the season for both the clubs. Archie Yelek and Ben Snyder paced the Tiger cagers cagers with 17 and 12 points respectively.

Both Colorado State and Colorado College had difficulty finding the hoop throughout the game. Colorado State hit for 33 per cent of their shots while the losers hit for 31 per cent.

points. Bill Winkler was high man for the losers with 16 tallies.

Thursday night's action was not quite so thrilling as that of the previous night as the Phi Deltas fell at the hands of the Kappa Sigs, 47-37.

Thursday's battle evens the count between the Phi Deltas and K Sigs at one apiece. The Kappa Sigs took a 12 point lead in a good first quarter. From this point on both teams played on an even keel. Harry Javernick was high man for the winners with 13 points. Karl Nelson was the hot man for the losing Phi Delt team. Nelson put away 12 points. Carl Wengel hit 10 for the Phi Deltas.

Several letters have been received concerning bowling as an intramural sport. If any one else wishes to put in bowling, write to the Sports Editor in care of the Tiger Office.

WALLY and ZECK WELCOME ALL CC STUDENTS

This one is about the proverbial tough sergeant. He barked and yelled and threatened. Finally, he got the whole troop out one morning, for calisthenics—those setting up exercises. Some mornings it was an exercise if they could sit up. One fellow wasn't behaving. The sarge says, "Hey, you, I'm the sergeant, I'm the sergeant. Pay attention! Can't you see the stripes, look at these stripes on my arm!"

The fellow says, "Yeah, a zebra has got stripes too, but underneath he's just a jackass."

"Quiet," the sarge barks, "come on now, line up, everybody line up."

And he gives them calisthenics "Now," he says, "I want the whole company to put their right foot up."

They all put their right foot up, except one little fellow way down at the end of the line. He puts his left foot up beside the fellow's right foot next to him. The sergeant looks down the line and he sees the two feet close together. He says, "All right, all right, who is the wise guy holding up both feet?"

Eight Union Carbide Scholarships Are Awarded to C.C.

Colorado College has been awarded eight scholarships, Gen. William H. Gill president of the college, and Morse G. Dial, president of the Union Carbide and Carbon Corporation, announced recently.

"The purpose of the Union Carbide Scholarship program is threefold; to assist deserving students who are interested in business careers to obtain a college education; to help assure the availability of larger numbers of men and women, trained in technical and non-technical colleges, for future executive and administrative careers in business and industry, and to encourage and give limited financial aid to a cross-section of smaller American colleges and technical institutions of traditionally high standing," Gill said.

The Union Carbide Scholarships cover the complete cost of tuition for a full year academic course and provide reasonable allowances for books and other necessary expenses. To initiate this program, Colorado College will select two students from its present freshman class, in addition to those who will be selected for the fall semester of 1953.

"Basic requirements are simple. Applicants should have good scholastic standing and personal reputation, and be recommended by their school authorities. They must intend to enter business or industry and have the necessary talents and ambition for a useful and productive career. It is likely that most of the Union Carbide scholarships will be awarded to those who need, as well as deserve this aid. No special examinations will be required by Colorado College, but those who are selected must satisfactorily pass the regular entrance requirements.

"Selection of the students and the administration of the scholarships are in the hands of the educators in the respective colleges. They will naturally be guided by the purpose of the scholarship program — to give aid to promising students who look forward to following a career in business or industry. During the duration of the scholarships, the student will be required to live up to the academic and conduct requirements of Colorado College."

Cheerleaders Receive Awards for Their Outstanding Service

Last Tuesday morning, in chapel, Toni Gadd, president of Tiger club, awarded the cheerleaders with cups for the outstanding job they have done this year. A special cup was presented to Kay Kohler, head cheerleader. Kay then congratulated Tiger club on the fine job they have done this year.

DATES OF C.C. BLOOD DRIVE ARE SET; CHAIRMAN ANNOUNCES DOOR PRIZES

Every minute, every day, someone in our armed forces needs the blood that you can give! Making your donation, and participating in this most worthwhile effort is easy too, thanks to the new, carefully planned program devised by your CC Blood Donation Committee. In case you missed seeing one of the 38 posters, the place is the CC Infirmary, 20 East San Rafael. The time: Tuesday and Thursday, March 17 and 19, between 1:30 and 7:30 p.m.

Skilled medical technicians from the Camp Carson Blood Donor Center will be on hand, and the whole business is quick, painless, and vitally important.

Minnesota, RPI Place Two On All-America Hockey Team

Two Minnesota stars, a pair of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute standouts and high-scoring Dick Rodenhiser of Boston University today headed the 12-man All-America hockey team, picked by coaches from the leading U.S. colleges for the fifth consecutive year. Ten schools were represented on the 1953 team, four from the west and six from the east. The All-America poll was conducted by Bob Beier, sports editor of The Colorado Springs Free Press, and Ray Scherer, editor of the Colorado College Tiger.

Goalies Ray Picard of Northeastern, a first-team choice in 1952, and Rodenhiser were top vote getters.

Teaming with Picard, the only repeater from last year's team, was Minnesota's standout goalie Jim Mattson. The pair were rated far ahead of any other net-minders in college hockey today.

The other Gopher star to make the team was iron-man Jim Mayasich, a second-team selection in 1952.

RPI was represented by one of the few 60-minute players in college hockey, defenseman Herb La Fontaine, and forward Frank Chiarelli, who led the east in scoring for the second straight year.

The Minnesota and RPI stars will test their merits against each other tonight when the teams clash in the opening game of the sixth annual NCAA hockey tournament at Colorado Springs' Broadmoor Ice Palace.

Rounding out the defense corps were Alex McClellan of Michigan, Dick Binning of Middlebury and Boh Monahan of Michigan Tech.

Sharing the forward post with Mayasich and Rodenhiser were John Cherski, "Wimpy" Burnett of Boston College and Bothfield of Princeton.

Chiarelli, Mayasich and Cherski were second team choices in 1952, but this year a 12-man team was selected in place of a first and second team.

Rodenhisser and McClellan will also get to test their hockey Friday night when Michigan and Boston Univ. clash in the second game of the NCAA tournament.

A total of 18 coaches from the hot beds of college hockey, the east

LET'S FACE IT

Once again the Red Cross is sponsoring a blood donating drive for students at CC. There is no need to go into detail about what your duty to your country should be. Nor is it necessary to mention how little a sacrifice it is to give a pint of blood that may save a man's life.

In effect, there should be no reason why every one of us can't give blood, both faculty and students. We should not even consider it an unpleasant chore or burden we are forced to undergo. A pint of blood is an insignificant sacrifice to give compared with a man's life.

There ought to be more than the usual amount of moaning when everyone discovers there are only three candidates entered in next week's primary for Student Council president. But despite the fact there is not the usual number of candidates it is still up to us to elect a qualified man.

The Student Council has proven that it can be a strong element at CC. It has made great strides since the beginning of the year. But the Council needs good leadership so that all

Your SCHOLARSHIPS

By LARRY RICHMAN

This week the Tiger begins a series of weekly articles on Scholarships. Student Aid in Colorado College is administered by the Student Aid Committee, comprised of faculty and administrative members. Applications for scholarships and other aid, for freshmen and new students, should be made to Dean Mathias, Director of Admission, and for students already enrolled, to the deans or men women.

Colorado College, like most other colleges and universities, has an enormous amount of money available for needy students. Scholarships and other funds here amount to $81,845. On the average, 18 students receive aid each year to the tune of $55,851. That leaves a difference of over $25,000 which is available each year, which is not used either because students do not qualify, or more probably, because they do not apply. It is our purpose to acquaint you with some of the more outstanding scholarships available.

The Robert G. Argo Scholarship—Awards $200.00 for tuition to a young man who has completed at least one year in CC, from $5,400 endowment.

The William C. Argo Scholarship—Awards $200.00 for tuition to a young man who has completed at least one year in CC, from $5,400 endowment.

The Maria B. Crane Scholarship—Income awarded a young woman for her junior and senior years, from a $5,000 endowed fund.

The Ruth Loomis Scholarship—Awards $165.00 for tuition from an endowed fund of $4,633.50, an upperclass girl who has proved herself and is outstanding in her class.

The Mary Louise Van Dyke Scholarship—Awards various amounts to needy students from $6,037.86, endowment.

6th NCAA Hockey Tourney Opens Tonight

R.P.I. "Dark Horse" In First Try for NCAA Hockey Title

Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute of Troy, N. Y., comes to Colorado Springs this week to play its first game in NCAA hockey playoffs. Sporting a 14-3-1 record, this hockey-minded school represents a dark-horse spirit in the tournament.

Winning 11 of its last 12 games and tying the other one, RPI boasts the longest undefeated streak in college hockey. Largely responsible for this outstanding record is Bob (Foxy) Fox, RPI goalie, who allowed only 39 goals in 18 games, including four shut-outs.

Coach Ned Harkness' men of Troy are a young, fast team, high on quality and low on quantity. Harkness uses only two lines plus one spare and three defensemen. Harkness has also brought fame to RPI as lacrosse coach.

Season record follows:

• Intra-Mural • BILLBOARD

By PHIL GOOD

Last week's slate of full games, broke the three-way knot for first place. A double victory for the Betas, who dumped the Kappa Sigs and the Phi Deltas, moved them into the top spot. The Phi Gams grabbed second place while the Kappa Sigs slipped to third.

Tuesday's action saw the Independents edge out the Sigs in a close game by a score of 45-42. The Sigs took an early lead but a strong Inde attack overcame the deficit and they kept their slim lead for the rest of the game. Tony George proved to be the difference as he dropped in 13 points. Zickgraff was high man for the Sigs with 13 points.

In the second game of the evening, an evenly balanced Phi Gam five crushed the Phi Deltas 42-20. Rule Olsen put away 11 points as he led the Phi Gams into a second place spot. Wendnagle hit for 9 points for the Phi Deltas.

The two first place rivals, the Betas and the Kappa Sigs, took the floor in the first Wednesday night game to determine the first place spot. The first half wound up in a tie and it was the final quarter that told the story. Van Skilling, lanky Beta center, fouled out and was replaced by Sid Keough.

Minnesota Favored in Tourney Mich. RPI and BU. Also Bid

By PHIL GOOD

The University of Minnesota has been rated a slight favorite to win the sixth annual NCAA hockey tournament by those who dare venture a guess. The Gophers enter the tournament after winning nine straight contests, including three wins over the University of Michigan, co-western contenders. Coach "Maroosh" Mariucci will have his men well primed for their meeting with RPI tonight in the "lid lifter".

The Wolverines, defending champions, will never be counted out of such meetings while the "old hawk" Vic Heyliger holds the reins. Michigan has brought with it the poorest record of the four visitors, but they are always a "potent" contender.

Making their third appearance at the Broadmoor for tourney play will be the Terriers of Rensselaer, who square off against Michigan tomorrow night.

Facing the Gophers in tonight's opener will be Rensselaer of Troy, N. Y. Both squads are newcomers to NCAA play.

The four teams were officially selected Sunday and the pairings took place Monday in President William H. Gill's office here on campus.

Boston University, Rensselaer, and Michigan arrived by plane late yesterday afternoon, and will three took light work-outs at the Ice Palace last night. The University of Minn. arrived in Denver by plane at 8:55 p.m. yesterday and then traveled to Colorado Springs by car arriving about 10:30.

Twice Only Has Tourney Favorite Reigned

Michigan Makes Sixth Bid; Gophers Rated Over RPI Tonite

By RAY SCHERER

Tonight begins the sixth annual NCAA hockey tournament which has been held here at the Broadmoor Ice Palace for as many years, and only twice has the favorite emerged victorious. In such a spectacle as this anyone is a potential champion, since one loss eliminates a team from the finals. To emphasize this point take the example of the 1950 collegiate "Stanley Cup" playoff, when Colorado College, after sneaking into the tournament by the skin of its teeth, smacked both Boston College and Boston University to win the nationals.

But let's take a look back through the years to the year the first tournament was held. It was 1948, and from the East came mighty Dartmouth and Boston College, while the West was represented by the Wolverines and Colorado College. The Green were heavy favorites as they had bowled over all opposition on the way to the classic. They sailed through the Tigers by an 8-4 count and met Michigan in the finals. Here they ran headlong into troubles and came up this time on the short end of an 8 to 4 decision. Michigan, the only three-time winner in tournament play, carted home the big trophy.

In the month of March in the year 1949 a capacity crowd saw the defending champions fall beneath a revenge seeking Hanover bunch 4-2, but Dartmouth was not a championship outfit and lost to a powerhouse BC team 4 to 3.

The following year Boston University, replacing Dartmouth who hasn't been back since, came through with a stunning upset, setting Michigan down 4 to 3 before an amazed crowd in the second round. CC showed a great deal of poise that year thrashing BC in the first round 10-3, and then came on to paste BU in the finals 13-4. It was a sizzling third period for the Tigers who were deadlocked at the end of the second 3-3. They utterly exploded in the final stanza with ten goals.

In the 1951 headliner a mighty Michigan sextet, favored from the outset, proved their worth as they roared over second place Brown by a score of 7-1. CC fell before Brown in the first round 8-4 and then bowed to BU 4 to 3 to wind up the fourth.

In last year's NCAA contests the favorite, Michigan, roared through a timid St. Lawrence six, 9-13, then whipped a gallant but undermanned Tiger aggregation 4 to 1. CC gained entrance to the finals by edging Yale 4 to 3. The El's were too much for the Larries as they bowled them over in the consolation game for third place, 4-1.

So the Wolverines, three time holder of the National Crown, again make their sixth consecutive bid for the championship this year. Along with them from the west will come the favorite in many books, the University of Minnesota's Golden Gophers. From the east will come Boston University, making their third appearance, and Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, another newcomer.

BU Makes 3rd Bid for National Hockey Title

Making its third appearance in the NCAA hockey playoffs at the Broadmoor Ice Palace this year, Boston University will be seeking its first national title. The Boston Terriers started the season slowly but ended with a seven game winning streak which included victories over powerful Boston College, 5-2 and 3-0. This was the first shutout over Boston College since before the last war and the first one gained by Boston Univ. since 1928.

With 14 wins, 5 losses and a tie, the Terriers come to the tournament as a powerful eastern sextet and a strong contender for the crown. Goalie Paul Kelly will be the only Boston Univ. player who has been here for previous tournament play.

In addition to Kelly, the team is sparked by the sensational sophomore, Dick Rodenhiser, who, as a freshman last year, was voted the most valuable player in the East, best rookie and first line all-star center. He is one of the leading scorers in the East this year with 48 points.

Leader of this powerful aggregation is Coach Harry Cleverly. Just finishing his eighth season as Terrier coach, Cleverly has led Boston Univ. hockey teams thru 112 victories, 33 losses, and 4 ties. His poorest season was his 13-7 record in 1948-49.

In previous tournament appearances, the Boston Univ. sextet lost to Colorado College in the finals of the 1950 tournament, 13-4. In 1951, the Terriers came back to Colorado Springs, only to be drop-

Ben Snyder Heads Bengal Scoring

Forward Ben Snyder drew the honors for top scorer for the Colorado College cagers which wound up their season a few weeks ago. Snyder was lead man by 34 points closely followed by Lowell Slocum.

Snyder dropped in 231 points in 21 games to lead his mates in the scoring. Snyder made 90 field goals and added 51 free tosses to put his total at 231. Lowell Slocum was runnerup with 197 for the year. Slocum hit on 69 field goals and 59 free throws for his total.

Don Stone ran a close third, two points behind the second place Slocum. Stone saw action in 21 games, dropping 76 from the field and 43 charity tosses.

Archie Yelek, freshman center, saw action in 11 games for 107 points to place fifth in total standing.

ped by Michigan Univ. in the opening game, 8-2. However, they snapped back to defeat CC, 4-3 and take third place in the tourney.

W.A.A. News

By DIANA ASHFORTH

Last week the inter-sorority bowling tournament was held. Marion Johnson was in charge and she did a very good job of organizing. The Sally Paynes won and the Gamma Phis followed close behind them. Delta Gammas took third place, then the Kappas and Thetas.

W.A.A. elections have been held and Betsy Coxie has been elected president. Carol Weinart is the new treasurer. Since there was a tie for both the office of vice-president and secretary there will be run-offs this Tuesday.

This Tuesday and next Thursday evening at 7:15 p.m., the sororities and Independent Women will hold their basketball tournament in Cossitt Hall. Those girls who wish to participate must have two hours of practice. Cossitt Hall will be available for practice this Saturday and Sunday. The time for practice will be posted in Bemis Hall. Sue Pfeiffer and Diane Ashe are in charge. So, if there are any questions, they are the ones to ask.

Michigan Ties Minnesota For Midwest Hockey Title

By winning their last three games, the Michigan Wolverines moved into a tie with the Minnesota Gophers for the championship of the Midwest Collegiate Hockey League. Both teams earned a berth in the Sixth Annual NCAA Hockey Tournament which will be played at the Broadmoor Ice Palace March 12, 13, and 14.

Banquet at B'moor; Winter Sports Honored

Colorado College's hockey, basketball, swimming, and skiing teams will be honored next Monday night by the Colorado College Association at the Broadmoor Hotel.

The annual winter sports banquet also hopes to honor Hayes Allan Jenkins who holds the world and national men's figure skating crowns. Jenkins is a student at Colorado College.

C.C.'s Thompson Eyes Great Meet

CC's hockey coach Cheddy Thompson said Tuesday evening that he thinks this year's tournament entries will provide "great" hockey for local sports fans and visitors in the Pikes Peak region this coming weekend. Thompson went on to say that "although there has been some talk about eastern representation in the playoffs, I believe that both teams will make showings that their home folks will be proud of."

The officials for the national events will be Hank Frantzen of St. Paul, "Rabbi" Mc Veigh of Detroit, and Bill Stewart of Boston. Coach Thompson was pleased with the committee's selection of referees. The officials will get their assignments Thursday morning at a meeting in the Broadmoor hotel.

Emcee for the affair will be Virgil Justis, president of the Colorado Springs Quarterback Club. Main speaker for the evening will be Bob Bowie, sports editor of the Denver Post.

Tickets for the affair are available from Joel Webb at the First National Bank.

Wolverines Seek 4th NCAA Hockey Crown

Seeking its fourth national college hockey title, Michigan Univ. is the only team which has not missed an NCAA tournament since it was started here at the Broadmoor Ice Palace in 1948. The Wolverines won the crown in 1948, 1951 and 1952. Although they bring the poorest record for the past season into the tournament, 15 wins against 7 losses, the Wolverines have topped the title for the past two years.

This is the first year in the past six that Coach Vic Heylinger's charges have not come up with at least 20 wins. Even with the relatively poor season, the Michigan sextet ended the season by sharing the championship of the Midwest Hockey Conference with the Minnesota Gophers. Last year Michigan shared second place honors with Denver Univ.

Boasting one of the nation's best collegiate goalies in Willard Ikola, the Michigan sextet is a strong defensive unit. However, they have some fast, hard skating forwards in John Matchefts, Pat Cooney, and George Chin. The loss of two outstanding players early in the season hurt the Wolverines considerably. John McKennell was ousted from the team for fighting with a referee and Earl Keyes graduated in January. Defensemen for the Michigan team will include Lou Paolatto and Jim Hass.

Minnesota Boasts 'Air-Tight' Defense, High Scoring Offense

The University of Minnesota enters the NCAA playoffs tonight as the co-holder of the Midwest Hockey League title. It is the Gophers initial bid for the national title, and they enter the competition with a 22-5 won-lost record for the season.

Minnesota will pin their tourney hopes on the brilliant scoring of their first line of Johnny Mayasich. Gene Campbell and Dick Dougherty, the highest scoring combination in the country this year. Mayasich, a sophomore from Eveleth, Minn., has broken all scoring records in the conference.

All-Conference goalie Jim Mattson is expected to provide RPI with rough going around the Gopher nets. Holding down the defensive positions are Tom Wegleitner, Jim Tschida and Wendy Anderson. The Minnesota defensive unit has allowed 65 goals in 27 games this year for a neat average of but 2.4 goals per game. Incidentally, their 27 games is the toughest schedule any tournament team has faced this year.

With their high scoring combinations and impregnable defense, it is no wonder that the Gophers are rated as the "team to beat" in this year's "Stanley Cup" playoffs for college hockey.

CC Social Whirl Accompanies NCAA Hockey Tournament

NCAA hockey tournament week brings with it not only exciting athletic events, but a whirl of social activities as well. The excitement began when Queen Mary Ann Harmon, her attendants and a group of CC coeds met the players at the airport yesterday at 4:30 p.m. The beautiful outdoor pool and terrace at the Broadmoor Hotel will be the scene of the reception to be held tomorrow afternoon from 3:00 to 5:00 in honor of the visiting teams. Hockey Queen Mary Ann Harmon, her court, and girls from each of the women's organizations will be on hand to supply the feminine touch.

The main social event of the week will be the NCAA all-school hockey dance. It will be held in the Broadmoor Hotel ballroom from 10:30 p.m. to 1:30 a.m. Saturday night, March 14. The dance will be informal. Bill Serriff's orchestra will furnish music for dancing and there is no admission charge. The dance, sponsored by the IWA, will close a very colorful and exciting NCAA hockey tournament.

han. The big reservist broke up the game as he fired ten points in one quarter. Long shots by guard Chuck Molin had their effect as he scored 11 points.

Dick Conroy and Dick Meyer shared point honors for the losers with 11 each.

In the second game the Sigs squeezed out a close one with the Phi Delt 36-34. The Sigs ran up a 12 point lead in the first quarter only to watch their margin dwindle before a determined Phi Delt squad. But again it was the last quarter that proved the difference when the Phi Delt slipped.

Bob Voshall hit the twines for 19 points in one of the highest individual scoring efforts of the season. Fred Rediske was next with 9 points.

Steve Channer and Carl Wend-nagle had 15 and 9 points respectively for the losers.

On Thursday the Kappa Sigs bounced back to dump the high-riding Independent five 44-38. This loss dropped the Indes from a first place tie to fourth place. The Kappa Sigs took an early lead and were never headed as Dick Conroy put away 18 points for another fine performance while Rog Bild-stein got 12.

Bill Winkler got 16 points and Wally Parus 13 for the Independents.

The Betas strengthened their first place birth in the second game of the evening by beating the Phi Delt 35-29. A slow starting game, the Betas never got going until the second half. The game was wide open and each team resorted to fast breaks in an attempt to break the ice.

The long and short of the Beta five, Bob Kroehnke and Larry Waddington, once again sparked the Beta drive with 13 and 9 points respectively.

Big Carl Nelson led the Phi Delt with 10 points.

You'll be equipped to fly the latest, hottest planes. You'll be prepared to take your position as an executive, both in military and commercial aviation as well as in industry. And while you're helping yourself you'll be helping your country.

National Honorary Military Society Now on CC Campus

Pershing Rifles, National Honorary Military Society, designed to encourage and develop the highest ideals of the military profession; and to provide appropriate recognition of a high degree of military ability among the cadets of senior ROTC units, is being introduced to the CC campus this semester. Twenty-six ROTC cadets are presently engaged in the organization and chartering of the local unit.

Formation of the National Society of Pershing Rifles was prompted by one of the nation's most distinguished soldiers, Gen. John J. Pershing. Organized over a half century ago, it is the oldest college military society in America. It has aided ROTC units in training thousands of young leaders for positions of great responsibility and trust in the military service.

The local Pershing Rifles will be headed by Cadet Larry Herrman, appointed captain. Captain Herrman's staff will consist of Rule B. Olsen, lieutenant, Executive Officer; Jack Sorrels, lieutenant, Adjutant; Renwick Candon, lieutenant, Public Information Officer; and Harry R. Hoffman, sergeant, Pledge Trainer.

Captain Lawrence M. Stofflet is the faculty advisor, SFC Richard F. Pittsinger has been elected as the unit drill sergeant. Both are members of the military department at Colorado College.

The Pershing Rifles will meet once weekly either for special drill or advanced training. They will sponsor military details such as color guards, drill teams, escorts, and military exhibitions. Their outstanding annual event will be the Military Ball, which is already in the planning stage.

A distinctive blue and white fourragers will be won by all members of the Pershing Rifles.

Honor Debate Fraternity Initiates New Members

Ten debaters were initiated into Tau Kappa Alpha, national forensic honor fraternity, Wednesday, March 11, by Dr. Harvey L. Carter and Professor J. D. Mertz, acting for the Colorado College chapter.

Those so honored were Prof. Ray O. Werner, director of debate at CC; Don Benton and John Hawthorne, alumni members; George Abbott, Mike Baltzer, Paul Evans, Charles Hawley, Hiram Liggett, Don Johnson, and Larry Waddington, members of the present debate team. The chapter elected Prof. Werner as faculty sponsor, Paul Evans, president, and Chas. Hawley as secretary.

TO THE STUDENTS OF COLO. COLLEGE

Perhaps the greatest honor that can be bestowed upon a man, while attending college, is to be elected president of his student body. It is a position of trust and respect, yet, one of staggering responsibility. It is difficult for me to express the gratitude I feel for your wonderful support. Now that you have made your decision, I shall, to the best of my ability, carry out the duties and obligations which you have placed upon me by choosing me for your student body president.

I know you will join with me in paying respect to the other candidates, leaders on our campus, whom you have also considered in this election. I shall need them, we shall need them, because I have not changed, in any respect, since last Tuesday. Your selection has not enlarged my capabilities. I shall be grateful and thankful for your support during the next year.

Let me say, too, that I have been heartened by the overall conduct of the campaign. You have argued and disagreed, because as students—thinking students—you care and care deeply. But you have disagreed and argued without calling each other names, without degrading our best traditions, by allowing the school campaign to sink to the low ebb so often found in professional politics. You students cared about the election, but especially did you care how it was won.

Better men than I have held this position, and I owe you and them every resource of the ability that I possess to make your selection of Tuesday a good one for our school.

However, I feel no sense of triumph or elation. Our troubles are all ahead of us. It has been said that, "There are no gains without pains." This will be a year of decisions. I ask of you all you have. Help me to do the job you have assigned me and I shall fulfill the trust that you have placed in me.

MISS VAN DIEST TELLS OF CONTRIBUTIONS BY CC STUDENTS TO COMMUNITY SERVICES

In an interview concerning the Girl Scouts of America, who are celebrating their founding this week, Miss Alice E. van Diest, professor of sociology at Colorado College, disclosed many interesting facts about the overall contribution of the college to community services. Miss van Diest was formerly state director of Public Welfare before coming to CC in 1936, and she is an authority on the subject.

According to Miss van Diest, "the college now has eight students working with nine Girl Scout troops. There are nearly 200 girls in the nine troops. CC women students who work with the Scouts earn college credits, but this is in fact, almost incidental. All have a deep interest in Scouting and in young people, and continue their work beyond college credit requirements. They teach handicrafts, guide social activities, and bring a warmth and intelligence to their job which even convinces the ten-year-olds that learning to set a table properly can be fun.

"In Colorado Springs alone, 55 students and 14 CC alumni are engaged in community service from a volunteer to a high professional level, while many more have made careers in Colorado state service. This number does not include CC students and alumni who serve in seasonal fund raising and other non-professional activities.

"The 69 CC students and alumni mentioned above work with 15 community service agencies. On this list are two alumni with the Red Cross, one with industries for the blind, one student and two alumni with the Boy's Club, three students with the Boy Scouts and two with the Cerebral Palsy Training Center.

"Continuing the list: one alumnus with the Chadbourne Spanish Gospel Mission; four students with the Child Day Care Center; six with the City Recreation Center; four students and five alumni in the El Paso County Department of Public Welfare and one alumni in the Extension Service.

"The eight students with the Girl Scouts were already mentioned; two CC alumni also serve here.

"Another alumnus is with the Myron Stratton Home; while the YMCA has seven students, and the YWCA has two CC alumni. To complete the listing, the Colorado College Child Clinic, a free service open on alternate Fridays in Hagerman Hall on the campus, has 20 students and one alumni aiding the doctors and nurses."

Miss van Diest pointed out that many people are surprised to learn that Colorado Springs has over a half-a-hundred community service organizations, and that for three decades planned and organized college participation has been of real value to them in carrying out their work.

Pick 'n Pan Pins Will Be Awarded By Woodson Tyree

In recognition of their work in any one of the departments of drama, debate, or radio, two students from each group will be awarded the Pick and Pan pin which is the speech department's Oscar.

ONLY 452 VOTES CAST IN THE ELECTION OF A NEW CC STUDENT BODY PREXY

Copping 236 of the 452 votes cast in last Tuesday's election, Frank Florey of Colorado Springs, Colo., was elected president of the Associated Students of Colorado College for the coming year. Charles Hawley finished second with 142 votes, while Nick Ferris received 75 of the ballots. With 845 students qualified to vote in this election, 452 went to the polls. This means that only 53.5 per cent of the student of Colorado College saw fit to help choose their new president. This represents the poorest showing made by CC students at the polls in the past several years.

The elections followed a week of intense campaigning by the three contenders. The campaign included a variety of posters, sermons, speeches, etc.

Florey succeeds George Abbott, who took over the post upon the untimely death of Harry Halstead, the man who was elected last year. Frank is currently editor of the Nuggett, chairman of the Publications Board, and is a member of the Beta Theta Pi fraternity.

When contacted Tuesday afternoon, after the tabulation of the votes, the new student council president said, "I extend my sincere thanks to the entire student body for the honor bestowed upon me. I only hope that I can fulfill your faith in me by meeting the qualifications and precedence, which the past presidents have set. I would like, also, to thank every one for the grand turnout, although only three candidates were running. I believe that this indicates a real interest in the ASCC on the part of the students. I believe that it has been a very fair and outstanding campaign on the part of all."

Dr. H. H. Carter's Medieval Dictionary Published Recently

Dr. Henry Hare Carter, professor of Romance Languages, and head of the Foreign Language Department at Colorado College, has received copies of his latest publication, "A Fourteenth-Century Latin-Old Portuguese Verb Dictionary."

The attractive, 103 page work is a reprint of articles published in the November, 1953-February, 1953 issues of "Romance Philology," and is illustrated with photographs of 600 year-old manuscripts. The originals are in the Biblioteca Nacional de Lisbon, (the Portuguese National Library), where Dr. Carter did much of his research, and are part of the rich Alcobaca collection.

This medieval dictionary presents a list of 2930 Latin verbs with corresponding Old Portuguese definitions, interpretations, and comments.

Dr. Carter has had a life-long interest in the Romance languages, and he has studied in the Universities at Rome, Madrid, Paris, and Lisbon. His doctoral dissertation, published in 1935, was the first linguistic study in medieval Portuguese made in the United States.

This was followed in 1941 by a diplomatic edition of Portugal's first literary monument, the "Cancioneiro da Ajuda," a medieval collection of troubadour lyrics of the 13th Century. This book has since been used as a standard textbook in medieval studies in this country and abroad.

Presently, Carter is working on a critical-diplomatic edition of the Portuguese Holy Crail fragment discovered at the Library of the Torre Do Tombo in Lisbon. It deals with Joseph of Arametha and the legendary Holy Chalice used by Christ at the Last Supper. In 1950, the Portuguese ambassador to the U.S., Dr. Pedro Theotonio Pereira, expressed great interest in the work and discussed its possible publication in Portugal by the government.

WOLVERINES DO IT AGAIN -- MONOTONOUS?

MICH. U. TAKES THIRD STRAIGHT TITLE; WHIP FAVORED MINNESOTA CLUB 7-3

A contented Michigan University hockey club left here for the middle west with their third straight title under their belt. After thoroughly drubbing the Boston Univ. team, the Wolverines cut short Minnesota's championship bid in one of the top performances of the tournament, 7-3. Michigan opened the final game with a goal at 5:48 of the first period but soon fell behind after a two goal volley of the Gophers.

The Minnesota boys soon cooled off and in the second period the Wolverines quickly capitalized with two more goals to put them ahead 3-2 at the end of the period.

The third and final period of this year's hockey tournament spelled defeat for the once favored Minnesota club. Goals by Matchefts, Haas, and Philpott pushed the score to 6-2, but with a little more than ten minutes gone it looked like the Gophers were back in the game as Ken Yackel narrowed the score to 6-3. In the last ten minutes, Minnesota's Coach, John Mariucci, yanked his goalie three times in hopes of gaining more scoring power but his efforts failed all three times.

Both goalies were busy at the nets the entire evening, Michigan goalie Ikola brushed away 25 would-be goals while Mattson kept the rubber from the nets 27 times.

Three Wolverines each tallied twice for Michigan. Matchefts, Haas and Philpott were the heavy point makers.

In the consolation game Saturday afternoon the RPI club knocked off the Boys from Beantown, 6-3.

Little Al Moore paced the Engineers with four goals, two of which were solo efforts. Moore also picked up an assist.

After a slow start the Engineers finally drove the puck into the nets with better than nine minutes gone in the first period. Moore added one as he stole the puck from a Boston Univ. player and hit the nets for a solo.

Boston Univ. broke into the scoring column at 4:32 of the second period, but Ambrose Mosco tallied once again for the RPI club to push the Engineers' score to three. Boston never again was a threat as Moore put away three more goals.

"PARDON MY ELBOW, DICK," is what Frank Chiarelli might be saying had he been in a polite mood in Thursday night's NCAA opener. The Gophers took the contest 3-2.

Bob Fox, RPI goal tender, turned away 25 shots for the winners with Boston goalie, Paul Kelly being accredited with 33 saves, 16 coming in the final period.

In the first round of championship hockey, Minnesota eeked out a 3-2 over the hustling RPI Engineers. Michigan earned their berth on the final flight by trouncing Boston Univ. 14-2.

The Engineers kept favored Minnesota in check for the first two periods and for awhile it looked as if the favorites would be on the sidelines for the championship fray. Excellent goal tending by Bob Fox highlighted the RPI defensive play and kept Minnesota from the nets.

Minnesota went into action in the final period and literally dominated the play, earning them a berth in the championship game. A two goal volley put the Gophers into the lead by two goals and broke the seemingly never ending 1-1 deadlock.

Brandt Top Scorer; Smith Top Newcomer

Omer Brandt earned a new honor last Monday night when it was announced that he had won high scoring honors in CC's recent hockey season in which the Tigers won ten of their 21 games.

Brandt tallied 15 goals and 19 assists for a 34 point total. Leo Soligo was second with 11 goals and 14 assists for 24 points. Soligo missed the last four hockey games because of Coach Cheddy Thompson's suspending actions. Norm Divney was a close third with 23 points.

Jonh "Pan" Smith topped newcomers to the Tiger hockey scene with five goals and seven assists for a total of 12 points. Smith played in only four games.

With 3:58 remaining in the contest the Engineers demonstrated their will to win as they uncorked their last fling nettini one goal.

In he second game of the tournament the Wolverines went all out in a record-breaking victory over Boston University. The victory assured an all-western team finals for the second straight year.

ASCC NOTES

By SALLY LeROI

At the meeting of March 16, an announcement was made that the Drinking Code had been passed and is awaiting General Gill's signature.

And here is something of interest to you "jam session" fans. The CC administration has not suggested to any clubs that students be kept out. In fact, they do not plan to, for they have no jurisdiction over students' activities off campus. The club owners have taken this action on themselves—it is not CC.

All seniors who have not turned in their list of activities for the Nugget, please do so at once, to Frank Florey or Gil Weiskopf or put them in the Nugget box in Cutler. Also, if anyone is interested in typing for the Nugget, Frank Florey is the man to see. A committee was established to draw up and clarify what should

Kappas Set Spring Fashions Saturday at the Alamo Hotel

Next spring fashions will make their debut at the annual Kappa fashion show on March 21, at the Crystal Room in the Alamo Hotel. The big event will begin with a luncheon at 1:00 with the show starting at 1:30. Some of the new spring styles will be shown by Cyndy Mitchell and Les Sherman, modeling for Kaufman's. The spring fever for new clothes will be heightened even further when Lyndy Lock, Sue Liggett and Sue McMillin model a variety of new styles from the Gray Rose. Furs never seem to lose their appeal for women and with Barbara McAllister, Mary Jeanne Perenyi and Claudette Stock modeling for Louis' furs, who can resist? Casual Town, of course, with those lovely casual models, Tad Rogers, Dottie Burger and Carolyn McClinton will present clothes that will create more than a casual interest.

It's been said that some exciting beach wear is among the clothes modeled by Luan Cutler and Patsy Reeves for Perkins-Shearer. This should be very interesting. Maurcen Magnusson will model Wood Meyer's outstanding fashions. Mutt and Jeff—Sally Condon and Jennie Singleton—will report Martina new fashions for the spring. Oh's and Ah's will greet Daniels & Fishers exciting new styles modeled by Toni Gadd, La Von Gehrk and Louise Bohannon. No one will be able to resist those stunning clothes worn by Phyl Seymour and De De McCoy for Raes. Wilbur's new fashions with those lovely models, Marion Hubble and Kathy Smith, will certainly create a sensation. As every woman knows, jewelry is a must and Frederick's will display their fine collection of jewelry to add the sparkling touch to the show.

Music by the Fox Trots will add even more to creating an exciting Parisian mood. The masculine touch will be provided by Doug Morgan, Carl Wendnagle, Tom Seymour, Dick Walker, Jim Hill and Gil Weiskopf as they escort the models.

Extra tickets for the show can be obtained by calling Mrs. Berge Ritchey at Ma. 5720. The tickets cost one dollar each.

Canterbury Club Presents Speaker; Plans Denver Trip

This Sunday evening, March 22, Canterbury Club will be honored to have David Pew, organist and choirmaster of St. John's Cathedral in Denver as their guest. He will speak on his experiences in handling and training boys' choirs. Mr. Pew, an interesting man with a keen sense of humor, is sure to present an enjoyable program.

This meeting is a particularly appropriate preliminary to the following Sunday's activities. Sunday, March 29, the Canterbury club and all who are interested, will go to St. John's Cathedral to hear the choir, directed by David Pew, perform the Passion according to Saint Mark by Woods. Anyone who wishes to make a reservation or to find out more information about the trip, contact Molly Bischof, Main 4402.

Impressions Gained And Sleep Lost at NCAA Tournament

By JUDY CLAVE

At last the campus is recovering from that strenuous NCAA weekend. I notice steps getting lighter and circles under the eyes disappearing. But before the lustre of the weekend has faded and its memory shelved away in some far corner, I'd like to comment on the impressions I gleaned from flitting from one event to another.

Thursday night we had no trouble finding seats at the Ice Palace to watch Minnesota slowly push RPI out of the championship competition. The general opinion seemed to be that RPI, although the losers, was greatly underrated in pre-tourney speculation. While watching the Gophers' Jimmy Mattson guarding the goal, my eye was caught by a gorgeous honey-brown suede coat and matching beret worn by a lady several rows ahead of me.

From this contemplation of fashion, I'll now turn to the tea given in honor of the visiting hockey teams at the B'moor. The girls looked lovely against the background of the outdoor pool; the hockey players looked fine to me, too! Several ambitious RPI players, tempted by the sparkling water, donned bathing suits. The amused spectators were entertained by a series of proper and extremely comic dives — all were amused, that in, save those unfortunates who unwittingly got themselves splashed. While munching sandwiches curled by the sun, I had the good fortune to chat with two Minnesota skaters, John Mayasich and Dick Meredith. From the minute I talked to Dick, I wanted Minnesota to be victorious; when complimented on his backchecking against RPI he said, "Oh, that was nothing. I just backcheck and play and Mayasich makes the goals." Coach Mariucci gave me a few tips on Thursday's game.

That night Michigan showed their great superiority over BU. Beside me, however, sat a BU sympathizer. As the Wolverines put on the heat and Boston remained scoreless, I overheard her say, "I do wish the team in red would score. Those poor little boys have come 'way out here from Boston and haven't made a single point." And a man in the back row yelled desperately against the last goal—as the puck hit the net he lost $40. After the game, we went to the Terrace Room and found Minnesota Captain Weglietner disconsolately munching pretzels. Asked why he didn't see the game out, he said it gave him the jitters to see Michigan looking so good.

But I haven't even mentioned

"CAN YOU IMAGINE THAT" says these Minnesota rooters as they watch the Golden Gophers take it on the chin from the Wolverines in Saturday night's final.

the finals Saturday night. The Ice Palace was packed with a seething mass of fur coats, cameras, and varsity sweaters. Queen Mary Ann presented the trophy to the victorious Michigan Wolverines in a white-ice sheath dress that rated whistles from the stands. At the all-school dance following, despondence prevailed at our pro-Minnesota table. All agreed, however, that Michigan was a deserving winner. Soon the hockey players with their bruised faces and the girls in a sparkling array of finery drifted away. Nothing was left but the echo of a cheering crowd the memory of a dazzling trophy, and an oval of deserted ice shimmering lonesomely in the darkness.

D-Gs COMMEMORATE FOUNDER'S DAY; CC GIRLS RECEIVE COVETED AWARDS

Delta Gamma chapters and alumni groups from Denver University, Colorado University and Colorado College combined last Saturday to commemorate Founders Day which was in 1873. This was done at a luncheon at the Wolhurst Saddle Club in Denver. A candlelight ceremony was held and candlelighters were representatives from each of the three chapters. Colorado College representatives were: Nancy Graham, Marilyn Charles, Pat Gray, Jan Newton and Jane Abrahamson. Alumni from Boulder, Denver and Colorado Springs spoke of outstanding work being done by the active chapters in their respective cities.

Miss Amanda Ellis was named as one of the outstanding Delta Gamma alumnae of the year and received the Order of the White Roses for her book, "Elizabeth the Woman." Another recipient of this award was also an alumnae of Beta Delta chapter, Mrs. Savisa White, who received the award for her work in advancement of the medical technology. This award is the highest national award presented by Delta Gamma. It was awarded to Miss Nina Shaffer, Province Secretary.

Other awards were presented to outstanding members from each of three active chapters. Delta Gammas from CC receiving awards were: Angie Von Ofenheilm, who was the senior with the highest over-all average, received a ring which is passed on from year to year. Jane Fleming was the outstanding sophomore of the year and received a jewel box, as did Angie. Pat Paulich was the pledge with the highest average and received a necklace which is another award that is passed on from year to year.

There's another new play coming to the CC stage. Director Tyree is considering putting on Shakespeare's "Comedy of Errors." Anyone interested in working in the cast or back stage is requested to see Chief Tyree in South Hall as soon as possible.

LET'S FACE IT

One of the most encouraging examples of student interest to come out of this school in a long while was the class assemblies last Tuesday. There was a great deal of skepticism about the value of these class meetings. And a lot of people didn't even know what they were about.

But on learning that it was nothing more than an informal bull session, the response was terrific. This was the students' chance to express their gripes and ideas to the administration. We all knew there were problems—what we needed was constructive criticism—and we got it.

Discussions didn't seem to end with the meeting—students were still expressing their views at lunch. Undoubtedly, this was a hopeful sign. Students seemed to have forgotten their apathy and began to take a genuine interest in student affairs.

Then, on the same morning—not more than 15 minutes after the meetings were over—the polls opened for the voting of ASCC president. If the interest displayed in class meetings was any criticism, we could have expected a landslide vote. But, slightly more than half of the students took the trouble to vote. Why is election of our student body president such an unimportant event? Is it not equally important to have good student government as it is to have a good honor system?

CC's progress will be slow if student interest comes out once a month during class meetings. Yet, the students know now that they can have a voice in the school and if they speak as they did in class meetings, Tuesday, they can call their own shots—with the administration's blessing.

WAKE UP STUDENTS!

Undoubtedly, you have long since tired of hearing words preached about this business of school spirit and school interest. But the election last Tuesday unveiled some facts which you should know because they prove conclusively that there is a serious and appalling disinterest among the students regarding campus life.

First, a smaller percentage of students went to the polls last Tuesday than have gone for the past four years or more (available statistics restrict this information to four years). Only 452 of our 845 enrolled students voted. This is only 53.5% of the eligible voters. Now compare this with last year's 581 voters out of 758 students, which represents a 78% turnout. This year shows a drop of 25% in student interest in elections ALONE, over the course of one year. In 1951, 586 students voted, and in 1950, there were 662 votes cast. So you see that this year's voting shows that well over a hundred less students decided to vote than in the past few years, although the population of the student body remained proportionally more equal.

Now it is generally assumed that seniors on a campus are leaders, in that they have been around long and should, therefore, help the younger students along and set examples for them. But the sad truth is that our seniors were at the bottom of the list. They barely got more than half of their numbers to vote, with just 51% making the effort, while the little freshmen showed by far the most loyalty and interest with an impressive 68% of their numbers showing up at the polls. Of the sophomores, 54% voted, and the juniors managed to get 56% of their numbers to turn out. Only 5 out of 62, or 8% of the special and graduate students thought the election worthy of their efforts.

Why should special and graduate students feel so completely apart from the other students? Do you know that the laws passed and the government operated by ASCC also applies to you as long as you are a student of CC? It is also interesting to note that only five percentage points separate the sophomores, juniors, and seniors, while the freshmen are a full twelve percent ahead of any other class. Does this mean that the freshmen carry the brunt of school apathy and finding that it is not shared by the upperclassmen, they enter their sophomore year with an attitude of indifference?

But the most tragic event of the election was the 29 write-in ballots given to "the Village Idiot". The majority of these votes, according to reliable sources, were furnished by men whose fraternity did not sponsor a candidate for president of ASCC. Just because your fraternity does not have a man running or because you don't happen to be particularly fond of those who are running, is no reason why you should throw away your vote. We still need a president and such animosity is backed up only by stupidity or a total poverty of thought. You're college students now! WAKE UP AND ACT LIKE IT, ANYWAY!!!

TO THE STUDENTS OF COLORADO COLLEGE

I want to express, publicly, my sincere thanks to everyone who assisted me in any way in my campaign for the student body presidency. The knowledge of your friendship has more than compensated me for any disappointment I may have suffered from the outcome. The student electorate has chosen and chosen well. I wish Frank all possible success in his new office.

Sincerely yours,

Charles D. Hawley.

Your SCHOLARSHIPS

By LARRY RICHMAN

This week the TIGER continues its listing of outstanding scholarships available to needy students. I think it's worth repeating that over $25,000 of available financial help each year is not used. Naturally there are a lot of scholarships with specific qualifications, such as membership in a certain sorority or fraternity, a specified major, residence in a certain part of the country, and others just as limiting.

However, there are scholarships with no such stipulations that go unused. Remember, you don't have to be Phi Beta Kappa to apply for and receive aid. The donors of our scholarships gave them to be used, not to gather dust.

The Hester Jane Butcher Scholarship—Awards $100 for tuition to a woman student, from a $3,000 endowment.

D.A.R. Scholarships—Tuition to recipients selected by chapters. Given to juniors or seniors interested in civics, history, sociology, and related subjects. Endowment is $7,400.

The Hawley Scholarship—Full tuition for students preparing for distinctly Christian work, from an endowment of $21,407.26.

The Hibbard Scholarship—Varied amounts for tuition paid to needy students. Endowed, $4,000.

The Alma and Ann Eliza Jacques Scholarship—$150 in tuition awarded to a needy student who has completed at least one year in academic work in CC, from a $4,263.72 endowment.

KRCC and Tiger Review Give Weekly Features

Last Tuesday evening at 6:30 p. m. over KKTU, the radio class of KRCC-FM presented the first in a series of weekly CC classroom programs. Produced and directed by Dorothy Tucker, this first program featured assistant professor of art history, Carol Feldstedt, with Judy Clave and Ray Scherer taking part in the discussion of art history. Each week there will be a program featuring a different department on the CC campus.

Last Wednesday night, also on KKTU, was the third in the weekly program, "Tiger Review." Featured were Tom Dunton and Moses Harrison discussing the Honor Council with Bill Peters presenting a few numbers on the piano. Tiger Review is produced and directed by Tom Freund and Dorothy Tucker.

MEL KENSINGER VIEWS IFC AND ITS PROBLEMS FOR COLO. COLLEGE PUPILS

BY TOM PANKAU

"Help Week was initiated this year in conjunction with Hell Week in order to let the public know some of the good things that fraternities do," according to Milburn E. Kensinger, president of the Inter-Fraternity Council. "Many people have the idea that everything about all fraternities is bad," says Mel, "so we hope to correct this attitude by public demonstrations of constructive work."

"Our main work in the IFC," continues Mel, "is to act as a type of policy committee and administrative unit for the five fraternities on campus. We set the regulations and control rushing, set up the grade averages needed for initiation and impose fines for violations of rushing rules."

"Spider," as he is commonly known by most of the students, came to Colorado College four years ago from his home town, Mt. Carroll, Ill. While here he met a girl by the name of Arline Toll, from Los Angeles, Calif., who is now his wife.

As a 24-year-old Navy veteran, Mel has utilized his age and experience in a number of extra-curricular activities. He has been one of the student leaders at CC and has made his influence felt in most spheres of campus life. His appointment to the Red Cross Lantern last spring is significant of these things.

But he could not start out with Red Lantern, it was rather more of a culminating activity in his college career. Beginning as a freshman, Mel was initiated into the Phi Gamma Delta fraternity and played football and basketball. His gridiron participation lasted until his senior year, while he played basketball during all four years.

Majoring in business, "Spider" was elected to the Alpha Kappa Psi in his junior year and is serving as treasurer this year. He served as president of his junior and senior classes. But the most important job Mel has this year, is president of the Inter-Fraternity Council.

In this capacity, Mel has directed the various fraternities in their attempt to solve their problems. And he is convinced that, "the IFC is weak because we do not have enough of the proper kind of co-operation from the fraternities. We now have a publicity officer, which should help make our activities better known on the campus." He also feels that the IFC could and should work more closely with the student council in working out some of the campus problems. "In the past," he continues, "there has been virtually no cooperation among these two organizations."

Study tables have been discontinued by the IFC, because, as "Spider" put it, "You can lead a horse to water, but you can't make him drink." This boiled down means that you can force students to sit at a study table for an hour or so, but you can't make them study.

The fraternities at CC reached a crucial point this year, in that not more than half of the pledges obtained the grade point required for initiation. "To keep our old laws in effect would have seriously hampered the fraternities at CC, so we decided to lower the grade average for this semester to permit an adequate number of new members to be initiated in order to sustain the fraternities' existence at CC," remarked Kensinger.

"We received much criticism for this," Mel added, "but I feel that if students are permitted to play athletics without a 2.0 grade average, why should they be not be allowed to join a fraternity. Also, freshman averages tend to be the lowest on the campus, which means that these low averages will nearly all be improved in the years remaining for these students. For those who say that we shouldn't have lowered the grade-point because each student needs a 2.0 in order to graduate, I should like to remind them, that this latter grade point is required only in the student's major field of study."

ADMIRAL TRILL LIFTS DRINKING BAN AT CC IN SURPRISE MOVE WEDNESDAY

By IMAN INCSCHLYNGER

In a surprise move that shocked the entire student body into a dumfounded stupor, Admiral J. B. Trill announced last Wednesday the disbanding of the drinking code and lifted all restrictions on drinking at Colorado College. This was the man who only recently had said, "There hasn't been any drinking on campuses for the past 2000 years and there probably won't be any for the next 1500 years."

Speculations rose high for this sudden change of heart. One noted authority remarked, "The old boy really has a heart after all." Others thought he feared a student uprising it had a chance to squelch it before it had a chance to develop. Some puritans added that they believed he was really for drinking all the time, but just wanted to put up a good front.

But even before the initial shock was absorbed, Admiral Trill published a new drinking code and commented, "This is the way a good drinking code should be."

In essence this is the way the revised code reads: All fraternities and sororities will be authorized to install a bar in their house living room, provided they can afford it; beer will be served to all students as they enter chapel each Tuesday; all doors will carry this service; Cossitt, Lennox and all places serving food will have bar service.

Admiral Trill added that he thought the students should have a week off to get used to the new code. He also speculated that he might use influence to get liquor for the students at a cut rate.

The faculty was divided on this new set up. Some thought it was the most progressive thing ever to happen to a college and expressed their belief that "this will really put CC on the map." Others felt that it was the most tragic thing ever to happen to a college institution. One noted observer decided that this attitude merely separated the drinking faculty members from the teetotalers.

Bedlam broke out among the students after they recovered from the shock and realized what had happened. "A dream come true, right here at our school," commented many students. Others merely broke out bottles of hidden whiskey and beer and followed a normal course of action.

At last report, the entire student body was taking full advantage of their new liberties and some faculty members wondered if they ever would get the students back to school. The more skeptical ones insisted that drinking in the classrooms would have to be installed before school could recommence at Colorado College.

Hagerman Hall Establishes New Policy; Sets Up Council for Friendly Relations

By MORT INCSCHLYNGER

Spokesman for the new Hagerman Hall Council for Friendly Relations, in an interview with Tiger representatives, outlined the council's program and aims. "We feel," he said, "that it's about time somebody got down to work and tried to make Hagerman Hall a real 'Home Sweet Home'. For that purpose, we've set up this council, composed of two men elected from each floor. The elections were held last week, at the first of a series of Saturday night discussion groups. The spokesman stated that cultural programs are being planned, and that attendance will be compulsory. Next week we're having a classical music program by several of our music majors, and it promises to be an enjoyable Saturday night," he stated.

"One of our main functions, other than the music appreciation series," he continued, "will be to welcome new members to our Hagerman family. Naturally this function will only be important once or twice a year, but we're really planning a series of helpful discussions on adjustment to campus life.

As well as the council itself, several committees have been appointed. Because of the immediate response, membership had to be limited to four members each. The committees are: "Keep Hagerman Hall Clean" Committee; the "Friendly Faculty Relations" Committee; the Committee on Prinfce Affairs; and the Committee on Discipline. This last will deal with violations of the anti-noise league charter, and with unexcused absences from the Saturday night cultural and discussion groups.

"We feel sure," the spokesman concluded, "that this committee will have little actual work, but we thought it best to provide for such unfortunate happenings."

We are asked to mention that voluntary gifts are being accepted to purchase a sign to be hung over the door of Hagerman, to read, "Hagerman, the Happy Hall."

Scandal Discovered; College Dean Dumped

By Abercrombie V. Incschlynger

Silent rumors whispered in secret meeting and behind closed doors were blasted out into open today when it was formally announced that Sally, "the Tippler," Sorgum, had been dismissed from school. Miss Sorgum's habits were not known and several authorities had been known to comment.

Miss Sorgum was discovered on the steps of Remus Hall in a highly inebriated condition. When told that it was after 1:30 she could only mumble incoherently that, "the bars stay open 'till 2:00."

This is the climax in a series of shady actions Sorgum has been engaged in. She has been convicted before on charges of shanghaiing unsuspecting male students into tea parties and using blackmail.

LET'S SKIP IT!

By
Red Sneiffer and Muscles Blabington

Let's skip it! Who gives a d— anyway? CC is going to the dogs—Arf! Arf! To h— with school spirit. Let's not stand for it—let's just sit on it! But as usual the Pussies and the Snarlors are doing a great job. They're no dead weights, for while they stand for spirit, we just sit on ours.

Why just look what our college has done so far. What? You tell us. We can't figure it out either. Oh yes, our Honor System works. For instance, one of CC's better students says, "I'm for the Honor System. It allows more cheating." And the drinking code is great too, for everyone writes about it and everyone talks about it and now something has been done about it. Prohibition is the next step.

It's a shame that the Village Idiot didn't receive more votes. Next time, all for one, one for all—all for the best qualified man. Go to the polls and vote for "The Village Idiot."

Next, it's a rare thing when a new set of rah-rah scholarship standards are adopted. We now have standards that can never be lowered, for now only a 0.00 average is required of all students who plan to enter any CC activity.

Please give! Your blood donations will be extracted this week at the horse clinic! A minimum of two quarts per person has been set. Go! Give! Give your blood and get that fizzled out feeling. After all, you don't give something for nothing.

He's a Tiger! Who's a Tiger? Oscar B. Studentski, of Course

By HUMDINGER INCSCHLYNGER

Never in the annals of Colorado College history has there been a student enrolled who was as poorly thought of and little wanted as Oscar B. Studentski. The final blow came last night when Oscar was taking advantage of the new drinking code. It seems our poor friend was driving his girl, Orthoclase Fish, home from a fast evening front steps of McGregor Hall, leaving his car and girl piled up in front of the door.

The housemother came out and calmly said, "Young man, what strange ways you have of bringing the girls in." Fortunately, both students were uninjured, although the car was a total wreck. Now there is a great deal of doubt as to just what Studentski's future at CC will be.

His background is very unusual and his manner of being admitted to CC is just as odd. After being turned down by 400 colleges and universities throughout the nation, Oscar came to CC, as a last resort, seeking admission. Dean Matthews, former Olympic Decathlon Champion, turned him down flat. Thus discouraged, Studentski sneaked into Adm. Trill's office.

After a few minutes, the ex-admiral woke up without taking his feet off the desk, spotted Oscar and growled, "How did you get in here?" "Why, I walked in," answered our friend. "Good," said Trill. After listening to his story, Admiral Trill told Studentski, "H—, why didn't you come here first and save yourself a lot of trouble. Sure we'll take you."

That was nearly four years ago. Today, still a freshman, Studentski has left this record at CC. He is still just barely flunking all his courses, but numerous attempts to have him thrown out of school, have met with vetoes from the head man.

When contacted for his viewpoints on the matter, Studentski exploded with, "Thim people jest don't 'preciate me. Sumday Ah'll gradyate (maybe) and then they'll be sorry. Hyar ah've shown moah intrist in the school than its done fer me. But youse guys jest wait."

Looking for ride to New York or Pennsylvania. Will share expenses. Contact Ed Mathias, Beta House or Main 6747-J.

Well, we can disregard what Oscar has to say and see just what he has done for dear ole CC. He began his first year by knocking over the bomb-tube, after CC had scored its first touchdown of the season, and the bomb hit on the quarterback in the rear, where it exploded.

Later, he dropped his coat on the ice at the Broadmoor which caused a pile up of GC's front line, and put them out of commission for the season. But Oscar hasn't been all destructive.

He has attempted to enter practically every organization on the campus, but just hasn't got what it takes. There's one in every crowd, they say, so I guess we'll just have to get along with our here at Colorado College.

Trill Announces Success of New Policies

Admiral Trill, new president of Colorado College, announced today that the drastic changes in the curriculum for the last year had been a success. Trill said, "It is time we had a change around this school. It was getting so a man couldn't get an education without an I.D. Bob Voshall, character member of the C.C. Temperance League, also expressed approval of this action.

Most outstanding was the notable increase in scholastic attainment due to the much needed change in the instruction schedule.

Dr. Stabler was especially congratulated for his course in beginning cello and intermediate violin stringing. Also active in the music department was Dean Mathias who instructed in piano despite obvious handicaps. Both professors were ably assisted by Senior Andre Gambucci.

The most successful athletic season that CC has ever had was concluded last week with the winning of the Inter-Egyptian Pyramid Climbing contest. Dr. Henry Carter and Dr. Louis Knapp were awarded individual medals. The Venezuelan Inter-Collegiate Voodoo Open was captured by a strong CC team. Juan Reid was coach and captain. CC's Snowshoe and Redding crew failed to participate in the Norwegian Bellywhopper Invitational due to a mixup in train schedules, according to a wire received from Tiajuana, Mexico.

CAMPUS BRIEFS

By Dirty Incschlynger

Things are really popping at CC this week. Many long promised improvements are now a rarity. The quiet, studious inhabitants of Hagerman will now be able to study after the sun sets. Believe it or not, the administration has finally put in electric lights. Since Admiral Trill gave his approval of gambling in Hagerman the city has installed Roulette Wheels, Dice Tables and Slot Machines. Watch your money fellows.

There have also been a number of improvements in Palmer which all of the students are taking advantage of. Last week the installation of escalators was finally completed. This has caused a profound decrease of cuts in classes on the second and third floors.

It is really amazing how few students now have those "Before Test Blues". Perhaps this is because there is now BEER in the drinking fountains. It is believed that the new grading system may also be a cause. This new grading system states that no one can flunk a course as long as he has attended class once, regardless of test grades. This system has also caused a change in the cut policy so that it now states: No student is required to attend any class more than once a semester, and students wishing an extension of vacation, before or after, may be excused during the two weeks preceding and following.

SHOWER ROOM SHORTS

By FILL SPECIAL

Yes, fans, this is the time when the big time collegiate football teams move to the southern part of the country for spring training. Down here in the French Quarter of Mexico City we find that the Tejon Tech. Tibers have opened full drill (from bar to bar). Coach Lice has been putting the boys through pretty tough drills lately. The boys head for the bars at night so they can sweat easier in the daytime drills.

Coach Lice hasn't discovered this little oddity but in a short interview the other morning, Coach Lice said he smelled something rotten in Denmark. Yes sir, football is here and I am glad.

The brightest spot in this year's Tiber team is Babyface O'Toole who is playing his first year with the Tiber club. O'Toole has had ten years' football experience with the Philadelphia Eagles. Coach Lice told us this morning that, "with a bit of seasoning the boy (he is only 39) should come along with out too much difficulty."

Tiber trainer, Tom Collins, has been kept busy by the Tibers. Mr. Collins believes that this year's club should be real hot dogs, what with their 63 scholarship boys on the field.

This afternoon we had the opportunity to interview Peter Tchimperle, ace quarterback who came from Illinois University upon hearing that the drinking code had been tossed to the winds. Tchimperle said, "Man, this training is great. These two hours of practice cause of lack of space, only a few can be listed. Fans, this year we find that Coach Lice has some good positions in line for his deserving boys. From where we sit the job of sweeping row 14, section E in the west section of Scrubburn Field is about the toughest job. We hope these jobs will not take up too much of their time.

Flash!—Coach Lice just issued a bulletin concerning some of the holdout players. He announced that John Petruskevich has definitely turned down the Tejon Tech. offer and will take the Illinois U. offer of 10,000 skins to play for the fighting Illini.

The Tibers will have an inter-squad game following a cocktail hour this weekend. It is hoped that some of you fans back in the Springs will come down here to French Quarters in Mexico City and join us for a few rounds.

That's all for now fans, stick with this column to find all Tiber information. Let's support this year's club, fans. They are a bunch of good sports (they play a good game of cards also).

Springs Baseball, Inc. Buys Chicago Cubs

Chicago Cubs Sold To Baseball Inc.

By Caswell Ineschlynger

Colorado Springs Baseball, Inc., announced today that they had recently bought the Chicago Cubs in a rather underhanded deal last February 30. The switch of the Major League club to the Rockies Hills resort area is somewhat of a surprise to baseball world.

CASWELL INESCHLYNGER

The new hall team, the Colorado Springs Cubs, will arrive here in the spring late in July to open the ball season. Officials announced this morning that all tickets for the entire season had been completely sold out.

The biggest surprise to you fans of course is that three of the Tejon Tech Tibers will be signing with the Cubs. This surprise statement was announced by Bob Catealls, ace Tiber hurler, who came up to the Tibers from the Arizona farm club where he had a 30-2 record last year. He announced that he was holding out for a 1000 dollars but that the other boys had signed their contracts and had left for spring training in Pueblo.

shown more enthusiasm ever since the "B" club opened its swinging doors to the boys.

Don Pebble led the Tibers in the victory over Indiana. Pebble hit the hoop for 32 points. His fancy footwork was the main point in the Tiber's defense, offense too.

Archie Yelkinski followed Pebble in scoring with nine points, in contrast we see that Pebble was obviously the only man to do much ball handling. West Clocks was the big gun under the baskets for the Tibers as he took the ball from the opposition many times, his foul play was perhaps the best it has ever been this year.

Tibers Leave for Pennsylvania Relays Sponsored by Browns Business College

By INDESCENT INESCHLYNGER

Tejon Tech, thinclads leave by plane tonight to fly to the Penn Relays which are to be held in Illinois this year as a result of a few bad feelings towards Penn U. after last year's meet. This year's meet proves to be a success, sponsored by Browns Business College of Peoria. All the big clubs from all over the universe will be represented as the records go on trial once again. It is believed that more than one record will fall in the "run for the brewer-ies". The Penn Relays will host some fine athletes which will be given temporary living quarters in the Pabst brewery. If the scribes out here know what they are talking about, it is almost certain that the hundred yard dash will be broken by Len Cider who has been said to run the race in nine flat. The century record for the Penn Relays is 9:01.11. It is almost certain that the hurdles record will be broken in fine fashion by Larry Crumpleton who did the highs in eight flat last year. The mile run seems to be safe, for none of the entrants have broken into a five minute mile. The record is five and a half minutes.

Coach Chedder Cheese of the Tiber squad said the other day that he was counting on at least eight of the first place trophies.

The squad will go to the Drake Relays at Penn University the following week and then must cancel their overseas trip to return to the college for an intramurals track meet.

Tejon Tech Are Tops, Beat Indiana, 92-48

By Otto Ineschlynger

Tejon Tech. Institute moved one step closer to the Big Ten conference basketball title last night by knocking off the favorites from Indiana U., 92-48. Tejon Tech. fell behind as the game opened but a 72 point second half spelled victory for the Tibers.

As a result of the game the Tibers were boosted to first place in the nation by the American Association of Freeloaders. The Freeloaders met Tuesday at Hoolihans' Hungarian restaurant in New York for their unanimous decision.

Coach "Red" Westgain, Tiber mentor had this to say, "The crew is looking better every game but I think it is mainly because of the new lounge set up for them by some of the team members. The club meets in the bar on the corner of Tejon and Platte. The boys have

Programs on KKTV and KVVU Feature CC Talent and News

If you haven't seen or heard the Colorado College programs on KKTV and KVVU you are missing some first rate entertainment. Radio and TV stations in Colorado Springs have given the college magnificent cooperation. At present CC is heard over KVVU on the Saturday afternoon "Colorado College Hour", aired at 3:00 p.m., and has a TV show over KKTV on Tuesday evenings at 8:30, and on Wednesdays at 9:30 p.m.

The Saturday radio hour features sports, music, and varieties presented informally by students who have intimate knowledge of the subjects. Some of them also work on the KKTV shows. These televised programs have drawn many favorable comments, some from as far away as Las Animas.

The Tuesday TV show began March 17 with a program on the "Principles of Design in Art." Carol J. Feldstad, assistant professor of art history, with students Judy Clave and Ray Scherer, used paintings and on-the-spot sketches to present a fascinating story of the subject. The art story was concluded on last Tuesday's tele-class TV show. Future Tuesday tele-class shows will feature other arts and sciences presented by the well known CC authorities on their subjects.

Wednesday evening CC's TV Tiger Review show presents "Personalities and Varieties" that have been enthusiastically received by TV fans. Bill Peters has been emceeing the program, with Tom Freund and Dot Tucker, all of KROC, handling the production. Last Wednesday night's show featured the theme "April in Paris." Bill Peters, Lynn Wigley and Michael Corday entertained along with fourteen lovely Kappa co-eds showing the latest fashions from ten local department stores. Next Wednesday's show will feature the production number "Lizzy Borden" with Judy Avery, Paul Trietsch and Brook Kindred as the leads, and a cast of twenty. To be seen on future KKTV shows will be Drs. Stabler and Hawley with their hunting falcons; geologists Fischer, Pearl and Gould; Dean Juan Reid to tell about chess, and many others.

Another CC TV program now rehearsing is "Tele-Story Time" which will have talented Rosy Musgrave, Jan Keefer, and Martha Kirtley, assisted by grade-school children in singing and acting out stories. The first group of children participating will be from the Cheyenne School.

All this activity stems from the background of experience garnered by Colorado College students in their radio and drama classes, who have worked closely with KROC-FM.

The college station broadcasts 15 hours a week and presents a complete opera on Fridays at 8 p. m., along with many hours of fine music. Walter Ament's has furnished all the music heard on the college station. Now in its second year it has logged nearly 2,000 hours of broadcasting.

Dunton Replaces Harrison As CC Honor Council Prexy

Tom Dunton of Minneapolis, Minnesota has been elected to succeed Moses Harrison as president of the Colorado College Honor Council, and B. J. Trotter of Mission, Kansas will replace Sue McMillian as secretary, it was announced last week by an Honor Council spokesman. Dunton is a member of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity, president of the junior class, and a letterman in basketball and baseball in addition to his Honor Council duties. He has been a member of the council since his freshman year.

Tiger Club Initiates 20 New Members

At a recent Tiger Club meeting twenty new members who were tapped a week before were initiated. The girls who are now active members of the women's pep organization on campus are the following: Judy Avery, Sue Beer, Betty Broadbent, Jane Carroll, Judy Clave, Jan Colley, Dot Harrison, Helen Haye, Sue Liggett, Carol Northcutt, Patsy Reeves, Robin Rowles, Lowell Sharpe, Jody Shattuck, Marilyn Smith, Sue Steerman, Dee Thaxton, Kim Timberlake, Margie Tucker, and Carol Weinert.

At the same time it was announced that the assemblyman elected by members of every academic class here at CC will meet in the Pit of Palmer Hall Tuesday evening at 7:00 o'clock to elect new members to fill the vacancies created by the graduation of seven of its present members. The seven graduating in June are: Bob Voshall, Sue McMillian, Emily Howe, George Humada, George Abbott, Hiram Liggett, and Ted Gould.

New members will work with president Dunton, Moses Harrison, Ray Scherer, Gail Lund, and B. J. Trotter.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

When I heard all the complaints registered against the honor system in class meetings it was difficult for me to conceal my contempt. The arguments which were advanced were of such a nature as to reflect the complete immaturity of college students, in fact, adolescence. It shocked me to learn that there were a surprising number of students who not only disbelieved in the honor system but also refused to support it.

And as I listened to each one expound on why the honor system was unworkable I thought of an article which appeared in a recent magazine. The subject was concerned with the causes, the reasons, why students cheated. If some of the students in this school had read the article I am certain that not one would have been daring enough to even open his mouth. In essence it was a study made of students who had cheated. It revealed that the fault of poor home training was the root of the problem. Parents, due to an obvious moral retreat so prevalent today, no longer emphasize honesty and integrity in their children. They make a mockery of their own cheating, on income tax or on bills and even boast of "how they pulled a fast one."

Maybe the students who scoff at honor would do well to look at themselves too. Perhaps the fact that they refuse to uphold an honor system is due to their own lack of honor which they failed to obtain in their earlier years. In fact, by their own arguments they admit that they have no honor themselves, that honor is impossible because of human nature. Lastly, that it is their parent's fault and their own fault that they are so blind that they cannot find in themselves, or others, any semblance of a thing called honor.

But despite these weak and pathetic people who would demolish our honor system, the honor system is here to stay. Because it is strong, because it is better than any other system it will always remain a bulwark against the puny blows of the forces of dissension.

Your SCHOLARSHIPS

By LARRY RICHMAN

The first two columns of this new feature have introduced to you the more outstanding CC scholarships. There are numerous others, just as worthy of your attention, but not as well known, or perhaps restricted in some way. If you can meet qualifications for these scholarships, you probably have a better chance to secure aid from them than from the more publicized ones. Incoming students Apply to Dean Mathias; students already enrolled see Dean Reid or Dean Morgan. Don't let these opportunities for financial help slip by just because you don't think you have a chance. The money is there for your use, and is wasted if you don't take advantage of it.

The Edith Barker Scholarship—Financed by a $100-a-year gift. Awards that amount to a girl, in memory of the mother of Mrs. Dorothy MacLean, class of '25.

The Carpenter's Scholarship—Awards varied amounts for tuition to needy students. $552 endowment.

The CC Club of Denver Scholarship—From a $3,000 endowment, approximately $100 income to a woman from Denver.

The Contemporary Club of Denver Scholarship—Awards varied amounts to members of the Kappa Alpha Theta sorority, from a $500 endowment.

The Sarah Frances H. Cowles Foundation—Gives amounts, adjusted at the discretion of the college, to two women at the end of their freshman year, for the remainder of their college course, from an annual gift of $2,500 or $3,000.

ASCC NOTES

By SUE PFEIFFER

In Student Council March 23, a report was given as to what should be classified as a "school activity." The committee presented a list of six activities which they felt should require a 2.0 average and could obtain a grant-in-aid scholarship. The six activities are: Women's Inter-Collegiate Sports; Publications (Tiger, Kinnikinnik and Nugget); Debate; Student Government (ASCC; WAA; QA; WAS; and Honor Council); Enthusiasm (Cheerleaders); and Band. The council passed these activities and submitted them to CUL for approval.

Anyone interested in being prosecutor or enthusiasm chairman is requested to apply by April 13. The prosecutor's job is to conduct the trials for ASCC. Enthusiasm chairman will take over homecoming. Assistants to these jobs are to apply by April 21.

The council elected Chuck Hawley as publications chairman for 1953-54.

Council on Student Travel Announces European Trips

New York—The Council on Student Travel (179 Broadway, New York), announced recently two major round-trip sailings to Europe for students and teachers this summer. The S.S. Arosa Kulm, which made several trips last summer for the Council, will sail from Quebec for London, Le Harve and Bremerhaven June 9 and July 4; return sailings will leave Bremerhaven August 11 and September 2 for London, Le Harve and Quebec.

The Council also has reserved space for students and teachers on a number of other sailings of the Arosa Kulm from May through September, and bookings are now being made on all these sailings.

One-way fares on the Arosa Kulm are $150 for space in dormitories for six to 14, and $160 and $165 for space in cabins for two, three and four.

As in past years the Council will sponsor an educational and recreational program for student travelers. The educational program on the eastbound voyage is directed toward orienting students to Europe, and includes language classes, discussions on European history, politics, art, and culture. On the return voyage students will discuss and evaluate their summer experiences.

The Council furnishes a library, a collection of records, both classical and popular, sports and game equipment, and a selection of movies. In addition to the traditional shipboard pastimes such as chess, checkers, bridge, ping-pong and shuffleboard, there will be movies, dancing, talent shows, and many other special programs.

The Council on Student Travel is composed of 37 national educational and religious organizations, including the Student International Travel Association which Dr. Brandt represents, and its purpose is to encourage and facilitate international student travel. Since 1947 the Council has provided special transportation to Europe for students during the summer when low-cost accommodations of regular transportation facilities were overcrowded.

CC Museum In Palmer Now Exhibiting Pottery from the American Southwest

The Colorado College Museum in Palmer Hall on the CC campus is currently exhibiting a special selection of Indian pottery from the American southwest. William W. Postlethwaite, director of the museum, states that, "the exhibit is a very comprehensive collection from the Rio Grande pueblos, south from Taos to Santa Ana, and from Acoma and Zuni, with a few typical pieces from the Hopi country in Arizona."

"These ollas, or jars, are mostly from the modern period, since 1920, with a few from the beginning of the century."

"Aside from tourist trade wares and pottery specially entered for competitions at the annual Indian fairs at Santa Fe and Gallup; New Mexico, and Flagstaff, Arizona, comparatively few pieces are made now for home use. The galvanized bucket has taken the place of the beautiful pottery of twenty years ago."

The college pottery is shown against a background of brightly colored Navajo blankets, the central one being a so-called "Yei-bi-chai" or "Ceremonial" blanket, containing large dance figures. The name is misleading since they are not used in rituals, but came into vogue from a desire on the part of the weaver to show forms of deities in woven materials.

The exhibit was arranged with the assistance of Shirley Adair, and Patricia Carter, student museum attendants. The museum is open Monday through Friday from 8:30 to noon, and from 1:30 to 4:30 p. m., and on Saturday mornings from 8:30 to 12:00.

Dr. Mierow, Former Colo. Col. President Publishes Third Translation of Latin Work

"The Deeds of Frederick Barbarossa", the first English translation of a twelfth century Latin work by Bishop Otto of Freising, by Dr. Charles C. Mierow, professor of biography at Carleton College, Northfield, Minnesota, was published March 21, by the Columbia University Press. The book is a biographical study by Frederick's uncle, Bishop Otto of Freising and his continuator, Rahewin. It is the most important single source for the reign of Frederick Barbarossa and the most valuable biographical study of the twelfth century. The translation is annotated and there is a full introduction by Professor Mierow. The volume is included in the series "Records of Civilization" being published by the Columbia University Press.

The translation covers the first twelve years of the reign of Emperor Frederick I, king of Germany and northern Italy. It is an outstanding contribution in the field of medieval history. The book is Professor Mierow's third translation. "The Gothic History of the Jordanes" was published by the Princeton University Press in 1915 and "The Two Cities," the translation of a work by Bishop Otto of Freising was published in 1928 by the Columbia University Press. He has had five other books published besides his translations.

Dr. Mierow has spent some 24 years in preparing the translation. It was begun in 1917 and completed in 1941 when publication was delayed because of the war-time lack of paper.

Dr. Mierow has been at Carleton College since 1934 as Professor of Biography, the first such chair in the academic world. It is supported by the Ambrose White Vernon Foundation, whose purpose is "to foster the study of great men in a free, humanistic manner."

Before coming to Carleton he had served as president of Colorado College, for a nine year period. He has honorary doctorates from the University of Denver, University of Colorado and Colorado College. He went to Colorado College in 1916 as professor of classical languages.

Previously he had spent 14 years at Princeton University, seven as a student receiving his BA, MA and PhD degrees, and as an instructor of classics. He is listed in Who's Who in America and is a member of Phi Beta Kappa. Professor Mierow received his doctor's degree from Princeton magna cum laude.

His popularity as a teacher at Carleton was demonstrated in the fall of 1951 when Carleton stu-

State Dept. Announces Foreign Service Exams

The U. S. Department of State has recently announced the annual examination for appointment as Class 6, Foreign Service Officer. The examination will be held Sept. 14-17, 1953 at the following places: Atlanta, Boston, Chicago, Cincinnati, Dallas, Denver, Detroit, Honolulu, Los Angeles, New Orleans, New York, Philadelphia, St. Louis, St. Paul, Salt Lake City, San Francisco, San Juan, P. R., Seattle, Washington, D. C., and at American Diplomatic posts and consulates abroad.

Appointments are made in the $4,000 to $5,000 per annum salary range after successful completion of written, oral, and physical examinations. Candidates must be at least 20 and under 31 years of age as of July 1, 1953, a citizen of the United States for at least 10 years, and if married, married to an American citizen.

The duties of foreign service officers include: negotiation with foreign officials, political reporting, economic reporting in such fields as labor, finance, transportation and communications, commercial reporting and trade promotion, agricultural reporting, issuance of passports and visas, and development of cultural and informational programs.

Applications should be forwarded to the Board of Examiners for the Foreign Service, U. S. Department of State, Washington 25, D. C., so as to arrive not later than the close of business July 1, 1953. Application forms and literature are available at Professor Mertz's office, West Hall 2.

Job Opportunities Are Offered by Civil Service

Uncle Sam continues to offer good job opportunities in the professions. This year's graduates with training in scientific, engineering, and other professional fields will be needed for vital research and development work. This year's sophomores and juniors, with training in these fields, will be needed for summer work. These needs will exist in many federal installations right here in Colorado, New Mexico, Utah, and Wyoming.

Applications for these positions are now being accepted. The procedure is simple. Your college placement officer, your nearest first- or second-class postoffice, or the 13th U. S. Civil Service Regional Office in Denver, will give you a copy of the announcement. The post offices and the Civil Service Regional Office, and some college placement offices, can give you the necessary application form.

Persons appointed will alternate work and study in one of the above fields under one of two plans: the college educational plan, or the summer employment plan. Under the college educational plan a student alternates at designated intervals during the year between academic college instruction in residence at a participating college and work-experience training at one of the federal establishments conducting a Student Trainee Aid program. Under the summer employment plan a student is employed only during the summer vacation period and attends college during the entire regular college term.

Anyone interested in taking these Civil Service exams should consult the Counseling Center. The Center also has available the Occupational Handbook, and anyone who is interested in using it may do so Monday or Tuesday afternoons.

Easter Bunny Visits Ticknor Kiddie Party

Ticknor Hall will be the scene of an Easter egg hunt planned for 12 children from the Christian Home. The party will be held Saturday between the hours of 3 and 4:30 p. m. ## Guenther Rinsche To Speak for CC German Club

Guenther Rinsche, a student at CC from Ahomelle, Germany, will be in charge of the April meeting of the German club to be held Tuesday evening, April 14, in the Hayes House Library at 7:30 p. m. All members and friends of the German club are invited to attend this meeting.

A question and answer period will follow the talk of Guenther and German folk songs will be sung to the accompaniment of a guitar.

Then there's the student who lived off campus and got thrown out of his room when his landlady heard him drop his shoes on the floor twice.

Then there was the girl who was so lazy she wouldn't even exercise discretion.

"I hear you and the leading lady are feuding."

Electrician: "Yes. It was a quick-change scene with the stage all dark. . . . She asked for her tights and I thought she said lights."

Herbert Gallagher, athletic director and coach at Northwestern, was chosen president of the club, succeeding Cheddy Thompson of Colorado College.

Coach Thompson was named to the board of governors with Duke Nelson of Middlebury, Cliff Purper of North Dakota and Eddie Jeremiah of Dartmouth.

The association also voted to recommend to the NCAA hockey rules committee that two eastern representatives in the annual tournament be chosen from teams with the best record against 12 major schools.

To be eligible a team must play at least eight games against six schools in the 12. The plan was adopted on the recommendation of Bill Harrison.

BROADMOOR TO HOST NCAA MEET; BOSTON GARDEN IS TURNED DOWN

The American Hockey Coaches Association announced that the recommendation of the 1954 hockey finals be held in the "Springs" was voted into effect.

The Boston Gardens had been considered but it was not available at the time in which the tourney is slated. The coaches agreed that the tournament must be held about the second week in March because the season ends the first week of March.

The coaches also voted to start a posthumous honorary membership, similar to the Hall of Fame for persons aiding or playing hockey.

The bid for the Boston arena was turned down because of the time that the arena would be available and also because it was in doubt as whether any place in the Boston area could offer the support, room and board, for the visiting teams, as did the Broadmoor.

College Coeds Make Survey of Home Accidents

College girls hope to have made the home in Colorado Springs by learning number of kinds of home accidents suffered here last year in a switch with the usual sorority initiation ceremonies.

Pledges of the four sororities at Colorado College conducted a two-day door-to-door survey of households last week in a civic gesture to learn facts about home accidents in 1952, according to Miss Connie Cover, president of the Pan-Hellenic Association of CC.

In one of the broadest block-block canvasses of its type, about 15 per cent of the residents of this city will be asked the number and kind of accidents suffered in the home last year and the treatment required by 92 pledges.

An answer to the question, what is the greatest safety need in our city? will be sought under the program worked in conjunction with the Colorado Springs Safety Council.

John Stream, executive secretary of the council, pointed out that most home surveys only reach 10 to 15 per cent of the population, though this door-bell ringing will query more than 6,700 people.

In essence, the safety council wants to know the number of injuries in and about the home which required first aid or other medical attention during 1952.

Miss Cover said, "We are doing something new in working with the community on constructive projects to become more a part of the community and have better cooperation among the sororities."

A tabulation of results will be made by the safety council to determine source of most home accidents and seriousness of injury arising from burns, falls, cuts, shocks and other mishaps.

"The World Rebuilt" Sent to Foreign Pupils

This week thousands of foreign students across America are receiving copies of an ideological handbook THE WORLD REBUILT by Peter Howard, well-known journalist. The book is being sent on the initiative of American students who feel that the 32,000 foreign students studying in this country are "unofficial ambassadors" destined to become leaders in their own nations, and as such are a potential force for the unity of the free world.

"The World Rebuilt," which embodies the philosophy of Moral Re-Armament, has been translated into nine languages and published in Great Britain, Germany, Italy, Brazil, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Switzerland, The Netherlands, Canada and the United States, in editions totaling over 600,000.

In West Germany and West Berlin all 152,000 university students received copies at the time when many observers believed German youth to be nihilistic and apathetic. Students themselves took the initiative and wrote to their fellow students: "This book has opened our eyes to the ideological struggle in which we are involved today. It showed that we are not left with the choice between world war and world dictatorship, but that we can have a part to unite the West and win the East." Five thousand copies went into the Russian zone and were passed from hand to hand.

Alpha Kappa Psi Donates Clock For Palmer Hall

The Colorado College chapter of Alpha Kappa Psi, national business fraternity, has donated a large electric clock to the college as a token of appreciation, former President Bob Voshall announced. The gift was installed over the central stairs in Palmer Hall.

The business fraternity has 33 student and three faculty members on the CC campus, while some 90 Alpha Kappa Psi alumni make their home in Colorado Springs.

In elections held last Saturday Tom Freund replaced Bob Voshall as president; George Chamberlin took over the vice presidency from Tom Freund; Secretary Henry Royer gave way to Boyd Peterson; and Bill Winkler took over for Treasurer Mel Kensinger. Dr. Kenneth Curran and Professor Paul Jones are faculty advisors.

The purpose of the fraternity is to assist business and economics majors in their future careers. Field trips and exhibits, such as the recent Burrough's Business Machine Show, seminars, and talks by local business authorities all help advance the program.

This Wednesday evening, March 25, the featured speaker will be Edward M. Groth, veteran State Department official who will give a talk on Africa, illustrated with color slides. All Alpha Kappa Psi alumni are cordially invited.

IF YOU CAN WIN

THESE WINGS YOU CAN EARN OVER $5,000 A YEAR AFTER GRADUATION

Important facts about the opportunities for YOU as a Commissioned Officer—Pilot or Aircraft Observer—in the United States Air Force

Must I be a college graduate to take Aviation Cadet Training?

No. But you must have completed a minimum of 60 semester hours or 90 quarter hours toward a degree. In addition, under the new Aviation Cadet training program, you must be between the ages of 19 and 26½ years, unmarried, and in good physical condition—with high requirements for eyes, ears, heart and teeth.

How long before I get my commission?

60 calendar weeks. You will receive the finest aviation training in the world—training that not only equips you to fly modern military aircraft but prepares you for executive and administrative work as well. At the completion of your training, you will have acquired a commission as a 2nd Lieutenant and the coveted silver wings of the United States Air Force.

Where do I take my training?

Pre-flight training will be at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas. Primary, basic and advanced training will be taken at any one of the many Air Force bases located throughout the South and Southwest.

What happens if I flunk the training course?

Every effort is made to help students whose progress is unsatisfactory. You can expect extra instructions and whatever individual attention you may require. However, if you fail to complete the course as an Aviation Cadet, you will be required to serve a two-year enlistment to fulfill the minimum requirement under Selective Service laws. Veterans who have completed a tour of military service will be discharged upon request if they fail to complete the course.

What pay do I get as an Aviation Cadet? And after?

As an Aviation Cadet you draw $109.20 a month pay. In addition, you get summer and winter uniforms, flight clothes, equipment, food, housing, medical and dental care and insurance . . . all free. After you are commissioned a 2nd Lieutenant you will be earning $5,300.00 a year—with unlimited opportunities for advancement.

Are all Aviation Cadets trained to be Pilots?

No. You can choose between becoming a Pilot or an Aircraft Observer. Men who choose the latter will become commissioned officers in Navigation, Bombardment, Radar Operation, or Aircraft Performance Engineering.

Do Aircraft Observers get flying training, too?

Yes. Aircraft Observer Cadets receive approximately 200 hours of "in the air" instructions. The primary phase of Aircraft Observer training is the same for all branches (navigation, bombardment, etc.). The basic and advanced phases of training vary, depending on the specific course you pursue.

What kind of airplanes will I fly?

You will fly jets. The Pilot Cadet takes his first instructions in a light, civilian-type plane of approximately 100 horsepower, then graduates to the 600 horsepower T-6 "Texan" before receiving transition training in jets. You then advance gradually until you are flying such famous first-line aircraft as F-86 Sabre, F-89 Scorpion, B-47 Stratojet, B-50 Superfortress. Observer Cadets take flight instructions in the C-47 Dakota, the T-28 Convair, and the TB-50 Superfortress before advancing to first-line aircraft such as the F-89 Scorpion, B-47 Stratojet.

Will my commission be in the Regular Air Force or Reserve?

Aviation Cadet graduates, both Pilots and Aircraft Observers, get Reserve commissions as 2nd Lieutenants and become eligible to apply for a regular Air Force Commission when they have completed 18 months of active duty.

How long must I remain in Service?

After graduation from the Aviation Cadet Program, you are tendered an indefinite appointment in the United States Air Force Reserve and are called to active duty with the United States Air Force for a period of three years.

What recreation and leisure time will I have as a Cadet?

Discipline will be rigid—especially for the first few weeks. However, it is not all work. You'll find swimming pools, handball courts, movies and other forms of recreation on the post.

Where will I be stationed when I get my commission?

You may be stationed anywhere in the world . . . Hawaii, Far East, Europe, Puerto Rico, elsewhere. During your tour of duty, you will be in close touch with the latest developments in new flying techniques. You will continue to build up your flying experience and later should have no difficulty securing a CAA commercial pilot or navigator rating.

Your future is assured if you can qualify! Here's what to do:

- 1 Take a transcript of your college credits and a copy of your birth certificate to your nearest Air Force Base or Recruiting Station. Fill out the application they give you.
- 2 If application is accepted, the Air Force will arrange for you to take a physical examination at government expense.
- 3 Next, you will be given a written and manual aptitude test.
- 4 If you pass your physical and other tests, you will be scheduled for an Aviation Cadet training class. The Selective Service Act allows you a four-month deferment while waiting class assignment.

Experiment Plan Provides Opportunity to Live Abroad

Transportation has been secured for 510 young people expected to go abroad this summer with The Experiment in International Living, which has one of the largest programs of some 200 non-profit organizations in the student travel field. Going abroad to get to know one country well at the person-to-person level, rather than to tour in many countries, experimenters will live on five different sailings between June 15 and July 4.

Under The Experiment Plan, carefully selected young people, 16 to 30, travel in mixed groups of 10 members, each with a well-qualified leader. They spend one month living as members of separate families, and the second month exploring other regions of the country in the company of the U.S. group members and their young hosts. During the homestay period, experimenters share in everyday family life, taking occasional trips to local points of interest such as the cheese markets in Holland; the Croatian Parliament in Yugoslavia; the coal mines in England; the Fiat automobile factory in Italy. The second month features hosting and camping trips: in Norway, experimenters will camp and climb in the northern region; French experimenters may host through the Chateaux country of the Loire; Mexican groups may travel by boat to the Mayan ruins in Yucatan; German groups may choose the Black Forest as their camping site.

All experimenters spend a week in a capitol city such as Paris or London, and all European experimenters who qualify may travel independently for a week.

1953 experimenters will go to Austria, Belgium, Denmark, England, France, Germany, Holland, Italy, Mexico, Norway, Peru, Scotland, Spain, Sweden and Yugoslavia. For the first time, groups will also go to Finland and Ireland. Both high school and college groups will be sent to all countries with the exception of Austria, Denmark, Finland, Italy, Norway, Spain and Yugoslavia, which will only receive experimenters 19 years of age and over.

Average costs for Europe run from $715 to $765; Mexico, $380; Peru, $790, (estimated). Applications for experiment membership can be accepted through June 1, but it is to the student's advantage to apply now.

Experimenters will leave for India sometime in October to spend four months in a program similar to the summer plan. Applications for this group can be accepted through October 1. Estimated cost: $1300.

Address inquiries to Director of Admissions, The Experiment in International Living, Putney, Vermont, or see your College Experiment Representative, Mr. John R. Wheat, 1105 N. Nevada Ave.

Founded in 1932 by Donald B. Watt to build up in various countries groups of people interested in creating mutual respect and understanding between their own and other countries, The Experiment since 1950 has been directed by Gordon Boyce. In the past 21 years The Experiment has provided some 6,000 students with the way to make enduring friendships in 25 countries, Asia and the three Americas.

12th Annual National Convention of NISA At Purdue University

The twelfth annual National Convention of the National Independent Students' Association will be held at Purdue University, April 22-25. Over 400 delegates from independent groups throughout the nation's colleges and universities are expected to attend the convention.

The three-day conference has as its purpose to formulate a national program for the NISA, exchange ideas and information on Independent activities throughout the nation and to promote a feeling of "esprit de corps" among the independent students.

The theme for the convention will be "The Independent and the Extracurricular Program." The discussion leaders will be provided by the University of Illinois. Emphasis will be on discovering ways by which the NISA can be of help to the local organization in carrying out their individual programs.

The convention schedule includes business sessions, discussion group meetings, committee meetings, a reception, banquets, speakers, and regional meetings.

Among the speakers will be Dr. H. Roe Bartle of Kansas City who served 16 years as national president of Alpha Omega, national service fraternity.

One of the highlights of the convention will be at the Coronation Ball, a dance for the delegates, at which time the crowning of the National Independent Sweetheart will take place. Lita Gartner, convention chairman, has announced that the entertainment will include the famed Purdue Glee Club, which sang for President Eisenhower's inauguration.

TIME PROBES THE EFFECTS ON CAMPUS OF CONGRESSIONAL INVESTIGATIONS

NEW YORK, April 7, 1953—What overall effect are the investigations having on the nation's colleges and universities? TIME, the weekly news magazine, sent nine news bureaus and 19 correspondents across the country after the answer. Their report appears in the April 13th issue of TIME. Few educators denied the right of Congress to investigate anything it pleases. No one was in a state of panic. "And yet," says TIME, "the climate of the campuses has already begun to change." The impact seems to have penetrated deeper than public opinion of the teaching profession; it has dug at the professors' confidence in their own profession and the students' confidence in their role as students.

"Caution" the New Watchword
"On campus after campus, the danger flags are out. At Michigan State, department heads have for the first time been asking their own political opinions. At the University of Pennsylvania a young physics instructor admitted that the only reason he would not join the liberal, non-Communist American Civil Liberties Union was that, 'I don't want A.C.L.U. on my record.' When a large Texas campus wanted to fire an incompetent teacher who happened to be a rabid anti-Communist, a professor warned the president that the firing would look like fellow-traveling to outsiders."

Says TIME, "the academic motto for 1953 is fast becoming: 'Don't say; don't write; don't go.'"

Students Affected As Well

The teachers are not alone in their attitude of caution. One dean reports that students are now reluctant to take part in liberal discussion, that healthy campus organizations are being abandoned to the radicals. Another dean states that the student out after a job may have new considerations for "employers ask searching questions, not about ability, resourcefulness, reliability, industry or integrity, as in the past, but also about the political and social attitudes of the applicant. . . ."

Significance of the Danger Signals

"To some extent, the caution is still something to joke about ('What, reading Communist literature again?' said a Princeton student on spotting a classmate with the New Republic.) But the jokes are not much more than a veneer." Says TIME, "U.S. educators have begun to wonder whether education is not losing its boldness."

Fines Doubled For Violators Not Paying Within 72 Hours

Due to laxity in the payment of traffic fines for violations of the traffic regulations on the Colorado College campus, the Committee on Undergraduate Life, at a recent meeting, adopted a regulation requiring that after April 20th all fines not paid within the 72 hours after the violation will be doubled. The committee also instructed the superintendent of the Buildings and Grounds to prohibit, after spring vacation, the entry of cars operated by students, faculty, and employees onto the west campus without the proper display of the car registration decal. Cars parked on any part of the college campus that do not display the registration decal will be issued a traffic violation ticket.

Cars owned and operated by students, faculty, or employees may be registered at the Secretary's office, Cutler Hall, and the attractive windshield decal is furnished the registrant without cost. The college has received authority from the local police and the Colorado State Patrol authorizing the display of the decal on the lower right-hand corner of the windshield of cars operated by Colorado College personnel.

FROM FRANCE

(Editor's Note: This is another letter received from Colorado College's foster child in France. It, of course, written in French, was translated by Carmen Eddy for publication.)

Dear Foster Parent:

What a lovely surprise I had when mother announced to me in returning from school, "Look, Jean Pierre, at the lovely package which arrived for you."

Quickly I opened it, and soon realized that it contained many good things. After having well examined all of it, I put the box in my closet and ate some of the good things from it each day. I assure you they were very delicious. Again I say with all my heart a big thanks for the package and also the check which I received this morning. I thank you with my nicest smile.

This week, without doubt, I will write another letter in which I will enclose the photos taken in Switzerland during my last holiday.

I will say goodbye now, and dear friends, I kiss you affectionately.

Your friend,
JEAN PIERRE.

The courtroom was packed by spectators who had gathered to hear the trial of a case in which an automobile owner was being sued for damages for having run over a pedestrian. The defense attorney told the jury that the owner had exercised due care and caution, "as a matter of fact, he was only going six miles an hour," he said.

Whereupon the plaintiff's attorney, addressing the jury said, "That's just it, think of the long agony of my poor client, the victim, as the car drove so slowly over him."

LET'S FACE IT

About three weeks ago the administration issued notice to the students and faculty that parking regulations were to be tightened and that car registration would be in effect. At the time, there were no protests of any magnitude. But suddenly this week the students became aroused in both Student Council and in class meetings over the subject of regulation. So it seemed in order to investigate the problem, and to find out who has the better argument.

Those who oppose placing parking decals on their cars complain that tickets issued by the city can now be traced to their true owner. Another contention is that there is no need for identification of student cars because of no real interference by townspeople infringing on the parking property of the college. And lastly, that it is only another means of regimentation imposed on the students. Essentially, then, the contention is that such regulations serve only as a nuisance and there are no conditions existing which warrant any parking stickers or regulations.

That automobile regulation is common procedure on most campuses and that CC is only late in adoption of such a policy. And the primary reason for its adoption is the obvious indifference to parking regulations around the campus.

Secondly, that one of the ideas behind this program is to protect students from abuses of parking due to non-students. The parking lot adjacent to Tiger Town has been the source of several complaints by students who object to townspeople parking there. Reid pointed out that the proposed parking lot near the new men's dorm would be subject to the same complaint.

Both faculty and students are required to register if they wish to park on the campus. But Reid said that it was not compulsory and students who do not wish to park on the campus need not obtain a sticker.

Summarily Reid maintains that protection and the necessity to enforce parking regulations require that some action be taken.

It would seem that the argument rests on the necessity for some semblance of parking regulation. To put it mildly, confusion reigns around the area of Cutler Hall, Cossitt and Hagerman Hall. No doubt the poor road conditions do not ease matters. But in any area of congestion there is a defined need for regulations for the benefit of everyone concerned. It would seem to be a matter of practicability and convenience rather than regimentation.

The gentleman was very inebriated. His white shirt front was smudged and his high silk hat hung on one ear. He seemed unhappy and had the look of utter frustration.

"Pardon me, sir," he said to a passerby, "What time is it?" "Eleven o'clock," the man replied.

"I must be losin' my mind," the drunk muttered. "Asked everybody the same question, and all even' long gettin' different answers!"

Scherer Thinks KRCC Could Be Better News Medium Than Tiger

Ray Scherer, editor of the Tiger, thinks that "my position provides a great opportunity and excellent experience for anyone who is interested in the field of journalism." Although he is a sociology major, Ray plans to work in the field of journalism and radio, after graduation from CC. As sports editor of the Tiger last year, Scherer gained the "inside dope" on how the Tiger was set up and operated. Now as editor, he "would like to make the publication better organized and more efficient." This means that he will "keep a staff organized to gain the best possible coverage of general news, campus news, and items of general interest to the students."

"I believe that pictures improve a newspaper immeasurably," adds Ray, "so we intend to use as many pictures as possible." Since taking over the Tiger, he has used more pictures per issue than any other editor in recent years.

Coming to CC as a freshman, Scherer claims Minneapolis, Minn., as his home town. Among his various campus activities, this quiet, lanky, serious-minded 22-year-old senior was publicity chairman for the 1952 Homecoming. He is a member of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity and is acting as fraternity historian this year.

As a freshman and sophomore, Ray played JV hockey, but an accident forced him to give up active participation in this event. During the past two years he has been a member of the Honor Council. But the activity which ranks right along with the Tiger in claiming Ray's time and efforts is KRCC, the college radio station.

Last year, Scherer accumulated 450 working hours for KRCC and acted as sports director, a position which he has again this year. In addition to this, Ray has a 15-

Pat Hand Receives Scholarship from Alpha Kappa Alpha

Pat Hand, a junior art major, has received a scholarship of $130.00 given by the Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority in Denver, it was recently announced by Dean Morgan. Pat was recognized by the Denver sorority for her scholarship and diligence with which she is working toward her degree.

From Darien, Conn., Pat attended the Art Student's League in New York for two years, and held a one man art show in Darien last fall before returning to Colorado College. She is a Delta Gamma, and is president of Bemis Hall.

way to allow more students to listen to the broadcast. Certain technical changes in the mechanism can enable the station to broadcast AM (regular broadcasting) to the campus. This would mean that any radio on the campus could be tuned in to KRCC and not just a handful of selected and placed radios."

"Programming could also be scheduled so as to cover all the daily news and social activities of the campus, which would, of course, steal much of the Tiger's thunder. Besides the station would then have much more popular appeal with the students, an well as giving those who work on the station more experience in announcing and programming," concluded Ray.

In any event, we are fortunate to have two such good mediums for spreading the campus news about. Most colleges have only a newspaper. We could, however, achieve greater coverage and have that coverage be of more general interest to the students in both mediums, as they now stand.

medium on the campus. However, there is no chance of this right now, as it is not organized and operated in a manner which would permit this."

When asked what he thought was wrong, Ray replied, that "for one thing, it has two few watts and too small a coverage to be effective. But since the station is set up this way, there is a

1953 AIRC European Study Tour Open to College Students

Once again the AIRC will conduct its European Study Tour which is open to all college students with an interest in international relations. The tour is a planned tour with seminars scheduled for Sheffield, London, Paris and Geneva, but allows ample free time for individual or group sight-seeing

ASCC NOTES

In the Student Council meeting of April 13, the council voted to hold class elections in the second full week or school of the first semester. Because of many complications, the council felt that it would be better to hold the elections in the fall rather than the spring.

QA presented the motion that all faculty members who require freshmen girl's participation in extra-curricular activities for the first semester be asked to submit a list of such participations to the administration for approval. This will pertain chiefly to dramatics and dance. The council passed the motion and it will go into effect next semester.

The representatives were asked to get an exact vote for and against the recent car sticker regulations from their organizations.

Elections were held and the following are the new Student Council officers: Leo Oyler, vice president; Anne Pinkney, secretary; Sue Pfeiffer, social chairman; Hill Howell, public relations; Sue Beer (chairman), Alex Duncan and Mitzi Knudson, election committee.

On June 9 a group of 25 students, together with the tour manager, will sail for Europe from Quebec. Arriving June 19 it will spend approximately a month in Britain which will be devoted to understanding Britain — its policies, history, political problems and social system. In addition to the scheduled seminars in Sheffield and London, side trips are planned to Stratford-on-Avon, Windsor Castle, Oxford, and the Houses of Parliament. One weekend will be spent with British and Continent students and there will be one week of free time to satisfy small group interests.

The group will proceed to Paris during the second week of July for a seminar on European-American relations, visits to Versailles and Rheims, plus a weekend with French students. In Geneva, tour members will attend a seminar conducted by the World Federation of United Nations Associations from July 28 to August 5 at the Palace of Nations. The United Nations Economic and Social Council will be meeting at the same time and many of the discussions will be led by members of the Council. The group will also attend meetings of the Council.

The remainder of August is spent in free time travel. Italy, Germany, Scandinavia, Belgium, the Netherlands and Yugoslavia (Continued on Page Seven)

FROM . . . CAMPUS to CAMPUS

ED NOTE—The following items, which are excerpts from various college newspapers, are printed here in the hopes that they will be of some interest to CC students. It is also hoped that this information will give CC students some idea of what is news on other campuses and that it might possibly be the stimulation of new ideas and new methods at CC. If you like this idea and would like to see more of this type of news, please let us know, and likewise, if you don't like it, we would like to know.

IDAHO STATE COLLEGE—The television department of Idaho State College has been conducting experiments to televize all parts of the campus. The TV department is now equipped to televize films and if power is available they can televize from any part of the campus without moving all the equipment from the main studios.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGE—Closing hours for women's houses at Kansas State College have been extended a half hour to 10:30 p. m. on weeknights. The ruling was made despite strong opposition from frosh coeds. The freshmen feared a time extension might hurt scholarship, result in less sleep. Upperclassmen had no such doubts—they voted for extension.

WYOMING UNIVERSITY—In a recent report from the Associated Collegiate Press, the Branding Iron (student newspaper) was rated first class (excellent) with a total of 955 points, which is only 45 points short of an All-American rating. The association as a whole was well pleased with the Branding Iron and wrote, "your journalism training is reflected in the professional style," and "you have made tremendous improvement in layout and typography."

KANSAS STATE TEACHERS COLLEGE—Kay Anderson and Karol Papes, first year debaters, in the eighth final round of debate at KU defeated the top team from Pueblo Junior College, the school that won the E-State Tourney last fall.

TULANE UNIVERSITY—Newcomb's annual Senior-Faculty Skit will kick off today at 4 p. m. in Dixon Hall. A four-act musical, the show will depict Newcomb professors as seen thru the eyes of their students.

IDAHO STATE COLLEGE—Big Rick Bauer, the Bengal's 6'6" center set a new NCAA record in the recent playoffs in Seattle against Seattle University. Bauer cleared the backboards 25 times during the contest to top the old record of 21 set by Kentucky's All-American Bill Spivy, in 1951.

Commenting on the object of the meeting, Marcia stated, "We were there to exchange ideas about making the AWS fulfill more completely its task of improving college life for women students." She expressed the wish that Colorado College coeds come see the AWS scrapbook, in which the convention is described, in the AWS room at Ticknor.

Georgia said, "The convention was inspirational not so much in tangible results as from the association with other girls active in AWS."

The ICAWS hold a national convention in the odd years and regional conferences in the even years.

TIGER BATSMEN OVERTURN MINES AS SNOW AND COLD ENDS GAME IN SEVENTH

Last week end Colorado College opened the baseball season in fine fashion with an 18-2 win over Colorado Mines. Tom Dunton, ace pitcher for the Tigers, put the Mines boys thru their paces as he won the first game of the year. Facing the cold mountain breezes and finally a small blizzard it could be said the game was more of an endurance contest than a baseball game. The umpires halted the game in the top of the seventh and the game was called a contest.

Mines' trouble at the plate plus their poor fielding was an evident factor in their loss.

Colorado College was hot at the plate with eleven hits. Tommy Reichart was the big gun for the Tigers as he got two hits and a walk in three times at bat. Lowell Slocum, Ed Robson, Wes Boucher, and Herman Schoebel also drew two hits apiece to put the Tigers on top.

The Tigers drew first blood in the initial inning with five runs. Reichart was the first to reach base. He was walked and then advanced to second on a stolen base. Lowell Slocum drove Reichart home and then Robson and Boucher followed suit. Slocum and Robson came home on Boucher's hit and Boucher was driven home by Jim Bergstrom's long triple. Bergstrom came home when Schoebel let a ball go by.

The Tigers scored again in the second with the aid of a single, three walks, and two errors which netted four more for the Bengals. In the Mines half of the inning they drew their only two scores with a single and three Tiger errors.

Dunton, Tiger hurler, allowed only three singles and struck out eight men in his fine mound performance. Dave Moreland struck out six Tigers.

Tiger Thinclads Open Saturday

Colorado College thinclads will continue CC's sports parade tomorrow at 2:00 on Washburn Field when they tangle with Western State and Adams State in their first home appearance.

The Tigers will be seeking their first win of the season with a better than average team led by captain George Demos. The Tigers look strong this year with the aid of Bill Howell in the dashes and the broad jump. Howell has shown much promise as the season approaches.

Bill Clark should do well in the 440 with the aid of newcomer Kip Herried, Captain Demos and Phil Hilton should be strong points in the weight division. Ned Pfeiffer is being counted on for the 880 yard dash. Dick Parus will be a considerable help in the dashes.

The Tigers next appearance will be the 24 and 25 of this month.

U. S. DEPARTMENT OF LABOR RELEASES JOB OUTLOOK FOR 1953 COLLEGE GRADS

The following article discusses the general over-all situation and presents information with respect to job opportunities in a number of broad fields, most of them professional. This information should be supplemented with information and services which you may obtain from campus placement and guidance bureaus and from local offices of state employment services affiliated with the Labor Department's United States Employment Service, including, more detailed local and regional employment information, and professional counseling, testing, and placement services so valuable in facilitating the process of finding a satisfactory job.

Engineering

Opportunities in engineering are excellent for both new graduates and experienced men and women. During the build-up stage of the defense program the demand for engineers rose spectacularly. Over the forthcoming period of partial mobilization an average of 30,000 new engineers per year will be needed. On the other hand, the number of new engineering graduates has been declining since the 1950 peak of 62,000 and will continue to drop, reaching a low of about 19,000 in 1954. Graduations are expected to rise again to about 22,000 in 1955 and 29,000 in 1956 (assuming continuation of present Selective Service student deferment policies). However, many of the new graduates of the next few years will enter the Armed Forces upon graduation. Therefore, the shortage of engineers is expected to continue for a number of years. Chemical, electrical, and mechanical engineers will continue to find employment mainly in manufacturing industries, while federal, state, and local governments will employ the largest number of civil engineers.

Natural Sciences

Demand for personnel in most of the natural sciences has increased sharply during the past two years, especially in activities related to defense production and research and development. However, personnel are also needed in other kinds of scientific work such as administration and technical sales. The demand for personnel in the natural sciences as a whole is expected to exceed the supply for several years as the defense program continues; the need will be most intense for workers with graduate training or considerable experience. However, opportunities for persons with only a bachelor's degree will continue to remain, particularly in view of the declining numbers of graduates with bachelor's degrees. Some recent information on several of the sciences follows:

Chemist — Employment opportunities for chemists are greatest in such manufacturing industries as chemicals, petroleum, rubber, food, and paper. Educational institutions and government also employ substantial numbers of chemists. They are also in demand in consulting laboratories, nonprofit research institutes, hospitals, and mining companies. Though the need for persons with graduate training is greatest, those with only a bachelor's degree will find numerous opportunities.

Median income of chemists in 1951 was $5,800 in private industry, $5,000 in government, and $4,900 in educational institutions. Chemists with a Ph.D., earned $6,900; those with a master's degree, $5,400; and those with a bachelor's degree, $4,900.

Physicists — The defense program has greatly increased the need for physicists, particularly for those with advanced training. The demand for persons with only a bachelor's degree also exceeds the supply. Opportunities are especially good for young physicists in nuclear physics, electronics, quantum theory, atomic and molecular physics.

Private industry, government, and educational institutions each employ roughly similar numbers of physicists. Median income in 1951 for physicists was $7,000 in private industry, $6,300 in government, and $5,600 in colleges and universities.

Earth Scientists. Experienced geologists and geophysicists are needed especially in the petroleum and mining industries. New graduates in geology and geophysics, especially those who have had some field experience in connection with their academic work, will be in demand throughout the early 1950's. Meteorologists who are prepared for research work are finding good employment opportunities. Oceanographers capable of carrying on research work are also in great demand.

AMER. RED CROSS ANNOUNCES 28 SCHOOLS FOR INSTRUCTOR AND LEADERSHIP TRAINING

Did you know that drowning is more prevalent among college-age persons than any other age group? Or that drowning ranks as the principal non-motor cause of deaths among people from 4 to 44 years old? Or that these deaths include not only swimming accidents but also falls into water while working or playing near it and accidents involving boats? Have you been told that the death rate by drowning has decreased by almost two-thirds, from 11.2 to 4.2 out of every 100,000 since the inauguration of the Red Cross aquatic instruction program in 1914? And this during a time when almost 125,000,000 persons are in, on, or near a sizeable body of water some time within every year?

All those desiring to increase aquatic and first aid teaching skills will again have an opportunity to attend one of the 24 Red Cross National Aquatic Schools and four Small Craft Schools located all over the country this summer. Eight of the aquatic and one small craft school will be held in convenient mid-western locations, Melvin A. Buzzard, director, First Aid and Water Safety Services of the Midwestern Area of the American Red Cross, announces.

Persons trained at an aquatic school, who in turn teach others basic Red Cross skills, indirectly benefit hundreds of people, Mr. Buzzard states. These schools are primarily for instructor and leadership training. Therefore, individuals who enroll should have definite plans to teach water safety, first aid, or accident prevention, and thus pass their knowledge on to others.

The aquatic schools scheduled for this area are: Lake Murray (Camp No. 2), Ardmore, Oklahoma, June 3-13; Camp Heffer-

CC'S MOUNTAIN DAY IS COMING; NO CLASSES WITH LEGAL CUTS

It's coming! Be prepared! One of these fine, sunny, Colorado days, CC will have its Mountain Day. "Head for the hills!" will be the cry. Palmer's doors will be locked and attendance will be taken somewhere in Colorado's mountains. Mountain Day is becoming one of CC's greatest traditions. It's the day when students and faculty alike take time out from the books and enjoy a day of fun and relaxation together. There will be competition between classes and faculty; seniors, juniors, etc., rather than Kappa, Figma or DG. To stimulate competition there will be contests of softball, volleyball, tag-o-war and other such events. Ribbons of different colors were worn by students last year to indicate which class they belonged to. This year it is felt they are unnecessary because the look on a student's face will be enough.

The long awaited Mountain Day will be kept a secret until it's here. Signs will be posted in every campus building to let you know. Sorry we can't tell the 8:00 o'clockers so they could sleep an hour longer but it just can't be done.

Transportation in the form of buses will be provided for those who cannot hitch a ride elsewhere. They will leave from Tiekner at 9:00 a.m. Festivities will start at 10:00 a.m. Lunch will be served on some mountain slope along with assorted beverages. The site of the "sneak" is still undecided because of legal difficulties. The hope is that it will still be held at Lazy Land at Austin Bluffs. At any rate—you will be notified.

The "old" students can remember what a great day this was back in '52. We have the support of the administration and faculty but—we need the support of the student body also. Good behavior is needed for future sneak days. Don't mess it up for next year.

Remember, we don't want to see a single person in class or the library on CC's Mountain Day.

CC Newman Club Attends Annual Province Meeting

The annual Inter-Mountain Province Convention of the Newman Club was held in Boulder, April 17, 18, and 19. One hundred and eighty eight students representing 13 schools in the Inter-Mountain Province (Colorado, Wyoming, and Utah) attended the three-day convention, which was sponsored by the Colorado University Newman Club.

Registration and a general meeting was held on Friday, with a talent show and a social mixer in the evening. Saturday morning was taken up in panel discussions and the main business meeting took place in the afternoon. A banquet and dance was on the calendar for Saturday night. Sunday morning commenced with mass, followed by a breakfast. The convention was concluded in the afternoon with an executive meeting.

Rev. Robert Freudenstein, chaplain of the CC Newman Club, led the CC delegation, which consisted of Harry Shearer, Tom Pankau, Sally Condon, Margaret Vincent, Lionel Leong, Joanne Castellani, Barbara Brown, Michel Chaudy, and Guenter Rinsche. Tom Pankau was elected regional chairman for the Northern Colorado-Wyoming Region.

The specialty school in Small Craft Leadership training will be held from June 10 through 20 at Woodland Summer Camp, Eagle River, Wisconsin. It will cover the skilled use of rowboats, canoes, and small sailing craft, and will highlight the principles and methods of teaching and programming for camps, clubs, and recreation departments.

The cost of either school is $45, which covers board, lodging, and materials used in the courses. The school may be attended at individual expense if sponsorship of local Red Cross chapter or other organization is not available.

Complete information may be obtained from any Red Cross chapter or from the Midwestern Red Cross Area Office, 4500 Linden Blvd., St. Louis 8, Missouri.

LET'S FACE IT

The second session of class assemblies last week certainly lacked the success that marked the initial program before Easter. In fact, only the senior class seemed to come up with any concrete proposals for improvements of CC.

Of course the class assembly programs will fizzle out if the underclassmen don't show any spark; and they can easily crush their only opportunity for self-expression unless they warm up.

What seems to be the trouble with underclassmen? It could be that their lack of enthusiasm is due to the ever present apathy; or maybe they are slightly reluctant to speak their minds.

Let's assume the latter—It then falls upon both the class commissioners and the faculty sponsors to stimulate discussion. Every student certainly has opinions on such things as Student Council, the Tiger, buildings and grounds and a host of other controversial topics. Building an agenda around those subjects which arouse response is essential. However, if students still refuse to participate we may as well call for the towel and sponge.

No doubt everyone is dubious about the value of saying anything for fear that nothing concrete will result. But Gen. Gill assured the seniors, for instance, that all the suggestions which are of any value do receive attention by the administration. Maybe that seems like token consideration. And maybe the administration will have to prove its good faith by complying with some of the suggestions in order to convince the doubtful ones. It may even be a necessity if the students are to have any faith in the program.

A sounding board and public discussion have some merit, if for no other reason than a full airing of views. Nevertheless, no one likes to express ideas and opinions for no purpose. But if the same complaints are heard again and again something positive is bound to result.

It's up to the students to prove their interest and desire to get things changed though, before we see results. That's the first and only stumbling block.

COLLEGE OR KOREA?

(From "THE CHART", Joplin Junior College, Missouri.)

Young men of today are faced with the problem of armed service. Still, this is no sign for them to stop planning for their future. Hearing such statements as, "I might as well go out and shoot the works; they will get me sooner or later," makes a draft-eligible student sit up and take notice.

... What about Korea? Even if there were no Koreans, other problems would take its place. Life is no bed of roses. Take the boy who has to work for a couple of years to save up for college. He has a problem. He doesn't give up and forget about going to school. The world doesn't stop while he faces his problem squarely and overcomes it. The same should apply to Korea.

Another point he can knock around a bit is how lucky he is. He should compare himself with other young men over the world. The British boy, for instance, the one who lost his mother and father during the last war. Place yourself in his shoes.

... We're pretty lucky here in the good old U.S.A. That man in the wheel chair had the right idea when he said, "The only thing we have to fear is fear itself." ... So, in his famed words, let's say, "We'll see this thing through yet."

Veterans Will Not Get Summer Allowance Pay

Veterans attending school under the Korean GI Bill will not receive GI allowance checks for the months when they are out of school on summer vacations.

Veterans who are enrolled for the entire school year will be paid, however, for:

1. Regularly established recesses between terms, quarters or semesters.
2. Regular school vacation periods that occur during the school year—such as Christmas and Easter holidays.

Veterans Administration said two provisions have to be met before a veteran-trainee may receive his allowance for recesses and vacation periods:

First, the school must be operating on a regular semester or quarter basis, and must certify on the veteran's enrollment certificate that he has been enrolled for the full year.

And second, the veteran actually must have resumed his training after the between-terms' break.

VA's ruling will apply to veterans in school under the Korean GI Bill during the 1952-53 school year. Adjustments are now being made in the case of any veterans who have not been paid for their breaks in training.

"CC HAS TOO MANY ACTIVITIES FOR NUMBER OF STUDENTS," SAYS HAWLEY

By TOM PANKAU

"I believe that the CC campus is over-organized as far as extra-curricular activities are concerned," says Charles D. Hawley, 20-year-old junior political science major from Ottawa, Kansas. By this he means that there are too many organizations as compared with the number of students who are qualified and interested in working for them. "Consequently, we have a few students trying to keep all the organizations going. This is a bad situation because when a student is involved in too many activities, he cannot devote his fullest attention to any one group. As a result many of the organizations are not operated as efficiently nor as beneficially as they should be."

"This is not to say that CC has a lack of competent leaders," Hawley continues, "Quite the contrary is true. But the whole campus is suffering because there just simply aren't enough competent leaders to go around for every organization. Thus, many groups which could serve the campus very usefully are held to some minor or unproductive status."

In the three years that Chuck has been at CC, he has been active in almost every type of organization which this campus possesses. Therefore, he is in a position to see a little more clearly than some of the rest of us just what some of the overall problems and situations are at CC. Among his many activities, Chuck has been a member of Crown and Lance since the beginning of his freshman year, serving as president last year.

He has been an active debater for two years and only recently was elected into Tau Kappa Alpha, honorary fraternity for debaters. The student council has provided a good medium for Chuck to learn a variety of things about CC. He served as treasurer of ASCC last year. Another important, but little known group, which he headed last year, is the Council on World Affairs.

Hawley has also been active in the Growlers, the German and Jonathan Edwards Clubs, and the honor council. He was elected to Phi Beta Kappa as a junior. But his latest important position was his election as chairman of the Publications Board.

Chuck says that he has noticed that the various publications have some difficulty in getting enough people interested to organize and train staffs. This has caused some problems in selecting qualified students to fill the key posts on these publications.

ROTC Will Undergo First Annual Inspection This Coming Week

Tuesday and Wednesday, April 28th and 29th, the ROTC unit will undergo its first annual federal inspection. A Fifth Army inspecting team, composed of Col. Haskett L. Conner, Jr., Lt. Col. John P. Blockshear, and Major Rodney W. Weibel will inspect all classes, drill and administration. Drill will be held at 10:00 o'clock on Tuesday morning instead of on the regular day, Thursday. All cadets will wear their uniforms to ROTC classes as well as drill.

there are too many organizations for the number of interested students. Thus the Growlers is one of the groups that gets slighted for some other activity."

"He calls debating one of the 'undramatic organizations on the campus' and says that unless one is especially interested in debating, they will not follow such an activity. 'However, it is an excellent means of gaining experience in public speaking,' Chuck concludes.

"The Council on World Affairs could be valuable in informing students and as a means of exchanging ideas on world affairs. It is especially valuable to political science and history majors.

Hawley summarized his ideas with this statement. "It is, of course easy to present a problem and difficult to suggest a successful solution. I am not proposing that any organization be abolished. I think that every group should look critically at its activities to see if it is actually accomplishing anything and whether it is worth the time spent on it. Members and leaders of organizations would do well to ask themselves the same question and THEN ACT ON THE BASIS OF THEIR ANSWERS."

Administrators from DU Will Be on CC Campus To Discuss Grad Work

Thursday, April 30th, the CC campus will be visited by a group of administrators from Denver University who will be here to discuss with interested seniors graduate work at that university. This visit is a continuation of a practice followed for the past several years.

The Denver University group will include the following: Mr. Lloyd Garrison, dean of the Graduate School and a specialist in Education; Mr. Arden Olsen, dean of the School of Business Administration; Mr. E. N. Sunley, director of the School of Social Work.

Although the Denver visitors are specialists in the fields of Education, Business Administration and Sociology, respectively, they will be glad to explain the opportunities for graduate study to students interested not only in these fields, but any other fields as well. Their visit will afford an unusual opportunity to our seniors to secure first hand information on all aspects of the graduate program at Denver, and it is hoped that many will avail themselves of the opportunity.

Our visitors will be available for interviews in Palmer 102 on Thursday, April 30, from 11:00 a.m.-12:00 noon and from 2:00 to 4:00 p.m. Any interested students should make appointments beforehand with the Secretary of the Department of Economics, Business Administration and Sociology in Palmer 102.

Horse Sense:
A horse can't pull while kicking
This fact I merely mention;
And he can't kick while pulling
Which is my chief contention.
Let's imitate the good old horse
And lead a life that's fitting;
Just pull an honest load, and then
There'll be no time for kicking.

QA Selects Women Dormitory Officers

Quadrangle Association recently held a meeting in the form of a breakfast in the apartment of Miss Sally Payne Morgan, Dean of Women. The purpose of the meeting was to select qualified presidents, secretaries, and counselors of the women's dormitories next year.

Each of the 10 women's dorms on campus has a governing body which consists of one president, one secretary, and the number of counselors needed for the size of the dormitory. Any girl having a 2.0 average and interested in one of these positions was considered by nomination in hall meetings, recommendation by the present hall council of her dorm, her head resident's recommendation, or by applying herself.

The girls chosen for these positions are to attend leadership conferences this spring to be prepared for their jobs next year and are to return one week early in the fall to welcome incoming freshmen.

College Junior Year Abroad, but for all the University of Paris and its allied schools are the centers of study. Courses include French Language and Literature, History, Political and Economic Problems, Social Patterns, Fine Arts and Natural Sciences. Miss Eddy plans to return to CC in September, 1954 to complete her degree.

C. C. BALL CLUB IN SECOND WIN OF SEASON

TIGER BATSMEN GET THEIR SECOND WIN; PLAY COLO. STATE FRIDAY SATURDAY

Colorado College batsmen captured their second win of the season Monday afternoon against Fitzsimmons at Fitzsimmons. CC came from behind in the sixth inning to tie the score at six apiece and then a four-run seventh inning put the Tigers out in front to stay. The final score was 12-6, CC experienced a rather cool four innings as the game opened. A run in the first inning and one in the fourth was all they could muster.

Fitzsimmons caught a quick lead in the opening inning with a three-run blast. They picked up one more in the second and one in the fourth.

Ed Robson was the big gun in CC's batting attack with four for five. Robson's 4 pokes were good for three runs plus his own two runs. Robson hit two doubles in his five trips to bat. Wally Parus hit two for four and crossed the plate twice. Lowell Slocum continued his power hitting with a single and a double in six trips to the plate. Tony George batted 1.000 with two for two and Reichart was good for two in four trips.

Lowell Slocum saw action for the first time this year in some fine relief pitching. Tom Dunton took the mound for the Tigers in the opening inning but headed for the showers after five innings. Both pitchers gave up only six hits between them in a game of good pitching.

Fitzsimmons used three pitchers in their effort for victory. CC picked up 15 hits against the Fitzsimmons' hurlers in a wide open

CC's Ed Bocovich Wins Golf Honor

Ed Bocovich, a newcomer to CC this year and first man on the golf team, won honors Monday in the weekly pro-amateur golf contest held in Denver.

Bocovich has been considered number one man on the golf team which opens play again this Saturday. Their last two contests were postponed because of the weather.

Bocovich was among the three-man team which captured first place in team competition. Other members of the team were Bill Lewis and Ray Lidikay, both of Colorado Springs. The team had a low net score of 60. The team of Lee Welch, Art Hohnstien and Colonel Groves came in with a close 61 for second place.

Dean Burkle is coaching this year's squad which has shown much promise thus far.

TIGER THINCLADS IN EASY WIN AS THEY WHIP PUEBLO JUNIOR COLLEGE

Colorado College opened their track season last Tuesday with an easy win over Pueblo Junior College, 89-52. CC showed strength in every field with Bill Howell top scorer for the day. CC was not pressed for points the whole afternoon as they picked up 10 out of 15 places. Bill Howell pulled firsts in the century, the 220-yard dash and the broad jump. Howell also was on the winning relay team. Rule Olson, a newcomer to CC, drew two firsts and a third to add to the cause. Olson showed his superiority in the hurdles. He edged Craig Richardson out in the 220 yard low in what was by far the closest race. Olson also placed in the javelin.

Captain George Demos won two blue ribbons, one in the shot put and one in the discus. Ned Pfeiffer also was heavy point winner with a second in the mile and a first in the 880 yard run. Pfeiffer also ran a leg on the winning relay team.

One of the better events as far as time, was that of the mile relay. Kip Herried, Bill Howell, Ned Pfeiffer, and Bill Clark composed the team which ran a 1:37.8 mile. This time was only seconds off the field record.

Pueblo's duo pole vaulters, Scribner and Miller tied for a first place in a hot battle for individual honors. Both boys cleared the bar at 11' 10".

Depth in the javelin was the cause for a triple win in that event for CC. Ben Snyder edged John Wolfe by four inches for first place. Olson drew a third.

This Saturday the Tigers will pull into rougher competition as they will be confronted by the RMC relays.

affair.

Three CC catchers made their appearance in the game. John Zenger, Tony George and Jeff Simus all put in an appearance. All three men showed excellent performances behind the plate.

CC plays Colorado State Friday and Saturday in their next two contests.

the new standing committee on the AWS Board. The object of the committee is to "promote better scholarship." The posts of sorority representatives were created with the thought of improving communications between the campus and the board. Their predecessor was the post of Panhellenic representative.

Plans are being laid for the AWS spring feature, the annual honors dinner for senior women to be held at Bemis Hall on May 13. WAA awards will be made; the eight outstanding senior women will be named, and the Ann Rice Award winner will be announced, among other honors. Tickets for this year's event will soon be on sale. All women students will want to attend.

All women attending Colorado

College are members of AWS. Those curious about the significance of these initials should consult the door of the AWS room in Ticknor. It is printed there for all to see. Having gotten this far, one would not want to miss the opportunity of seeing the AWS scrapbook on the table. Please walk in.

YEARS AHEAD OF THEM ALL!

Don't you want to try a cigarette with a record like this?

1. THE QUALITY CONTRAST between Chesterfield and other leading cigarettes is a revealing story. Recent chemical analyses give an index of good quality for the country's six leading cigarette brands.

The index of good quality table—a ratio of high sugar to low nicotine—shows Chesterfield quality highest

. . . 15% higher than its nearest competitor and Chesterfield quality 31% higher than the average of the five other leading brands.

Choice of Young America

A recent survey made in 274 leading colleges and universities shows Chesterfield is the largest seller.

ESDEN TROPHY TO BE AWARDED MAY 19

John Esden Memorial Trophy Will Be Awarded Annually

A trophy, to be known as the "John Esden Memorial Trophy", has been established as the result of a gift from Mr. and Mrs. Gabriel Duque. All the men's organizations on the campus, namely the five fraternities and Crown and Lance, shall be eligible to compete for the trophy. The winning organization each year shall have custody of the trophy for one year and shall engrave its name in the space provided on the trophy.

John was a Phi Delt here at Colorado College for four years, graduating in 1952. Because he stood for the highest ideals achievable, this trophy will be awarded on the same basis to the organizations competing. John was a good sportsman, and excellent scholar, and above all was admired and liked by everyone who knew him.

A political science major from Shenandoah, Ia., John graduated fourteenth in his class, and was accepted at all of the Law Schools to which he applied. He planned to enter Colorado University's Law School this past fall, but was stricken with bulbar polio while at home on Aug. 19, and died four days later in a Council Bluffs hospital.

The awarding of the trophy will be based on the following qualifications, and it will be awarded by President William H. Gill in a special chapel program May 19.

A. The faculty and administrative members of the Committee on Undergraduate Life shall be responsible for making the award.

B. The award shall be based on:

- (a) All-around leadership.
- (b) Scholastic standing.
- (c) Athletics, intramural and intercollegiate.
- (d) Representation in important college activities such as publication, offices, etc.
- C. Method of making the award. The award shall be based on the categories enumerated in B above.
  - (a) All-around leadership shall be judged by the Committee on Undergraduate Life, maximum of 25 award points.
  - (b) Scholarship shall be based on the averages of the two preceding semesters, maximum of 25 award points.

(e) Athletics shall be evaluated in the following manner: Intramural athletics, maximum of 12½ award points; organizations shall be ranked as computed by the director of athletics; intercollegiate athletics, maximum of 12½ award points, by counting two participation points for each major sport letter and one participation point for each minor sport letter.

(d) Representation in publications, offices, etc., shall be judged at the discretion of the Committee on Undergraduate Life, maximum of 25 award points.

D. The Committee on Undergraduate Life shall rank the organizations in order in regard to each of the four categories enumerated in B above. Award points shall be allocated as follows:

1st 25 points; 2nd 20 points; 3rd 15 points; 4th 10 points; 5th 5 points; 6th 0 points.

(Except in athletics where half the number of points shall be awarded for intramural and half for intercollegiate competition.)

E. Further, organizations which wish to compete for the trophy, shall submit briefs to the Committee on Undergraduate Life, stating their achievements in all-around leadership, participation in athletics and representation in important college activities, as publications, etc. Each brief shall include a list of all members of the organization concerned.

F. The trophy is to have space for the engraving of the winner's names each year for 15 years. At the end of 15 years, the trophy is to be permanently awarded to the organization which has won it the most times.

Organizations should file the briefs referred to in paragraph E not later than Monday, May 11. The briefs should be sent to the chairman of the Committee on Undergraduate Life, Dean George W. Adams.

SPECIAL NOTICE

There has been a law passed in a joint meeting of the IFC and Pan Hel concerning the traditional Sorority-Fraternity Annual Fueds."

"All college buildings are to be out-of-bounds in any raids. Also, during raids, sorority and fraternity houses are out of bounds, unless a mutual agreement is made between the sorority and fraternity involved in the raid.

"WHOA THERE, JUDY!" Kappa Alpha Theta's Judy Avery shrieks as Phi Gam Phil Hilton douses her with a bucket of cold, cold water. On hand to prevent her escape ere Phi Gams Don Pixley and Gordie Hatch. The occasion was the annual Phi Gam-Theta brawl which continues through Sunday and is climaxed by a picnic Sunday afternoon.

Publication Seeking Editor, Business Mgr. For 1953-54 Term

Once more the time has arrived when a new editor and business manager for the Nugget must be selected. The jobs pay five hundred dollars a year. A year's experience in publication work is valuable but not required. Applications should be in by May 8. Those are the facts. However, there are many other factors to be considered by prospective applicants. First of all, the jobs are not by any wild stretch of the imagination easy. They are time consuming, frustrating, and often thankless. Both the editor and business manager must be able to select good staff personnel, place them in positions they are most apt at, and keep them interested in their jobs throughout the year. The business manager has to make an estimate of the year's expenses, sell advertising, supervise expenditures, and generally keep the books in good financial order. The editor's job goes all the way from composition and copy to photo and art selection.

The jobs do have their compensations. A wealth of practical experience in administration is offered the editor. The business or economics major who applies for business manager finds many financial problems not covered by the books. Then too, many new acquaintances are acquired thru the work.

Manning Given Award For All-Expense, 64 Day Germany Study Tour

The Students' International Travel Association (SITA) has just announced that in its 16th Annual Contest Marela Manning, '56, had been given the third award of $650 for an all expense 64 day German Study Tour sponsored by the University of Washington at Seattle from June 17 to Aug. 23.

This tour includes a 30 day study period at the University of Munich where up to 10 quarter hours can be obtained in the German language. Before this study period the group will visit London, Amsterdam, Cologne, Heidelberg, Rothenburg, Dinkelsbühl. During the month's study, excursions are made to neighboring points of interest in Bavaria.

Marela, from East Denver High school and the holder of an Alice Bemis Taylor Scholarship, plans to major in French. On campus she is AWS vice president, on the Honor Council, in Tiger Club, French and German Clubs, and member of Kappa Alpha Theta. Miss Manning was strongly recommended for this award by Dr. Brandt, SITA representative at CC, and other members of the faculty.

CC Choir Will Present "Elijah" Wednesday at Shove Chapel

On Wednesday, May 20, the Colorado College choir will present the famous oratorio, "Elijah", by Felix Mendelssohn, in Shove Chapel at 8:30 p.m. The text for the composition is taken from the Bible and tells the struggles of the prophet Elijah against the pagan gods. The choir, which is composed of over eighty students, is directed by Richard Moorhead. Jessie Newgeon Hawkes, organist of Shove Chapel, will provide the accompaniments.

Werner Schwartz, a resident of Colorado Springs, will sing the role of Elijah. The other soloists will be: Cecilia Lomo, soprano; Nancy Bernhardt, contralto; Billie Goff, soprano; and John Parker, tenor.

All students and faculty are cordially invited to this concert, which will be the last appearance of the choir for this season. There be no admission charge.

LOST—A Tau Kappa Alpha key bearing the initials C. D. H. and the inscription "Colorado College, 1952" has been lost somewhere between the observatory and Hagerman Hall on Cache la Poudre St. If anyone finds this key, please notify Charles Hawley at 115 E. Del Norte.

SOMETHING'S MISSING

CC's own Bert Stiles in his analysis of the college man, stated that, "the important thing is that he is exposed to learning." He may take courses which he considers, dull, boring, and irrelevant to his way of life; yet the important thing here is that he takes them.

He has in his possession the ability to read, the gift of being able to absorb the printed page and the clear mind of a curious youth. Are these gifts that we all possess used on this campus? Are they developed and useful to us as the greatest of all our possessions, the logical, critical, open-mindedness of the college under-graduate in search of the "good life"?

My own observation of fellow students here on the CC campus is that we are lacking the "intellectual curiosity" that is college; that insatiable desire to know the truth, as is inscribed on the front steps of Palmer, "ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free". How many of us pass this daily, never questioning it's significance; plodding on to our classes in a mechanical manner, awaiting the bell that will free us from the druggery and constant routine?

How much more "routine" could life be than to sit in Lennox or Cossitt over the "inevitable" card game, discussing the tall, dark haired boy with the Buick convertible or the streamlined brunette with the "Broadmoor tan"?

Of course, these events are normal; they are a necessity of our under-grad days. No one likes the label; "bookworm" "creep", or some other connotation denoting excessive study. However, moderation should be the keynote here in the development and conclusion of the coffee hour; not prolonged, ridiculous, pretty conversation that should have been left back in high school.

What is college then, if we can't discuss over our coffee, the Korean War—which on the surface so vitally affects our daily lives—or Bolen vs. McCarthy; or the critical analysis of our reading the vague, shallow, sensation hunting, Rocky Mountain News? Don't we want to know what goes on in the world of reality? Can't we see how desperately the world yearns for the thinking mind, the mind that is ours to develop?

The lack of leadership in our present day should be viewed with alarm by young college students; not with apathy or the proverbial, "to hell with it". Our present day existence—our very way of life—is threatened by external forces, that are planning, sacrificing, and awaiting the day of our downfall; a fact that is so real that it cannot be ignored by us as the potential leaders of America and the world.

True, we, the young people of today, have problems. We face anxiety, war, and possibly the destruction of our homes and cities. Do we admit these dangers? Only a hermit would ignore them. We seem to be hermits living in our shell of seclusion, surrounded by the "halls of ivy", oblivious to life on the "outside".

AWAKE! Take hold of the trend, become interested, express your opinions. The world awaits the wisdom of your reactions. God help our nation if this campus is a sampling of the epitome of American "higher education today."

Ode to Ambition

My prof is my master, he maketh me quake,
 He maketh me work my tail off; he leadeth me into mad quizzes,

He lowereth my grade; he leadeth me in the way of probation for my Dean's sake.

Yea, though I walk through the valley of F's, I will fear no evil for he is with me, his rod and shaft they prod me.

He sneaketh my grades to my parents, they anointest my head with blackjacks; my blood runneth over.

Surely F's will follow me all the days of my life;

And I will dwell in this Salt Mine forever.

LET'S FACE IT

In view of the recent criticism of the Student Council's failure to make itself effective on matters of school policy, this column will try to bring out some points of consideration.

Let's look at the background of two items the Student Council has tried to tackle. First is the matter of parking regulations. After the initial suggestion that parking stickers would be required for students and faculty cars, there were no complaints. That was over five weeks ago. Then, after a month of doing nothing on the subject, the Student Council suddenly decided that it didn't like the idea. Apparently everyone had concluded that it was some type of undercover attack on the students. Despite the appearance of a statement by the administration concerning the necessity of parking regulations, the students voted to oppose the idea.

It was significant that no one could suggest any basis for abolishing parking regulations. No specific injustices. There wasn't even evidence of the much-feared discrimination.

So, parking regulations are here to stay and everyone may as well accept the idea. Any alternative suggestions the fraternities or sororities might have should have been advanced five weeks ago.

The second big proposal by the Student Council was to increase their voting power on the Committee of Undergraduate Life (Incidentally, this is the second go-round on the issue). What possible advantage can be achieved by this flight into fancy? Whoever dreamed up this one ought to look at the facts. First, the CUL is a faculty committee; second, much of the business transacted does not concern the students; and third, the students will have to prove that they have a right to sit on such a committee. It would seem that the presidents of ASCC and AWS provide adequate representation.

If the Student Council is to have a voice in this school they should strive to strengthen their own organization. Put more students on faculty committees and we may as well send all business there and not even bother with Student Council.

It is far better that the Student Council strive for internal solidarity and strengthen that authority which they can exercise. When the school sees a strong group backed by their organizations it will then be time to seek new levels. Only by constantly striving to perfect itself can the Student Council begin requesting any additional prerogatives.

ASCC NOTES

At the Student Council meeting last April 20th, votes were taken to see if the new car sticker regulation was favored by the students. The vote by organizations showed that if the fraternities are unanimously against the regulation and the sororities are for it, with a single exception.

A by-law was passed setting the election of class commissioners for the second full week of school in the fall.

A temporary committee was set up to study the Foreign Student Plan at CC. Bill Fritz is chairman. There are four places open on this committee and anyone interested should contact Bill immediately.

Elections were held for the jobs of prosecutor, assistant prosecutor, enthusiasm chairman and assistant chairman, John Parker, Kip Herried, Doug Morgan, and Carol Witwer, respectively; now fill these offices.

In the weekly CUL minutes the committee disclosed that the parents of Horace Rice are attempting to find a means whereby they will be able to establish a memorial here at CC in honor of their son who recently died while attending school here.

All students wishing grants and aid must be in an activity which is under the grade point system recently adopted by Colorado College.

At the Student Council meeting April 27, a long discussion took place about more student representation on the CUL. A committee, headed by Leo Oyler was set up to study the problem.

The various organizations reported to the council their choices for outstanding senior. George Abbott was elected by the Betas, Dale Arie for the Phi Deltas, Don Linger for the Phi Gams, Ben Snyder for Sigma Chi and Bill Jobe for Kappa Sigma. Judy Johnson was the Thetas' choice, Art Kensington for the Delta Gammas, Betsy Todd for the Gamma Phis and Sue McMillin for the Kappas.

Then there was the report turned in by the tax assessor who was also a practical joker: "One bottle of Old Scotch whiskey partly full, one revolving Turkish rug..."

TOM FREUND SAYS KRCC NEEDS MORE PERSONNEL AND TECHNICAL EQUIPMENT

By TOM PANKAU

"Colorado College's radio station, better known as KRCC, is the best possible medium the college has for communication with the people of Colorado Springs," says Tom Freund, assistant station manager of KRCC. "KRCC and KKTU offer the main communications link between the college and the community, and, by this, also offer the best means of publicity for CC in this area."

KRCC, however, is faced with many major problems. For one thing, we don't have nearly enough technical equipment, especially in the line of tape recorders and portable equipment. If we had more of these things, we could go to various college functions and activities, bring back and present to the students a great deal more of the things about campus," explains Freund.

In the second place, there are not enough FM radios on the campus to properly reach all the students. Because of technical difficulties, there seems to be little that can be done to alleviate this problem. However, our association with KKTU has enabled us to reach many more of the students than we were ever able to do before."

Hailing from "the Windy City," Chicago, Tom came to CC as a freshman. During that year, he was treasurer of Crown and Lance and a representative of the National Student Association. He is now a member of Beta Theta Pi fraternity and president of Alpha Kappa Psi, national professional business fraternity. Business Administration is Tom's major.

In addition to being co-producer and director of KRCC and on the "Tiger Review" on KKTU, Tom is photo editor of both the Tiger and the Nugget.

"Being an educational and non-commercial station, KRCC naturally has certain limitations in the type of programming that it can do," points out Tom. "Nevertheless, we do have a wide variety of material and the type of material that has been reported favorably in a poll taken among resident listeners. Music is the key to our program planning because our listeners indicate that they prefer music of the type we offer. Among our selections are British and French records, which are shipped to us directly from overseas. Practically all the other records KRCC uses are loaned by Walter Ament.

"KRCC offers a great opportunity for practical experience which is invaluable to many students desiring to go into radio," according to Freund. "We are helping high school students by having them on the program each week, and this, in turn, gives us experience in helping to train people for radio."

"One thing that hinders the effectiveness of KRCC is the fact that there are not enough people working on it. This makes it practically impossible for anyone to try out new ideas and methods of radio presentation for CC. I feel that KRCC has a great deal of undeveloped potential, but we must have more support from the students whether active or passive, if we are to be successful in disseminating news and programs of interest to Colorado College, students, and faculty," concludes Freund.

57 MEMBERS AND GUESTS PRESENT AT PHI BETA KAPPA INITIATION SERVICE

Fifty seven members and guests of Phi Beta Kappa were present at the initiation service of the hundred and seventy-five-year-old honorary scholastic organization held at the Garden of the Gods club on Wednesday. Founded at William and Mary College in Virginia before the Revolutionary War, the society now has chapters in over one hundred and forty colleges and universities. Since 1883, these chapters have been bound together in a national organization—the United Chapters of Phi Beta Kappa. Until 1875, the membership consisted only of men.

Members in the organization are chosen for high scholarship. At Colorado College a tenth of the graduating class, less two, are eligible for membership; in their junior year, two members are chosen.

Among those present at the initiation and dinner on Wednesday were Dr. Peter H. Odegard of Berkeley, California, and the following initiates: Alfred Danti of Colorado Springs and Charles Hawley of Ottawa, Kansas, both juniors; George Abbott and Tom Abel of Colorado Springs; Louise Bohannon of Minneapolis, Minn.; Connie Cover of Okmulgee, Okla.; Emily Howe of St. Louis, Mo.; John Keogh of Manitou Springs; Jean Lyons of Cranford, N. J.; Sue McMillin of Denver; Robert Roades of Colorado Springs; Gordon Spice of Chicago; Eleanor Thompson and Cecil Warner of Colorado Springs; and Cynthia Haymes of Colorado Springs, elected last year as a junior. Walter Stone could not be present as he was playing baseball.

Faculty members present included: Professors Kenneth Curran, David Kruehenbuehl, Richard Pearl, Amanda M. Ellis, Carroll B. Mulone, Lewis Knapp, Thomas Rawles, Thomas Russ and Misses Grace and Lorena Berger.

Town members present included: Mrs. D. C. Vanderhoof, Mr. and Mrs. Olin Lee, Misses Mabel and Lillian Bateman, Cal. and Mrs. Nicoll Galbraith, Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Morath, Miss Evelyn B. Young, James E. Wilcox, Dr. and Mrs. John B. Hartwell, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Cook.

JOB OPPORTUNITIES FOR CC GRADUATES

The demand for Earth Scientist school teachers is greater for 1953-54 than for 1952-53. Over a million additional children will enter the elementary schools and add to the already swollen enrollment. The supply of new teachers to meet this great demand is slightly lower than it was in 1952-53. Around 35,000 college students will meet the requirements for grade school teaching in June, and many times that number are needed for new positions and the replacement of experienced teachers leaving the profession.

At the high school level the supply of newly trained teachers has dropped significantly each year since 1950. This year many vacancies exist in such subject fields as: home economics, girl's health and physical education, agriculture, industrial arts, and certain physical sciences. The demand for high school teachers is expected to rise slowly over the next several years and will reach extremely high levels near the end of the decade.

Salaries for teachers continue to increase. Average salaries for all classroom teachers for 1952-53 were about $3,400 with 13 per cent averaging $4,500 or more. Average salaries of more than $4,000 were received by teachers in New York, California and Delaware; lowest average salaries were in some Southern States with a high percentage of rural schools.

Federal Civil Service

The U. S. Civil Service Commission reports that the pressing needs of federal agencies are in scientific and technical positions such as engineer (various branches), physicist, metallurgist, cartographer, and cartographic draftsman, chemist, mathematician, meteorologist, geologist, and oceanographer as well as in medical, dietetic and library specialties. There are some opportunities for summer employment in the physical sciences for student aids and trainees.

Information about examinations currently open may be obtained from college placement officers, from Civil Service Commission offices, and from first and second class post offices.

Health Professions
Shortages of physicians and dentists existed even before the present mobilization program was begun. Expansion of the Armed Forces intensified the need for personnel in these professions. Demand is also growing for other health service personnel—physical therapists, occupational therapists, pharmacists, dietitians, public health nutritionists, medical laboratory technicians, medical and psychiatric workers, and veterinarians. Over the long run the growth of the population, the increasing proportion of the older people, and increasing demand for health services by the population will sustain the demand for health service personnel.

Nursing—There is a critical demand for nurses brought on more by growing civilian needs than by the fighting in Korea. Hospital construction is expected to add about 200,000 beds by 1954, calling for 20,000 nursing recruits in institutional nursing alone. Thousands more are needed for public health nursing, civil defense, industrial nursing, and as instructors in nursing schools.

Average monthly earnings of professional registered nurses in 1949 were from $205 to $256. Average annual salaries of industrial nurses in 1952 ranged from $2,730 to $3,588 in various cities.

Business and Law

Industry is actively recruiting college graduates trained in business administration. Those specialized in management and in such business techniques as accounting, advertising copywriting, market research, sales, statistics, insurance underwriting, and personnel management are particularly sought. Those who combine leadership qualities with technical skill will have best opportunities for selection by large firms recruiting for potential executives. The demand for lawyers is greatest for those who have specialized, for example, in tax, patent, administrative, admiralty, or international law. Opportunities for women in this field have improved in recent years.

Banking. Men graduates are in demand for trainee-positions in as department heads and branch managers. The continued expansion of the banking industry is creating these opportunities. However, employers are still highly selective, particularly for positions in the largest banks. Opportunities for women have improved since the beginning of World War II; about 45 per cent of all teller positions and seven per cent of all officer posts are held by women.

The demand for accountants is expected to remain high during the defense mobilization period and for at least a year or two thereafter. College graduates with courses in business administration as well as in accounting are preferred to those trained only in accounting. Opportunities for beginning jobs in private business and establishments are more numerous than in public accounting firms. The demand for certified public accountants is strong at present and continued gains in employment are expected over the long run.

Public accounting firms pay lower beginning salaries than do private business establishments, but a firm experience which is often a prerequisite for the CPA license and for advanced positions in other accounting fields.

Social Work

An expanding field and one which offers a variety of specialization is that of social work. There is a great need for trained personnel to handle case work, group activities, and work connected with community organization for social welfare. The field also includes administrative work, teaching, and research in social welfare. The shortage of trained qualified workers is expected to continue at least for several years among welfare agencies, hospitals, and state and federal welfare establishments.

Median annual salaries in 1950 ranged from $2,960 for case or group work to $3,710 for teaching and research.

AH! SPRING HAS SPRUNG! and once again the CC campus will turn green as CC and Colorado Springs engineers attempt to irrigate the grounds. ## Traditional CC Song Fest Will Be Held May 4; Groups Choose Songs from Broadway Musicals

Colorado College will hold its traditional Song Fest on the stage of Shove Chapel on May 4, at 7:30. If last year set any precedent, the chapel will be filled to capacity with townspeople, faculty, and students. The participating groups have been practicing daily since March on songs from such shows as, "Carousel", "Oklahoma", "Hit the Deck", "Brigadoon", "Kiss Me Kate", and "South Pacific".

After the winning men's and women's groups have been announced, there will be a reception at Lennox House. Last year the top women's group was Gamma Phi Beta sorority. This was the third consecutive victory for the Gamma Phi who now have permanent possession of the cup. A new traveling trophy has been purchased. If they win again this year, the Phi Deltas will have three hands on the men's trophy, a sufficient number for permanent ownership.

Associated Women Students' Song Chairman Gloria Townsend, is in charge of the event this year. Working with her are the song chairmen from the competing groups: Kipp Herreid, Kappa Sigma; Dave Persons, Sigma Chi; John Parker, Phi Gamma Delta; Byrd Parmelee, Phi Delta Theta; John Munger, Independent Men; Bill Howell, Beta Theta Pi; Barbara Cannon and Georgia Shaw, Gamma Phi Beta; Marilyn Clark, Delta Gamma; Carolyn Wigley, Kappa Alpha Theta; and Judy Clave, Kappa Kappa Gamma.

Noticing the matters of unity, voice balance, pitch, stage appearance, rhythm, and interpretation will be Edalyn Bledsoe Burger, Elizabeth Starrett, and John Shoemaker, the judges.

"Go" Townsend, chairman, considers the greatest value of the Song Fest to be the "healthy spirit of competition it inspires."

Sandra Sparks Given Commission At Military Ball

Colorado College's first annual Military Ball, held Saturday night at the Antlers hotel was highlighted by the appointment of Miss Sandra Sparks, Kappa Alpha Theta, as honorary cadet colonel. Miss Sparks was chosen by vote of the entire Cadet Corps of CC's ROTC unit.

The corps' adjutant, Lt. Philip E. Chapman, introduced each of the five candidates who were escorted to the stage by Pershing Rifle members. Lt. Chapman then announced Miss Sparks as the election winner by means of a special order. A blue, fingertip military-type cape, bearing the insignia of Cadet Lt. Colonel, was affixed by Cadet Lt. Col. Leo E. Oyler, ROTC battalion commander. An engraved cup, a personal trophy, as well as a wall plaque to be maintained by her affiliated organization, were presented to Miss Sparks by Dr. William H. Gill, president of Colorado College. Further honors were paid to the honorary colonel by Cadet Larry Herman, Pershing rifles captain, who installed her as an honorary member of Co. D, 9th Regiment, Pershing Rifles. Capt. Herman placed a blue and white shoulder cord, symbolic of Pershing Rifle membership, on Miss Sparks' military cape.

Immediately following the honorary cadet colonel ceremony, Mr. Johnny Knapp, star of Irving Berlin's great musical show, "This Is the Army," sang several numbers from the show including the title song, "This Is the Army," and rendered two Irish ballads as an encore.

Music for the evening's dancing was provided by the Dan Harrison orchestra, featuring vocalist Judy Richardson. The dance was very well attended and enjoyed by all.

The military ball was attended by more than 150 couples with Dr. W. H. Gill, president

APPLICATIONS FOR SELECTIVE SERVICE TEST MUST BE SUBMITTED BEFORE MAY THE 11TH

Major General Lewis B. Hershey, director of Selective Service, today reminded college students that applications for the May 21st Selective Service College Qualification Test must be submitted to the Educational Testing Service, Princeton, New Jersey, not later than midnight, May 11. The May 21st test is primarily for students prevented by illness or other emergencies from taking the test on April 23, but General

Gamma Phi Betas Plan Bridal Banquet Show at Alamo Hotel

The Gamma Phi Beta actives and alumni will present the "Bridal Bouquet" fashion show May 9 at 2 p. m. in the Crystal room of the Alamo hotel. The show will feature gowns for the bride and her attendants, trousseau clothes and lingerie.

Tickets for the show are $1.80 and may be purchased from Barbara Cannon. The G-Phis are now selling chances on a Russian squirrel clutch cape, courtesy of Stansky, at 50 cents a chance.

The "Bridal Bouquet" is a benefit for the Colorado Springs Child Day Care Center and Campships to the Colorado Gamma Phi underprivileged camp in Indian Hills.

Hershey emphasized that this did not bar any qualified student from taking the test if his application is mailed before the deadline. He also stressed that students who have a certificate of admission for the April 23rd test which they failed to use on the assigned date must submit new applications if they wish to take the May 21st test. The old certificates, he pointed out, will not admit a student to the May 21st test.

General Hershey said the May 21 test will be the last test this school year.

The student may obtain a new application from any Selective Service local board. The application blanks should be submitted as soon as possible to the Educational Testing Service, Princeton, N. J. Administrator of the Test, who, in turn, will mail the admission certificate direct to the student. To be eligible to take the Selective Service College

TIGER THINCLADS TAKE SECOND PLACE IN R.M.C. RELAY AT POCATELLO, IDAHO

Idaho State Bengals captured the crown last weekend for this year's annual Rocky Mountain Relay carnival, held at Pocatello, Idaho. Colorado College, with six men, placed second with eight points. The Bengals scored five of the six first places with Colorado College picking up the only other first place. Idaho State picked up 25 points, a total as great as all the others put together. Colorado College and Colorado State scored eight points apiece for a second place tie. Colorado Mines was fourth with seven points and Montana State was fifth with six points. Western State failed to place or score.

Individual athletes competed in track and field events but only the relay events were counted in the final totals.

The meet was the second of its kind, the first being last year. Last year Idaho State edged out a 19-17 win over Colorado Mines. All previous records were broken except the spirit medley won by Colorado College in 3 minutes and 58 seconds.

Those men making the trip for Colorado College were Bill Clark, Pfeiffer, Bill Howell, Harold Ewonus, Dick Parus, and Charles Ryder. Saturday the Tigers will compete against Colorado State.

The summary:

Two-mile relay—1, Idaho State; 2, Colorado College; 3, Colorado Mines. 8:30.1.
400-yard relay—1, Idaho State; 2, Montana State; 3, Colorado State. 244.6.

Linksmen Drop Two Meets, Lose to Regis, Colo. Univ.

Colorado College linksmen dropped two in a row last weekend, a close one to Regis, 15-12 and a poor contest to Colorado University 23½-3½. The double loss is partly accredited to the loss of the number one and two men of the club. Ed Bacovich, number one man, and Tom Reid, number two man, were stricken from the team last week because it was discovered that neither man had completed a full semester's work prior to the golf season. The loss was truly a great one as both men were consistent in the lower scoring bracket.

Ken Simon and Chuck O'Connor have been moved up to one and two spots respectively. The golf team now consists of O'Connor, Simon, Hank Royer, Bob Krohnke, Dale Arie and Roy Keller.

In the first meet last week the golfers showed much promise only to fall before Regis, 15-12. O'Connor beat Sweeney of Regis, 2 to ½ and Simon knocked off McCarty 3-0. The team of O'Connor and Simon gained no team points but their opponents picked up three points.

Royer lost to McKechn, ½ to 2½ and his teammate, Dale Arie beat Ibold of Regis 3-0. Their team score was three to zero.

Krohnke lost his match 1-2. Keller dropped his match to Cohl, 0-3. Krohnke and Keller picked up no team points for the Tigers while Regis picked up another three points.

In the Colorado U. match the CC boys were able to pick up only individual points as each CC team failed to gain enough for victory. O'Connor lost his match 3-0 while his teammate, Ken Simon knocked off his opponent 2½-½. Royer was beaten 3-0 as his teammate, Dale Arie was defeated ½-2½. Krohnke lost his match ½-2½ and Keller dropped his match 3-0.

This Friday the Tigers will travel to Park Hills of Denver to visit with the boys from Regis and on the following day will entertain the Denver University linksmen.

The automobile motor began to pound and finally stopped. The worried boy said to his companion: "I wonder what the knock could be?"

"Maybe," said the girl friend, "it's opportunity."

Lose Two to Colorado State, Take Two from Colorado Mines

Last week the Tigers dropped two out of four baseball games in some very loose ball playing. CC pelted the Mines for two games and then fell twice during the weekend to the Colorado State ball club. Against the Mines ball club the Tigers collected a total of 25 hits. In the opener the Tigers collected 12 hits against the Miners nine. CC worked their hits for 15 runs against the Miners' six. Tom Dunton and Regis Lisowski teamed together for the win. Jim Bergstrom was the big gun in the Tigers' attack with four for five. Bergstrom collected a two, and a three bagger in his five trips to the plate. Wes Boucher slammed a homer into the stands to add to the many highlights of the game for CC.

In the second game Tom Reichart returned as the top hitter of the squad three for five. Lowell Slocum poked one into the stands for his first round tripper of the season. CC picked up 13 hits against Greeley's six. The Tigers capitalized their hitting ability for 18 runs to the Miners three. Lowell Slocum went the route to win the ballgame for the Tigers.

After losing the first game of the double series, Colorado State ripped the Tigers 15-9. Coach Pete Butler's men blasted out an 11 hit attack in scoring the 15-9 victory over the slumping Bengals after their previous 7-4 victory over CC.

Tom Reichart continued his heavy hitting as he gathered in three hits in five trips to the plate. Robson hit twice in the eight hit trip pitched against the Tigers.

Saturday's game was loosely played as 20 men reached first base on balls and five men reached first after being hit by pitched balls.

During the first three innings Coach Heiss' charges held three different leads but could not retain any of them as they scored only one run in the final six frames.

Lowell Slocum started for the Tigers but was yanked after three and two-thirds innings. He gave up a total of three hits and five runs. Slocum walked twelve men while on the mound. Lisowski came in for relief and held the Staters to eight hits and five runs.

The Tigers play next against the Western State crew in a double series this weekend.

Air Force Commissions Available for Students In Post-Grad Courses

Direct US Air Force commissions in technical and professional fields are now available for students enrolled in post-graduate courses in their final semester.

Qualified students, armen on active duty, reservists not on active duty, and certain civilians without previous military service are eligible for these direct commissions ranging from second lieutenant to colonel.

Commission grades will be determined by the applicant's education, experience, and age at time of appointment. Minimum age for second lieutenant is 18 and maximum for colonel is 55. In most cases a baccalaureate degree is required for a direct commission.

The most pressing need for officers is in weather, communications and electronics, research and development, and intelligence fields.

Shortages also exist in the fields of photography and cartography, armament, aircraft maintenance engineering, installations engineering, transportation and supply, production and procurement, controller, manpower management, security investigation and law enforcement, legal, chaplain, and chemical warfare.

For further information, qualified applicants should write to: Commanding General, Headquarters Tenth Air Force, Selfridge AFB, Michigan, Attn: DRAA-2-A.

Senior Class Holds Prom Next Friday

On Friday, May 15, Colorado College will hold their annual Senior Prom at the Crystal Room of the Alamo Hotel. Ray Kranz will provide the music for the dancing hours of 9:00 to 12:00. Dr. and Mrs. H. H. Carter and Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Ross will be the chaperones.

The senior class, in conjunction with the Independent Women, plan to highlight the evening with an award for the outstanding man and woman of the graduating class. The various men and women's organizations on campus have each submitted their candidates for the selection. George Abbott was elected by the Betas; Dale Arie for the Phi Deltas; Don Linger for the Phi Gammas; Ben Snyder for Sigma Chi; and Bill Jobe for the Kappa Sigs. Judy Johnson was the Theta's choice; Arty Kensing for the Delta Gammas; Betsy Todd for the Gamma Phis; and Sue McMillin for Kappa Kappa Gamma. A plaque, suitably engraved, will be presented to the man and woman who are selected by the students.

In addition to the above awards there will be some intermission entertainment which promises to bring together some of the best talent Colorado College has to offer. Dr. Ross, Dr. H. H. Carter, Dr. Stabler and Professor Boyce have formed a dramatic group which will present a stirring drama taken from everyday college life. As all of these professors performed so admirably in a previous performance before the college, we can look for a stirring portrayal.

The entire student body is invited to attend, as well as the faculty and administration members. A special invitation has been sent to Miss Lorena Berger and Dr. Glenn Gray, the faculty sponsors.

***** SELECTIVE SERVICE TEST

New College Qualification Test will be given on May 21. Applications must be postmarked on or before midnight, May 11. Application cards may be obtained from the nearest Local Board Office. This test is to be given primarily for students prevented by some emergency from taking the last college test on April 23, but other qualified students may take the test if application is mailed before the deadline.

Senior Class to Hold Prom Next Friday

Colorado College will be host for a year book clinic sponsored by the Newsfoto Publishing Co. of San Angelo, Tex., and Whit's Studio of Colorado Springs on Friday and Saturday, May 8 and 9. The clinic will be held in Lennox and all students and faculty interested in publications in any manner are urged to go over and look around. Numerous colleges and high schools from Colorado and nearby states have been invited to attend. It is expected that over 200 students will be here to participate.

Able instructors will lecture and give demonstrations on such subjects as layout, balance, color, themes, photographs, lighting, cover, paper binding, advertising and financing.

Addresses will be made by editors from different universities, colleges, and high schools. Mr. Joe Ardourel, editor, Colorado University annual, will speak on "A Filing System for Your Annual Material". These addresses will be followed by a round-table discussion in order to air the problems of the various schools.

The big day will be Saturday and events will start promptly at 9:00 a.m. There will be no registration fee and participants will be guests of the sponsors for the noon meal on Saturday.

The staffs of the Nugget and the Tiger will be on hand to help answer any questions the students from CC may have and to help the sponsors with overall plans. REMEMBER, STUDENTS, IF YOU ARE INTERESTED IN PUBLICATIONS IN THE SLIGHTEST MANNER, PLEASE DROP OVER FOR AT LEAST A LOOK IN.

Heads of Departments to Hold Sessions On Requirements for Their Major Fields

In the past there has been some complaint that sophomores who are faced with a lack of information which would be useful in making that choice of a major. In an attempt to remedy that situation, the head of each department is requested to hold a special briefing session on his subject and its requirements. These meetings should all be held simultaneously at 10:00 a. m. on Tuesday, May 19, in the rooms especially assigned for the purpose by Dean Mathias. If a given department offers more than one major, a separate meeting should be arranged for the students interested in each major. (For example, Professor H. H. Carter should arrange meetings for German, French, and Spanish.)

At the various meetings, the department head or his representative is requested to cover the following points:

(a) The requirements for the major should be carefully explained, and wherever possible each student present should be given a written statement of the requirements.

(b) Suggestions should be made as to courses which are not required but are deemed useful in supplementing the major.

(c) Some attempt should be made to set forth the intellectual values believed to exist in the major.

(d) If the major has a practical vocational value, this should be explained.

(e) The department head should state where and when he may be seen for the purpose of individual conferences and signing of blanks for admission to major status.

It is believed that much time will be saved by the opportunity to present these materials to the prospective majors while they are gathered together.

It is important that the signatures of the students attending each of these meetings be secured and forwarded to the office of the Dean of Men. These signatures will form the basis for chapel excuses.

In order to provide detailed information regarding the requirements for each major field, the various departments offering majors will hold sessions from 10:00 to 10:45 on Tuesday, May 19th. These should be attended by all sophomores and qualifying juniors.

Famous Poet, Thomas Ferril, Will Speak Here

On Wednesday, May 13 at 8:15 p. m. in Perkins hall, Colorado College, Thomas Hornsby Ferril, well-known American poet, will speak on "The Danger and Beauty of Poetry." Mr. Ferril has won literary acclaim through his four books of poetry, High Passage and Western, published by the Yale University Press, and Trial by Time and New and Selected Poems, published by Harper's. His edubook of prose essays, I Hate Thursday, illustrated by his daughter, Anne Folsom, was published by Harper's. For some time he has conducted a department called the "Western Half-Acre" in Harper's Magazine. Since 1939 he and his wife, Helen R. Ferril, have published and edited The Rocky Mountain Herald, a pioneer weekly founded in 1860 and acquired by Will C. Ferril in 1912.

PRESIDENT GILL ANNOUNCES APPOINTMENT OF 7 NEW MEMBERS TO THE CC FACULTY

President William H. Gill has announced the confirmation by the Colorado College Board of Trustees of the appointments of seven new members of the CC faculty. The new teachers, who were selected from over one hundred highly qualified and recommended applicants, will begin their duties with the fall '53 semester. Appointed assistant professors of music were Albert Seay, musicologist and bassoonist, and Ph.D. candidate at Yale; Earl A. Juhas, distinguished clarinetist, who will direct the band and teach courses on Public School Music. Juhas has been a Colorado booster ever since he managed the XF dude ranch at Gunnison in 1949.

The third newcomer to CC's music department will be Louis Hans Huber who will teach violin and viola, courses in music for the layman, and music literature.

Peter Lee Besag will replace Audra Dea Marshall as instructor in mathematics. Miss Marshall will study and teach at the University of Washington in Seattle. Besag, who has a special interest in the philosophical aspects of mathematics, has studied at Berkeley and Harvard, and expects to earn his MA degree this coming June.

Leland Grallapp, appointed asstant professor of art history, will replace Professor Carl Feldstad, who resigned to rejoin her family in British Columbia. Crallapp served as navigator and executive officer on an attack transport in the Pacific in World War II, and is a talented artist as well as an art historian. He is a candidate for the Ph.D. degree at Iowa State University.

Fred A. Sondermann, now completing requirements for a Ph.D. in international relations, will be instructor in political science. A former student and assistant of Yale's Professor Samuel F. Bemis, who taught in the CC summer school last year, Sondermann was born in Germany and came to this country as a child. During the war he served in the army as chief clerk, South Pacific Base Command.

SCIENCE GROUP IS TOLD ABOUT DRUG THAT RELEASES SUPPRESSED FEELINGS

How the repressed feelings of emotionally disturbed patients were brought to the surface by use of a drug was described on Friday, May 1, at the annual meeting of the Colorado-Wyoming Academy of Science at Colorado College. In one of the 141 papers to be given during the two-day conference, Eugene Zanger of the University of Denver and Alex Chandler of the Colorado Psychopathic Hospital told how they administered the drug to 30 hospitalized patients.

The drug, called lysergic acid diethylamide, made maladjusted patients even more disturbed for a while, during which time they tended to act out their released feelings.

The temporary state was more like a schizophrenic than either a manic or depressive reaction, the two reported.

Highlight of the first day of the conference was the annual dinner at 6:30 p.m. in Bemis Hall.

Friday's sections included anthropology, chemistry, physics, the plant science section, psychology, social science and zoology.

The bacteriology section presented 10 papers beginning about 9 a.m. Saturday while the physics, plant science, and zoology section completed their programs.

In the economics section, Dickson H. Leavens, authority on silver coinage, statistician and economist, outlined a "last try for international bimetalism."

He explained that in 1897 President McKinley sent a commission to Europe headed by Colorado Senator Edward Oliver Wolcott, to negotiate for an agreement on international bimetalism.

"This was sympathetically received by the French government, which instructed its ambassador to cooperate in the approach to the British government," Leavens pointed out.

British cabinet officials, although unwilling to consider a bimetallic standard for their own country, recognized the desirability of some action to rehabilitate silver, and showed some interest in Wolcott's proposals for reopening the Indian mints, and in various minor measures to increase the monetary use of the white metal.

However, the Indian government turned down the proposal and the work on the commission and the 22-year move for international agreement on the subject ended, Leavens explained.

Meanwhile, South African and Cripple Creek gold production was rapidly increasing. By 1900 there was no shortage of metallic monet and the U.S. adopted the gold standard with little opposition.

Colorado, which led other states in the production of silver from 1880 to 1903, became the country's leading gold producer from 1897 to 1910, said Leavens.

On the Friday docket was included a paper by Prof. C. L. Porter of the University of Wyoming who will describe the discovery of a number of rare plants in the arid canyons about five miles south of Vernal, Utah.

The finding of these novel plants suggests that the Wasatch rock formation on which they grow might be profitably explored for additional interesting plants, particularly if visited early in the Spring.

In collaboration with Thomas A. Bell of the University of Wyoming, Prof. Porter also told about collecting certain pondweeds, which are neglected by collectors, but are significant as food for wildfowl and shelter for fish.

Dr. C. William T. Penland of Colorado College, who has spent 25 years of research in Colorado on the penstemons, a group of western plants commonly known as the beardtongues and belonging to the snapdragon family, described his findings Saturday morning.

His studies are due to be included in a book, "Flora of Colorado," by Dr. Harrington of Colorado A. and M. College, to be published during the summer.

A total of 43 species and 15 subspecies have been recognized in Colorado by Dr. Penland, compared to only 39 species reported from all of eastern North America. Between one and eight species are found in every county in the state.

Eight species and four subspecies are to be found nowhere else in the world outside of Colorado. Two of those are alpine plants which add to the great variety of the justly famous high-altitude vegetation.

LET'S FACE IT

This department of the TIGER received two letters last week which are printed in this issue. Both these letters reflect thinking which was inspired in part by a letter printed one week ago.

These letters are concerned with two separate topics: one writer is concerned with the recognized disinterest in world affairs; the other with fraternity-sorority water fights. But we can combine both these letters and observe that they contain essentially the same spirit, that is, a deep disgust for immaturity on the part of college students. Evidently these two people share the view that if college students were a little more concerned with the future they might take it upon themselves to grow up.

Put these opinions together with the letter last week. They form a perfect logical sequence: Indifference to world affairs—followed by a specific reference to our own campus attitude—to a concrete example of that attitude as reflected in water fights.

If, as last week's letter says, Colorado College is an example of the colleges in the United States, can there be any semblance of optimism? Is there any way in which we can instill in the minds of students that it is imperative that they be aware of world conditions? Will we have the knowledge of domestic and international problems which will enable us to make important and intelligent decisions?

There is a happy medium in college just as in all phases of life. No one would begrudge the college student his fun frolic that accompany campus life. But when carried to such an absurd extreme that it becomes a mania enshrouding the primary purpose of education, it should be restrained.

There are more than these two readers who are convinced that the college student is nothing more than a booze-guzzling parasite. It is up to us to prove that when called upon to lead our nation we will be more prepared than in being proficient in knitting, sleeping and throwing mud. Let's be good for something other than that.

Dear TIGER Editor:

Congratulations to the young man who wrote the editorial last week's TIGER urging the college students of today to sit up and take notice of what is going on in the world about them—not only sit up and take notice but THINK, think about what it all means. To THINK is a talent few of us have in these days of knitting and cramming our way through school.

May I just say that Mr. MacGuire's views should be taken to heart by each and every college student of today or to quote from "Ode to Ambition," also in the last issue of the TIGER, we WILL end up working in the salt mines.

Sincerely,

A CC Co-Ed.

P.S.—The TIGER is really great these days!

MEMORANDUM

TO: The Grade School Students of Colorado College

FROM: A College Student

SUBJECT: Spring fights

"Come now children; don't you hear the bell? Recess is over; it is time to come back to school!"

Anyone walking through our campus this last week would wonder why someone does not call the little children from their silly fighting, and let them know that they are college students. Yes, you may not believe it, but we are all supposed to be grown mature, humans trying to live together and work together as the student body of this college. Instead we are acting like stupid little children who know no better than to throw mud all over each other.

For a moment let us look at this situation with a more adult attitude. There are many reasons to stop this silly business. The first and most important is that it is not lady-like or gentlemanly to be throwing others around. It is true that in spring a young man's fancy turns toward lighter things, but I think that he should make some attempt to contain himself. Oh, don't get the idea that I am blaming the boys for these crude actions of the past few days. What can a boy do when a girl just stands there and asks to be thrown around?

The second reason is this town does not have the water supply for students to take community baths in mud puddles.

Third, all kinds of property is being damaged. We are being down right inconsiderate of others property. Lawns are being soaked to make nice mudholes, and then people track all over the grass just trying to see how much they can kill. Clothes are being completely ruined as water, perfume, mud, paint, and other liquids of various assortments fly through the air. Even the innocent are being made victims.

Fourth, our enrollment is low enough without actually scaring visiting students away. Any prospective student would be more apt to think this is a grammar school play yard rather than a college campus.

There are many other reasons I could go into, but I will not, as I am sure you are all able to use your brains a little and see the wrong that is being done. So I make this final plea—come back to college, kiddies. We all enjoyed having you here as college students, not as grade school children.

ASCC NOTES

In the CUL minutes read to the council last week, it was noted that a great deal of discussion has centered on the debate for more student representation on CUL. Along with this discussion a committee was set up to study the problem and those interested were invited to attend. Also in the CUL minutes it was pointed out that the fraternity-sorority fights should be regulated and the IFC and Pan Hellenic Council recommended that all damage done should be paid for by the individuals involved. The faculty does not disapprove of these tussles except when damage is done.

In the ASCC meeting itself it was again pointed out that the Prom Home Permanent Company was sponsoring a beauty contest for all girls who have won school queen contests. Any qualified girls who are interested should see Frank Florey for complete information.

The ASCC election committee, joined by Georgiana Shaw and Sue Pfeiffer is now at work studying and planning the SONNY PRICE award which is customarily given to the outstanding senior at Colorado College.

The business of the meeting was closed when George Abbott moved that the council buy 72 freshmen dinks, from the Red Lantern so that they could have money to finance the rest of this year's Red Lantern activities. This motion was passed with the stipulation that next year the new Red Lantern would buy back the dinks.

Frank Florey Views Current ASCC and Nugget Conditions

By TOM PANKAU

Poor dissemination of the doings of ASCC and CUL (Committee on Undergraduate Life) to the students is one of the weakest elements on the CC campus according to Frank Florey, president of ASCC and editor of the Nugget. "When the accomplishments or proposals of these two governing bodies are not properly reported, then the students have no idea of what is going on. Uninformed people cannot be expected to act and talk intelligently about pertinent issues," says Florey.

Several things have been done to alleviate this problem. Among them is included the reading of the minutes of these two groups at fraternity and sorority meetings. Also added coverage by the TIGER has been organized. At the forthcoming leadership conference, it is hoped that a more detailed and systematic solution to the problem may be worked out.

Regarding the current proposal to add more student representatives to the CUL, Frank has this to say: "The way the proposal now stands I am against it because (1) it will tend to weaken the ASCC; (2) unless a better plan is presented, unequal representation from the students to the CUL will occur; and (3) the CUL is by construction and function a faculty committee to aid the students in their government through ASCC.

"The student council has set up a committee to study the matter and plans have been made to discuss it in class meetings. If the students show a sincere desire to want more representation on the CUL, then I will give it my wholehearted support and set up the machinery to put it through. One of the duties of the ASCC president is to protect student government, so I cannot support the current proposals for more student representation on the CUL, which would shift the weight of student government to the Committee on Undergraduate Life and undermine the strength of the student council," continues Florey.

One of the plans of the student council is to work very closely with the ASCC Constitution, which is very strong. This will give the student a better, stronger government according to Florey.

This tall, broad-shouldered, hard-working, 21-year-old junior claims Colorado Springs as his home town. He spent his freshman year at King's College in Wilkes-Barre, Penn., transferring to CC at the beginning of his sophomore year.

Since coming to CC, Frank has been very active on the campus. He is currently corresponding secretary for Beta Theta Pi fraternity. Last year, he worked extensively of the Nugget and was successful in obtaining the editorship of that publication last spring.

With his work on the Nugget drawing to a close, Frank was recently elected to head the CC student governing body. As president of ASCC, he is also a member ex officio of the Honor Council and a representative to the Committee on Undergraduate Life.

Frank also headed the committee which revised and drew up the current drinking code and just recently down from the chairmanship of the Publications Board. He is still a member of that board. In addition, he is a member of the Lennox Board and the Advisor Committee.

"The present set up on the Nugget is antiquated," reports Florey. "Almost the entire staff work for nothing. And with present living conditions the way they are, this makes it very difficult to get enough staff members." He goes on to say that a yearbook is built around pictures of the year's events. If you have enough of the right kind of pictures, they will tell your story and make your work much easier. "We are very understaffed in photographers this year, which makes our whole job very difficult," continues Frank. "Our photographers just can't cover every function. This problem of photography is a recurring one, and one which makes it very likely for a situation such as existed with last year's Nugget to reoccur."

The Nugget is the only publication on the campus which presents a composite picture of campus life. A good yearbook should provide the students with a memory book of their college days. The quality and number of your pictures determine how good your yearbook is. A good annual helps to advertise the school. "The TIGER, being a weekly newspaper, and the Kinnikinnik, being an annual literary magazine, cannot offer the type of coverage which the Nugget can offer," concluded Florey.

Frank is also in agreement with Charles Hawley, when the latter said that the CC campus had too many organizations for the number of students available to operate them. However, Frank would go on to say that: "To gain efficiency among the organizations on campus, we must cut out the overlap of organizations. The campus should be reorganized and streamlined by combining groups which have overlaps of authority and representation."

A bargain is a good buy. A goodbye is a farewell. A farewell is to part. To part is to leave. My girl left without saying goodbye. She was no bargain anyway.

Under the auspices of the Fine Arts Center, the Colorado College Dance and Music Departments will combine their talents to present a unique evening of entertainment in the Fine Arts Center Theater on Thursday evening, May 14, at 8:15. For the first time in several years a full-length original ballet in two acts will be produced by students and faculty of Colorado College. Under the director of Molly Lynn, choreographer and dance instructor, students Joyce Gladmond, Robert Kicklighter, Ted Coons, Lowell Sharpe, and Melba Gimino will be featured in principal roles from "The Fisherman and His Soul". Other students from the dance department and the children's classes will take part in choral groups as witches, sea-folk, and the set itself.

Departing from the usual abstractions of modern ballet, the symbolism of the dances will be made fully clear by Rosemary Musgrave, narrator, who will read portions of the story in the original text of Oscar Wilde. A novel feature of the performance will be numerous, pantomime scenes that will be performed without music to the rhythms and dances of the spoken word only.

The music for the ballet is composed by David Kraehenbuehl, teacher of theory and composition at Colorado College. Performing the music as a chamber orchestra under the direction of the composer will be the LaSalle String Quartet in their last public appearance in Colorado Springs; Max Lanner, pianist and head of the Colorado College music department; Warren Stannard, oboist; Thomas Ross, clarinetist; Floyd Frame, trumpet; John Munger, French horn; and Wilbur Berg, double bass.

The story of the ballet-legend relates the misfortunes of a fisherman who, for love of a mermaid that he finds one day in his nets, determines to rid himself of his soul, which he must do to join her at the bottom of the sea. He learns, from a red-headed sorcerer, the secret of dismissing his soul. The succeeding wanderings of the soul and its final return to the fisherman becomes an allegory for adults and a dazzling fairy-tale for children.

The ballet-legend will be repeated in the Fine Arts Center theatre for children in matinee performances, on Saturday and Sunday afternoons, May 16 and 17, at 2:30. Adults are welcome at all performances.

Phi Gams and Delta Gammas Get Awards at 4th Song Fest

By MARION SHAW

Phi Gamma Delta, under the leadership of Ray Scherer, and Delta Gamma, directed by Marilyn Clark, were the winners of the fourth annual All-College Song Fest, held at Colorado College on May 4. Kappa Alpha Theta placed second in the women's division. Runner-up in the men's division was the Independent Men. Recordings of the Song Fest can be purchased for $2.50 from the song chairmen of the participating organizations. These directors are Kipp Herried, John Munger, Judy Clave, Byrd Parmelee, Bill Howell, Marilyn Clark, Georgiana Shaw, Ray Scherer and Lynn Wigley.

This year's Song Fest was broadcast by KRGG both at the time of presentation and by recording on the following day. Gloria Townsend, AWS song chairman for this year, announced the winners.

Delta Gamma sang "Heather on the Hill" from Brigadoon by Loewe and "Deep in My Heart, Dear" from Romberg's Student Prince. The Phi Gamma Deltas winning selections were "Louisiana Hayride" from Flynn High by Dietz and "You'll Never Walk Alone" from Carousel by Rogers and Hammerstein.

Judging the various show hits were Elizabeth Starrett, John Shoemaker, and Walter Illian.

The distinguishing mark of the Phi Gams' stage appearance was light sweaters. The Delta Gammas wore pastel spring cottons. Stage appearance counted a possible ten per cent in the judges' scoring. The other men's choruses wore dark suits, and dark slacks with white shirts. Gamma Phi Beta was in white, Kappa Kappa Gamma in ties and white blouses. The Kappa Alpha Thetas were dressed in pastels.

The transcript, nave, and balcony of Shove Chapel were filled with college students and townspeople.

The Phi Deltas won the Song Fest in 1951 and 1952. The Gamma Phis won the women's trophy in 1950, 1951, and 1952. The Song Fest, a tradition in the earlier years of Colorado College, was revived in 1950. The first Song Fests were held in Perkins hall and on the steps of Palmer hall.

"What kind of an office does your uniform signify," inquired the inquisitive old lady.

"I'm a naval surgeon, lady."

"My goodness, how you doctors do specialize."

Colorado College Track Team In Loss to Colorado State

Colorado College fell at the hands of the Colorado State track team even though CC accumulated eight first places. Depth spelled defeat for CC as Colorado State picked up a 77-53½ victory at Washburn Field Saturday. Bill Howell was once again the top scorer as he took victories in the century and 220 yard dash and scored a third in the broad jump. Howell ran the 100 in 9.8 which is an unofficial record for the Washburn Field track. A tail wind of a little better than 5.00 mile per hour was recorded at the time of the race.

The outstanding race of the day was the mile relay which was won by Colorado College. The team composed of Ned Pfeiffer, whose effort was a big part of the victory, Bill Clark, Charlie Ryder, and Bill Howell.

Rule Olsen continued his fine running in the hurdle events. Olsen took blue ribbons in both hurdles. He won the high hurdles in 15.9 and the low hurdles in 27.6.

Pfeiffer ran an excellent 880 yard run in 2:04.5 to add to the string of CC victories in the running events. George Demos captured the only field event in the discus with 120 feet 5¼ inches to take the event.

• Intro-Mural • BILLBOARD

Going into the last round of intramural softball the Betas and last year's champs Phi Delta Theta are tied for first place with both teams having a clear slate, each winning of the tourney this year winning three games. The winner of the tourney this year could well be the winner of the year's intramural program as the Phi Deltas lead the Betas in total standings by less than a point. Only intramural golf remains to be played.

Some of the power hitters on this year's clubs have been Dale Arie, Ray Pezoldt, Bob Krohnke, Bill Winkler, and Bun Smith. Winkler and Arie have both poked out several round trippers. Arie is top man in batting with better than 500 average for three events.

A warning to all teams has been issued by Intramural Manager Bard Brown concerning the fielding of players who have lettered or quit the varsity teams. The Kappa Sigs have had to forfeit two games because of the breaking of this rule.

CC and Western State Split, Play Lowry This Afternoon

Colorado College and Western State split a doubleheader here last Saturday in a RMC league meeting which was played in the cold and snow. CC won 10-8 and then fell to the Staters 9-6. Lefty Tom Dunton pulled the CC win out of the bag in the opening game with an eight hitter. Dunton and the CC ball club were aided by five errors committed by the Mountaineers. Gene Hertzke was the loser for Western State.

Bill Charlesworth aided by a six run fourth inning took the nightcap with a 10 hitter. Lowell Slocum started for the Tigers but took an early shower as Regis Lisowski came in to pitch relief.

In the second game a near free-for-all broke out with Tiger Hermie Schoebel and Mountaineer Walkup being sent to the showers as a result of the squabble. Both teams left the benches to take part.

Tom Reichart and Jeff Simus were the big hitters in the first game with two hits apiece. In the first game Wes Boucher tagged one for a round trip ticket. In the nightcap Slocum, Ed Robson, and Wes Boucher led the Tigers with two pokes apiece.

CC plays Lowry Air base today and tomorrow and then entertains Regis this Tuesday.

This is the story of a courtroom episode in the Deep South. The judge in this particular court did not keep any records. He just depended on the memory of old Eph who kept the courthouse swept up.

One day the judge was reading a law book and Eph was sweeping up the corridor when there was a puff of smoke in the courtroom and the devil appeared.

"Howdy, Mister Devil," said the judge, who was famous for politeness.

"Howdy, judge," said the devil. "I come for old Eph."

"Now look here, Mister Devil," the judge said. "You can't have Eph. He's the whole record system of this court. I can't spare him. But seein' you is who you is, I'll make you a proposition. If you can trip up Eph in his memory, you

Spring is here and with it have come the traditional water fights and picnics. All of which reminds us that the softball tournaments started last Thursday with the Gamma Phi challenging the Thetas at 4:00. Friday the Gamma Phi again saw action at 4:00, this time against the Independents. On Saturday the Kappas played the Thetas at 1:15, and at 3:15 the DGs played the Independents. May 3rd pitted the Kappas against the Independents at 2:15. This week's schedule is posted on the Bemis bulletin board, so be sure to check it for the complete schedule. From all reports it would appear that this year we are going to have some good games. The Thetas have been out practicing in the afternoons and Miss Dickie says that she has some top hitters in her class. Among them are Mary Lou Wain, Nancy Hooker, and Nancy Drexler.

A pair of glasses has been turned into the Tiger. If they are yours, notify the editor at the Phi Gam house.

CORRECTION

Last week the Tiger stated an error in the article concerning the RMC relays. The article stated that the CC win in the one mile sprint medley was the only event in which a new record was not set.

The sprint medley team, composed of Ned Pfeiffer, Spud Ewonos, Bill Howell, and Bill Clark did set a new record in the excellent time of 3:46. The old record was 3:54.

can have him because he's ready to go anyway!"

The devil agreed to that and they called in Eph, who was mighty scared.

"Eph," the devil said "Do you like eggs?"

"Sure do," said Eph.

And the devil disappeared in a cloud of smoke. Twenty years later Eph had taken a week off and was plowin' his patch of cotton. There was a puff of smoke in front of the mules and the devil appeared.

"How?" the devil said.

"Fried," said Eph.

The Pan Hellenic Council of Colorado College awarded scholarships of $125 each to two outstanding members of the sophomore class last Tuesday at the regular chapel service. FROM . . .
CAMPUS to CAMPUS

ED NOTE—The following items, which are excerpts from various college newspapers, are printed here in the hopes that they will be of some interest to CC students. It is also hoped that this information will give CC students some idea of what is news on other campuses and that it might possibly be the stimulation of new ideas and methods at CC. If you like this idea and would like to see more of this type of news, please let us know, and likewise, if you don't like it, we would like to know. Some of these articles are accompanied by comments pertinent to the students, which represent the views of the TIGER.

DUKE UNIVERSITY—Fraternity presidents, in a meeting of the Inter-Fraternity Council, doled out punishments of social probation for the rest of the semester and a $215 fine to Zeta Beta Tau for drinking at a social function. (So you see, CC isn't the only school having trouble with drinking.)

TENNESSEE UNIVERSITY Push button learning has come to the University of Tennessee's campus. An electronic device now being used experimentally by the College of Engineering enables the student to register an immediate protest without interrupting his professor if he fails to grasp a point in the lecture. (Thank goodness that CC classes aren't that large.)

COLORADO UNIVERSITY—(The CU chapters of the five fraternities at CC are doing well in the intramural competition at CU. Sigma Chi heads the 23 fraternity I-M athletes. In second place is Phi Gamma Delta, with Beta Theta Pi in fourth place, Phi Delta Theta in sixth place and Kappa Sigma holding down eleventh position. Sigma Nu and Sigma Phi Epsilon are in third and fifth places respectively.)

COLORADO STATE COLLEGE—The annual Rocky Mountain Regional Assembly of the National Students Association was held last week at Colorado State College in Greeley, Colo. (Remember the days when CC had an opportunity to benefit from NSA, but thru lack of understanding of the whole situation decided to throw the group off the campus.)

HARDIN-SIMMONS UNIVERSITY—Hardin-Simmons' tennis team won its seventh straight match by dropping the University of Colorado Buffaloes, 6-1, on the Cowboy courts.

TRIPLE THREAT MAN!

AIRCRAFT OBSERVER

AIRCRAFT OBSERVER

AIRCRAFT OBSERVER

The Brains of the Team

Teamwork can work miracles. In a football game the man who sparks these miracles is the quarterback. He's the man who calls the signals. There's a man who calls the signals for an Air Force flying team, too!

They call him an Aircraft Observer.

Do YOU have what it takes to become an Aircraft Observer?

It isn't easy. It's tough. You have to be a MAN to qualify as an Aircraft Observer. But when you are one, brother, you're SOMEBODY! The success or failure of a mission involving over a million dollars worth of flight equipment depends on you.

THE AIRCRAFT OBSERVER IS THE SOMEBODY WHO:

As Bombardment Officer, is number one man on a bombing run, the man who controls the plane in the target area!

As Navigation Officer, is the pilot's guiding hand on every flight!

As Radar Officer, is master of a new science and operator of the device that sees beyond human sight!

As Aircraft Performance Engineer Officer, is the one who "keeps the plane flying", the man who knows his plane inside and out, who keeps it fit for the skies and sees that it stays there!

If YOU can accept a challenge like this, you'll take your place beside the best—you'll find your future in the clouds!

TO BE QUALIFIED you must be single, a citizen, between 19 and 26½ years old, have had at least 2 years of college and be in tip top physical shape. If this describes you, then YOU, too, can qualify. Today!

HERE'S WHAT YOU'LL GET! The world's best training. Good food and plenty of it. Uniforms, flight clothes, equipment. Medical and dental care. Free insurance. Flight training in Uncle Sam's greatest aircraft.

AND THEN, AFTER GRADUATION, you'll win your silver wings, and earn more than $5000 a year as an Air Force Lieutenant. You'll enjoy an adventurous, exciting career with a hand-picked crew of real men. You'll be THE BRAINS OF THE TEAM, A TRIPLE THREAT MAN . . . as a Bombardment Officer, as a Navigation Officer, as a Radar Officer, as an Aircraft Performance Engineer.

CC's ROTC Commended For Their Progress, By Federal Inspectors

Colorado College's ROTC unit underwent its first Federal Inspection April 28 and 29. Colonel Stephen E. Bullock, post commander of Fort Sheridan, Lt. Colonel J. Pope Blackshear, PMST of South Dakota A&M, and Major Rodney Weibel, University of Nebraska, inspected the ROTC in operation during their two-day visit.

On Tuesday at Washburn field the CC cadets were inspected in ranks by members of the party. Colonel Bullock, acting as reviewing officer, then moved to the reviewing stand, accompanied by President W. H. Gill, Colonel George Burritt, Chief of Colorado Military District, Dean Mathias, Lt. Col. Heyer, and other members of the inspection team, and reviewed the Corps of Cadets as they passed in company formation.

Theory classes, training equipment, and facilities were also checked by the visiting officers.

Col. Bullock and his party were very complimentary in their remarks regarding the unit. Very favorable progress was noted for the first year of operation of Colorado College's ROTC, one of the new Branch General programs recently authorized by the Department of Army.

Each ROTC unit is inspected once yearly to evaluate the efficiency of the unit and the degree to which it is accomplishing the objectives of the ROTC program. Written reports are forwarded to Army commanders for further evaluation.

Throughout the United States critics have praised his work. Charles A. Brady in the Buffalo Evening News said he was "more sinew than Walt Whitman." The San Francisco Chronicle praised the "wholesomeness and consistency" in his poetry. Carl Sandburg in Chicago said, "He is terrifically and beautifully American."

The Saturday Review of Literature talked about his "universality." The Liberal Journal said that "he belongs in the company of Whitman, Sandburg and Benet, as one who signs of America, its people and its place-names, but he has his own original outlook and manner."

Honor Council Cracks Down on System Violators

Council Revises Constitution For Next Year's Honor System

Honor Council president Tom Dunton announced today that the Council has revised the constitution governing the Honor System for the school year of 1953-54. The revisions will go into effect next fall. Dunton went on to state that the council will meet with the entire CC faculty in a special meeting next Monday to go over the revisions. The council has spent many long hours in assembling these revisions, and they hope that the Honor System, with these revisions, will prove to be even stronger.

Revisions as they stand at present:

1. To be inserted on page preceding the first page of the constitution: "Every student is responsible for familiarizing himself with all the rules and regulations of the Honor System."

2.—Article I, Section I
Make it clear that the Honor System applies to all students—including special and graduate students.

3.—Article I, Section II
Previously read:
"The Honor System shall apply to all written or oral examinations, and to all reports and term papers, and unless specified by the professor, no outside help will be permitted. All tests given shall be given in such a manner as to promote the Honor System."

Now reads:
"The Honor System shall apply to all written or oral examinations, and to all reports, term papers, and theses, and unless specified by the professor no outside help will be permitted."

4.—Article I, Section III
Previously read:
"Students taking examinations will be allowed freedom of movement within the building where the examination is being given. Because of the problem of class room space, West Hall, East Hall, and Tenney Hall will be considered as wings of Palmer, and free movement within these buildings is acceptable."

Now reads:
"Examinations shall be taken only in regular classroom or in other rooms as assigned by the professor."

5.—Article I, Section V
Previously read:
The following statement shall be written out in full and signed by each student: "I have neither given nor received aid on this examination."

Now reads:
The following statement shall be written out in full and signed by each student: "On my honor I have neither given nor received aid on this examination."

6.—Article II, Section I
Make addition to this section so that the following is incorporated as the last sentence of this section.
"All tests shall be given in accordance with the provisions of this constitution and in such a manner as to promote the Honor System."

7.—Article II, Section II
Previously read:
"Depending on the nature of the course and the nature of the examination, the professor may be present during an examination to answer questions. If present he will be there only to answer questions and to receive the examination papers at the end of the allotted time."

Now reads:
"The professor shall not remain in the examination room or rooms, although he may appear to make brief announcements. The Honor System"

CC Elects Seven New Honor Council Members

Colorado College has elected seven new members to its Honor Council to replace the outgoing senior members. They have been elected to serve on the Council for the remainder of their time here at CC.

The new members who took the positions immediately upon being elected are: Bill Howell, Jack Geary, Rule Olson, Ned Pfeiffer, Jane Carroll, Weta Austin and Marcia Manning (alternate). They will serve on the Council with old-timers Tom Dunton, president; Mose Harrison, past president; Ray Scherer, Charles Hawley, B. J. Trotter, secretary and Gail Lund. ASCC president Frank Florey sits with the Council in every meeting but has no vote if 12 members of the Council are present.

that percentage-wise more freshmen knew an Honor Council member than any other class. Approximately three times as many students have not read the constitution of the Honor System as those who have. Fifty-seven students did not believe their professors were conducting their classes in the spirit of the Honor System.

The following is a breakdown by classes of the polling:

POLL ON HONOR SYSTEM

Organized and conducted by the students in English 338
Introduction to Journalism

Please check your status: ( ) Freshman ( ) Sophomore ( ) Junior ( ) Senior ( ) Faculty ( ) Administration ( ) Other

- 1.—Is the honor system working in your classes reasonably well? —
- 2.—Should orientation for new students be expanded?
- 3.—Would you be in favor of a student being expelled from school after one violation (instead of the present discipline after two violations)?
- 4.—Would you prefer to return to the proctor system,
- 5.—Are you willing to turn in someone who is cheating?
- 6.—Before class assemblies began, did you know any of the honor council members?
- 7.—Have you ever read the constitution of the Honor System?
- 8.—In general, do you think that your professors conduct their classes in the spirit of the Honor System?

In a recent student-wide poll conducted by the journalism class and sanctioned by the Honor Council, the Honor Council has gathered some very meaningful statistics concerning the functions of the Honor System here at CC.

In tabulating the first question, the journalism class found that 295 of the approximately 335 students answering believe that the Honor System is working reasonably well.

Answers to the second question showed that the students favor expanding the orientation of new students to the system (302 vs. 52).

Students very emphatically stated that they do not want violators to be expelled for one infraction (224 vs. 47).

By a vote of 298 to 41 pollsters wish to remain under the Honor System, and 254 of the 335 students answering said that they were willing to turn in someone who is cheating. Eighty of 335 did not know a single member of the Honor Council before class assemblies began. It is confusing to note

Seventy-Five Students Attend Clinic Here For Newsfoto Company

Seventy-five students representing twelve high schools and colleges were present for the year book clinic, sponsored jointly by the Newsfoto Publishing Company of San Angelo, Texas, and Whit's Studio of Colorado Springs. The clinic was held in Lennox House on Friday and Saturday, May 8 and 9.

There were panels, lectures and open discussions on the various aspects of year book production, with the bulk of the talk centered around photography. Photography is one of the biggest problems which annuals have to face.

Mr. Sabean presented a lecture on design at the Fine Arts Center.

WHAT IS A COLLEGE BOY?

The following essay is reprinted from The Manitoban (University of Manitoba Weekly):

Between the senility of second childhood and the light-hearted lechery of the teens we find a loathsome creature called a college boy.

College boys come in assorted sizes, weights, and states of sobriety, but all college boys have the same creed: To do nothing every second of every minute of every day and to protest with whining noises (their only weapon) when their last minute inertia is finished and the adult males pack them off to the employment office or the draft board.

Find Them Everywhere

College boys are found everywhere—breaking train windows, tearing down goal posts, inciting riots or jumping bail. Mothers love them, little girls love them, big girls love them, middle-sized girls love them, and satan protects them.

A college boy is Laziness with peach fuzz on its face. Idiocy with lanolin in its hair and the Hope of the Future with an overdrawn bank book in its pocket.

A college boy is a composite—he has the energy of a Rip Van Winkle, the shyness of a Mr. Macawber, the practicality of a Don Quixote, the kindness of a Marquis de Sade, the imagination of a Bill Syke, the appetite of a Cargantua, the aspirations of a casanova, and when he wants something it's usually money.

Likes Many Things

He likes good liquor, bad liquor, called classes, double features, Playtex ads, girls and football weekends. He is not much for hopeful mothers, irate fathers, sharp-eyed ushers, alarm clocks or letters from the dean.

Nobody is so late to rise or so early to supper. Nobody else can cram into one pocket a slide rule, a Marilyn Monroe calendar, Kant's "Critique of Pure Reason," a collapsible pool cue, an expired liquor license, a Hawaiian ukelele, 39 cents in Italian lire, a Mugsy Spaniel record and a YMCA towel.

May as Well Give Up

A college boy is a magical creature—you can lock him out of your heart but you can't lock him out of your liquor cabinet. You can get him off your mind but you can't get him off your expense account. Might as well give up: he is your jailer, your boss and your albatross—a bleary-eyed, no-account, girl-chasing bundle of worry.

But when you come home at night with only the shattered pieces of your hopes and dreams, he can make them mighty insignificant with four magic words: "I flunked out, Dad."

LET'S FACE IT

It is an accepted fact that the spirit of cooperation between the fraternities on this campus is not all that it should be. Not that there isn't any cooperation—just that it could be better. It's true that Colorado College does not have some of the bigotry and ill-feeling that are so prevalent at some schools. And further, that one of the advantages of a small school is the lack of the fraternity rivalry which ends in bitterness.

So it is that the spirit exhibited by some of the members of the Red Lantern and the Inter-Fraternity Council is encouraging. These two groups may prove that there is more in an organization than just passive membership. These two groups, composed of all the men's organizations on campus, have proved their willingness to work toward a single goal. That goal is: to strengthen the fraternity system.

The fact that fraternities have come in for severe criticism in the past few years makes it doubly essential that there should be cooperation.

The men who are in a position to determine the success or failure of a strong fraternity system are obviously aware of the job they have to perform. Colorado College will benefit from their success.

No one is so naive as to presume that these men can accomplish miracles themselves. They should attempt to instill their commendable attitude into their fraternity brothers in order to be completely successful. If the friendliness which pervades some of the recent social functions is any criterion, we can expect an earnest and sincere desire by the fraternities to work together towards a higher aim than personal selfishness.

ASCC NOTES

By BILL HOWELL

A committee set up to study the problem of more student representation on the CUL reported their findings at the last meeting. The committee suggested that the problem of more representation be dropped for the following reasons:

(1) That the strengthening of the CUL was impossible at present because the student council itself needed strengthening and, (2) By putting more representatives on CUL it would weaken the council.

Instead, the committee decided that the same purpose could be accomplished by strengthening the council alone. They suggested that more and better representatives be elected as regular members of ASCC and that a committee be formed to completely plan for the strengthening program. It was pointed out that again the students are responsible for the weakness of the council because they do not seem to realize that they themselves run the council. Only when they come alive and work themselves can they expect the council to function properly.

A discussion also took place on the foreign student problem. A committee was set up and will go to every organization on the campus to explain how the future foreign student plan will work.

This year the student council prize for the outstanding senior at CC, the SONNY PRICE AWARD, will not be given. This prize is given at the discretion of the student council and they felt that there was not enough time left

J. Paul Sheedy* Switched to Wildroot Cream-Oil Because He Flunked The Finger-Nail Test

SHEEDY shed crocodile tears till he had alligator bags under his eyes, because he got the gator from his girl. "I'm going to hide from you and your horrible hair," she said "until you go gator bottle of Wildroot Cream-Oil, America's favorite hair tonic. It's non-alcoholic. Contains soothing Lanolin. Keeps hair well-groomed from morning 'till night. Relieves annoying dryness. Removes loose, ugly dandruff. Helps you pass the Finger-Nail Test." Paul slithered down to a nearby toilet goods counter for Wildroot Cream-Oil. Now he's swamped with pursed-lipped females who want him to crocodile their telephone numbers. So water you waiting for? Buy a bottle or tube of Wildroot Cream-Oil, or ask for it on your hair at any barber shop. Then your social life will stop dragon, and you'll scale the heights.

Mountain Day At Colorado College

Mountain Day! Beautiful spring weather! Pasque flowers in bloom! Sunny meadows and shade of the pine forest! The majesty of snow-covered Pikes Peak against an azure sky! Wholesome games and cheerful company! What could be a more glorious memory for years to come?

But I am reminded of an old missionary hymn, which is now greatly resented in India, for after extolling the scenery of India it concludes, "where every prospect pleases, and only man is vile." Sadly enough that expresses another memorable impression of our Mountain Day last week. "Where every prospect pleases and only man is vile."

We had some very delightful conversations with several attractive students who were full of fun. They were mostly in their old clothes, as was appropriate of the picnic, but nevertheless they were intelligent, polite, refined, as though they had come from good families, or had been clever enough to learn how to behave in polite society.

Their manners were easy, free from the stiffness which sometimes oppresses the classroom atmosphere. They were affable, courteous, urbane and alert. It is real pleasure to talk with such people, who have ideas, who can express them clearly, who are cheerful, who catch quickly what you are trying to say, and who can hold up their side of the conversation.

But, we must admit with shame, there were some whose conversation was not a credit to them, some who were not a credit to them, some who were not alert, some who looked bleary-eyed, whose clothes were not appropriate even for a picnic, damp and smeared with a certain liquid, soiled and disarranged. And the poor things didn't fully realize their sad condition. Some went on talking just as though they were saying something clever. Of course, people laughed at what they said, and that was taken as evidence of cleverness, not knowing that others were laughing at them not with them.

At one time in the history of our Western European society, people made fun of the blind and crippled. We don't do that any more, but we still laugh at drunks. We might become more discriminating of this point also, as we stopped to think what sadness alcoholic drink brings to many families. Many young men who think it smart to get drunk, are headed straight for alcoholism, and possibly for the failures which alcoholism brings to many, failures in scholarship, failure in love and marriage, failures in business and profession, failures in the things which they hold most dear in their sensible moments, failures bringing embarrassment and shame to themselves and their friends.

Both on campus and off campus we ought to remember that we are representing in our behavior our Colorado College. What kind of college would you judge that we have from the behavior of many of our crowd at the Mountain Day picnic? Would your parents approve? Would our best alumni approve? Would the public, who believe in the fine ideals of Colorado College and who support the college in many ways, approve? Do you really approve yourself?

It is my earliest hope that in the future we may resolutely raise our standards of behavior and not again drag the banner of Colorado College in the mud.

—Carroll B. Malone.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

I have noticed in your editorials during the last few weeks that several Colorado College students have written character assassinations of the student body. Now I think everyone has a right to his own opinion, but I object very strenuously to your policy of not printing your contributor's name. If a person does not have enough respect for his own ideas to back up their articles by signing his name, then the Tiger should not be publishing such trash. How can anyone attempt to intelligently discuss the views expressed in these articles when the author is unknown? This is certainly not a Molly Mayfield corner, but under the present TIGER policy it may well degenerate to just that.

May I further use your hallowed space to challenge the person who wrote the MEMORANDUM to an "intelligent" discussion of her/his facts. It would just be wasting space to refute them here, for they contain very little worth discussing.

Sincerely,
Walter Stone.

No Need To Worry Over Bad Publicity

The Colorado College TIGER says that there is no need to worry about adverse publicity reaching the readers of a paper.

In each town at least one-fifth of the people cannot read, and even the best selling newspapers don't reach 30 per cent of the residents.

Over half of those who buy the paper never see the article carrying adverse publicity. One-half of those who see it don't read it.

One-half of those who do read it don't understand it. One-half of those who understand it are not interested. One-half of those who are interested don't know to whom the article refers. One-half of those who do know to whom it refers don't believe it.

"The rest who do believe it are not worthy of your friendship, so why worry about them?" asks the TIGER.

Speeding on U.S. streets and highways injured nearly 600,000 men, women and children.

Long-Awaited Geology Club Formed at CC

It has long been a pertinent and disturbing question to the geology students of CC as to why there has never been a geology club on our campus. After all, here we are in the middle of the famous Pikea Peak Region, where geology is as synonymous as day and daylight. It is almost impossible to look out of your room window and not see classic examples of geologic structure.

But why stay in your room and look at these wonderful structures that make up "the earth we live on," why not put on your old duds and drive out to the many mountain trails that will lead you to first hand views of these wonderful structures. Once there, you can dig around, pan gold, collect fossils and mineral specimens, feel the vibrations of 10 or 12,000 feet of the penetrating steel of an oil well rig as it burrows down in search of the black gold, experience trips to the famous mining camps of Cripple Creek, Leadville, Telluride, Idaho Springs, and countless others, even experience the thrill of descending some two or three thousand feet into the lower level of one of these famous mines.

Then again, if you prefer the

Naval Aviation Procurement Team to Interview Applicants at Colorado College

A Naval Aviation Cadet procurement team from the Naval Air Station, Denver will interview potential applicants at Colorado College on May 18 and 19. The team will be composed of a Naval Aviator, Lieut. Robert E. Olson, Naval Aviation Cadet procurement officer at the station, and a Marine enlisted man, Sergeant Donald L. Smith. They will tell college students how they may gain commissions as Naval Aviators.

The Navy's reestablished Naval Aviation Cadet program offers officers' commissions to young men between the ages of 18 and 27 who have completed at least two years of college. Cadets who successfully complete 18 months of aviation training at Pensacola, Fla., are commissioned ensigns in the Naval Reserve or second lieutenants in the Marine Corps Reserve.

After they are commissioned they will serve 30 months with the fleet's sea-air team. A naval aviator's pay ranges from $438 a month for single men to $455 a month for married men. Lieut. Olson and Sergeant Smith will interview interested applicants on the campus to determine their eligibility for appointment as a Naval Aviation Cadet. Successful applicants will be given the final examination at the Denver naval air station.

A spinster answering her doorbell encountered a snappily dressed young man with a worldly look and sample case.

"I represent the Soandso Wool Company," he began. "Would you be interested in coarse yarns?"

"Certainly," breathed the old maid. "Tell me a few."

Tigers Lose to FGH and Regis

Regis College of Denver posted a 7-0 victory over the hapless Tigers a week ago last Tuesday on Stewart field. Last Saturday night the Tigers lost their fourth game of the week in facing Fitzsimmons General Hospital.

Ed Robson, who normally plays short stop, hurled for the Tigers. Robson hurled good ball, but going into the last inning the army squad blew two runs across to sew up the game.

In the Regis game Lisowski opened the game on the mound for Colorado College but was relieved in the second inning by Walt Stone who was retired in the seventh with Wally Parus relieving him for the finish of the game. Regis collected 11 hits from three pitchers and five bases on balls were issued by the threesome.

CC was able to collect only two hits in the entire game. Ed Robson got on with an in-

The University of Oklahoma captured its third Colorado College Invitational golf tournament Saturday with a low four man team score of 638. Denver placed second with seven more strokes. The southerners grabbed the title in 1949 and 1951. Colorado College came in with a poor 709 to edge out only one team. # Colorado College to Host RMC Track Meet

COMPETITION TO BEGIN THIS FRIDAY; SIX TEAMS WILL COMPETE IN CARNIVAL

This coming weekend, Friday and Saturday afternoons, will see Colorado College playing host at Washburn field for the RMC track meet. Although the CC cindermen have been hampered greatly because of lack of depth there is little doubt that the small but powerful squad of seventeen men will make one of the best showings in years. The team although hindered by poor seasonal weather all year has shown tremendous spirit and fight in every meet in which they have participated.

Coach Thompson, disappointed because of the lack of enthusiasm which the students have shown in regard to track this year, has expressed a great deal of pride and admiration for the small handful of athletes which have done admirably well this year.

There will be preliminaries Friday afternoon with the finals on Saturday afternoon.

It is expected that Idaho State will successfully defend their Rocky Mountain Conference track title, but there is considerable doubt that State will pile up as strong a margin in points as they did last year.

In conjunction with the tennis tournament and track meet, the faculty representatives of the RMC will meet at Lennox House on Friday night to consider athletic policies governing the Rocky Mountain Conference.

Bill Clark Places In AAU Sweepstakes

Four records were shelved last Friday and Saturday at the annual AAU collegiate track meet as Colorado A&M walked away with the title for the second straight time in the track and field meet held in Denver.

The Aggies accumulated 75 points in their smashing victory to more than lead the second place Lowry Air Force Base which tallied 35½ points.

Team scoring went as follows: A&M 75, LAFB 33, Wyoming 26½, Denver 11, Colo. State 5, Colo. College 3, New Mexico 2½.

Records were set in the mile, discus, two mile run, and the mile relay. Alex Burl of A&M tied the century mark of 9.8 seconds.

Colorado College picked up their lone three points in the 440 yard dash as Bill Clark placed a close third. George Demos and Bill Howell completed the three-man team which represented Colorado College in the meet.

CC Batsmen Drop Two Games End Year Here Friday, Sat.

Colorado College bowed out twice last weekend to Lowry Air Force Base in two lop-sided games. On Friday the Air Force men were entertained here and whipped the Tigers 21-9. The Tigers traveled to Denver on Saturday, and lost a heart-breaker to Lowry, 8-7. In the first game the Tigers outthit the flyers 15-11 but mysteriously wound up on the short end of a 21-9 score. In the eighth inning the Tigers took the field losing 5-2 but then the storm struck and the Air Force men turned in 16 runs in the last two frames.

Poor ball handling was a very deciding factor in the Tiger loss. In the two fateful innings the Tigers aided the Lowry men with eight errors and in nine innings of play committed 12 errors.

Wally Parus started on the mound for CC. He gave up 11 hits and seven runs. Parus was on the mound for seven innings giving up nine walks. Relief pitcher Walt Stone came in for the last few innings but could do no better for the Tiger cause. Parus was ruled the loser.

Stone belted a round-tripper with Tony George on base in the eighth inning and Jeff Sinus followed suit in the last inning with no men on. Lowry connected for two base clearers to help the air-men's cause.

CC ends their fateful season this weekend with two games with Colorado State. One game will be played Friday afternoon and the last game of the season will also be played here on Saturday.

In Saturday's contest the Tigers dropped an 8-7 nod to Lowry Field despite two homers by Jim Bergstrom and single round-trippers by Wally Parus and Wes Boucher.

Ya-Te-He Selects Girls for Welcomers

Seventy-eight girls, including sixty-five freshmen and thirteen upperclassmen, have been chosen to function as welcomers for incoming freshmen girls next year.

There will be a meeting of the welcomers in Bemis Commons at 4:15 today.

Civil Service Exam To Be Given July 13

Sen. Eugene D. Millikin of Colorado has announced that July 13, 1953, is the date scheduled for the civil service examination to be held for those young men who desire to compete for the three military and two naval academy appointments to be made by him for entrance in 1954.

Any unmarried young man who, at the time of admission, will be between 17 and 22 years of age, and who is a citizen of the United States and a resident of Colorado, may apply to Senator Millikin for an appointment.

Interested young men may obtain further information concerning the examination by writing to Sen. Eugene D. Millikin, Senate Office, Bldg., Washington 25, D.C.

"And your brother, who was trying so hard to get a government job, what is he doing now?"

"Nothing. He got the job."

The minister's daughter returned at three o'clock from a dance. Her father greeted her sternly, "Good morning, child of the devil." Respectfully and demurely, she replied: "Good morning, father."

"Mother, are there any skyscrapers in heaven?"
"No, son, engineers build skyscrapers."

Joan Todd is serving as head of the AWS welcoming committee. vice chairman is Sue Pfeiffer and Sue Williams has been elected secretary.

The welcomers are members of an organization known as Ya-Te-He, the Indian word meaning "welcome." Each welcomer will communicate with several incoming girls during the summer. Welcoming activities will reach a climax during Freshman Week next September.

Eighty per cent of vehicles involved in fatal traffic accidents in 1952 were traveling straight ahead.

TRIPLE THREAT MAN!

The Brains of the Team

Teamwork can work miracles. In a football game the man who sparks these miracles is the quarterback. He's the man who calls the signals. There's a man who calls the signals for an Air Force flying team, too! They call him an Aircraft Observer.

Do YOU have what it takes to become an Aircraft Observer?

It isn't easy. It's tough. You have to be a MAN to qualify as an Aircraft Observer. But when you are one, brother, you're SOMEBODY! The success or failure of a mission involving over a million dollars worth of flight equipment depends on you.

THE AIRCRAFT OBSERVER IS THE SOMEBODY WHO:

As Bombardment Officer, is number one man on a bombing run, the man who controls the plane in the target area
As Navigation Officer, is the pilot's guiding hand on every flight!

As Radar Officer, is master of a new science and operator of the device that sees beyond human sight!

As Aircraft Performance Engineer Officer, is the one who "keeps the plane flying", the man who knows his plane inside and out, who keeps it fit for the skies and sees that it stays there!

If YOU can accept a challenge like this, you'll take your place beside the best—you'll find your future in the clouds!

TO BE QUALIFIED you must be single, a citizen, between 19 and 26½ years old, have had at least 2 years of college and be in tip top physical shape. If this describes you, then YOU, too, can qualify. Today!

HERE'S WHAT YOU'LL GET! The world's best training. Good food and plenty of it. Uniforms, flight clothes, equipment. Medical and dental care. Free insurance. Flight training in Uncle Sam's greatest aircraft.

AND THEN, AFTER GRADUATION, you'll win your silver wings, and earn more than $5000 a year as an Air Force Lieutenant. You'll enjoy an adventurous, exciting career with a hand-picked crew of real men. You'll be THE BRAINS OF THE TEAM, A TRIPLE THREAT MAN... as a Bombardment Officer, as a Navigation Officer, as a Radar Officer, as an Aircraft Performance Engineer.

THE SOONER YOU APPLY, THE SOONER YOU FLY!

GET THE DETAILS: Visit your nearest Air Force Base or Air Force Recruiting Officer. Or write to Director of Training, Headquarters, USAF, Washington 25, D.C., Attention: Aviation Cadet Branch. If you are in a school that has an Air Force ROTC program, see your Professor of Air Science and Tactics.

The outstanding senior women's athletic award went to Judy Johnson.

The guest speaker, Mrs. Charles T. Ryder, holds a bachelor of arts degree from Barnard and a master of arts degree from Columbia. She has four children. She is serving as secretary of the Colorado Springs Y.W.C.A. and is a member of the Colorado Springs Community Chest Board. She is chairman of the Scholarship Committee of the Women's Educational Society of Colorado Springs.

Mrs. Ryder feels that in these difficult times one should keep in mind certain marks of progress: the United Nations, aid to underdeveloped countries, and increased concern in goals of education.

She emphasized the values of a liberal education for women in careers, in home-making, and in community service. Some of the important results of college training which she pointed out are intelligent weighing of facts and making of decisions, strengthened moral standards, and assumption of responsibility.

Mrs. Ryder summarized one of her main thoughts by the following statement of Mrs. McIntosh

Georgie Shaw Says CC Men Lack Organization, Need AMS

By TOM PANKAU

A lack of adequate organization of the men's groups at CC was the sharpest criticism leveled against Colorado College by Georgianna Shaw, president of the Associated Women Students. "There is no organization which can unify and direct the activities of the various men's groups toward any particular or central goal," complains Georgie. "The girls are fortunate in having the AWS, which is able to coordinate and efficiently administer the numerous activities composed only of women," she continues.

In a student organization chart of CC, there is a blank spot just opposite AWS. "It would be a good idea if there was a group called the Associated Men's Students, which could alleviate this deficiency at CC," says Miss Shaw. "As it is now, all the men's groups go their own way. This causes a lot of wasted time and effort in planning and carrying out the various programs sponsored by the men."

"Sometimes it is charged that the women at CC are overorganized," continues Georgie, "however I do not think this is true. I think that the men just do not realize what they are missing by not having a central power." However, she says that there is more of a need for such an organization for the women at CC than for the men. The primary reason, which she puts forward, is that the president of ASCC, who is generally a male student, does not have a proper understanding of the various women's organizations and their problems. Therefore, the girls need a woman to represent them in the top ranks of student government.

"One thing that many people do not realize is that AWS is a national organization for the purpose of giving women a fair voice on their campuses. We have one of the better AWS organizations at CC," states Miss Shaw, "because we have the Quadrangle Association to help us out. AWS at most colleges tries to do both jobs. I feel that our incorporation with QA and the resultant division of responsibility makes us stronger and more efficient."

Entering CC as a freshman, this mild-mannered, affable, hard-working junior hails from Wichita, Kans. She is a Gamma Phi Beta and has served as song chairman for that group during the past two years. Last year she was secretary of Montgomery and this year is acting as president.

Georgie was personnel committee chairman of the AWS last year and in February of this year was elected to head that organization. She is also a member of the QA Board. As president of AWS, she is one of the two student representatives to the Committee on Undergraduate Life.

As CUL representative, Miss Shaw feels quite strongly that there should be more student representation in that group. She says that one of the arguments against more student representation on CUL is that it is fundamentally a faculty committee. To this Miss Shaw answers, "Why should the students have but two members on a committee which is by far the most powerful in determining what policies the students shall follow? Actually both the faculty and the students would profit by having a larger student representation on CUL because it would equalize the exchange of ideas between faculty and students and make both parties more generally aware of the problems at CC."

Nor is the fear that the CUL will usurp the powers of ASCC well-grounded according to Georgie. She says that if you build a strong ASCC and let everyone know that the CUL will not consider problems until they have been at least discussed in the student council, then, there will be no danger of the business of the student council by-passing ASCC. There is no reason why we can't have more students discussing campus problems on the CUL and still have ASCC maintain its proper power, concludes Miss Shaw. Actually such a move will strengthen both organizations, she believes.

AWS at CC has a training program which Georgie feels is invaluable to the women's organizations. This program indoctrinates all new officers in just what their job entails and some of the better methods of making that job a success.

Among the main programs which the AWS is responsible for is the Welcoming Program for freshmen girls in the fall. The men have no comparable program. Activity Night, held in the fall, gets little help from men's organizations. It is designed to make the freshmen aware of what activities exist at CC and try and create a desire in them to participate in these ac-

'THE FISHERMAN AND HIS SOUL' RECEIVES FIRST-NIGHTER PRAISE

Last night saw the first of three performances of the new ballet-legend "The Fisherman and His Soul" at the Fine Arts Center. The ballet is a setting of Oscar Wilde's fairy-tale, "The Fisherman and His Soul," with choreography by Molly Lynn, music by David Kraehenbuehl, and the leads taken by Bob Kicklighter, Melba Cimino, Lowell Sharpe, Joyce Gladmond, and Ted Coons. There is a small but brilliant orchestra in the pit, and the whole is bound together by Rosemary Musgravo as narrator.

The ballet is colorful, exciting and beautiful and anyone who misses it is going to regret it for the rest of his life. For those who could not attend on Thursday evening, the ballet will be repeated on Saturday and Sunday afternoons at 2:30, but for those performances the college activity books will not be honored and admission will be 75c.

The Goldiggers Ball and the Songfest are products of AWS. The senior women are given an honors dinner in the spring by the Associated Women's Students. And AWS operates a secondhand bookstore.

The Associated Women's Students at CC is composed of the four sororities, the Independent Women, the Quadrangle Association, the Tiger Club, the Women's Athletic Association and an advisor. The group also sponsors eight committee chairmen.

"There is a trend in colleges over the country to get more student representation in practically all faculty committees. This brings about a better understanding of the problems by both the faculty and the students and tends to wipe out the feeling that the faculty and administration is trying to run a dictatorship over the students. There is no reason why CC should be behind the times in this respect. ASCC cannot decide faculty problems, so why should not the students be given more voice in the committee which largely determines their fate at Colorado College?" challenges Miss Shaw.

9.—Article IV, Section I C

Previously read:

"All validated warning will be kept on file. The record of the warning will be destroyed when the student leaves Colorado College."

Make addition to this: Insert the word "first" before the word "warning" in the second sentence.

10.—Article V, Section II

Last sentence previously read:

".....A unanimous vote of the twelve Honor Council members shall be necessary for a verdict of guilty."

Now reads:

".....A three-fourths vote of the twelve Honor Council members shall be necessary for a verdict of guilty."

11.—Article IV, Section III

"The accused shall inform the Honor Council when it renders the decision, or within five hours thereafter, whether or not he cares to exercise his right of appeal as hereinafter provided."

Insertion:

Insert the following phrase after the word "decision": "on the second violation"

12.—Article V, Section I

Previously read:

"Any student who believes that the Honor Council has acted contrary to justice or has erred in considering his case shall have an unequal right of appeal."

Insert the following phrase at the beginning of the sentence: "Upon conviction of a second violation . . ."

13.—Article IV, Section VI

Add the following paragraphs as Section VI to Article IV:

"Upon receipt of reports of excessive cheating in a class, the members of the Honor Council shall go before the class and discuss with them the nature of the specific violation, the value of a working Honor System, the personal responsibility which underlies the system, and the desire of the Council for cooperation from the class. Also at this time shall be made:

A statement to the effect that if there are any further similar reports, action will be taken, the policy of such action to be classified if that action becomes necessary.

If similar reports of excessive cheating in the same class are again reported, the president of the Council shall go before the class to inform them that as of the date of his appearance, the entire class is being restricted. A restriction of this type means that if any person in this class is proven guilty of violating the Honor System in this or any other class for one calendar year from the date the class is placed on the restriction, he will be dismissed from school."

PRESIDENT GILL HONORED BY ROTC WITH MILITARY REVIEW AND CEREMONY

President William H. Gill was honored by Colorado College's ROTC unit on Thursday, May 14th, at Washburn Field, with a military review and ceremony. President Gill trooped the line of cadets before presenting the President's Streamer to A Company as the best drilled company. Cadet Captain Neil Lewis, commanding A Company, and Cadet John Taylor, guidon bearer, accepted the streamer on behalf of A Company.

Commander Sandison of Post No. 101 presented the American Legion Scholastic awards to Cadet Capt. John P. Wolff, Cadet Sgt. Kenneth P. Baird, and Cadet Corporal Paul C. Shields.

State Senator Vernon Cheever, representing Post No. 101, awarded the Veterans of Foreign Wars medal to the best drilled individuals of the ROTC Unit. Senator Cheever awarded the first place medal, second year cadet to 2nd Lt. John R. Wesson; the second place medal, second year cadet to 2nd Lt. Renwick G. Congdon; with first year cadet medals going to Sgt. Arthur E. Elder and Pfc. Donald E. Singmaster.

Lt. Col. Herbert B. Heyer awarded Sgt. Robert M. Thompson the professor of military science and tactics medal, as the outstanding non-commissioned officer of the Corps of Cadets. President Gill then presented Robert M. Thompson, 2nd Lt. El-Silver Rifleman's medals to Sgt. Herbert B. Olsen, Sgt. William B. Polard, Cpl. Sanford Ballou, and Pvt. Karl Cohen. Bronze rifleman's medals went to Lt. Col. Leo E. Oyler, Pfc. Thomas Seeley, and Pvt. John Mills, all members of the ROTC Rifle Team.

Upon completion of the awards ceremony, President Gill reviewed the ROTC Unit.

Several members of the Chamber of Commerce, Military Affairs Committee, along with many parents and friends of ROTC Cadets, students and faculty attended the review.

More than 100 persons visited the ROTC department after the review, where displays of equipment and training facilities were explained by second year cadets and members of the military staff.

Similar ROTC equipment displays were set up and explained by Pershing Rifle members on Saturday at Peterson Field in observance of Armed Forces Day.

CUL Authorizes Committee for Conduct at CC

At its meeting Wednesday, the Committee on Undergraduate Life authorized the appointment of a sub-committee to study the standards of conduct at Colorado College and to consider how the highest standards of conduct may be passed along to incoming students. As you are probably aware, approximately four-ninths of this year's student body were new, and the ration will probably not be very different next year.

As a sub-committee of the Committee on Undergraduate Life, this "Standards of Conduct" committee will be expected to make its contribution in the form of ideas and recommendations rather than to play an active role in the execution of policies. It will make its reports to the Committee on Undergraduate Life, which will then discuss the ideas and data presented and will take such action as may seem desirable, either by referring questions to other bodies (Student Council, Faculty, Opening Week Committee, Interfraternity Council, Pan Hellenic, Social Committee, etc.) or by action on its own part.

The members of this committee include the following: Dr. J. Glenn Gray, chairman; Dean Howard R. Burkle, Miss Victoria K. Hann, Dr. Thomas W. Ross, Miss Gail Lund, Miss Barbara Jean Trotter, Mr. Moses W. Harrison and Mr. Edward B. MacGuire.

It is too late in the year to expect

Leadership Conference Forms Resolutions for Improving CC

By TOM PANKAU

"Accentuate the Positive" was the slogan adopted by the 1953 Colorado College Leadership Conference held in La Foret last weekend, May 16 and 17. This slogan was first suggested by Dr. Glenn Gray in his initial panel discussion on the morale at CC. Dr. Gray indicated that CC had plenty of good qualities but most of the students were intent on playing up the negative side, thus inducing more griping and lowering the morale of the student body. In his conclusive remarks, at the end of the conference, Dr. Gray pointed out that Colorado College possesses an unlimited potential in what it could do and challenged the students to work together to make the most of the opportunities they have here on this campus.

Sixty-four members of the student body, faculty and administration were on hand to present their views in this two-day session. There were panels and discussion groups covering such subjects as the Aims of the Conference, the General Traits of a Leader, Campus Communications, the Foreign Student's Role on Campus, Communications in Relation to Freshman Week, and Class Assemblies, and Discussion Groups for Presidents, Secretaries and Treasurers of Campus Organizations.

Dean Howard Burkle pointed out that the general aims of the conference were: (1) To foster a sense of responsibility in student leaders, (2) For students to explore and find techniques for leadership, (3) To ferret out imagined or real tension between student and administration leadership, and (4) that it should be educational, inspirational and analytical.

The general traits and qualifications which all leaders should possess, were pointed out to be dependability, punctuality, tolerance, humility, ability to work for the group, tact, be a follower, familiarity with all aspects of the organization, to be able to take helpful criticism and to be sincere in his desire to help the organization.

A sincere interest in the conference was shown by most of the members and participation in the discussion groups was excellent. A recommendation was made to provide for a wider distribution of leadership positions on the campuses to insure that more people receive an opportunity for a leading role, and to allow those students in responsible posts to devote more time to their jobs. A committee was established to explore the advantages and disadvantages of a point system. This group, composed of Joyce Lind, chairman, Jane Carroll, Russ Laeschelt, Sue Beer and Kathy Smith, will report its findings directly to the ASCC.

Poor campus communications between the various organizations at CC was indicated as the weakest link on the campus. All organizations must make an effort to insure that the other groups find out what they are doing. The

LET'S FACE IT

This being the last issue of The Tiger, it might be well to clear up a few loose ends—if for nothing else than just to get the record straight.

Last week one of our readers criticized this department for printing unsigned letters to the editor. We agree that people who write letters with the intention of having them printed ought to sign their names. That policy will be adhered to and I thank the reader who called it to my attention.

In conjunction with this it might be mentioned that another letter—unsigned—was sent to The Tiger this week. The author took this column to task for ridiculing the fraternity-sorority water fights. The writer of this letter also maintained that "Let's Face It" reprimanded the students for their 'unnecessary and childish acts', and that I derided the fraternities and sororities for those same acts. This column made no such accusation. If this writer will examine the May 8 issue he will find that it is not disapproval of the idea that is objected to—only that sometimes water fights can be carried to the extreme.

Fraternity-sorority water fights are here to stay—and this column adds "amen". There was, however, a memorandum printed in the same issue ridiculing the students for their childish action. This letter was not written by The Tiger staff. The letter, unfortunately, was unsigned, and this fact no doubt attributes to the misunderstanding.

Now that the ancient history is disposed of let's look at something current. This column advanced the suggestion that fraternities ought to give each other cooperation in order to achieve mutual benefit. I still think it's a good idea. But then it was brought to my attention (?) that actually the fraternities aren't even organized properly! That there is no super authority through which fraternities can unify and direct their activities! The fact that self-governing fraternities have been on this campus for twenty years, that they of necessity retain a certain amount of individuality, that a spirit of fraternal friendship is essential—and countless other reasons—make it impossible to have a so-called Associated Men's Students. The Inter-Fraternity Council is adequate for integration and policy making.

Men's housing on campus is entirely different from the arrangement for women. It is not necessary to go into details as to why. Obviously girls need dorm rules and that's part of the AWS job. The men require no such regulations.

Any other organization set up to govern men would be impotent and ineffectual. The IFC provides all the unification and direction that the men need and they're doing the job sufficiently well.

The Student Council has come up with a plan to strengthen their position on campus by increasing the representation on the Council. This idea ought to do much towards increasing the outlook on campus problems. Having all the important campus groups working with the Student Council enables the Council to achieve the supreme position of student authority it deserves.

One more thing. Student enrollment will probably be up next year. With a new men's dorm, renovations in the women's dorms and other campus improvements, CC can increase its selling power. But I wonder what will happen when prospective students get the 'shock treatment' from driving on the campus roads.

Why We Need Foreign Students At CC

Very few exchange students and visitors come here simply to see America; but rather, they come to learn some specific skill or to advance their education. Nevertheless, most of them have wondered about us before they left home. At a distance they have seen a Hollywood version of America. Through the movies, which we export for foreign consumption, they have been presented with a vivid picture depicting the United States as a land of gangsterism, wealth, sex and violence.

These people were also familiar with the Communistic portrayal of "imperialistic, materialistic, intolerant Uncle Shylocks."

Even if they don't believe it, they are, at best, confused on just what to believe. They do know that we are the world's most powerful nation and that we believe in the democratic way of life to the extent that we will fight a war to defend it.

However these people feel about us, whether favorable or unfavorable, whether their feelings are mild or strong, they most assuredly, have some feelings toward us.

When foreign students come to America to study, they bring these opinions with them to test against their experiences in this country. Now when these students return to their homelands, how many of them will have a true picture of us? How many of them will have shaken off their stereotyped views and begin to see the people of this country in the same manner as you and I do—a free society based on democratic principles, warm in their family life, sincere in their struggle to combat discrimination, and earnest in their desire for world peace?

How many exchange students will go home knowing that we don't think we're perfect—that we realize we can learn something from their societies as well as teach them what ours has to offer? One of the primary purposes behind exchanging students and specialists between nations has always been to bring about an increase in understanding each other and the problems common to us all.

America needs more of this type of exchange program which stimulates thinking on an international scale. But more important, we need to insure that this program does continue and does not falter and die. For we would surely suffer in the end. Citizens in every community in the United States must get behind this program. "Agencies administering foreign student programs from New York and Washington cannot guarantee that these students and visitors will get an understanding of America that is more than superficial. You, your organization, and your community can." These meaningful words, taken from an Institute of International Education publication, reveal the purpose for having leaders and potential leaders from foreign nations on our campus, and campuses all over the country.

The Foreign Student Council at Colorado College is trying to revitalize the foreign student program on our campus, but we must have the support of the entire student body. Sponsorship of foreign students has now been shifted to the students' shoulders. If we want them, we will have to say so and put forth the time, money and effort to bring these worthy students to our campus.

Through the support of the organizations at CC, we hope to establish a concrete foreign student program designed to benefit the foreign students, Colorado College, and our nation. So, let's all get behind this program, lest we lose all trace of exchange students at Colorado College.

Bill Fritz, chairman
 Foreign Student Council

ASCC NOTES

By BILL HOWELL

With the school year rapidly coming to a close, the ASCC is rushing to finish their required work. The CUL minutes were read and it was disclosed that a special committee composed of both faculty and students was set up to study how to improve the conduct of the students at CC. Dr. Gray is chairman with Dr. Ross, Dean Burkle, Vicki Hann, Gail Lund, Mose Harrison and Ed MacGuire as his committee. This conduct committee will study what can be done to stop honor system violators, better conduct at social functions, and what can be done to avoid such conduct as was present last hockey season.

For lack of time the council had to table a motion that would increase the representation on ASCC. The motion was to have the presidents of the IFC, QA, AWS, Panhellenic Council and head of the assembly committee represented on the council. This would require a change in the constitution by poll of the organizations and time will not allow this to be done.

Again the foreign student plan was discussed and a tentative plan set up to govern the foreign students room and board. Due to conflict brought about by social functions it was impossible to poll the organizations and thus as ASCC must set up and adopt next year's plan at the next and final meeting of the year.

Gail Lund suggested that for the convenience of the students that the treasurer's office be kept open until 12:00 on week days and that the library be open on Sunday nights instead of Monday nights. These suggestions were passed on by the council and sent to the CUL for final approval.

May 21 was announced as the final date for all those who wish to apply for the job of either editor or business manager of the Kinnikinnik.

ONCE UPON A TIME THERE WERE THREE BEERS LIVING ON A FARM

(From the Stanford Chaparral)

Once upon a time (a "time" is anything I choose to have it mean) there were three bears: A big beer, a medium-sized beer, and a bottle beer.

The big beer and the medium-sized beer were brown; the bottle beer was black. The three beers lived in a garden near a large farm. There were many people living on the large farm. Some of the people were "students." (Students are people animals that hunt beers.) One of the people living on the large farm was a "girl." (Girls are people animals that hunt students that hunt beers.) She had long golden locks and her name was Little Red Riding Hood.

Once upon a time there also lived a poor boy named Jack (he was poor because he had just paid his library fines, and he was living upon a time because he could afford nothing better). Anyway, he was living upon this time, but mostly he lived in the beer garden.

Now Jack was a most extraordinary boy. He had a wonderful eye that could see things no one else could see. At certain times (usually after he had been in the beer garden all night) his eyes would slowly change from their natural color to red, and then he would see a most remarkable sight—a beanstalk stretching up into the sky.

One day, when Jack was sitting in the beer garden watching the giant beanstalk, he got a wonderful idea. He decided to climb the beanstalk. It had never occurred to him before, but he now saw no reason not to do so. He started to climb. He climbed and climbed, and soon reached the top where he saw a path stretching out over the clouds to a huge castle.

When Jack reached the castle he entered with caution to find a giant counting his treasures—among them a golden harp with a lovely voice and a gorgeous body. This he had to have, so he waited until the giant fell asleep and hi-

AWS ACTIVITIES

By MARION SHAW

At the last AWS meeting the AWS Book Store and the to-be-initiated AWS "Swap Shop" were discussed.

The Book Store will be set up in the AWS room in Ticknor during exam week. Patsy Carter, who is in charge, may be contacted for the hours. All secondhand textbooks, whether used at CC or not, should be left at the AWS Book Store. Money from each purchase will be forwarded to the original owner next fall.

The location of the "Swap Shop" has not yet been set. The hours will be from 12:00 to 12:30 p. m. and 5:30 to 6:00 p. m. on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday and from 12:00 to 12:30 and 5:00 to 6:00 on Saturday, during exam week. Susie Beer and Marilyn Charles will be in charge.

Everyone with something which will sell, in the line of lamps, curtains, tables, etc., should bring this paraphernalia to the "Swap Shop." The prices will be based on facts obtained from secondhand dealers and from the original price, when obtainable.

If an article is sold, the money will be sent to the original owner next fall. Articles not sold will be given to needy families.

There will be an informal get-together of the "old" and "new" AWS Boards some time next week.

Plans for the theme, program, and place of the AWS fall conference were discussed at the last meeting.

Dr. Paul E. Boucher Attended Conference Of 25 Physicists

Dr. Paul E. Boucher of the Department of Physics attended, by invitation of Amherst College and the National Science Foundation, a conference of twenty-five physicists from small colleges held on the campus of Amherst College, Amherst, Massachusetts, May 4, 5, and 6.

The conference was called by the National Science Foundation of Washington, D. C., to discuss the place and means of stimulating research in the small college. After a lengthy discussion of the various aspects of the subject, the members of the conference prepared a report which will serve as a guide in making research grants to the faculty members in the small college.

Dr. Boucher reports a very stimulating meeting with other scientists. Colorado College was one of four colleges, including Pomona College, Linfield College, and Reed College, represented at the meeting which are situated west of the Missouri and Mississippi rivers.

It was Dr. Boucher's good fortune to spend an hour with Vice-President Adrian Clark of D. Van Nonstrand Company, New York City, discussing questions relating to the second revision of his college textbook, "Fundamentals of Photography."

Evi Levin Honored By German Club

Evi Levin was honored by the German Club with a surprise party last Friday afternoon in the Hayes House Library at 4:00 p. m. The affair was planned as a means of recognizing and acknowledging the outstanding work which Mrs. Levin has done for the club since she has been at Colorado College.

A leather photograph album with appropriate engraving was given as a token of the club's appreciation for the time and effort that Mrs. Levin has spent in helping to make the German Club an organization that functions with spirit and purpose.

The committee served refreshments of ice cream and cookies while the members of all the German classes conversed and talked of summer trips to Europe and other plans.

The annual picnic of the club was held in the home of Dr. Brandt on a rainy Saturday afternoon and everyone enjoyed the wonderful food provided by Mrs. Brandt and the committee.

Foreign Students Enjoy QA Dinner

Sunday, May 10, was the special date set aside for the Quadrangle Association's Foreign Student Dinner held in Bemis dining room. Liz Hugins, Quadrangle Association member and chairman of the dinner invited the following foreign students now attending CC: Lily Kramer and her sister from Czechoslovakia; Bjorn Akemark, Sweden; Guenter Rinsche, Germany; Urzella Monroe, Germany; Werner Schade, Germany; Vija Spalving, Latvia; Michel Chaudy, France; Lionel Leong, China; Vic Kao, China; and David Lam, China.

Entertainment took the form of western music provided by Maurey Hammond, Lucy Hammond, and Mary Dixon. These cowboy and folk songs were a special request of the foreign students.

After dinner, students gathered in the Pink Room of Bemis hall to participate in group singing and discussion. A song from each country was sung, led by the representative of that country. Discussion was also led by the foreign students and consisted of information about the various countries.

"QA Governs CC Women, Ferrets Out Many Campus Problems," Says Prexy

By TOM PANKAU

"Through the Quadrangle Association, several problems pertinent to the whole campus have been brought out and action has been initiated to rectify them," according to Gail Lund, president of the Quadrangle Association. Among these problems were poor lighting on the campus and the early closing of the library. Many girls complained of poor lighting, making it dangerous to walk across the campus unescorted at night, and of the library closing before the designated hour. "Investigations revealed both of these complaints to be justified, so steps have been taken to help alleviate these problems," emphasizes Gail.

"Few people outside the QA itself have any idea of the purpose and functions of this group," complains this Oak Park, Ill., junior. "The Quadrangle Association is the policy-making and governing body for women dormitory life at Colorado College. It is really the judiciary branch of the AWS."

The QA Council is composed of four elected officers from the ten women's dormitories and a representative from each of these dorms. A freshman girl is chosen to sit in on the council to represent freshman viewpoints. Their purpose is to set policies for the ten women's dorms and to insure that these policies are properly administered and followed. It solves all the problems which arise regarding dorm life for the girls and it publicizes QA policies which QA has set up.

"With the advent of the honor system at CC, women's dorms were quick to realize the potential which such a system had to make more responsible citizens of the girls. So QA set up a policy which put the six minor dorms on the honor system for the carrying out of QA policies. It has worked out excellently," says Gail. "Before this policy was adopted there was much disregard for QA rules, especially on sneaking in and out of the dorms. Now such violations are almost non-existent. It is impracticable to put the four larger dorms on this policy because of their size and because freshmen aren't properly adjusted to campus life."

"We have tried to stress," explains Gail, "the consideration of each individual case when discussing infractions of the rules. Blanket penalties do not work for all girls."

The Quadrangle Association has become much more respected in the past few years because the group has really shown its ability and desire to work out girl's problems on their own. Miss Sally Morgan is advisor for the QA but gives the girls much freedom in administering their affairs.

The procedure used for changing a policy or adopting a new one is for some hall council to make a recommendation to QA. This board discusses the matter and works out a solution, provided it is passed by the council. They then take their recommendations to a meeting with the head residents to discuss the advisability of adopting the proposed changes. If it is deemed advisable and there is no conflict with school policy, the program is put into effect.

"One of the strongest programs which QA sponsors," according to Gail, "is the choosing of counselors. These girls are carefully selected by the council and then given an extensive training program to qualify them to act as counselors for many of the new girls who have problems in adjusting to campus life."

Majoring in English, Gail entered Colorado College as a freshman. Since that time, this level-headed, well-liked, honor student has been active in many extra-curricular activities throughout the campus. Her work was highlighted last year when she was presented with the Ann Rice Award.

This year, Gail was president of Howbert House, social chairman for AWS, a member of QA and hall councils, class commissioner and a member of the honor council. She is a Kappa Alpha Tbeta, where she served as scholarship chairman this year.

Gail will be the QA representative to AWS next year, representative to ASGC for QA, and will continue as a member of the Tiger Club, which she has held since her freshman year.

Some of the projects which the Quadrangle Association sponsors are:

1. A dinner in the fall in honor of President and Mrs. W. H. Gill.
2. A Christmas dinner, which includes guests of honor.
3. A Christmas party for underprivileged children.
4. A dinner in conjunction with AWS to recognize outstanding freshman work.
5. In conjunction with AWS helps to support the foreign student program.

"Poor communications between the various organizations on campus is one of the major problems CC has today," says Gail. "If the groups knew more about what each other was doing, there would be much less understanding on the campus. We also need a stronger ASGC. This specifically means two things: a fuller realization and taking advantage of the powers designated to ASGC, and a strengthening of the council itself by admitting the presidents of the half dozen more powerful groups on campus to the official council group."

FROM . . . CAMPUS to CAMPUS

KANSAS STATE COLLEGE—Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority and Beta Theta Pi fraternity sang their way to first place at the annual interfraternity sing this year. This makes the 19th time out of the last 21 years for the Betas to win the title.

WEBER COLLEGE (Utah)—Pleasure-packed education is in store for more than 90 Weber students engaging in the annual three-day geology field trip to southern Utah. Zion and Bryce parks are the destination for the trip.

IDAHO STATE COLLEGE—The annual Rocky Mountain Inter-Collegiate Press convention was held in Pocatello on May 14, 15, and 16.

NORTHEASTERN UNIVERSITY (Mass.)—The Northeastern News thinks the cut policy system is merely a "protection for professors who offer dull instruction. Abolish the rule," says the News, "and many classes would be deserted day after day. And it would be a lesson to those instructors who refuse to make their classes interesting." (Who says OG has a bad cut system?)

BROWN UNIVERSITY—(An experimental curriculum for freshmen and sophomores at Brown University will commence next fall. This program calls for no lectures and will not use textbooks. Instead these students will spend their time tracking down ideas. Only volunteers from the upper half of these classes will be used.)

MICHIGAN STATE COLLEGE—You have to know how to write if you want to graduate here. A new ruling states that seniors can't receive their degrees until their "writing technique is improved to a point where they can write legibly."

UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA—The February issue of "Technology" engineering magazine has been withheld from students because of the publication's "failure to maintain higher standards of humor."

UTAH STATE COLLEGE—Goeds here have been asked to refrain from wearing jeans in the classroom. College officials say the girls should wear jeans only when milking cows.

WILLIAMS COLLEGE (Penn.)—The local chapter of Phi Delta Theta social fraternity has been suspended by its national council for pledging a Jewish student last October. The fraternity's national convention is in August 1953, at which time three-fourths of the delegates must uphold the suspension ruling in order to make it stick. (Ed Note—Several campuses over the nation have taken polls and offered serious discussion on eliminating such discriminating clauses from fraternity rules.)

A farmer's barn had burned down and the insurance agent, explaining the policy, said that the company would build another barn of similar size instead of paying the claim in cash. The farmer was furious.

"If that's the way you do business," he shouted, "you can cancel the policy on my wife."

CC Leadership Conference

TIGER was said to have the largest responsibility in informing the students of what is going on at CC. Better usage of the bulletin boards and KRCC were recommended as means of furthering this program.

In the discussion of communications relating to Freshman Week and Class Assemblies, the suggestion was made to have a special Freshman Week edition of the TIGER, and for the secretaries of the class meetings to submit a report of the highlights of the discussion to President Gill's office, the ASCC and the Tiger. More cooperation from the students in handling Freshman Week activities was called for. It is believed that class meetings, once firmly established next fall, will do much to unify the various classes and to give the students an opportunity to express their views in public.

Foreign students are needed at Colorado College, and at other colleges, to clarify, for our neighbors across the waters, just what America is and stands for. This exchange of students with the resultant exchange of ideas is necessary for us to understand each other so that we may live in closer harmony in a world diminishing in size. With the loss of financial aid from the college in this program, it now becomes the responsibility of every individual and every organization on the campus to get behind and support our foreign student program.

From the discussion group attended by the presidents and vice presidents at the conference, it was learned that parliamentary procedure was little known at CC. This procedure is necessary for efficient, well-balanced meetings. Thus, three motions were passed: (1) to ask the committee on instruction to incorporate a course on parliamentary procedure into the Freshman English course, (2) that parliamentary procedure be discussed in class meetings, and (3) that CC student executives meet during the year, whenever necessary, to discuss their common problems. Georgiana Shaw was appointed chairman of a committee whose function it is to see that these executive meetings are held next year.

The secretaries agreed that keeping an accurate, detailed account of the happenings of the meeting is the most important function they have. In addition, it was recommended that they be thoroughly familiar with the constitution of the group and to work in close unity with the president.

Care should be taken to elect organization treasurers on the basis of ability and desire for the job, rather than the usual popularity. A treasurer need not necessarily be a business major nor have had accounting, although these qualifications are highly desirable. He should make frequent reports to his group on their financial status and let the group know if they have enough money or not to do the project they are planning. Accurate bookkeeping was stressed as one of the most important aspects of a treasurer's job.

These are the general highlights of the conference. A full detailed report will be submitted to every organization on campus and posted on all bulletin boards next fall after school recesses. The purpose of this is to start the school year off right by having these ideas fresh in mind at the beginning of the year instead of the end.

Gen. W. H. Gill was an honored guest at the conference. Other administrative members who participated in the conference were Dean and Mrs.

George Adams, Dean H. E. Mathias, Dean Juan Reid, Dean Sally Morgan, Mr. R. T. Simcock, Miss Martha Campbell, Miss Lorena Berger, Miss Vicki Hahn, Miss Miriam Grant, Miss Betty Groom, Miss Joyce Charles, and Mrs. Robert Barkalow.

Faculty members participating were Dean and Mrs. Howard Burkle, Dr. and Mrs. Glenn Gray, Dr. Evan Scott, Dr. Thomas Ross, Dr. Thomas Brandt and Miss Dorothy Dickie.

The students from Colorado College attending were Weta Austin Jo Warner, Margie Epler, Terry Burke, Claire Chamberlaine, Marcia Manning, Johanna Gwosky, Diana Asforth, Tom Freund, Bard Brown, Debbie Brewster, Betsy Reed, Justine Jordan, George Shaw, Barbie Cannon, Doug Morgan, Peggy Root, Frank Florey, Dee Thaxton, Anne Pinkney, Marion Acord, Toddy Huberth, Sue Beer, Pam Adams, Tom Pankau, Joan Todd, Marion Shaw, Cynthia Mitchell, Charles Hawley, Mitzi Knudson, Kathy Smith, John Parker, Lilly Kremer, Kay Scherer, Judy Clave, Bill Peters, Guenter Rinsche, Nell Lewis, Mose Harrison, Joyce Lind, Jane Carroll, Gwen Jude, Chip Shaw, Shirley Gregory, Russ Lachelt and Larry Richmsn.

Anne Pinkney, AWS Vocational Guidance chairman, was in charge of the planning and arrangements of the conference. Miss Martha Campbell gave her invaluable assistance and Marion Shaw handled publicity for the meet. A conference is being planned for next year with the idea that this will become an annual event at Colorado College.

The conference was financed through the efforts of Mr. Charles H. Collins, one of CC's trustees.

Marty Campbell Will Again Be Head Resident

Miss Martha Campbell, last year's AWS advisor and a head resident, will be back on the Colorado College campus next year, again as head resident at Gregg.

Until very recently, Miss Campbell's plans for the coming year had been indefinite. She had even harbored the thought of leaving. Now, Miss Campbell says, "I'm coming back, and am I glad of it."

Miss Campbell has been with Colorado College for three years, serving as QA advisor, AWS advisor, head resident, and recorder of absences when the old attendance policy was in effect.

Her chief interest is working with students. She wants to help them know where they are going. Miss Campbell remarked, "Students must learn what they want to do, when, and how. They have to know to whom they are responsible, i. e., to themselves, their relatives, or a group, etc."

Marty, who took a leading part in the recent Leadership Conference, where she emphasized the principles of responsibility and goals, believes in applying these ideas in personal life.

A graduate of the University of Missouri in 1937, Marty has been executive director of Girl Scout councils, has operated as a playground supervisor, and has taught school. In 1948 she came to Colorado Springs as teen-age director at the YMCA.

Her present wish in life is to earn a master's degree in personnel services in preparation for a student activity staff job on a college campus. She is interested in student personnel work on a group basis, Marty's extracurricular activities are golfing, reading, and music. Next summer Marty will be the camp supervisor of city playgrounds at Amarillo, Tex.

After College What?

(ICP) "After College, What?," a career planning booklet by Associate Dean Eugene S. Wilson has been published by the Committee on Guidance and Placement at Amherst College. The booklet outlines a plan of organizing one's interests and abilities toward a logical end: the finding of a career in which a student will do his best work and find the most pleasure.

The following four-year career planning timetable is offered in the booklet:

FRESHMAN YEAR—

1. Begin to study your assets and liabilities, your aptitudes and interests and write your findings in a notebook.
2. Begin to read about definite occupations; list those which interest you most.
3. At vacation time interview at least one man in each occupation which interests you.
4. In April, or May, check your progress with your advisor.
5. Try to get a summer job in an occupation which interests you.

SOPHOMORE AND JUNIOR YEARS—

1. Review and revise your appraisal of your assets and liabilities.
2. Continue your exploration of occupations through books, monographs and articles.
3. Discuss aptitude and interest tests with occupational advisors.
4. Discuss your occupational thinking with the teacher who has seemed to you to be the best judge of your college work.
5. Use vacations for further interviews with men employed in occupations which interest you.
6. During summer vacation try to get a job in an occupation which interests you. Try to get a different vocational experience each summer.
7. Watch for notices of discussions on careers and attend annual career conferences.

SENIOR YEAR—

By the start of the senior year you should have a good understanding of your strengths and weaknesses, your aptitudes and interests. You should also know the kind of work you want and for which you are qualified. If you are going to graduate school, you should know how and when to apply to the school of your choice. Solicit advice from faculty specialists.

If you are going into business, you will want to attend lectures on the techniques of job getting. You will also want to have interviews with personnel officers from the companies and firms who come to the campus during the winter and spring for recruiting purposes. You will use vacation time for job-seeking interviews, and if you have been faithful in following this program, you should have a job waiting for you after graduation.

Excessive speed was the principal cause of traffic accidents in 1952.

More than 15,000 persons were killed in weekend traffic accidents last year.

A shoe repair sign advertised a leading brand of rubber heel with a lovely gal remarking, "I'm in love with America's Number One Heel." Under this, in a feminine hand, someone added, Sorry, sister I married him."

HEN'S EGG IS PLAYING AN IMPORTANT ROLE IN FIGHTING OF VIRUS DISEASES

The ordinary hen's egg, so popular on America's breakfast tables, is playing a vital rôle in medical science's efforts to eradicate many virus-caused diseases. Scientists here at Lederle Laboratories Division, American Cyanamid Company, use over 14,000,000 eggs a year in researching and producing modified live virus vaccines. Already on the market are modified live virus vaccines to immunize dogs against distemper and rabies, mink against distemper, and poultry against several killing diseases.

Hartford, Connecticut Reports On Its Traffic Deaths for Last Year

HARTFORD, Conn. (Special)—

More than two million casualties, the worst automobile accident toll in the nation's history, were recorded in 1952, according to figures released by The Travelers Insurance Companies.

Last year's traffic deaths totaled 37,600, an increase of 500 over the 1951 mark. The jury count soared to 2,090,000, more than 127,000 over 1951, the Hartford firm reported.

The death and injury totals are highlight statistics from "Who, Me?" nineteenth in an annual series of traffic accident data booklets published by The Travelers. Company statisticians collect and analyze accident facts from each state.

The most dangerous mistake in driving last year was excessive speed. Speed killed 13,430 persons and injured nearly 600,000, according to the report. Drivers under 25 years old were involved in almost 21 per cent of the year's fatal accidents although they constitute only about 15 per cent of the total of all drivers.

More than 15,000 persons were killed and nearly 750,000 hurt in weekend crashes in 1952. Forty per cent of the deaths and 36 per cent of the injuries occurred on Saturdays and Sundays last year.

It was the second consecutive year of improvement in the pedestrian record. Figures from the booklet show that pedestrian casualties were reduced by more than eight per cent in 1952. Crossing between intersections, "jay walking," is still the chief cause of pedestrian deaths and injuries.

Other facts from "Who, Me?":

Three out of four 1952 auto accidents happened to passenger cars driving in clear weather on dry roads.

Eighty per cent of vehicles involved in fatal accidents were traveling straight ahead.

Saturday was the most dangerous day of the week to drive.

1952 was the third consecutive year of increase in the death toll.

College Papers Not Popular—National Poll

Most college students are satisfied with their campus newspaper—but not enthusiastic. This was learned in an ACP National Poll of Student Opinion.

Students across the nation were asked: How would you rate the job your college newspaper is doing in stimulating student thought?

The answers:

Excellent ..... 12 per cent
Good ..... 46 per cent
Fair ..... 31 per cent
No opinion ..... 3 per cent

"Has only students' news," is one of the usual comments. Another common remark is, "Reminds me of our high school paper."

Students were also asked, "How would you rate the job your college newspaper is doing in covering campus life? Here are the results:

Excellent ..... 32 per cent
Good ..... 45 per cent
Fair ..... 17 per cent
Poor ..... 5 per cent
No opinion ..... 1 per cent

The egg may eventually play an important part in combating crippling polio. Late last year Lederle scientists announced that they had been able to grow a modified strain of polio virus in the hen's egg. If an egg-produced vaccine for polio can be perfected, production would hardly be a problem, since eggs are always in good supply.

It is only right that chickens should benefit from their handiwork. Vaccines for three deadly poultry diseases—fowl pox, Newcastle disease, and fowl laryngotracheitis—are produced in embryonated hen's eggs. So in one sense, you can say that the egg is protecting and insuring future generations of eggs. These three diseases, all caused by filterable viruses, annually inflict millions of dollars in losses among the nation's chicken and turkey crops.

Production of these vaccines, now that the years of hard research and millions of dollars have been spent, seems a simple thing. The procedure is this: a skilled worker uses a dentist's drill to make a tiny hole in the shell of the fertile egg, taking care not to break the membrane. Through this opening, some of the live virus is injected with a needle, and the hole is immediately sealed with collodion. The eggs are then placed in a huge incubator and the virus allowed to multiply. Before hatching, the shells are tapped and the tissues removed. From these the vaccine are made.

It's a long and tedious process, since each one of the millions of eggs used every year has to be handled individually.

Scientists believe that the egg is one of the best media ever discovered for growing modified viruses, and many feel confident that other virus strains will be adapted to the egg in man's continuing effort to "tame" deadly viruses which can't be seen, but which kill at an amazingly high rate.

Once upon a time there was a rich playboy with a weakness for fast automobiles and a heart of gold. So he went to the best motor car designer in Detroit and gave him $25,000. "Build me the fastest car in America," the playboy ordered.

In a few months the super-speedster was delivered. The playboy took it out on a four-lane highway to try it out. He had just got it up to sixty and was loafing along when a motorcycle cop swung in behind him. The playboy increased his speed to seventy-five but the cop stayed right behind him. Then, tired of teasing the cop, he stepped on the accelerator and the special job jumped ahead to one hundred and twenty miles an hour. Then his heart of gold began to worry him and he decided to go back and see what happened to the cop. He turned around, roared back and then saw the policeman crawling out of the ditch.

"You all right, officer?" he called. "What happened?" "Everything was all right when you were just doing seventy-five," the cop said. "But when you suddenly pulled away from me like that, I thought I was standing still and I got off!"

Nearly 750,000 persons were injured in weekend traffic accidents last year.

Three out of four traffic accidents involve passenger cars.

COLORADO COLLEGE THIRD IN RMC MEET

BILL HOWELL TAKES HIGH POINT TROPHY

The Bengals of Pocatello rolled up 73 points to outdistance the remaining five contenders on a soggy Washburn Field track at Colorado College. Colorado State was second with 46 points while host Colorado College finished third with 33½ points. Montana State finished fourth with 29 points while Western State nudged into fifth spot with 21½ points, a half point more than totaled by Colorado Mines.

Bill Howell was one of the two double winners of the meet, capturing firsts in the 100 and 220 yard dashes.

Howell was clocked in 9.8 seconds, two-tenths of a second off the conference mark, but a tail wind of six miles an hour forced officials to turn down the time as a new record.

Picking up five points in each of his wins Howell also got one point for running a leg in the relay which gave him a total of 11 points and high man of the meet.

From the Tiger standpoint the relay was the most important race as the outcome spelled the difference between third and fourth place and whether Howell would win or lose the individual trophy.

Bill Clark, although finding himself in rough sledding when running the 440 did admirably well in running the anchor position on the mile relay. His finishing kick at the end of the race placed CC second in the event.

Ned Pfeiffer, whose performance in the 880 gave him a second which was very good considering the soggy field, is another to be commended for his performance on the relay team.

Although out for most of the season Kipp Herreid ran a remarkable good race as second man on the relay team.

For the first time in quite a few years CC has come up with a better than average hurdle man. Rule Olsen ran both the high and low hurdles and placed in fine style.

Without George Demos and Ben Snyder participating in the weight and field events CC could never have come close to third place. Both of these sterling athletes turned in superb performances that saved the day and the meet.

Words cannot express the fire and drive of this year's small but impressive track squad. The overpowering will to win carried the Tiger cindermen from fifth last year to third this year and who knows what may lie in the future.

Coach Thompson must be highly commended for the splendid job he did this year in working a small but courageous group of men into a well-balanced winning team. Throughout the year the faith and confidence which he placed in the squad was being realized. This year's track squad is truly one to be proud of.

• Intra-Mural • BILLBOARD

By PHIL GOOD

The intramural season of '52-53 has come to an end for another year, this was a season full of thrills right down to the wire with the Betas overcoming the fighting Phi Deltas for this year's trophy. The Phi Deltas had held a 1/3 of a point lead until Wednesday.

The Betas and Phi Deltas met Wednesday morning at six to decide the softball championship and the intramural trophy winner for the year. Both teams had successfully come into the final game without a blot on their record. The game was worth five points to the winner as far as final point standings go and the five were just enough to give Beta Theta Pi the trophy.

The game ended 8-7 for the Betas after a very poor Phi Delt first inning. In that fateful first inning there were seven Phi Delt errors which ably assisted the Betas in their six run first inning. The Phi Deltas came to bat in their half of the inning but the shakey crew could do no good against the fine fielding and pitching offered by the Betas.

In the second inning the Phis picked up three runs to the Betas' none and in the remaining innings the Betas picked up only two runs to the Phi Deltas four. Going into the last inning of play the Betas were held scoreless but the Phi Deltas, who were two behind, lead-off man, Karl Nelson, belted a free trip around the infield on a smashing drive to center. With only one run separating the Phis from possible victory. The beautiful pitch-

Seven Senior Men Win "C" Blankets

Seven senior men were awarded "C" blankets last Monday night at the Annual Spring Sports Banquet put on by the CCA of Colorado College. Awards were given to men participating in all spring sports.

Those men receiving blankets were Jim Bergstrom, Wes Boucher, George Demos, Andy Gambucci, Mel Kensinger, Craig Richardson and Ben Snyder.

Trophies were issued by President Wally Walholm to men who did outstanding work in their field. Recipients were Boucher in baseball, Howell in track, Dale Arie in golf and Jack Larson in tennis. Bergstrom was named as honorary basketball captain and Ned Pfeiffer was named track captain for the next season.

Other trophy winners were the Beaser Award for men breaking records. Recipients were Demos, who broke the discus mark and the relay team of Howell, Pfeiffer, Bill Clark and Spud Ewonos.

The feature speaker was Chet Nelson of the Rocky Mountain News. Other speakers were General Gill, who stressed that athletics need purification not demerolism, Bill MacPhail, general manager of the Sky Sox and Juan Reid, CC athletics director.

ing of Bob Krohnke became more effective as he put the next men to face him down in order.

Two round trippers were pounded out by the Phi Deltas. Nelson put one out of reach as did John Buzia who dropped one into left field.

Last week the intramural managers from each club met to pick an all-intramural team which follows at the end of this story. We shall not agree with all choices except the keystone positions.

Bears Lead RMC Conference, Tigers Have One Game Left

The second game between the Colorado College Tigers and the Colorado State Bears was rained out in the top of the eighth inning at emerald-green Stewart Field. The following play, of this Rocky Mountain Conference battle, is the one which caused so much anguish for CC. Trailing 6-5 in the seventh inning, the Tiger's Jeff Simus came to bat with one out and no one on base. Jeff immediately smashed a hit down the third base line and beat it all the way around the bases for a home run. The happy Tigers were now tied with the Bears on a 6-6 count. However, a few moments later, the umpires ruled that Simus had not touched third base while rounding the bases. As a result, the run was nullified.

In the next inning a heavy rain came along, as it had in the fourth inning, but this time the game could not be continued. This washed up CC's chance for victory, and gave Colorado State the game.

Colorado State's win was their eighth, compared to their one loss, thus making them leader of the conference.

The final game of the year for the Tigers is with the Bears again, in which the Tigers will be seeking revenge. CC's left-handed hurler, Walt Stone, a senior, is to start in his last game on the mound for the Tigers. This game will windup the season for Coach Bill Heiss' ball club.

During a fire in the middle of the night, the tenants of an apartment hotel rushed into the street carrying their most prized possessions. One woman noticed that the gentleman who lived directly above her was carrying a large, completely covered birdcage. "What have you there?" she asked out of curiosity. "That's my pet rooster," said the man. The woman gasped and fainted. When she revived, she told her anxious neighbor. "I'm sorry I fainted but, you see, I've been under treatment for the past year because I kept hearing a rooster crowing."

This young man was the inmate of an institution for the mentally afflicted, and he was such a fine young chap in looks and background, the doctors examined him every six months in hopes he had achieved recovery. They wanted to see him outside, enjoying a normal life.

"What would you do if we were to give you your release today?"

"I'd buy a beanshooter, come back here, and shoot out all the windows," the chap replied. So he stayed in.

Six months later they asked him the same thing. "What would you do if we were to give you your freedom today?"

"I'd buy me a beanshooter, come back here, and shoot out all the windows."

This had been the dialogue at every examination for three years when finally the doctors asked, "What would you do if we let you out?" and the chap answered: "The first thing I'd do would be to get a new suit, so I'd look nice. Next I'd get my dad to lend me his car. Then I'd meet a good-looking girl, and make a date with her to pick her up in the car." "Yes, yes," said the doctors, overjoyed at the young man's change for better. "Go on."

"At the appointed hour I'd drive by, pick the girl up, and we'd drive out in the country, along a moonlit road, till I could turn up a little land. When we were alone—"

"Yes, yes," the doctors panted.

"When we were alone I'd stop the car, lock the brakes, turn off the ignition, turn to the girl, remove her pocketbook from her lap, and 'take the money to buy a bean-shooter and come back here and shoot out all the windows.'"

The Brains of the Team

Teamwork can work miracles. In a football game, the man who sparks these miracles is the quarterback. He's the man who calls the signals. There's a man who calls the signals for an Air Force flying team, too! They call him an Aircraft Observer.

Do YOU have what it takes to become an Aircraft Observer? It isn't easy. It's tough. You have to be a MAN to qualify as an Aircraft Observer. But when you are one, brother, you're SOMEBODY! The success or failure of a mission involving over a million dollars worth of flight equipment depends on you.

THE AIRCRAFT OBSERVER IS THE SOMEBODY WHO:

As Bombardment Officer, is number one man on a bombing run, the man who controls the plane in the target area! As Navigation Officer, is the pilot's guiding hand on every flight!

As Radar Officer, is master of a new science and operator of the device that sees beyond human sight!

As Aircraft Performance Engineer Officer, is the one who "keeps the plane flying", the man who knows his plane inside and out, who keeps it fit for the skies and sees that it stays there!

If YOU can accept a challenge like this, you'll take your place beside the best—you'll find your future in the clouds!

TO BE QUALIFIED you must be single, a citizen, between 19 and 26½ years old, have had at least 2 years of college and be in tip top physical shape. If this describes you, then YOU, too, can qualify. Today!

HERE'S WHAT YOU'LL GET! The world's best training. Good food and plenty of it. Uniforms, flight clothes, equipment. Medical and dental care. Free insurance. Flight training in Uncle Sam's greatest aircraft.

AND THEN, AFTER GRADUATION, you'll win your silver wings, and earn more than $5000 a year as an Air Force Lieutenant. You'll enjoy an adventurous, exciting career with a hand-picked crew of real men. You'll be THE BRAINS OF THE TEAM, A TRIPLE THREAT MAN... as a Bombardment Officer, as a Navigation Officer, as a Radar Officer, as an Aircraft Performance Engineer.
